FARMERS FAVOR AAA CORN-HOG PROGRAM 7 TO 1

Officials Term Vote New Deal Approval.

Early Results Shown

Heavy majorities in favor of continuance of an AAA corn-hog program in 1936 were recorded last night in incomplete returns from the national corn-hog referendum.

An early count from these states listed a total of 230,678 for a control program in 1936 and 32,570 against.

In Illinois partial returns recorded a count of 21,248 to continue the program in 1936 and 2,392 voted against it. In six out of 22 townships in Lee county 492 farmers yes, and 33 voted no. Five townships in McLean county in the heart of the great Illinois agricultural region, the vote was 501 for and 45 against the AAA. At Morrison, 54 farmers voted to continue the contract and eight opposed it.

Iowa in the heart of the corn belt farmers voted 57,035 for a 1936 control contract and 9,070 voted no.

Kansas, the only state to vote against the corn-hog production control program last year voted overwhelmingly yesterday to continue the contract in 1936. Incomplete returns from 53 counties gave 17,876 for and 2,878 against continuance.

Michigan cast 2,684 votes for the program and 599 against it. Indiana plunked for the 1936 contract 7,004 to 850. Nebraska voted 43,033 for and 13,326 against continuance. In Wisconsin the vote was 730 yes and 91 no.

Rhode Island, the first state to complete its count, continuance of the control plan was favored by 12 to 5.

Georgia, where Gov. Eugene Talmadge has bitterly opposed the New Deal and especially the AAA, the vote was 321 yes and 16 no.

A dispatch from Kansas City said that returns from seven important corn and hog producing states indicated the farmers, who last year received $61,000,000 in benefit checks, favored retention.

In Tennessee, where there are 19,500 contract signers, first returns recorded 8,051 for the program as against 776 opposed.

In Daviess county, Kentucky, 429 voted "yes," favoring continuation of the AAA corn-hog program, and 20 voted "no." Scattering returns from other counties showed 2,114 voting "yes" and 97 "no."

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Agricultural Adjustment Administration officials late tonight were jubilant over early returns in the poll on continuance of the New Deal's corn-hog program.

The returns, as announced by AAA officials, indicated an overwhelming support of the administration program. Returns from areas throughout the country showed a heavy vote for continuance of the scarcity program after Nov. 1.

Administration officials said the vote will give the Democratic party a major campaign issue in the west in 1936.

Throughout the corn belt the vote will be held as a firm indorsement of the New Deal.

Landlords' Vote in Early.

These early returns were reported by county administrators in reports to New Deal officials. These county administrators are judges of election in 2,000 polling places throughout the country. The early returns came largely from landlords, who were permitted by New Deal regulations to cast a ballot, as well as the actual tillers of the soil.

AAA officials dismissed any supposed influence by county administrators on the result of the poll by pointing to the warning of Administrator Chester Davis against political coloring by agents charged with conducting the vote. Pressing on the heels of the Davis meeting, Presi-

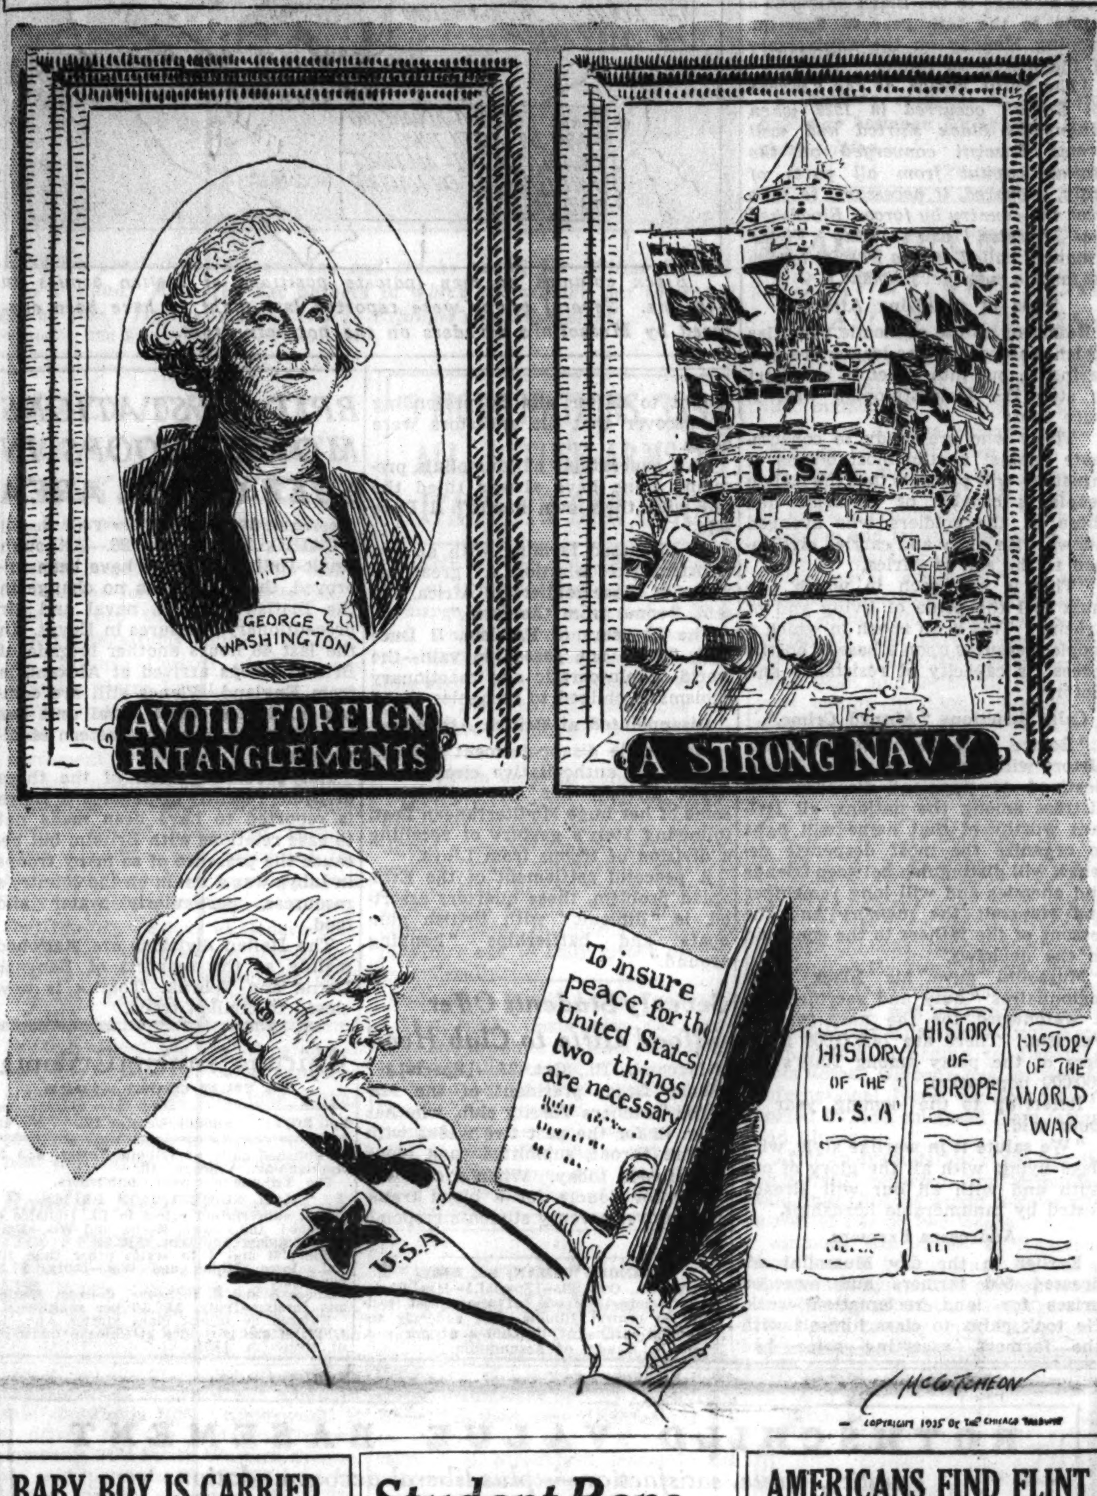
HOW TO KEEP OUT OF WAR



BABY BOY IS CARRIED AWAY ON ANTLERS OF DEER IN CANADA

HARRISON MILLS, B. C., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Stanley Hubert, 13 months old, was almost even up today with the young lady of Niger who went for a ride on the tiger. The only appreciable difference was that Stanley returned on the outside and it wasn't a tiger but a deer.

Mrs. James Hubert reported she heard her child crying and saw him being carried away on the antlers of a deer. She screamed and chased the animal until a thread of Stanley's sweater, by which he was suspended, broke and tumbled him into a thicket.

HENRY CALLS ON POLICE AND CALLS OFF HIS WEDDING

Henry Guzy, 24 years old, 1948 Hervey street, didn't get married yesterday afternoon because the police had him locked up. Early in the morning, Policeman Harry Jacobson, Ray Egan and Peter Hayes recognized an automobile three men were driving as one reported stolen an hour before fro Herman Paulson, 2049 North Kedzie avenue. At the end of a long chase punctured by an exchange of bullets two of the men escaped, but the third, Guzy, surrendered. In his pocket the policemen found a marriage license. They notified the girl's family and the wedding was called off.

Student Pens Weird Will and Ends Life

Vernon Francis Lamont, 22 years old, a student in University college of the University of Chicago, 18 South Michigan avenue, and a chemist employed in the laboratories of Armour & Co., killed himself by drinking poison last night in his home at 6950 Eggleston avenue. He took the fatal potion after writing his will and leaving a sealed parcel of love letters, which, he directed, were to be buried untouched with him.

Lieut. Walter Healy of Englewood police, however, opened the package and found the letters, written in German, were from Miss "Lem" Wolf, whose address was given as the Harriet Hammond McCormick Memorial Y. W. C. A. at 1001 North Dearborn street.

Mother Finds Body.

Mrs. Edith Lamont, the mother, found her son's body in his bed at 11:30 p. m. Beside the body on a table was a glass with a few drops of colorless liquid in the bottom. Police said there was no doubt that young Lamont had drunk poison, but have not determined the kind.

The will, written on student's note paper, and the sealed parcel of love letters, were found in a dresser drawer in the young student's room.

After designating disposal of his books and coin collection to his two brothers, Robert and Howard, Lamont had written:

"You'll find a brown paper parcel in here. It is to be buried with me, unopened. Any one who opens it will be damned.

Leaves Message for "Lem."

"Tell my brother, Robert, to tell "Lem" I won't be able to see her any more after classes.

"No one is to view my body after death. Bury me in my old clothes. Either bury or cremate my body, whichever is cheapest."

Police said the love letters were inside an elaborate lether case on which was written "Deutscher Kunstkalender."

Mrs. Lamont said she did not know Miss Wolf. Lamont's father, Frank, an accountant, was in Milwaukee on a business trip when the death was discovered.

Pack of Hyenas Invades AddisAbaba; Attacks Child

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, Oct. 26.—(AP)—A near panic was caused in the center of the capital today when a pack of hyenas, after devouring a huge dog, started to attack a child. A group of men shot the animals.

AMERICANS FIND FLINT KNIVES MADE BY IRISH DURING THE STONE AGE

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Ten thousand flints, shaped into scrapers, knives, and other implements by mesolithic Irishmen, have been uncovered by the Harvard University Archæological expedition to Ireland.

Researches by the expedition, the fourth season of which is now ended, have been carried out at Curran Point, Larne, County Antrim. Much concerning the Irish stone age has been established.

SPEED TO RESCUE 33 OF CREW ON GROUNDED SHIP

New York, Oct. 27 [Sunday.]—(AP)—Ships sped today to the rescue of the 2,960 ton English freighter Berwindlea, aground at Dead Man's island, off New Foundland. The S. O. S. signals of the grounded vessel were picked up here at 1:15 a. m. [E. S. T.] by Radiomarine corporation operators.

The Berwindlea said she needed "immediate assistance" and suggested that an attempt be made at dawn to take off her crew, thought to include from 29 to 33 persons.

Owned by the Berwindmoor Steamship company of Liverpool, the Berwindlea had called at Quebec and Dalhousie recently. Her destination was not known here. The Japanese steamship England Maru wirelessed that she was headed to aid the Berwindlea.

JAIL EDITOR FOR URGING IDLE TO STAY IN DANZIG

DANZIG, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Karl Toepfer, Social Democrat member of the volkstag [parliament] and editor of the weekly newspaper Die Arbeit, was arrested today because his paper, contrary to the administration's appeals, urged the free city's unemployed not to go to Germany.

Editions of Die Arbeit, Centrist Volkszeitung, and the Jewish Echo were confiscated for alleged inflammatory article "seeking to sabotage the Danzig government."

U. S. SIDESTEPS LEAGUE APPEAL FOR SANCTIONS

Hull Cites Embargo on Weapons.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—The United States tonight sidestepped the league of nations bid for coöperation in the economic and financial sanctions against Italy as the aggressor in the war with Ethiopia.

In reply to the league's request for this government's comment on the sanctions against Italy, Secretary of State Cordell Hull confined himself to a statement of the moves made by this country under the neutrality act and a restatement of this country's hope for world peace.

Avoids Comment on League.

Secretary Hull avoided comment on the action taken by the league powers. A request for an expression of this government on the league's action had been sought by member powers as an implied bid for American enlistment in the league moves for peace.

The answer was dispatched to Hugh R. Wilson, United States minister at Berne, for submission to the league. The league committee meets on Thursday to fix the date on which the sanctions will be enforced.

The answer was addressed to Dr. Augusto de Vasconcellos, president of the league of nation's committee of coördination.

The tenor of the answer was dictated by President Roosevelt after the league's request of Oct. 21 had been discussed with Secretary Hull and at the weekly cabinet meeting. The President resisted the pressure brought to bear on the administration for a lineup with the league. A few hours before the cabinet meeting Secretary Hull called in his predecessor, Henry L. Stimson, secretary of state under President Hoover, who had advocated American coöperation with other nations.

Reports to President.

Mr. Hull reported his conference to the President. He then received instructions on the answer. The state department completed its reply in the morning. Hull's note was not made public until it was forwarded to Mr. Wilson.

With regard to the Ethiopian situation Secretary Hull said the United States put forth every practicable effort to aid in the preservation of peace, through conferences, official acts, diplomatic statements, and official communications. He stressed American emphasis of the principles of the Kellogg pact and the high legal and moral obligations of the signatories thereto.

Secretary Hull then recited the steps taken by this government under the neutrality act. He cited the President's arms embargo of Oct. 5 and the proclamation warning Americans against travel on Italian ships. Hull also pointed to the President's warning that Americans who carry on business with either of the belligerent nations do so at their own risk.

Hints at Peace Chance.

The secretary held two press conferences during the day to explain the country's position under the note. He stressed the fact that this country will continue to move independently to keep free and untangled as President Roosevelt has promised.

In standing aloof America may seize an opportunity to make a practical move for peace in the event of a shift in the maneuvering of foreign nations. What such an expected development may be was not indicated, but it was recalled that the state department acted swiftly and decisively when it was discovered that American finance was behind a deal to secure vast oil concessions in Ethiopia.

State department officials said other nations are moving in a fog of uncertainty in working toward peace. This nation, according to a state department expert, will, by holding itself aloof, avoid being trapped in such a fog while interested powers might conclude a backstairs partition of Ethiopia.

Text of Hull Note.

The text of Secretary Hull's note follows:

"I have received your communication of Oct. 21, transmitting certain documents in the Italo-Ethiopian dispute, including the minutes of the council of Oct. 7, the minutes of the assembly from Oct. 9 to 11, and the recommendations of the coördination

Gangs Wiping Selves Out in New York

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 26.—[Special.]—An outburst of underworld warfare in and about New York City during the past week has erased some of the most notorious names from the roster of Gotham gangdom and stirred the police to their greatest show of activity in years.

Six of the warring thugs are dead and several more are in various hospitals. Two of the city's most notorious gangs, those of Arthur [Dutch Schultz] Flegenheimer and Louis [Pretty] Amberg, both victims of the murderous outbreak, have been broken and their surviving cohorts badly scattered.

Rackets Are Demoralized.

The flourishing usury, policy, and other rackets at issue in the warfare are demoralized and open game for new up-and-coming gangs.

The situation admittedly is beyond control of the police and an army of G-men rushed here from Washington and elsewhere when the gang guns began to spatter death have so far shown no material progress in their efforts to curb the outbreak. The killers have scattered, but none of them is known to be in jail.

The outbreak got under way early Wednesday morning when "Pretty" Amberg was found hacked to death in a blazing automobile in the navy yard section of Brooklyn. Amberg was known as the inventor of the "bag" murder device, a system by which the victim was encased in a bag and bound in such a manner as to force him to strangle himself. The police at once ascribed the murder to rivalry between Amberg's gang which dominated the racket systems of the Brownsville section of Brooklyn and that of Schultz.

Quick Confirmation Comes.

Quick confirmation for the theory was forthcoming for at 10:30 o'clock that night two killers armed with a machine gun and a sawed-off shotgun entered a small rear dining room in the Palace chop house and tavern in Newark, N. J., where Schultz and three of his henchmen were poring over their racket accounts and mowed them down in a hail of bullets and leaden slugs. Two of the wounded gangsters, Otto Biederman, alias Otto Berman and Abraham Landau alias Leo Frank, died a few hours later and Schultz and the fourth victim, Bernard Rosenkrantz, passed out the following night.

Two Others Wounded.

At one minute past midnight Friday morning or less than two hours after the attack on Schultz and his tavern companions, another of the gang chieftain's lieutenants, Martin [Marty] Krompier, 33 years old and a man who identified himself as Samuel Gold, 37, and known to the police as a bookmaker, were set upon by four men in a barber shop at Broadway and Forty-Seventh street, New York City. Krompier was badly wounded and Gold was wounded twice.

Police entertained no doubt that the two shootings were linked and that both hooked up with the hatchet murder of Amberg, but even at this

2 COLUMNS OF TROOPS MOVE ON ETHIOPIAN FORT

Capture of Makale Is New Goal.

ROME, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Italy thrust its military forces farther into northern Ethiopia today, Italian correspondents with the invaders reported tonight, as native Eritrean troops captured two towns in a determined drive southward toward Makale, 60 miles southeast of Adowa.

The dispatches said the Italian-trained natives occupied Debra Sion and Tecla-Aimanot. The first Eritrean advance column began its drive from Edagahamus, about 50 miles north of Makale, and filtered into enemy territory along mule trails leading to Makale. Edagahamus is a village 15 miles southeast of Adigrat, one of the first Ethiopian towns occupied by the Italian northern army.

Other indigenous troops filed into the enemy territory along mule trails converging on Makale.

Other Towns Reported Taken.

[Other dispatches said the Italians also had taken Megeltah, Adi Howah and Mender.]

The troops were reported to have been received as "liberators" by the Ethiopians, and the correspondents said "not a shot" was fired during the advance.

The dispatches did not confirm reports circulating here that the combined Italian forces in northern Ethiopia were participating in the march on Makale.

The troops which advanced from Edagahamus were said to have marched ten miles southward toward their goal, while those from the vicinity of Aksum cut across country eastward for 15 miles, the two Eritrean columns being respectively 35 and 60 miles from Makale.

Occupy River Region.

Earlier today the government issued a communique, which said:

"Gen. Emilio de Bono [commander of the northern Italian army] telegraphed that on the Eritrean front the native army corps today began an operation for the occupation of the region of the Faras Mai river.

"The chiefs and important residents of the district already have submitted and affirm that the population awaits our occupation with anxiety.

"Submissions of Tigre chieftains continue. Yesterday the following presented themselves within our lines: Degiac [provincial governor] Altzebaha Abraha, chief of Tzellim and Biet; Fitaurari [local governor] Gabri Sellasie Negussie, son of Degiac Negussie, and Ligg Zarea Bruuch, along with Fitaurari Tedla Schalu and a large following.

"Also in the Tzellemti region, situated on the left bank of the Takaze river, chiefs leading the inhabitants are beginning to present themselves.

Italians Advance in South.

MOGADISHU, Italian Somaliland, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Three columns of Italian troops were pushing rapidly forward tonight from Italian Somaliland toward the heart of northeast Ethiopia, where they plan eventually to join forces with the army of Gen. Emilio de Bono, moving southward from Eritrea.

The advance today was preceded by active airplane reconnoissance. It was reported there were several bombardments and a number of sharp battles.

Half the troops moving in from Somaliland were native Somaliland fighters, and the other half regular Italian soldiers.

[Dispatches from Harrar, Ethiopia, said Italians advancing under cover of aerial observers had bombed the Ethiopian outposts protecting Daggah Bur, about 50 miles southeast of Jigjiga. The main Ethiopian concentration in the south is at Jigjiga.]

Capture Monkeys' Mountain.

WITH THE ITALIAN SOUTHERN ARMY IN ETHIOPIA, Oct. 26.—(AP)—[Exchange Telegraph.]—The story of how the wily old Sultan Olol Dinle, who deserted to the Italian side, duped his countrymen into defeat in the "battle of Monkeys' mountain" was revealed in dispatches received here today.

The Ethiopian defenders had fortified themselves in what they considered an impregnable position on Monkeys' mountain. It has a sheer drop which, it was thought, only monkeys could scale.

Sultan Olol left 100 of his most agile men facing the rock wall and attacked with the bulk of his force in the rear of the Ethiopian position, while a squadron of Italian planes dropped bombs on the Ethiopians.

While the Ethiopians were fighting this attack Olol's agile hundred men climbed the rock wall, carrying two machine guns, with which they raked the Ethiopians from behind. The defenders were finally forced to surrender.

As the captives were taken away, they muttered imprecations, saying, "We were not defeated. It was Italian cunning which got us."

Italian Minister Leaves.

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, Oct. 26.—(AP) — Count Luigi Vinci - Gigliucci, Italy's minister to Ethiopia, ending 16 days of defiance to Emperor Haile Selassie's order to leage, finally departed by train today, under an armed escort.

Fearing attempts at hostile acts against the envoy, Emperor Haile Selassie sent along a large group of soldiers armed with machine guns and rifles. They will accompany the minister as far as the frontier of French Somaliland.

No diplomats were at the station to bid Vinci-Gigliucci farewell. The emperor had requested them not to see the minister off.

Vinci-Gigliucci was accompanied by his military attaché, Maj. Calderini, and was to be joined en route by two consular agents from Mogalo.

Locked Up on Train.

When given his passports more than two weeks ago, Vinci-Gigliucci insisted he would wait on the consular agents. Since that time he has been living almost as a prisoner in the home of Ras Desta Demtu, son-in-law of Haile Selassie, as a private citizen.

He was taken secretly from the residence today and locked in a separate coach attached to the train, which was waiting outside the capital. The minister was forbidden contact with his friends and all letters and telegrams, even those from Premier Mussolini, were withheld until he was on the train.

Attired in the gold-braided uniform of a colonel, Hubert Julian, Harlem colored flyer, arrived here today and reported he had completed training 5,000 Ethiopian shock trops at Ambo for the fight against the Italians.

"I put fire and the devil into them," he said. "Now under my special training one of them can stand up against six Italians. I know just how to fight these Fascists because I knocked out a lot of them in Harlem with only my fists."

ITALIAN OBJECTIVE IN SOUTH

Here is a map of Harrar, capital of an Ethiopian province of the same name in the central eastern section, where one of the decisive battles of the war is reported brewing. Principal buildings—one or two story structures of stone—of the city of 40,000, are indicated. The rest are mud and thatch huts. On a fertile plateau 4,000 feet above sea level, the city is four-fifths of a mile long, and less than one-half mile wide, with streets hardly more than alleys.

ETHIOPIA BARES MUSSOLINI PLOT TO KIDNAP CHIEFS

7 Italians Who Died in Crash Accused.

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, Oct. 26.—(AP)—An Ethiopian chieftain whom Italians are reported to have once planned to kidnap in order to make him a puppet ruler in part of Ethiopia, is a virtual prisoner in a mountain monastery by order of Emperor Haile Selassie.

The chieftain, Ras Hailu, former governor of Gojjam province and once one of the most powerful and richest noblemen in Ethiopia, has been taken to a secluded spot where no woman has ever set foot, on top of a mountain. It is at Debra Libanos, the "Jerusalem of Ethiopia," in Selale province.

Link Plane Crash to Plot.

Ethiopians allege that Italians have tried on various occasions to kidnap Ras Hailu, with the object of giving him the position recently given to Ras Haile Selassie Gugsa, Ethiopian chieftain who was made ruler of Tigre province, in northern Ethiopia, which the Italians control.

The Ethiopians assert that it was one of these attempts which ended in the crash of an Italian airplane in Egypt last August, when seven Italians, including Minister of Public Works Luigi Razza and the explorer, Raimondo Franchetti, were killed. They declare Premier Mussolini had dispatched Franchetti to rescue Ras Hailu from Ethiopia, planning to make him a puppet king after the Italian invasion had progressed.

Second Leader in Prison.

Ras Hailu is the second prominent Ethiopian known to have been made a captive by Haile Selassie. Former Emperor Lij Yasu is also held, but the exact site of his imprisonment has not been revealed. There have been reports that Italians also have tried to seize him, with a similar plan for setting him up as an Ethiopian ruler under Italian supervision.

Ras Hailu was deposed as governor of Gojjam in 1932, when he attempted to put Lij Yasu, who is a grandson of the late Emperor Menelik II., back on the throne he once had held, removing Haile Selassie.

He had first been held in Arusi province, but was moved recently to Debra Libanos at about the time of the departure from Arusi to Addis Ababa of Dejaz Amdi, governor of Arusi, with 40,000 soldiers. Amdi was Hailu's guardian until the latter was taken away.

In his lonely retreat, far from Mussolini's bombs and airplanes, the pro-Italian Ras enjoys every privilege except his liberty. He wears a golden chain around his neck and a silver chain around his wrist. He is guarded by trusted monks in Haile Selassie's service.

Debra Libanos, 60 miles north of Addis Ababa, is next to the holy city of Aksum in fame in Ethiopia. It is the site of many celebrated churches and ecclesiastical libraries. There Ethiopia's sacred manuscripts have been kept from the time of the Queen of Sheba, from whom Haile Selassie claims descent.

ROME, Oct. 26—(AP)—President Roosevelt's neutrality proclamation has put Hugh Grant, newly appointed American minister to Albania, in something of a quandary.

The President advised American citizens not to travel on Italian ships. But when Grant, who came here to confer with his colleagues in Rome, got ready to sail to Albania he could not find a ship not flying the Italian flag.

So he will leave tomorrow by automobile, driving 1,000 miles around the Adriatic basin.

Three Suspects in Hotel Robbery Under Arrest

Three men were under arrest yesterday as suspects in the holdup of the Windermere East hotel, 1642 East 56th street, in which 20 women were robbed of their purses and two safes looted on Oct. 12. They are Joseph Mallec, 30 years old, 626 West Garfield boulevard, paroled convict; his brother, Stanley, 23 years old, and Anthony Sugel, 26 years old, 6656 South Green street.

Police Launch Campaign to End Double Parking

A campaign against motorists who violate the law forbidding double parking was started yesterday by Capt. John Prendergast, chief of the uniformed force, and Capt. David Flynn, head of the trafic division. They ordered police to warn first offenders and to make arrests if the warnings were unheeded. Patrolmen were instructed to place a summons on the car if the owner be away.

STAY AWAY FROM BOYCOTT, IL DUCE WARNS NATIONS

Plans 'Desperate Defense' Against League Action.

ROME, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Benito Mussolini lashed out at league of nations sanctions in a militant appeal to his Fascist followers today and warned that Italy would fight against this "most odious of injustices."

His warlike words were in his annual message to the Black Shirts as a salute to the 14th year of Fascism, opening Monday on the anniversary of the march on Rome.

[The event known as the "march on Rome" occurred in 1922 when Mussolini's black shirted and well armed Fascisti converged on the Italian capital from all parts of Italy, prepared, if necessary, to take over the country by force. Bloodshed was averted when King Victor Emanuel called on the Fascist leader to form a new government.]

Tells of Civilizing Africa.

Referring to the economic penalties which members of the league are preparing to put into effect in an effort to stop the Italo-Ethiopian war, Il Duce said:

"Those who are ready to consummate against us the most odious of injustices will perceive that the Italian people is capable of heroisms like those of the soldiers who avenged Adowa with glory and carried civilization to the soil of Africa.

"This is an epoch in which one must feel the pride of living and of fighting. This is an epoch in which a people measures upon a base of hostile forces its capacity of resistance and victory.

Calls Sanctions "Absurd Crime."

"Before an economic siege which history will brand as an absurd crime, destined to augment disorder and distress among the nations, all Italians worthy of that name will fight to organize the most desperate defense, will distinguish between friends and enemies and will long remember and transmit the memory and the lessons of the fathers to the sons and to the nephews."

Mussolini gave his Black Shirt legionnaires "duty and sacrifice" as a watchword for the new year of Fascism. There are 14,000,000 members of the party among Italy's 44,000,000 population.

Referring to the coming year Il Duce said:

"We salute it in warlike style, with flags flying, with all the glory of our faith and with all our will already tested by innumerable hardships."

Addresses Farmers.

Earlier in the day Mussolini addressed 500 farmers and awarded prizes for land reclamation work. He took pains to class himself with the farmers, asserting some had sought to flatter him by pretending to discover that his ancestors were noble.

"All generations of Mussolinis preceding mine have always tilled the soil with their own hands," Il Duce said.

He discussed farming with an eye on African colonization. A "great majority of those soldiers in Africa," he said, "come from the farm."

The 13 years of Fascism, Il Duce said, "have not passed in vain—the world of plutocratic and reactionary egoisms is obliged to recognize that."

Disappointed at British Attitude.

Meanwhile disappointment was expressed in authoritative circles that Great Britain has not withdrawn some of her huge Mediterranean fleet, following Italy's gesture of recalling a division of troops from Libya.

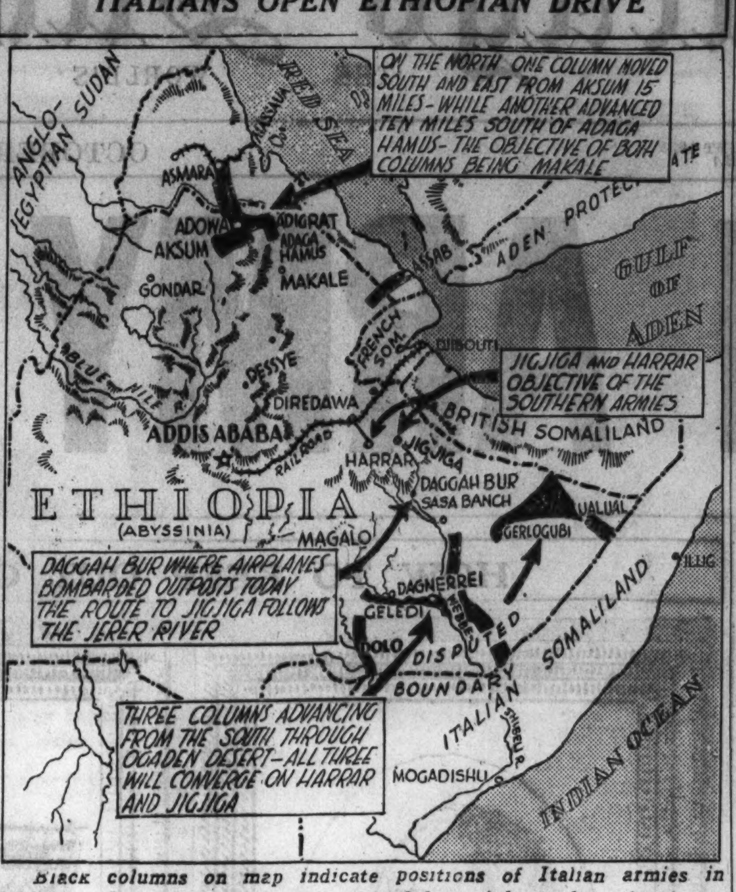
ITALIANS OPEN ETHIOPIAN DRIVE



Black columns on map indicate positions of Italian armies in Ethiopia. Several towns were reported last night to have been captured by Mussolini's invaders on the northern front.

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 26.—Although Anglo-Italian relations have been improved, there has been no change in the British military, naval and air precautionary measures in Egypt. In the last 48 hours another brigade of British troops arrived at Alexandria from England. Planes still are coming in. Not a single naval unit has been recalled from the eastern Mediterranean.

Italy's recall of one of the three divisions recently dispatched to Libya is reported to have been made not to ease relations with Britain, but because the presence of so many troops in Libya was a strain on the country's resources, particularly water and food.

700 CIVILIANS WILL EVACUATE MALTA TUESDAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VALETTA, Malta, Oct. 26.—The economic position of the Maltese, who always live close to the margin, will be made more difficult with the sailing on Oct. 29 of the ship Neuralia carrying back to Great Britain 700 wives and members of families, chiefly of naval men, who are being evacuated by authorities.

They represented a big item in the Maltese economy with their purchases and hire of servants. Their leaving will be disastrous for Malta's chief industry, which is supplying British sailors with food, liquor, and amusements.

The absence of ships which usually are here, except a few destroyers, already is causing distress among the Maltese. The dependence of this overpopulated island on the fleet is the chief weapon which the British use in governing it. Whenever the Maltese become unruly the mere threat to remove the fleet to other bases is sufficient to bring them to heel. This threat was once used as the result of a slight to a naval officer for which the Maltese refused an apology. They backed down within three days after the ships went to Gibraltar.

TRAVELERS BARE GREAT SUFFERING OF DUCE'S TROOPS

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, Oct. 26.—[Reuters.]—The mercilessness of the African sun and its effect on man and beast was described by travelers arriving here from Massaua, in the Italian colony of Eritrea.

When soldiers en route to the front disembark at Massaua, these observers said, they wearily seek the little shade available and throw themselves down exhausted from the heat.

The sun is so fierce, the accounts said, it explodes cans of fruit and meat. Horses and mules find the heat harder to bear than human beings, and invariably are driven to the uplands at night. A number of cattle taken from the Sudan to Asmara were reported to have died, unable to stand the abrupt change in temperature.

Suero is a member of a wealthy Cuban family and a cousin of Eutimio Falla Bonet, young millionaire who was kidnaped here several months ago and who paid $300,000 for his freedom.

BRITISH TRAIN 2 EMBARGO GUNS UPON MUSSOLINI

Ban Sale of Raw Materials and Arms to Italy.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 26.—Great Britain today gave her answer to Premier Mussolini's tentative proposals on the manner in which he would like to extricate Italy quickly from the Ethiopian war. The government announced that an embargo on arms and raw materials to Italy was now in full effect and that another embargo on credit will go into effect Tuesday.

The embargo on arms actually became effective yesterday. It includes all items on President Roosevelt's list, such as rifles, revolvers, machine guns, heavy guns, howitzers, mortars, bombs, grenades, torpedoes, mines, tanks, war vessels, all aircraft and equipment, flame throwers, poison gas and ammunition for all weapons.

Mules and Camels Banned.

In addition the British have forbidden the export of raw materials, including cotton, rubber, and various kinds of metals to Italy. Mules and camels, which are regarded as "war supplies," also fall under this ban.

The application of the financial blockade against Mussolini will be followed by economic sanctions, namely a general boycott of Italian goods and an embargo on all exports. The date for the application of economic sanctions will be fixed by the league of nations next Thursday.

At the foreign office they say that the boycott of Italian goods is expected to become effective early in November unless Il Duce gives in. Officials deny that Stanley Baldwin's government wants to delay the application of economic sanctions until after the general election on Nov. 14.

Admits Having Peace Proposals.

A foreign office spokesman this morning admitted for the first time that the government has under consideration the Italian dictator's peace proposals. The terms were described as having been submitted by Premier Pierre Laval of France and as having emanated from an "Italian source."

Among other things, the proposals suggest that Italy be awarded control of the outer provinces of Ethiopia and exercise a sort of hegemony over the country, but permitting Emperor Haile Selassie to reign over the interior. In return Italy would be willing to halt military action and submit the settlement to the league. Italy would reduce her army in Ethiopia to the status of a "police force."

But the British give a strong impression that these proposals are falling on deaf ears.

It was announced that so far as Britain is concerned there would be no change of program in carrying out sanctions just because Mussolini is now disposed to talk peace.

Election Campaign Underway.

The election campaign is now well under way. The national government tonight issued its platform. A manifesto of 3,000 words asked for a renewed mandate for the Baldwin régime on a program of maintaining international peace and making the league the keystone of the empire's foreign policy. The program also calls for a material strengthening of the army, navy and the air force.

The election will cost about $10,000,000, each of the three parties having the right to spend $3,500,000.

It is generally predicted that the national government's enormous majority will be greatly reduced from its present strength of about 500 out of 615 parliamentary seats, but that it will emerge with a majority of 140 seats, anyway. The Labor party is expected to make heavy gains in the industrial areas, especially in the north.

About 300 candidates, including 57 women, are in the field. Many left London today for stumping campaigns in their various constituencies. They have exactly eighteen days to convince the voters that they ought to be elected. It is estimated 300,000 party functionaries will canvass for votes and that something like 350,000 speeches will be delivered.

Besides Prime Minister Baldwin, who will address a campaign meeting Monday at Wolverhampton, other big guns are preparing to take the stump. Among them are Home Secretary Sir John Simon, Ramsay MacDonald, lord president of the council; Viscount Philip Snowden, David Lloyd George, wartime prime minister, and Herbert Morrison, Labor party leader.

The new parliament will assemble on Nov. 26 and will be formally opened on Dec. 3 by King George.

ITALIAN CURIO TRADE WRECKED; LEAGUE'S SANCTIONS BLAMED

NAPLES, Italy, Oct. 26.—(AP)—The hawkers of beads and cameos and of statuettes portraying the sculptural wonders of ancient Pompeii who used to line the waterfront docks here are feeling the results of sanctions.

The persistent dock peddlers, with their "very nice goods, mister," have retired to the obscurity of the wineshops because of the league of nations' action against Italy.

Naples is no longer a port of call for many big steamship lines, including a Japanese line—Nippon-Iinsen-Kaische—an English line running to Batavia, Java, and two Dutch lines. This leaves only a few Italian, French and American regular boats stopping at the waterfront under Vesuvius, and has crippled the peddlers' business.

ITALY IS READY TO RENEW PEACE TALKS AT GENEVA

PARIS, Oct. 26.—Italy is ready to resume negotiations with the league of nations for peace in Ethiopia, it was learned this evening following new conversations between Ambassador Vittorio Cerruti of Italy and Premier Pierre Laval.

The Italian ambassador is understood to have expressed the formal agreement of the Rome government to carry negotiations with the league's committee of five [Great Britain, France, Poland, Spain and Turkey]. That committee was appointed last September before the fighting started. Italy has made one condition—namely, that the negotiations at Geneva must be just as secret as the negotiations now carried on in diplomatic channels with London and Paris.

Following the talk with Cerruti, Laval received the British ambassador, Sir George R. Clerk, and communicated to him the new Italian concessions. Premier Mussolini hitherto has been unwilling to recognize the league as an umpire.

Bandits Hold Driver; Take His Truck Containing $200

Charles Kielcyweski, 28 years old, 5358 South Carpenter street, told Burnside police he was held captive near 91st street and Calumet avenue for two hours last night by two gunmen while another drove off with his delivery truck in which was a built-in safe containing $200. Kielcyweski is a driver for the Midwest Grocery company, 2434 South Western avenue. He said his captors took $20 from his pocket before releasing him. The truck was found later at 93d street and South Park avenue. The $200 had been taken.

3 MORE NATIONS, 33 IN ALL, REFUSE ARMS TO ITALY; 13 BAR LOANS

GENEVA, Oct. 26.—(AP)—The number of countries enforcing an arms embargo against Italy reached 33 today when Argentina, Sweden, and New Zealand reported they have taken this step. Thirteen countries are applying the financial sanctions and four have approved the economic boycott.

Spain Joins in Sanctions.

MADRID, Spain, Oct. 26.—(AP)—President Niceto Alcala Zamora signed a decree tonight establishing economic and financial sanctions against Italy in accordance with the plan of the league of nations. The decree forbids Spaniards to participate in loans to Italy either directly or indirectly.

Costa Rica Won't Apply Penalties.

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Oct. 26.—(AP)—The republic of Costa Rica today informed the league of nations that it would not apply sanctions against Italy. As reasons, the republic pointed out her geographical situation, the fact that she is not a member of the league, and that she desires to remain clear of any conflicts.

Bryan Recall Petition Found 13 Names Short

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Petitions for the recall of Mayor Charles W. Bryan of Lincoln today were declared insufficient by City Clerk Theo Berg. He said only 5,833 names are on the petitions and 5,846 are necessary. J. B. Strackbein, leader in the movement, announced he had obtained 300 more signatures. City Attorney Loren Laughlin charged a number of the signatures are forgeries and began plans for prosecutions.

ITALY DECREES $35,721,000 FOR NAVAL BUILDING

ROME, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Italy, disappointed that Great Britain's fleet is still massed in the Mediterranean, announced a huge appropriation tonight to bolster its own navy.

A government decree authorized 441,000,000 lire [about $35,721,000] as an extra appropriation for "new construction and transformation of naval craft." Another decree set up a "high naval command" in Italy's Dodecanese Islands in the Aegean sea.

The money will be spent as follows: 285,000,000 lire during the current fiscal year, 103,000,000 lire in the next fiscal year, and 26,000,000 lire in the year ending in 1938. Already the naval budget for this year was an enormous one, totaling 1,304,881,000 lire, or about 80,000,000 lire more than that of last year.

FLOYD GIBBONS COLLAPSES ON ETHIOPIAN FRONT

Floyd Gibbons, former foreign correspondent for THE TRIBUNE who has been with the Italian armies in northern Ethiopia, was yesterday taken to a hospital at Khartoum, Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, according to dispatches from Rome. Gibbons, now writing for International News Service, was reported to have collapsed from fatigue and illness.

After an examination at the hospital physicians reported, the dispatches said, that Gibbons would recover after a rest of one or two weeks.

Gibbons was taken to Khartoum from Eritrea by airplane. He was accompanied by another correspondent. A secretary of Gibbons left Cairo for Khartoum to stay with the writer.

AMERICAN SAYS BRITISH BACK HIS ETHIOPIAN CLAIM

New York, Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Leo Y. Chertok, industrial broker, announced today that he would sail for London within ten days to post the $1,250,000 which, he claims, will entitle him to begin exploiting 15,000 square miles of the "richest gold, silver and platinum lands in the world" in Wallega province, Ethiopia.

The money with which he will exercise the concession will all be supplied from British sources, Chertok said. The first $1,250,000 will go to Ethiopia as a loan; the remainder of the $10,000,000 needed, which Chertok is confident of raising in England, will be used for development purposes.

The first party of British and American engineers representing his company may be expected in Wallega within thirty days, Chertok said. He will take personal charge of their activities shortly thereafter, he said.

Chertok made it clear that no American capital would be involved in his venture. His chief fiscal associates in London, he said, were Arthur Johnson & Co.

U. S. SIDESTEPS LEAGUE APPEAL TO AID SANCTIONS

Hull Cites Neutrality and Arms Embargo.

committee, for which I desire to express appreciation.

"In regard to your statement that the governments represented on the coördination committee would welcome any communication which any non-member state may deem it proper to make to you, or notifications of any action which may be taken in the circumstances, it is, of course, well known that the government and people of the United States are deeply interested in the prevention of war, and hence in the sanctity of treaties and promotion of peace in every part of the world; that as a corollary to their abhorrence of war with the human sufferings, the impoverishment of states and peoples, business dislocation and embittered feelings engendered by warfare, we are by tradition strong proponents of the principle that all differences between members of the family of nations should be settled by pacific means.

"I need only call attention to the Hague convention of 1907 for the pacific settlement of international disputes, the pact of Paris, in the negotiation of which the government of the United States played an important part, the anti-war pact sponsored by the Argentine government and signed at Rio de Janeiro on Oct. 12, 1933, and the various conventions of conciliation and arbitration to which the United States is a party. These instruments of peace imposed upon all nations parties thereto most solemn responsibilities, and no nation can look with complacency upon their nonobservance.

"As regards the situation now unhappily existing between Ethiopia and Italy, I may point out that the government of the United States put forth every practicable effort to aid in the preservation of peace, through conferences, official acts, diplomatic communications, and public statements, and emphasized particularly the principles of the pact in Paris and the high legal and moral obligations of the signatories thereto.'

Peaceful Settlement Sought.

"This government repeatedly expressed its anxiety and the hope that the controversy would be resolved without resort to armed conflict and the conviction of the entire nation that failure to arrive at a peaceful settlement of the dispute and the subsequent outbreak of hostilities would be a world calamity.

"When, however, it was found that hostilities actually existed between Ethiopia and Italy, this government acting on its own initiative promptly announced a number of basic measures primarily to avoid being drawn into the war, and which also would not be without effect in discouraging war.

"The President of the United States on Oct. 5, 1935, issued a proclamation bringing into operation, under an act of congress, an embargo on the exportation of arms, ammunition and implements of war to both belligerents.

Outlaws Munitions Shipments.

"The issuance of this proclamation automatically brought into operation another provision of the act of congress making it unlawful for any American vessel to carry arms, ammunition or implements of war to any port of the belligerent countries or to any neutral port for transshipment to or for the use of either of the belligerents.

"On the same day the President issued a further proclamation warning American nations against travel on belligerent vessels and stating that such travel would be at their own risk.

"In addition to the three measures just mentioned, the President took a fourth and most important step by issuing a public statement definitly warning American citizens against transactions of any character with either of the belligerent nations, except at their own risk.

Peace Promotes Trade.

"This latter statement was later emphasized when I publicly pointed out that the warning given by the President 'certainly was not intended to encourage transactions with the belligerents' and that 'our people might well realize that the universal state of business uncertainty and suspense on account of the war is seriously handicapping business between all countries, and that the sooner the war is terminated the sooner the restoration and stabilization of business in all parts of the world, which is infinitly more important than trade with the belligerents, will be brought about,' and that 'this speedy restoration of more full and stable trade conditions and relationships among the nations is by far the most profitable objective for our people to visualize, in contrast with such risky and temporary trade as they might maintain with belligerent nations.'

"This policy with respect to transactions with the belligerents I now reiterate and reaffirm. These steps have been taken for the purpose of dealing with this specific controversy and the special circumstances presented.

Says U. S. Took Lead.

"The course thus pursued in advance of action by other governments, most of which are parties to one or more of the peace pacts to which I have referred, represents the independent and affirmative policy of the government of the United States and indicates its purpose not to be drawn into the war and its desire not to contribute to a prolongation of the war.

"Realizing that war adversely affects every country, that it may seriously endanger the economic welfare of each, causes untold human misery, and even threatens the existence of civilization, the United States, in keeping with the letter and spirit of the pact of Paris and other peace obligations, undertakes at all times to not only exercise its moral influence in favor of peace throughout the world, but to contribute in every practicable way within the limitations of our foreign policy, to that end. It views with sympathetic interest the individual or concerted efforts of other nations to preserve peace or to localize and shorten the duration of war."

STRONG DEFENSE IS IMPERATIVE, SAYS PRESIDENT

Launches Celebration of Navy Day.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—In launching the fourteenth annual celebration of Navy day next Monday, President Roosevelt today declared a strong national defense is an imperative need of the country in view of unsettled conditions abroad.

The President expressed himself for building the navy up to the country's needs in a letter to Secretary of the Navy Claude A. Swanson.

Text of Letter.

"It is with great pleasure that I learn of the plans to observe Navy day in accordance with the annual custom of setting apart the birthday of the late President Thedore Roosevelt for that occasion," he wrote.

"In the unsettled conditions existing throughout the world it is imperative that we should heed the needs of national defense. By the passage of the Vinson-Trammell bill, which authorizes the upbuilding of the navy to the limits of existing treaties, our national legislature gave very definite expression of its purpose to increase the strength of the American navy to a degree commensurate with America's needs, interests and responsibilities.

Recalls His Affiliation.

"Happily recalling my own personal association with our navy, I take pride in indorsing the commemoration of Navy day this year and in expressing my own appreciation and that of my fellow countrymen in the navy's past achievements, also the conviction that the officers and men of the navy will continue to justify the faith and confidence that their civilian compatriots have always accorded them."

PREDICTS NAVAL RACE

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—A world naval race appears imminent regardless of the outcome of the naval limitation conference to be held at London Dec. 2, the Foreign Policy association said in a report today.

The report, prepared by David H. Popper of the association's research staf, maintains that the atmosphere of crisis which has become chronic in Europe and the far east obviously precludes serious efforts to curb an armament race. In Europe Germany's rearmament is seen as providing immediate impetus for increased naval activity and Japan's imperialistic designs are seen as having the same effect in the Pacific.

Two Forms of Competition.

The world is confronted by the possibility of two dangerous forms of naval competition—quantitative and qualitative, according to Mr. Popper. France's determination to preserve a margin of superiority over Germany is held to be provocation for competitive building by Italy. Britain, unwilling to abandon the present two power standard, may begin a program of ship construction which would again clear the way for additional German tonnage under the terms of the Anglo-German naval agreement and bring about a repetition of the whole process, the report holds.

Sees Jap Competition.

"Increased British construction, moreover, is virtually certain to be followed by American action to maintain a navy second to none," Mr. Popper says. "Even if the European naval scene remained quiescent, the avowed intention of the United States to preserve the existing ratios would lead to competition with Japan. The Roosevelt administration, while less inclined that its predecessor to make diplomatic protests, has already proved more willing to strengthen its navy."

YOUNG DEMOCRAT OF TEXAS OPPOSES ROOSEVELT FOR 1936

Crockett, Tex., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Youthful, belligerent Joe Bailey Humphreys, one time leader of the Young Democrats of Texas club, declared against the renomination of President Roosevelt today in behalf of his colleagues, the "states' rights Democrats." Humphreys fought Elliott Roosevelt who quit as head of the Young Democrats of Texas in favor of a native son.

"We demand that the constitutional rights and powers of the state be preserved in full force and effect; the New Deal notwithstanding," Humphreys said. "The present prohibitive tarif rates must be lowered that we may regain our lost markets in the world trade."

The regular Young Democratic leaders said Roosevelt-Garner clubs will be formed in every county of Texas.

FRANCE READY TO DEFEND EMPIRE, NAVY CHIEF SAYS

LA SEYNE-SUR-MER, France, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Francois Pietri, minister of marine, today said France was "ready to defend the 22,000 miles of its empire's coasts throughout the four corners of the world."

Pietri spoke at the launching of the new 7,600 ton cruiser Montcalm, fifth of a series of six designed to strike an average between 10,000 ton cruisers and destroyers.

The Montcalm is 579 feet long and has an estimated cruising speed of 31 knots, maximum 40 knots. It will carry nine 6.1 inch guns, eight 3.5 inch anti-aircraft guns and four torpedo tubes. It also will carry planes and will be equipped with a catapult.

FIRES ON BURGLARS; ONE FALLS.

Policeman James McLaughlin fired three shots at three burglars as they left a Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company store at 1165 East 53d street yesterday. One of the men fell as if wounded and was carried into an automombile by the other two. All three escaped.

LEAGUE OFFICIALS ENCOURAGED BY U. S. REPLY ON SANCTIONS

GENEVA, Oct. 27.—[Sunday.]—(AP)—League of nations officials, reading reports of the reply by the United States to the league in which American neutrality in the Italo-Ethiopian dispute was reaffirmed, said today it was the maximum to be expected from Washington, and was, on the whole, "encouraging."

They said that while the United States' attitude continued to be one of rigid neutrality it was also one of wishing to see war halted.

The officials asserted they regarded the reply as important moral support of league efforts, even though the United States could not participate in sanctions.

FLOOD OF MAIL CITES BENEFIT OF DAYLIGHT TIME

Public Opinion 6 to 1 in Favor of Ordinance.

As members of the city council's judiciary committee were preparing to draft a report tomorrow on the proposal that Chicago conserve daylight by adopting eastern standard time, members reported the receipt of hundreds of letters reciting benefits possible under the measure.

Ald. B. A. Cronson, who introduced the ordinance in the city council, declared that his mail reveals a ratio of six to one in favor of the ordinance. "I realize that persons favoring daylight saving time would be more likely to write me as the sponsor of the measure than those against it, but nevertheless the totals are impressive," the alderman said.

Public Finds Many Benefits.

"When I sent the ordinance to the council, I did so because I believed it would provide health, business, and recreational benefits and that it would reduce motor trafic accidents. These reasons seemed sufficient, but a cross section of the day's mail shows people finding many additional advantages.

"One letter points out that permanent daylight saving time should reduce crime, because the public will be exposed to criminal activity during one less hour of darkness. Working people write that it will reduce their light bills. Night workers say they will have an extra hour of darkness in which to sleep, as well as more sunshine when they are up later in the day. One elderly lady wrote that it would be a boon to the aged, who can read but little, because it would shorten long, oppressive winter evenings.

Boon to Property Owners.

"George F. Sivore, of George F. Sivore & Co., realtors, wrote that in addition to other benefits cited by the Chicago Real Estate board, extra daylight would reduce accidents in hallways and stairways of buildings; it would give the property owner more time to work about his home, and it would protect collectors, who cannot now go about in late afternoons with their collections because darkness increases the crime dangers."

Other members of the council committee, Ald. Frank Keenan [49th], Ald. James J. Cusack Jr. [5th], Ald. James J. McDermott [14th], chairman of the committee; Ald. Robert R. Jackson [3rd], and Ald William J. Cowhey [41st], reported a heavy receipt of letters and telephone calls urging passage of the ordinance.

In a viva voce vote taken at a card and bunco party at the Queen of Angels Guild hall, 4412 North Western avenue, yesterday, sentiment was heavily against the measure. About 600 persons were present.

Foes Seek Referendum.

Meanwhile the foes of permanent eastern time for Chicago, apparently conceding that the council will pass the ordinance on the basis of the public approval evidenced in public hearings, have launched a drive for a referendum on the measure.

In this connection Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes said yesterday that the council has no power to demand a referendum on the measure, but it can recommend that a petition be circulated to place the time issue on a ballot as a question of public policy.

"We find no provisions in the Illinois statutes concerning daylight saving," Mr. Hodes said, informally. "Under the statutes the city council submits for approval only on a referendum certain classes of ordinances such as traction ordinances and bond ordinances.

Cites Ruling on Subject.

"Section 711 of the municipal code relative to daylight saving can be changed by the council without a referendum. If a public expression is desired, this can be done under the provisions of an act providing for an expression of opinion on questions of public policy. A proper procedure would be for the council to pass a resolution setting forth the question of public policy and requesting that it be submitted to the people. The above act requires that a petition containing 25 per cent of the registered voters of a city, village, or incorporated town be prepared and filed with the proper election officials not later than sixty days before the date of the election at which the question is to be submitted."

Ald. Oscar F. Nelson [46th] opponent of eastern time, has announced that he will seek to have the time issue placed on the ballot in the April election. To do this will require petitions signed by 376,588 voters, 25 per cent of the 1,506,350 registered for the mayoralty election last spring.

ETHIOPIA IS LUNCHEON TOPIC.

Mario Palmieri, an officer in the Italian navy during the world war and now a United States citizen, will discuss the Italian-Ethiopian question at a luncheon meeting of the Advertising Men's post of the American Legion in the Hotel Sherman tomorrow.

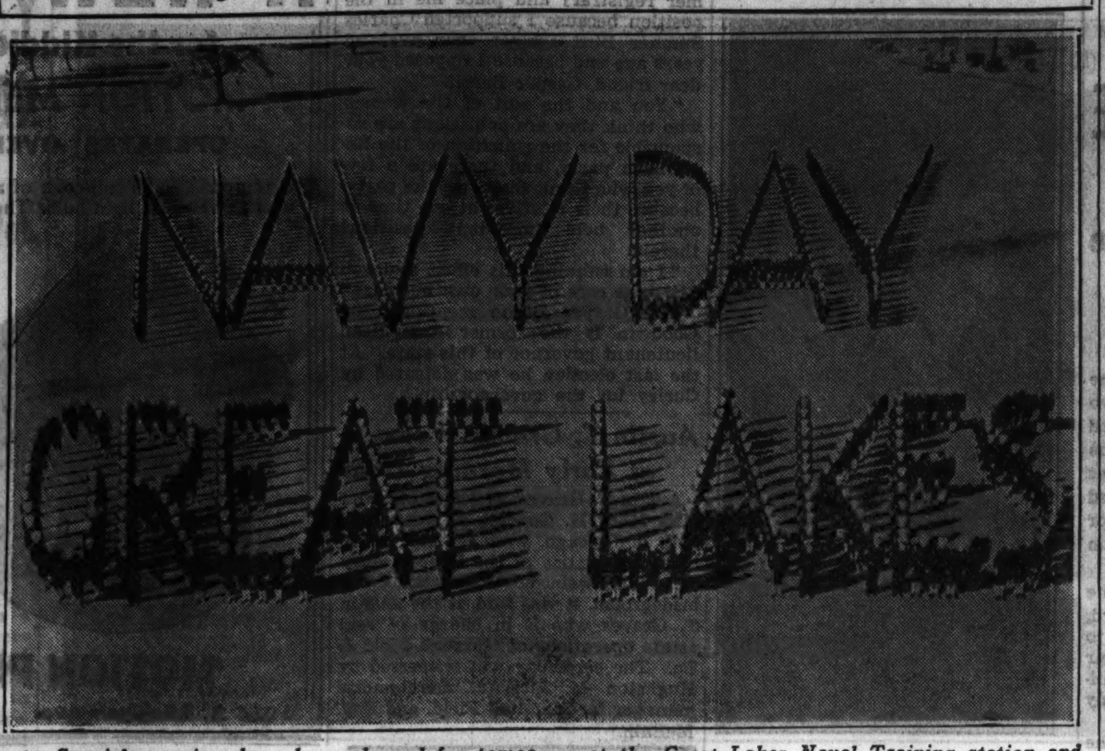
BLUEJACKETS SPELL A LARGE MESSAGE



Special exercises have been planned for tomorrow at the Great Lakes Naval Training station and here are some students forming an advertisment for the program. Tomorrow is Navy day, set aside to direct the nation's attention to its sea fighters.

PUBLIC NAVY DAY PROGRAMS TO BE HELD TOMORROW

Reservists and Great Lakes Plan Events.

Navy day will be observed throughout the country tomorrow. Chicago is to celebrate at special gatherings of civic and patriotic groups and in a public program of drills and athletic contests at the Great Lakes Naval Training station. Officers of the United States naval reserve will speak at the high schools on the importance of a strong navy.

Navy day is celebrated on Oct. 27, the anniversary of the birth of former President Theodore Roosevelt, who was an advocate of a strong American navy. This year because the date falls on Sunday the observance will be on Monday.

Open House at Armory Here.

United States warships in every port will be open for the inspection of visitors and the crews will participate in special exercises. The Naval Reserve armory on the lake at Randolph street and the U. S. S. Wilmette, moored close by, will hold "open house." Lieutenant Commander Arthur R. Pieper announced that the public may view the officers' drill at 8 o'clock in the evening.

Rear Admiral John Downes, commandant of the 9th naval district, will be in charge of the exercises and drills of 700 sailors stationed at the Great Lakes Naval station. The feature of the day's program will be a dress parade between 2:30 and 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon. Athletic contests, including boxing, wrestling, and a football game, will take place between 3:30 and 5 p. m.

An All Day Entertainment.

The program will include an artillery drill between 10 and 11 a. m., boat drills between 8 and 11:30 a. m., and airplane maneuvers between 2 and 3 p. m. Rear Admiral Downes will be host to a number of naval dignitaries and officials. The day will be the first big day observed by the station since it reopened last July.

Besides special lectures at the public high schools, teachers in grammar schools are to read pamphlets on Navy day to the pupils. Kiwanis and Rotary clubs plan meetings to observe the day.

ROOSEVELT HEARS GOV. NICE DEDICATE MARYLAND BRIDGE

Cambridge, Md., Oct. 26.—(AP)—President Roosevelt was acclaimed today by a crowd of 3,000 as he paused here briefly for dedication of the $1,400,000 Choptank river bridge, built as a PWA project.

The span—the longest in Maryland—was named the "Emerson C. Harrington Bridge" in honor of the state's wartime governor by Gov. Harry W. Nice in a dedicatory address. It marked the fruition of a dream visualized to the President 15 years ago by Senator George L. Radcliffe, a native of the section it will serve and a personal friend of the chief executive.

Aboard the yacht Sequoia, President Roosevelt was the first to pass through the draw of the mile and three-quarter long structure joining the Choptank shores of Dorchester and Talbot counties.

After speaking at Long Wharf later, the President left aboard the yacht and headed back up the Chesapeake to the Potomac river. He planned to return to Washington tomorrow afternoon.

Adolphe Menjou Better; Wife Is Ill at Home

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Suffering from a recurrent stomach ailment, Adolphe Menjou, film actor, was reported tonight to have shown slight improvement by attendants at Good Samaritan hospital. His actress wife, Verree Teasdale, was ill at their home with an attack of colitis. Hospital attachés said Menjou probably would be able to leave the hospital some time next week.

SEN. CAPPER SAYS CHICAGO MAY GET G.O.P. CONVENTION

Arthur Capper, United States senator from Kansas, said yesterday that he believes Chicago has a good chance of being the Republican national convention city in 1936.

SENATOR ARTHUR CAPPER.

The Kansan was here for a business conference and also to attend the wedding of a niece, Miss Isabella Eustace, 1138 Sheridan road, Evanston, to Richard W. Leach of Atlantic City.

Senator Capper predicted that Kansas would be in the Republican column next year. It went for Roosevelt in 1932, though it elected a Republican, Alf Landon, for governor that year and again in 1934.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—A celebration of the 77th anniversary tomorrow of the birth of Theodore Roosevelt was held today at the grave of the late President after a pilgrimage to the national shrine here in which 6,000 Boy Scouts took part.

The Scouts, headed by National Scout Commissioner Daniel Carter Beard, 85, marched from the Oyster Bay High school to Young's Memorial cemetery, two miles away, in their 16th annual pilgrimage in honor of their chief citizen scout.

FIND COMMITTEE FILE IN LOBBY QUIZ RANSACKED

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—[U. P.]—Chairman John J. O'Connor of the house utility lobbying investigating committee today said unidentified persons had broken into his office in the capitol two weeks ago and examined files of important committee data.

The file containing detailed information regarding lobbying activities of Edward C. Hopson, Associated Gas and Electric company official, was broken open. The case held documents submitted by Hopson at conclusion of last summer's hearings.

Report on Lobbying Cost.

The data included a detailed report on how he spent $900.000 in lobbying against the "death sentence" in the utility control bill. In addition there was a complete report as to where the funds for the lobbying campaign were obtained. This included the names of banks where Hopson borrowed $1,000,000 for the campaign.

O'Connor said he had "no idea" who broke into the office. The outer door was jimmied. Federal agents are investigating.

Resume Hearings Soon.

He said he planned to resume lobby investigating hearings here in two weeks with Hopson as the first witness. Hopson will be asked to explain his failure to file data on source of his income unless the report is made immediately. "He made up to $19,000,000 or $20,000,000 a year out of various companies he controled, O'Connor said.

GOV. LA FOLLETTE PREDICTS RISE OF THIRD PARTY

New York, Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Ultimate development of a third major party in the United States was predicted today by Gov. Philip F. La Follette of Wisconsin. He said only future events could determine the exact time of that development. He doubted there would be such a party for the presidential campaign next year.

Back from a vacation in Bermuda, Gov. La Follette explained the purpose of a series of speaking engagements in western New York this week. They are merely lecture appearances, he said.

Gov. La Follette and his brother, Senator Robert M. La Follette, already have established a third party under the name of the Progressive party in Wisconsin. Gov. Floyd B. Olson heads the Farmer-Labor party in Minnesota and Gov. La Follette expressed the opinion that the future third party would have its beginnings in the several states before becoming a national organization.

Bundesen Backs Red Cross Campaign for Home Safety

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the city board of health, urged public support yesterday of the Red Cross campaign to reduce accidents in homes.

"Hundreds of thousands of accidents which are preventable occur in American homes annually," Dr. Bundeson said. "A constant, persistent program of preventive education is imperative. Mayor Kelly has shown what can be done in reducing trafic deaths by educating a city to drive more safely."

FARMERS FAVOR CORN-HOG PLAN BY 6 TO 1 VOTE

Officials Cite Returns as New Deal Approval.

dent Roosevelt, in an unprecedented statement yesterday, asserted the AAA is to be permanent and attempted to convince consumers the New Deal unit is not responsible for the sharp increase in prices.

Most of the farmers who voted were those who signed the corn-hog adjustment contract last year. But some nonsigners of contracts were permitted a vote.

This indorsement they attributed to President Roosevelt's statement yesterday.

New Deal Gravely Worried.

Early in the day AAA officials ruefully confessed themselves worried over a possible defeat of the New Deal in the referendum. They said they believed the sharp criticism of the scarcity program would be reflected in farmers' votes.

The referendum comes at a time when the AAA is being subjected to bitter attack. Critics have shouted that the blame for high prices lies in the scarcity regimented by the New Deal unit. The New Dealers have sought to raise a smoke screen in defense of the AAA by a campaign of antagonism to industry.

The effect of the President's statement on the election is being watched closely. Should it influence a sufficient number of favorable votes, the New Deal farm benefit policy is certain to become a prime campaign issue in the middle west next year.

Drouth Altered Program.

The 1935 corn-hog program, shortly to expire, originally called for a cut in corn acreage of 10 to 30 per cent and a 10 per cent drop in hog production. Because of the drouth AAA officials raised the quotas.

For 1936, officials contemplate an increase of 25 to 30 per cent in hog production. The officials insist that if the control program is not continued the price of hogs will collapse.

AAA records show that 1,032,578 corn-hog farmers have signed adjustment contracts. The total last year was 1,115,294. There are more than four million farmers who produce some corn and hogs.

Early returns indicated that approximately 700,000 farmers expressed their opinion on the New Deal farm policy.

The question upon which the farmers voted was:

"Do you favor a corn-hog adjustment program to follow the 1935 program which expires Nov. 30, 1935?"

AUTO ACCIDENT OF ROOSEVELTS STIRS BAY STATE

Daughter of H. C. Lodge Rebukes Official.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 26.—(AP)—The automobile accident in which two sons of the President were involved here recently had an acrimonious sequel today. State Motor Vehicles Registrar Frank A. Goodwin advised a daughter of the late U. S. Senator Henry Cabot Lodge to mind her own business.

John Roosevelt, youngest son of the President and a student at Harvard, was driving his brother James to the airport a few days ago. Their car crashed into an electrical railroad train. Neither was seriously hurt, but their car was damaged.

Goodwin told newspaper men he saw no reason to investigate because it was not a serious accident. Today he made public a letter he wrote Mrs. Constance Lodge Williams, daughter of the former Senator Lodge and aunt of Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., recently announced Republican aspirant for the senatorial seat his grandfather held for 30 years. The letter was in response to one from Mrs. Williams.

Charges Breach of Trust.

"How many times does one have to drive through a red light into a train before being disciplined by the registrar of motor vehicles," Mrs. Williams, who is herself prominent in Republican politics, had demanded to know in a letter to Goodwin.

"Do the same rules apply to others as to the Roosevelts?" she asked. "I was under the impression that you were trying to improve trafic conditions in Massachusetts. My mistake."

To that Goodwin retorted:

"I am under the impression you are more interested in politics than you are in making the highways safe.

"Thousands of accidents are happening in Massachusetts, and this is the first time I ever knew you to write to anybody. Why did you pick out Roosevelt?

Suggests Political Reason.

"You say you thought I was trying to make highways safe. Well, there have been ninety less killed this year than last year up to date, and nobody gets any cases fixed here now, either.

"I suppose, however, you were very much disappointed to think that Gov. Curley [Democratic Gov. James M. Curley] would remove the man who was here [Morgan T. Ryan, former registrar] and place me in the position because I supported Charles Sumner Bird against your husband years ago and because I opposed your dear friend, Gaspar Bacon.

"You and the rest of the women who think they are politicians are responsible for the ruination of the Republican party, and there are a few of you who think they own the party, because their relatives at one time or another held important positions therein.

"I am running this office, and you just take care of your own business."

The Gaspar Bacon mentioned by Goodwin is the former Republican lieutenant governor of this state. At the last election he was defeated by Curley for the governorship.

NASH SENDS 100 CARS BY BOAT TO EUROPEAN PORTS

Kenosha, Wis., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—The Norwegian freighter Lukefjell left the Kenosha harbor at 6 p. m., today with a cargo of 100 Nash and La Fayette automobiles destined for distributors in Hamburg, Rotterdam, Antwerp, and other European ports.

It was the second export shipment from the Kenosha factory direct to Europe. Three weeks ago the service was inaugurated as an experiment after several weeks of negotiations by H. M. Salisbury, Nash Motors company, export manager. That first shipment was consigned to Nash distributors in London.

The automobiles were driven from a ramp on the dock directly to the freighter deck without crating. With the first shipment a success, the company announced it would make a third similar consignment on a Norwegian freighter Nov. 10, and would resume regular export service in the spring.

DO AS DOCTORS DO for CONSTIPATION LIVER AND GALL BLADDER TROUBLES Take PLUTO WATER

Double Action The Secret!

2. Stimulates Gall Bladder and Liver to Normal, "Free-Flowing" Action!

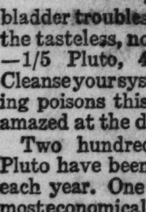
Constipation, liver and gall bladder troubles often come together. Millions suffer them daily—yet don't know why. Often, physicians say, it is not only because you're constipated, but also because biliary drainage from liver and gall bladder is not normal.

Hence, ordinary laxatives that act only on bowels to temporarily relieve constipation still leave you feeling terrible. Pluto Water, however (with its amazing double action), relieves all these troubles at the same time.

First, Pluto gives you a sure, gentle flush in an hour or less. Second, it stimulates gall bladder and liver to normal, "free-flowing" action. So relief is quick—and thorough! You feel amazingly better in an hour. Soon feel normal again! That's why, for years over 50,000 doctors have used or recommended Pluto Water. That's why your own doctor, too, will tell you there is nothing better.

WHAT DOCTORS SAY



Dr. E. E. S. of Iowa, says: "I used Pluto for gall bladder trouble and was greatly benefited."

So do as doctors do next time you feel dull and listless from constipation, liver or gall bladder troubles. Take Pluto Water in the tasteless, non-habit-forming dose—1/5 Pluto, 4/5 glass hot water. Cleanse your system of health-destroying poisons this sure way. You'll be amazed at the difference it makes!

Two hundred million bottles of Pluto have been used—millions more each year. One of the safest, surest, most economical laxatives you can buy. Comes in 2 sizes—25c and 50c—at all drug stores. A beneficial, saline mineral water from famous French Lick Springs, Indiana.

BUSINESS SOARS AS NEW JERSEY KILLS SALES TAX

Merchants Report 25 Pct. Jump in Gross.

Trenton, N. J., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Merchants throughout New Jersey said their business today was excellent and did not hesitate to ascribe the improvement to repeal of the 2 per cent sales tax at a special session of the legislature. In Trenton some stores reported that business was up 25 to 30 per cent over last Saturday, and in many of the larger cities of the state the gain was almost as much.

The sales tax, which had been a headache to merchants and customers in its four month existence, was ended officially at 8:24 o'clock last night. Gov. Harold G. Hoffman used red ink to sign the repealer of his own measure, gloomily predicting "unbalanced budgets and hungry people."

Merchants Lag on Taxes.

Repeal had been taken for granted, and in the last week many stores had been lenient about collecting the tax. Tax department officials said they believed little tax money had been taken in yesterday, and last night many stores, by telephoning newspaper offices, kept in close touch with the progress of the bill and as soon as the governor blotted his signature, store clerks announced the glad news.

Here and there, however, a few conscientious souls paid sales taxes even after 8:24 p. m. They were chagrined to learn today that they had obeyed a defunct law.

Refunds Are Problematical.

One citizen complained that he had paid a tax on $120 worth of merchandise after repeal. Whether he and the others could obtain refunds was problematical tonight.

The tax collecting administration will be continued until mid-December at least, according to J. H. Thayer Martin, state tax commissioner, because it will take 200 employés of the department that long to tabulate the October returns. Mr. Martin thought figures would show about $1,600,000 paid for the month. By making the repealer effective at once, instead of waiting until Nov. 1 the legislature saved consumers about $350,000, judging from past returns.

Boy Scout Leaders Meet Today to Plan Programs

National officers of the Boy Scouts of America will meet at the Knickerbocker hotel today in an all day Scouters' seminar to consider four sectional programs of scouting for the coming year. A. C. Claude and George Chronic will lead a section on the education of Scouts in safety and health methods. Other divisions will consider rural scouting, under O. H. Benson; the Cub program for younger boys, under William C. Wessel, and the development of efficient local council personnel, conducted by Harold F. Pote.

Woman Dealer in Dope Collects 'the Sales Tax'

Sergt. John R. Meyers yesterday told Municipal Judge George B. Weiss that Edith Nattel, 45 years old, 1336 Van Buren street, charged him a "sales tax" when he purchased narcotics from her. Judge Weiss sentenced Miss Nattel to a year in Dwight reformatory on a charge of possessing narcotics. The sergeant said his purchase amounted to $9.63 and when he asked what the odd pennies were for he was told they represented the sales tax.

Producers Beat City to 'First Punch.'

Detroit, Oct. 26.—(AP)—The producers of "Tobacco Road," completing the second week of its Detroit run tonight, obtained a temporary restraining order in Circuit court today to prevent city officials from interfering with its presentation.

Judge Thomas J. Murphy granted the temporary order to Oscar A. Riopelle, attorney for John M. Kirkland and Sam H. Grisman, the producers. He set next Saturday for a hearing on whether the order should be made permanent.

Order Averts Closing.

Harry C. McKee, manager of the theater [Cass] where the drama of poor whites in the south is playing, said he had been ordered by Mayor Frank Couzens and Police Commissioner H. A. Pickert to close the play tonight.

"The play was putrid," Commissioner Pickert declared, "and you can't quote me too strongly. After I saw it I called the management into my office and told them what I thought about it. They agreed to close the play Saturday night, and that was the understanding we had about it."

The play has been running in New York nearly two years.

PLAY STAYS DARK HERE

The promoters of the Chicago production of "Tobacco Road" were still unable yesterday to find a theater in which to reopen their play, closed Monday by order of Mayor Kelly, who also ordered the license of the Selwyn theater revoked. Sam Grisman and Jack Kirkland, producer and author, reported through their attorneys, the law firm of Fisher, Boyden, Bell, Boyd & Marshall, that they may wait until the court hearing before Federal Judge William H. Holly tomorrow before making further efforts to stage the production.

Citizens Back Mayor's Stand.

This hearing will be on Mayor Kelly's petition in behalf of the city to set aside a temporary restraining order issued by the court Thursday barring city officials from interfering with performances of the play until Nov. 1, when arguments on a petition for a temporary injunction will be heard. The petition filed Friday by the mayor was supported by the affidavits of seven citizens who viewed the play and concurred with the mayor in his charge that it was an obscene production.

NEW YORK GANG WARFARE BRINGS MUTUAL SUICIDE

Leaders Are Wiped Out in Mass Slayings.

late date they are not clear as to the exact cause. The popular guess with them is that it was a case of one group of racketeers trying to "muscle in" on the territory of another.

Found Hanging by Necktie.

One Albert Stern, alias Al Stein, a 22 year old dope fiend and professional killer, suspected of at least ten other "jobs" was at once set down as Suspect No. 1 and a widespread search begun for him. This afternoon he was found hanging by his own necktie in a gas filled room in a cheap Newark lodging house.

The county medical examiner thought the fugitive thug had committed suicide, but police were not at all convinced that he had not been garroted by avenging enemies.

The ancient racket of usury, refurbished with the strongarm methods of modern gangsters, is believed by veteran detectives at work on the case to have been an important contributing factor in the growing feud.

Growth of Usury Fast.

Krompier is said by the police to have been one of Schultz's henchmen in the money lending game.

Krompier, who has a record of many arrests and discharges, was, it was learned, under investigation along with many others, including Schultz himself, in the usury and other rackets. This inquiry was being conducted by Thomas E. Dewey and his assistants in the course of their special investigation of vice and racketeering.

Usury is an ancient practice, but it was found to have grown prodigiously in New York within the last year. It had reached a point where it would readily form a revenue incentive for a gang murder.

Detectives learned that within recent weeks Charles [Lucky] Luciano, Louis [Lepke] Buckhouse, or Buchalter, and Jacob [Gurrah Jake] Shapiro, all underworld powers, have been seen in each others' company, a fact which he said was significant and may have indicated a possible combination for the extension of interests, particularly into the usury field in midtown and upper Manhattan, supposedly controled by Schultz.

How Usurers Work.

The name which the underworld has given to its usury practices stems from Shakespeare. It is called "shylock racket." It is worked on a system similar to the policy racket or other methods of collecting small sums from numerous persons.

Within a given district some location is picked in which a "book" is kept. There are lenders, also called collectors, who dole out sums of $5, $10, or more to persons who want to borrow. A growing volume of complaints from large business concerns, extending from the financial district to the other end of Manhattan, has been received at police headquarters, indicating the rapid growth of the racket. These firms complain that their employés, particularly those in the lower salary brackets, are being victimized.

After a person with a job has once gone on "the book" he has little chance of getting off. He is required to pay $1 per week, usually, for each $5 borrowed. The lenders do not wait for him to come in. They wait, instead, at he doors to his place of employment. If a borrower eludes them for a week collectors have been known to go into the offices and deman dpayment. Many a man has lost his job on this account.

In spite of all the wealth that went through his hands, a potter's field burial for Dutch Schultz was a probability tonight.

The man who counted his wealth in the hundreds of thousands, his followers by tens and scores, lay alone in death.

At midnight his body lay in a funeral establishment just as it was brought from the hospital in Newark last Friday.

There was not a suit of new clothes to put on the body.

There was no casket.

No one, relative or friend, had called to arrange for burial.

No one has authorized even the first process of an ordinary burial, embalming of the body.

First Picture of Baby Orang-utan

Nancy, the orang-utan at the Lincoln park zoo, climbed frantically to the top of her cage yesterday as the cameraman snapped the first picture of her baby. Zoo officials feared the infant would die of starvation. Efforts to get the mother to use a bottle and nipple failed.

JUNGLE MOTHER STARVING BABY ORANG TO DEATH

Zoo Officials Abandon Hope of Saving It.

A tragedy of maternal love and ignorance was marching toward its fatal end last night in the Lincoln park zoo.

Nancy, the prize orang-utan, continued to hold her infant son, born on Tuesday and estimated to weigh only a pound and a half, close to her withered breast. The youngster, deprived of food, was growing steadily weaker.

"We have about given up any hope of saving the baby," said Floyd S. Young, director of the zoo. "If Nancy would only lay it down for a minute or two we could take it from the cage and nourish it. But she simply won't leave it for an instant."

Try Vainly to Teach Her.

There have been strange doings around the cage ever since the baby arrived. Zoo attendants have brought silver and aluminum bottles, filled with mixtures of milk suitable for infant orangs, and capped with rubber nipples. The attendants have demonstrated to the mother how she should present the bottles to the little stranger.

But Nancy is just an old fashioned jungle mother, who doesn't hold with the new-fangled contraptions. She ignores the bottles. The only attempt she made to feed the youngster was by sucking milk into her own mouth and squirting it into his. The method was not a success.

Suggestions that the mother ape be drugged, so the infant could be taken from her, were vetoed by Mr. Young. Nancy, he pointed out, is worth $4,000 and hence too valuable to take chances with. It looks as though the little orang will have to die of starvation, just as Nancy's first baby did.

Child specialists have been consulted and have suggested a diet for the baby. It is a good diet, but it won't be worth much as long as the simian mother clings to the spirit of jungle maternity.

LOWLY FRYING PAN ON GRILL; BLAMED FOR DIETING ILLS

Cleveland, O., Oct. 26.—(AP)—The humble but ubiquitous frying pan was put on the spot tonight, put there by Mrs. Edith M. Barber, chairman of the committee on public information of the American Dietetic association.

Arriving from New York for the eighteenth annual convention of the association, which opens here Monday, Mrs. Barber blamed the frying pan for ruination of the American temper and digestion.

"The meal of fried foods is a sample of the lowest, the very bottom of American cookery," said Mrs. Barber, expressing regret that such dinners are served on millions of tables every day.

Of course, she hastened to add, it is not really our fault. It is just our pioneer heritage.

Mrs. Barber saw hope, however, in the advance of diet in recent years. She was cheered particularly by the popularity of fruit juices, milk, and salads.

PIERSON, SLAYER OF HIS PARENTS, FOUND INSANE

Austin, Tex., Oct. 26.—(AP)—A District court jury today adjudged Howard Pierson insane, relieving the 21 year old youth of the immediate prospect of facing trial for the murder of his parents, William Pierson, associate State Supreme court justice, and Mrs. Pierson.

Should he be found sane at any later time, he would become subject to trial.

Pierson confessed the slaying, saying he had lured his parents to the rural spot on a pretext of showing them an Indian relic. He first declared they were shot by a holdup man.

"We are gratified," said an elder brother. "We think it was a proper verdict." The slayer appeared indifferent.

1935 MISS AMERICA REFUSES SHOW OFFER; NO POSING IN THE NUDE

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Henrietta Leaver, the five-and-ten cent store clerk who became "Miss America of 1935," turned up her pretty nose tonight at an offer to join Earl Carrol's "Vanities."

Mr. Carroll must have suggested the beauty queen appear undraped in his show because she remarked, somewhat sharply:

"I'll pose in the nude for no man. A bathing suit is as far as I will go."

Furthermore, interjected her mother and grandmother, the showman would have to foot the expense of a chaperon if Miss Leaver joins it. Said Grandma Hettie Ebert:

"We've brought Henrietta up right and she'll go in no show without a chaperon."

So, when the "Vanities" open in a fortnight at Norfolk, "Miss America" is unlikely to be one of the troupe whose promoter claims will contain "the most beautiful girls in the world."

Miner's Body Is Recovered After 58 Hours of Digging

Mount Carmel, Pa., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Rescue workers reached the body of John Stankowski, 64, tonight after laboring nearly 58 hours since he was caught beneath a fall of rock in the 45 foot shaft of an independent coal mine.

COURTNEY DRIVE CUTS CAR THEFTS TO A RECORD LOW

Auto Owners Are Saved $18,500,000 in Year.

In all of Cook county last Wednesday only two automobiles were stolen. This was the lowest number of car thefts for one day in the county since automobiles became a popular means of travel.

State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney pointed to this fact yesterday as an example of the results being achieved by his campaign against automobile thieves. By the end of the year, Mr. Cortney estimated, an annual saving of 15 million dollars will be effected for the citizens of the county by auto theft reduction.

This does not include a total reduction of 3½ million dollars in automobile insurance rates made possible by lessened risks for the insurance companies, he said.

Cuts Daily Toll from 97 to 13.

When he entered the prosecutor's office in December of 1932, the state's attorney declared, thieves were stealing an average of 97 automobiles a day, insurance rates were high, and car owners were inclined to look on the theft of machines as a common occurrence. Mr. Courtney summoned all the police captains to his office and urged their united coöperation in his campaign to cut down the heavy theft toll. Special squads were assigned to auto theft patrol duty and to follow up the prosecution of captured thieves. The daily average of automobile thefts is now only 13, said the prosecutor.

Auto Stripping Reduced, Too.

Cases of automobiles being stripped of their tires, head lights, and other accessories has shown a similar reduction. From the time of his induction the daily average of such crimes has dropped from 27 to 1, Mr. Courtney said.

Since Mr. Courtney started his relentless drive 833 auto thieves have been sentenced, 614 of them to the penitentiary and the rest to Bridewell.

As a corollary to his prosecution of this type of criminal the state's attorney referred to the record of convictions under the habitual criminal act.

Cites Another Achievement.

From 1883, when the act was passed, until he became state's attorney, Mr. Courtney said, 25 persons were sentenced to life imprisonment as habitual criminals. In his three years as county prosecutor 83 persons received life terms under this act.

"I have today instructed all of my assistants under no circumstances waive prosecution of a prisoner as an habitual criminal," declared Mr. Courtney.

GOVERNOR ATTACKS FORM OF VOTE TEXT ON SALOON CLOSING

Lansing, Mich., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald, who favors state-wide 1 o'clock closing for liquor establishments, recently decreed by the liquor control commission effective Nov. 15, today attacked the form of a referendum question being submitted to Detroit voters at the Nov. 5 election.

Mayor Frank Couzens, Police Commissioner Heinrich Pickert, and several other Detroit officials wish to retain the present 2 o'clock closing hour, and their protests brought the suggestion of a referendum from the governor.

The question as it will appear on Detroit ballots reads: "Do you favor retention of the present 2 a. m. closing hour?" The governor criticized this wording as affording Detroiters an opportunity to vote "on only half the question." He charged that Detroit officials deliberately framed the question in such a way as to prevent a clear cut decision on the issue.

Chicago's Carrie Nation Is Placed on Probation

Mrs. Antoinette Bazaitas, 36 years old, 2225 South Irving avenue, who threw a hatchet through a tavern door Friday night, was placed on probation yesterday by Municipal Judge George B. Weiss. Mrs. Bazaitas was arraigned in the Women's court on a charge of malicious mischief.

She told Judge Weiss that she threw the hatchet to express her resentment against her husband's occasional visits to the tavern, which is at 2259 Cermak road.

DEFENDANT AWAY FOR OPERATION; BRINGS MISTRIAL

The trial of Gus Zadek, 29 years old, 7733 South Paulina street, before a jury in federal court, was proceeding yesterday when Judge John P. Barnes noticed that Zadek's co-defendant, Fred Horner, 44 years old, 5727 North Kimball avenue, a butcher, was not in court. Both men are charged with receiving 220 tubs of butter stolen from an interstate shipment.

Judge Barnes ordered an immediate investigation. An hour later it was determined that Horner was operated on for hernia yesterday morning in St. Anne's hospital, and Judge Barnes summoned Dr. Jack B. Deutsch, staf physician at the hospital and other witnesses for questioning.

Although Dr. Deutsch told the court the operation was of an emergency nature, Judge Barnes ordered the district attorney to make a thorough investigation to determine whether fraud had been perpetrated on the court. He then allowed a defense motion for a mistrial, raised Horner's bond from $2,500 to $10,000, and ordered him placed under guard in the hospital.

U. S. Universalists Choose Joliet Pastor President

Dr. Walter H. Macpherson, pastor of the Joliet Universalist church, was elected president of the Universalist church yesterday at the concluding session of the church's biennial convention in Washington, D. C., according to dispatches from Washington. Dr. Macpherson, who succeeds Victor A. Friend of Boston, will serve a two year term. Frank D. Kerr of Chicago was elected as one of the vice presidents.

BOY DIES; HURT IN CRASH WHICH KILLED MOTHER

Police Car in a Collision; Passenger May Die.

John Eberling Jr., 4 years old, 14808 Winchester avenue, Harvey, died in St. Francis hospital in Blue Island yesterday of injuries incurred Friday in an automobile accident at 141st street and Western avenue, Posen, in which his mother, Mrs. Stella Eberling, 22 years old, was killed. The child's brother, Thomas, 2 years old, incurred a skull fracture. Mrs. Eberling's car collided with a beer truck driven by John Bernoski, 6104 South Mozart street.

A mute who identified himself as William Miller, 56 years old, 5340 Emerald avenue, was probably fatally wounded when a police squad car in which he was riding collided with another automobile at 48th and Loomis streets.

Policemen Are Injured.

Miller was taken to the County hospital. Policemen Paul Houlihan and Edward Isenberg, who incurred cuts and bruises in the crash, had found Miller wandering and were driving him about in the hope he would point out his home.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 786 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1, according to the coroner's office. In that period 612 were killed and 14,121 injured in trafic accidents within the Chicago city limits.

Other Cook county deaths were:

Melvin Nelson, 38 years old, member of a CCC camp at Glenwood Park, Kane county. Thrown to the street from the left front fender of the camp truck on which he was riding when it struck a depression in front of 4515 West Roosevelt road.

Willard G. Nelson, 18 years old, 624 East 70th place, was killed and George Lamont, 18 years old, 7110 Rhodes avenue, was seriously injured early today in an automobile crash at 72d street and Stony Island avenue. Nelson, in attempting to pass a bus, collided with a car driven by Ivan Schaffer, 3227 South Kedzie avenue. Schaffer was not hurt.

DIES ON JOB IN TANNERY.

Arthur Jones, 60 years old, 3024 Eastwood avenue died, apparently of a heart attack, as he worked in the J. Greenebaum company tannery at 3157 North Rockwell street yesterday.

QUICK DECISION ON FEE OFFICE JOBS PLANNED

The Circuit court judges' committee on help, which fixes the number of employés in the county fee offices every year, will upset precedent tomorrow by holding a single session on the pleas of fee department heads for more jobs in the 1936 budget, and on the demands of the county board representatives for fewer jobs. Usually the hearings last many days.

Chief Justice Walter J. La Buy, member of the committee and a former county commissioner, said yesterday the annual petitions for more employés, and the usual objections from the county board, will all be heard and taken under advisement at the single session.

Other judges who make up the committee are Joseph Burke and William V. Brothers. It was definitly indicated that the committee not only will refuse to create more jobs but will reduce the present personnel. This would set another precedent. The practice of the past has been for the committee to authorize the hiring of more employés each year.

SPEED WPA JOBS; STAF WILL WORK 'NIGHT AND DAY'

Program to Start "in Five or Ten Days."

Ralph H. Burke, deputy administrator for the Works Progress administration in Illinois, and his aids pitched into the task yesterday of making good on Administrator R. J. Dunham's prediction that all Illinois employable relief clients will have WPA jobs by Jan. 1.

By working night and day, Mr. Burke said, he and the other WPA officials expect to have thousands of new jobs ready within five or ten days. To this end will be used $9,933,189 which Controler General McCarl made available Friday on his approval of 925 Illinois projects which ultimately will cost $40,343,078.

More Work Yet to Do.

Projects must be examined here, material and tools must be ordered and delivered, and the actual assignments of relief clients made before work begins. Depending on the problems encountered, some projects may be started in five days, while others will have to wait longer for completion of all the steps involved.

To speed the assignments of workers Earl W. Clark, Springfield representative of the Illinois emergency relief commission, was appointed yesterday by Mr. Dunham as assistant director of labor relations in charge of assignments. He will continue to hold his IERC job without pay.

Approve $75,000,000 Projects.

A recapitulation of the movements of the program yesterday showed that about $75,000,000 worth of Illinois projects, 1,837 in number, have been approved thus far by Controler General McCarl. Deputy Administrator Burke said this would allow the employment of 150,000 workers.

Oscar E. Hewitt, city commissioner of public works, announced that he had received orders from WPA to place 700 men at work surveying the 3,300 miles of paved streets in the city. These men will be given jobs by Thursday, he said.

The survey is expected to last several months and to cost $542,000.

Complete Survey of City.

The object of the project is to ascertain the condition of existing pavements, sidewalks, and curbs and to determine whether or not shrubs on corner lots constitute a hazard for motorists. The men will also make note of the exact locations of light poles and manholes.

"The survey report, which will tell us which streets are most in need of repairs, will be a permanent record that we do not have now," Mr. Hewitt said. "One merit of the project is that it requires no great outlay for equipment or materials."

Meanwhile the headquarters of WPA and the Illinois Emergency Relief commission at 1319 South Michigan avenue was being picketed by members of the Technical and Research Employes' union, made up of persons who were on relief work projects suspended pending the transfer to WPA rolls.

Sioux City, Ia., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—W. Cornish Beck, who was removed as manager of the Iowa liquor store here, will testify that Gov. Clyde L. The prosecutor said Beck will assert that the state officials agreed with Sioux City and Woodbury county officials that "no person selling liquor bearing the state seal would be interfered with or molested."

MOUNTAIN FIRE IN CALIFORNIA OUT OF CONTROL

Hundreds of Homes Are in Path of Blaze.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Southern California's greatest mountain fire raged beyond control in its fifth day today.

Several hundred residents of the area embracing Seminole Hot Springs and Malibu lake were prepared to flee from their endangered homes on a moment's notice.

Residents packed their belongings and Sherif Eugene Biscailuz had deputies ready to spread the alarm.

The fire, with other blazes and winds, has wrought $10,000,000 damage since last Tuesday night's windstorm.

Flames Near Resort Colony.

The sherif's office reported the east crest of the flames was within a mile and a half of the Malibu lake colony.

This colony is in the heart of the mountains, seven miles from the famous million dollar beach movie colony. The movie colony was saved from the flames Thursday night—firemen fighting the blaze within 100 feet of one of the palatial strand residences.

The west crest of the fire was within two miles of Seminole Hot Springs, three miles west of Malibu lake. A front of flames extending from the Castro Peak area to Mesa Peak was advancing at the rate of a mile in ten hours over a five mile front, sherif's forces reported.

Weather More Favorable.

More favorable weather conditions were reported by Spence Turner, county fire warden. He expressed hope the 2,000 CCC fire fighters, working under direction of army officers, supplemented by firefighting experts from the county, state, and federal forestry departments, have stemmed the eastward drive of the flames which had threatened to sweep through the mountains toward Santa Monica and Beverly Hills.

Fires burned in many canyons today. Ten or fifteen summer cabins in Corral canyon were destroyed and flames in Zuma canyon, near the beach, menaced additional beach homes.

PASTOR CHARGES NEW DEAL 'FULL OF SOCIALISM'

Mangum, Okla., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—An Oklahoma clergyman, in a remarkable letter addressed to President Roosevelt, today charged that the New Deal is "full of socialism" and called upon the President to "desist from this riot of excess."

The document, couched in language approaching Biblical simplicity, was the answer of the Rev. Charles L. Brooks, of the First Methodist church of Mangum, to Roosevelt's request to representative clergymen for counsel and advice.

The Rev. Mr. Brooks, a Democrat who has been a minister for forty years, told the President of conditions in his community and stated frankly that from his position "on the rim of things, in the firing line," he could see "incompetency, mismanagement and waste on every hand."

The social security legislation, he said, "is about the most complete piece of parlor socialism I ever have seen."

St. Paul's Rector

The Rev. F. C. Benson Belliss, now of Lenox, Mass., will come to Chicago Dec. 1 as rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, 4945 Dorchester avenue.

WOMAN EDITOR SAYS NEW DEAL AIDS FREE LOVE

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Free love is being encouraged by the federal government, Mrs. Edith Haughton Hooker, editor of Equal Rights, organ of the National Women's party, charged today before a meeting of the state rganization here.

Because of the regulation prohibiting husbands and wives from both holding government jobs, many women are getting Reno divorces, she said, and then returning to live clandestinely with their former husbands and still retain their jobs.

Similarly, she added, young women and young men employed in Washington and who under ordinary circumstances would marry, are practicing free love because marriage automatically would disqualify one of them for further government employment.

OPEN SWEITZER'S TRIAL MONDAY; FILES GUARDED

Robert M. Sweitzer is scheduled to go to trial before Judge John C. Lewe in Criminal court tomorrow morning on charges of withholding $414,129 from his successor as county clerk, Michael J. Flynn.

Prosecutors and defense attorneys said yesterday that they were ready for trial. At the Criminal court clerk's office it was said that 200 veniremen are ready but that difficulty in selecting a jury is expected because Sweitzer is so widely known.

Huge stacks of records tracing Mr. Sweitzer's 24 year stewardship of the county clerk's office were trundled into the courtroom during the day and placed under police guard.

Last of Missing Mdivani Jewels Found in Sewer

Southington, Conn., Oct. 26.—(AP)—An earring and a pin, the last of the Princess Nina Mdivani jewels which were lost here a week ago, were found in a storm sewer today near the spot where the remaining valuables, estimated to be worth $8,000, were recovered within the last 24 hours. Princess Mdivani is the wife of Charles Henry Huberich of New York City and sister of the late Prince Alexis Mdivani.

FEAR 1,000 DEAD IN FLOODS AFTER HAITI HURRICANE

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Belated reports that hundreds of persons were drowned in floods accompanying a hurricane last week-end caused officials today to fear that as many as 1,000 lives were lost.

The latest report from Jacmel was that 200 bodies had been recovered. The first word was received today from the southern peninsula, isolated since Monday, of the heavy loss of life.

An entirely unofficial estimate was that there are 1,500 dead in Jeremie, which apparently was the heaviest hit.

Disaster Caused by Flood.

The disaster in both cities was caused by a flood Monday night, after several days of abnormal rains. Thousands were reported to be homeless and hungry, with crops destroyed. The government is trying to get aid into the stricken area.

[The hurricane presumably was the same one that passed through eastern Cuba and Jamaica last Monday. Damage in Jamaica was estimated at $2,500,000.]

Telegraphic communication with Cayes was reëstablished. Damage to the city was not extensive, but a famine was feared because of the destruction of food crops.

A dispatch from Puerto Cabezas, Nicaragua, said winds of hurricane velocity which damaged crops around Cape Gracias yesterday had moderated today. In Honduras hurricane winds and floods did much damage to banana crops. The town of Progreso was reported imperiled by rising flood waters.

21 Dead in Cuba.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Oct. 26.—The death list of the hurricane which swept Oriente province this week jumped to 21 tonight. The bodies of three more men were fished from swollen rivers and the bodies of four children were dug from their home, buried by an avalanche, near Contramaestre.

Rivers continued to rise. Two hills near Baire became the refuge of hundreds of families. The refugees are without food and shelter.

Evangelist Charged with Pistol Deaths of Two

Columbus, Ga., Oct. 26.—(AP)—E. S. Evans, 38 year old Columbus policeman, died in a hospital today of a gunshot wound—the second victim of pistol shots which Police Chief H. W. Cornett said were fired by an "eccentric street corner evangelist." The chief said murder charges had been filed against the preacher, listed as H. S. Perkins, 60, who was shot and wounded by another policeman after Evans and Jewel Arrington, 18, of Columbus, had fallen mortally wounded in a blaze of gunfire yesterday.

NIGHT PATROLMAN SLAIN.

Flint, Mich., Oct. 26.—(AP)—George J. Wright, 64, for twenty years a special night patrolman here, was shot to death Friday night by a man the officer found looting a sporting goods store.

VETS OF FOREIGN WARS ASK AID OF LEGION ON BONUS

See Victory in Avoiding Cross-Purposes.

The national executive council of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, meeting in the Hotel Sherman yesterday invited the American Legion to unite with them in a campaign to push veterans' bonus legislation through the next session of congress. The invitation was in the form of a resolution urging Legion national officials to confer with V. F. W. representatives on the matter in Washington within 30 days.

James E. Van Zandt of Altoona, Pa., national commander of the V. F. W., pointed out that the defeat of bonus legislation in the last session of congress could be attributed to the fact that the two leading organizations of ex-service men were at loggerheads over the type of legislation to be adopted.

Agree on Basic Demands.

"Although both the Legion and the V. F. W. have agreed on basic principles of immediate cash payment of the bonus, plus cancellation of interest charges, we have never presented a united front before congress," Mr. Van Zandt said.

"While the V. F. W. has been a leader in demands for immediate cash payment for several years, we are willing to sacrifice recognition for our efforts in the general interest of veteran welfare.

"The resolution adopted by our last encampment merely requests immediate cash payment of adjusted service certificates, plus cancellation of interest charges, without obligating us to the support of any particular bill. We are free to work with the American Legion for the bill that has the best prospect of congressional approval.

"Similar action was taken by the American Legion convention at St. Louis, and I see no reason now why these two great veteran groups should not unite in a final drive for victory in this crusade for veteran rights."

Ask Legion to Pick Date.

The joint action resolution was introduced in the executive meeting by Bernard W. Kearney of Gloversville, N. Y., senior vice commander of the V. F. W., and was adopted unanimously. Mr. Van Zandt then announced that he would transmit copies of the resolution to Legion officials and urge them to select a date for the Washington meeting. He proposed that the conference select a steering committee to dircet bonus legislation activity.

At the meeting yesterday Mr. Van Zandt appointed Brig. Gen. William E. Guthner of Denver national chief of staf of the V. F. W., and Edward J. Neron of Sacramento, Cal., inspector general. The final sessions of the executive committee will be held today, and there will be a meeting of the board of trustees of the V. F. W. National Home for Orphans situated in Eaton Rapids, Mich.

VETS PLAN BONUS DRIVE

James E. Van Zandt (left) of Altoona, Pa., national commander of Veterans of Foreign Wars; Mrs. Winifred Toussaint of Jersey City, N. J., national president of V. F. W. women's auxiliary, and Henry F. Marquard of Chicago, judge advocate general, were among leaders who met yesterday to invite American Legion to join in united effort for immediate cash payment of bonus. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

MAENTANIS' ALLY IN HOLDUP TO GET PAROLE HEARING

Stern Penalty Urged in Lake Forest Case.

State's Attorney Charles E. Mason of Lake county yesterday received notice that on Nov. 4 the state parole board would consider how much time must be served in prison under the one year to life sentence imposed on Dominick Di Nardi, one of the five gunmen who raided the Lake Forest home of the William H. Mitchells on the night of Nov. 21, 1931. Di Nardi, the last of the five to be caught, was received at the Joliet penitentiary last Nov. 5.

One of Five Now Free.

Nick Maentanis, one of the five convicted of that $150,000 robbery, in which 19 persons were terrified and imperiled, was paroled from prison on Oct. 15 after he had served three years and eight months of a 1 year to life sentence.

The parole board at first decided that Maentanis and the three men convicted with him must serve eight years, and then reconsidered the case of Maentanis and shortened his imprisonment.

Lake Forest Aroused.

A storm of protest followed the early Maentanis parole. State's Attorney Mason, who had advised the board of his opposition to any clemency for the robbers, asserted he received no notice of the proposed liberation of Maentanis. The board declared a form letter had been sent to him.

"I am advised about this case," Mr. Mason said yesterday, "and I will go before the board personally and let them know what the people of Lake county think is proper punishment for a crime like the robbery of the Mitchell home."

ABE L. SHUSHAN, LONG HENCHMAN, SAYS HE'S DONE WITH POLITICS

New Orleans, La., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Abraham L. Shushan today resigned the presidency of the New Orleans levee board. He was acquitted last Thursday by federal jury of charges of income tax evasion.

In a letter to Gov. O. K. Allen, Shushan said he wished to retire to his private business. He was appointed president of the board in 1929 when Huey Long was governor and during his tenure Shushan airport was constructed in New Orleans. The government claimed Shushan received rebates from the construction company. Shushan claimed they were political contributions for the Long organization.

Shushan said he was through with politics. He is the second close associate of the late Senator Long to quit politics. Seymour Weiss, Long's political treasurer, against whom a similar federal indictment for tax evasion is pending, announced he was through shortly after Long was assassinated.

CITY PAYS SALES TAX ON WATER, BUT PLANS FIGHT

City Controler Robert B. Upham yesterday sent a check for $54,175 to the state department of finance in payment of the 3 per cent sales [occupance] tax on the city's sales of water to Chicago consumers and suburbs in July, August and September. The check was accompanied by a statement that the tax was being paid under protest.

Barnet Hodes, corporation counsel, announced that the city would file a petition in the Circuit court tomorrow for an injunction to restrain the department of finance from turning the money over to the state treasurer. The city claims that the 3 per cent tax is not applicable to its water sales.

Gary Police Hold 3 for Quiz in 'Boy Alderman's' Murder

Three men were being held by Gary police yesterday for questioning by federal agents as authorities of the Indiana city continued their investigation of the murder of Dan Perretta, 23 years old, youngest member of the Gary city council. Those held are Ernest Fansome, alias Daniel Lamotte, 31 years old, an ex-convict; Fanora Barthole, 38 years old, and Gabriel Barracchia, 37 years old. Perretta, an expressed foe of gambling, was found slain Thursday.

CIVIL WAR VET TAKES SNIFTER; $1,800 VANISHES

When a man reaches the age of 89 and has been a civil war drummer he ought to know better than to fill up on hard liquor when he has $1,800 in his pocket. With such self-condemnation yesterday John O'Brien rocked sadly in his room at 801 South Kedzie avenue, stroked his white beard and retold the story which he had recited to the Marquette police of drawing his savings from a bank to buy himself a marble tombstone and a coffin.

At 10 a. m. Wednesday he buttoned the cash securely in his pocket and set out to a tavern. At 4 p. m. a friend helped him home. Thursday morning he discovered the loss of his $1,800.

"I never thought a few drinks 'ud hurt a man, so I always took my liquor straight," he said dolefully. "But when a man can't keep his head any longer he oughta stop. Now straight liquor or crooked liquor, I'm through."

Green, Defender of Zenge, Weds Curwood Jr.'s Widow

Attorney Joseph E. Green, who recently defended Mandeville Zenge in his trial for the mutilation murder of Dr. Walter J. Bauer, was married to Mrs. James Oliver Curwood Jr. at Waukegan last Tuesday, it was learned yesterday. Curwood, son of the late novelist, was killed in an airplane accident in 1930. Before her marriage Mrs. Curwood was Helen Ford, a daughter of District Judge William Ford of White Sulphur Springs, Mont.

ELDERS TO RULE WARLESS NATION, TOWNSEND SAYS

Crowd Cheers His Vision of Utopian World.

A picture of Utopian existence for old folks and everybody else "when the Townsend pension plan becomes law" was painted last night by Dr. Francis E. Townsend in an address to the Townsendite convention in the Stevens hotel. And the law, he predicted, will be passed at the next session of congress.

Dr. Townsend asserted that he saw in the offing a nation free of crime and war and ruled by a council of elders, "the cream of their states," retired persons enjoying the $200 a month which the plan will pay to all persons over 60 who promise to spend it all and not work a lick.

Townsend's View of Future.

"Our work is not yet done," Dr. Townsend declared. "Let us look far ahead, to the years after our pension plan has become a reality.

"I envisage an orderly, designed democratic government in America. Immediately after we have captured the government, we shall have the program laid out years in advance. The first thing we must do is formulate a plan of national education along political, economic and social lines, taught by the best men and women we can find.

"Second, we must have a national election by states—each state to choose one man and one woman to represent it as 'citizens emeritus.' These people will probably be selected from the older, retired class, and will be the cream of their states. They will meet in national conclave to lay out the educational program."

Crowd Cheers Proposal.

This proposal made a hit with the large audience and there were loud cheers.

"Anything that can be conceived by the human mind for the benefit of humanity can be accomplished," Dr. Townsend continued. "America is to continue to play the rôle of supernation. Warfare will be no more. We shall become united as a world of happy people. So it will be throughout the world in a short time. To me it seems to be the design of the Creator."

Sheridan Downey, who presided at the meeting, predicted that Dr. Townsend and R. E. Clements, co-authors of the pension plan, would "stand with men like Washington," in American history.

It was disclosed yesterday that Earle J. Christenberry, secretary of the late Senator Huey P. Long, was one of the principal arrangers for the Townsendite gathering.

Before his identity was learned Christenberry was noticed on the speakers' platform next to the rostrum whispering frequently with leaders of the movement. Various delegates and officials said they did not know who he was.

"I'm managing this convention," said Christenberry after he was recognized. "That's my line of work and I had to get back into it after the senator died. I've managed more than 1,900 conventions."

Christenberry said he knew of no plan to merge the Townsendites and the believers in Long's "share the wealth" gospel, adding, however, that the Townsend plan was "another road" to Long's objective. He said his political associates in Louisiana were not aware of his interest in the Townsend movement.

More power was centralized in the hands of the national officers of the movement by resolutions adopted yesterday. For the first time substantial opposition developed to the proposals of the leaders, but the well managed Townsend enthusiasts thundered down the "no's" with jubilant "ayes."

Leaders Control Politics.

One resolution gave national headquarters the right to decide which political candidates are acceptable to the movement instead of having the clubs decide such matters. Another gave headquarters the privilege of deciding where to hold the 1936 convention, although the 6,000 delegates were permitted to hear the sales talks of representatives of various cities and states. Still another resolution banned the purchase of Townsend plan literature from "unauthorized" sources.

FALL AND WIFE FIGHT TO SAVE HOME ON NEW MEXICO RANCH

Alamogordo, N. M., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Albert B. Fall, secretary of the interior in President Harding's cabinet, took action today to prevent his eviction from his Three Rivers ranch home.

Fall and his wife filed a motion in the District court to vacate a decree which gave title to his friend the late Edward L. Doheny. Fall, after his resignation from the Harding cabinet, later served a prison term for accepting a bribe. Doheny, accused of giving the bribe, was acquitted.

For several weeks the threat of eviction has faced the Falls as a result of the sale of a mortgage on the ranch to the Palomas Cattle company. Fall says the mortgage did not include the actual house.

Oil Discoverer's Wife Entitled to Half Fortune

Dallas, Tex., Oct. 26.—(AP)—The fifth court of civil-appeals held today that Mrs. L. A. Joiner, former wife of C. N. Joiner, was entitled to half of their community property, estimated at between $1,000,000 and $3,000,000. Joiner discovered the East Texas oil field. A district court previously held Mrs. Joiner was not entitled to any of the property by reason of a signed agreement. After Joiner obtained a divorce in Mexico in 1933 he married his secretary.

Unusual Travels Recited to Geographic Society

With word and film yesterday three returned travelers told of their wanderings last summer at the annual post vacation luncheon of the Geographic Society of Chicago in the Palmer house. More than 1,000 members and guests heard John T. McCutcheon, cartoonist of THE TRIBUNE, and Mrs. McCutcheon tell of their 13,000 mile trip by airplane and the Graf Zeppelin over four continents, and Dr. John A. Hutter of De Paul university tell of his adventures in Colombia and other parts of South America.

UNITED MINORITY AT SPECIAL TERM URGED BY SEARCY

"Pass Good Bills, Fight New Deal," Is Plea.

BY STANLEY ARMSTRONG.

Earl B. Searcy of Springfield, minority leader in the state senate, proposed yesterday that the Republicans in both houses of the general assembly, which convenes in special session at 8 p. m. tomorrow, unite in their action on legislation submitted by the Democratic administration.

The senator's proposal was set forth in a letter to Representative Leroy M. Green of Rockford, house minority leader. He suggested that a joint caucus of house and senate Republicans be held either the first week of the session or the week following. The purpose, he said, would be to adopt a program so that the minority expressions would be "definite, intelligent and constructive."

Urges Support of Good Bills.

"I have neither ambition nor intent personally to oppose administration proposals merely because they originate from Democratic sources," wrote Searcy. "Whatever measures that may be proposed that are manifestly for the public good, I conceive it a duty of Republicans as well as of Democrats within the assembly to support.

"On the other hand there may be measures proposed of New Deal or other inception that will merit naught but the most vigorous opposition on the part of the minority. It is my hope that if such measures appear our minority action will be at least in the main united."

Gov. Horner's call for this first special session of the 59th general assembly listed 18 specific subjects that the legislators can consider. Among them are several topics likely to cause controversy. These are unemployment insurance, amendments to the occupational diseases act, the insurance code, and a driver's license law.

Mayor Backs Drivers' License.

The driving license legislation will have the support of Mayor Kelly, the mayor said yesterday after a conference with representatives of his Keep Chicago Safe committee and of the National Safety council. The bill on this subject will be for state-wide application, and not for Chicago alone as was contemplated recently, said the mayor. Experience of other cities with a city driver's license law has not been entirely satisfactory, the mayor was told during the conference.

It is believed that the state administration's bill for unemployment insurance will provide for a 1 per cent pay roll tax in conformity with the national social security act. It may be proposed to levy the tax on both employers and employés. The revenue could be held either in individual reserves built up by private concerns, or in a "state pool."

Old Age Law Amendments.

There will be amendments submitted to bring the state's old age pension law into compliance with the federal act, and amendments to the occupational diseases act because of an Illinois Supreme court decision invalidating portions of the law relating to providing safeguards for industrial hazards.

The insurance code is a voluminous bill that went through extended public hearings during the past regular session. Other subjects include legislation on working cash funds for boards of education in cities, issuance of bonds, and tax anticipation warants, and appropriations for the expenses of the session.

DEADLINE ON 1934 TAX PENALTIES FALLS THIS WEEK

County Treasurer Joseph L. Gill laid plans yesterday for the expected last minute rush of taxpayers on the penalty deadline this week for the payment of the 1934 taxes. The deadline, after which 1 per cent a month is added to unpaid real estate and personal property taxes, is Nov. 1. Mr. Gill said yesterday, however, that four days of grace, and no more, would be granted as a convenience to taxpayers, and for week-end payments by mail, inasmuch as Nov. 1 falls on a Friday. He announced that his office would be open for tax payments, without any penalty added, throughout Monday. All payments reaching his office on and after Nov. 5 are to be subject to the delinquency penalty.

The treasurer distributed $1,840,000 in 1933 and 1934 tax revenues to the major local taxing bodies yesterday. The bulk of that amount, $1,100,000, went to the city and the school board.

Liquor Dealer Is Enjoined from Cutting Whisky Price

Circuit Judge Benjamin P. Epstein issued yesterday an injunction to restrain Barney M. Needleman, proprietor of the Vim Wine and Liquor company, 805 North Ashland avenue, from selling a brand of whisky below a price of 98 cents a pint established between wholesalers and retailers. The suit had been brought by the Joseph Triner corporation, distributors of the brand, under the fair trade practices statute which became effective in July.

PLYMOUTH BUILDS GREAT CARS

MARTHA, MOSTLY IN ENGLISH, GETS GOOD RECEPTION

Afternoon's Audience Is Pleased by Effort.

"MARTHA."

THE CAST.

Lady Harriet.............Lucille Meusel
Nancy.........................May Barron
Lionel..........................Rolf Gerard
Plunkett...............Stefan Kozakevich
Sherif.....................Francesco Curci
Tristan.........................Natale Cervi

Conductor, Carlo Peroni.

Followed by the San Carlo Opera ballet in a ballet divertissements program. Mlle. Lydia Arlova, première danseuse; Lucien Prideaux, premier danseur.

BY HAZEL MOORE.

During the first act of Flotow's "Martha," in the San Carlo production at the Auditorium yesterday afternoon, with two attractive American girls, Lucille Meusel and May Barron, in the cast, the thought occurred that here was the perfect opera for Gallo company to sing in English. And never was wish so quickly gratified, at least in part, for lo, in the second act, Lionel and Plunkett, in the persons of Rolf Gerard and Stefan Kozakevich were singing in English, and entirely understandable English.

From that point on it became rather a game, with the score thus: Gerard, 100 per cent English; Kozakevich, about 90 per cent [for some reason he reverted to Italian in the third act]; Meusel, 10 per cent, all Italian with the exception of the "Last Rose of Summer," which custom prescribes should always be sung in English; May Barron, 50 per cent, although she was obviously prepared in either language and shifted obligingly from one to the other. The rest of the cast and chorus either retained the usual Italian or kept the language a deep secret from the audience.

Gallo's Plans Upset.

The point is that Mr. Gallo had planned for an immediate and completely English "Martha," but all of the cast had not completed the transition, hence the polyglotic choice of language yesterday. There can be no question as to the audience's enjoyment of the comedy by Kozakevich and the rest in the famous spinning wheel scene. Laughter greeted each line, and intentionally or not Mr. Gallo and his company became the best of propagandists for opera in English.

Aside from the question of language the performance had many points of merit. Miss Meusel is a delightful Lady Harriet. Miss Barron, too, was vocally well suited to the rôle of Nancy, though she has apparently not been quite trained to the necessary vivacity for the rôle.

A Fine Pair of Farmers.

The two who set the pace of the action were Gerard and Kozakevich, who not only made a fine looking pair of farmers but offered real singing characterizations. Kozakevich gave the best performance as Plunkett that he has done here, and his English was excellent in spite of a slight accent. Gerard continued the good impression of his first appearance.

An added attraction to the afternoon's bill was offered in a set of divertissements by the hardworking and efficient San Carlo ballet, headed by the lithesome Mlle. Lydia Arlova and her partner, Lucien Prideaux.

OPERA LOVERS GATHER

Operatic clans are gathering rapidly for the opening of the Chicago City Opera season next Saturday night at the Civic Opera house. Edith Mason, Helen Jepson, and Franko Forest have already arrived. This morning Conductor Richard Hageman will reach here from the east to prepare for his second night's performance of "Don Giovanni."

Mr. Hageman is returning from a lengthy sojourn in Europe, where his opera, "Caponsacchi," has been performed with great success. He is well known in Chicago, having conducted with the former Chicago Opera company and at the Ravinia opera in the woods.

FORMER CHICAGO SINGER QUITS JOB IN BERLIN OPERA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 26.—Alexander Kipnis, after scoring a triumph in the Berlin opera, has asked Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Prussian premier and reichsminister of aviation, to release him from a two year contract. Goering accepted his resignation.

The artist, who was formerly with the Chicago Civic opera, returned from South American engagements last week and found antagonism against Jews had become so strong that he felt it impossible to continue his work in Germany. Kipnis was the last Jewish singer in Berlin's former royal opera. Both Kipnis and the German opera chiefs sought to bring about the separation in the most correct form possible.

The Germans tried to induce Kipnis to sing at Bayreuth last season and also this next season, since they lack a dramatic basso, but Kipnis turned down the offer. He will now go to the Vienna opera and will then sing in the Covent Garden and tour England. His family, now in Chicago, will join him in England in December.

Collapses in Theater

LA ARGENTINA.
[Acme Photo.]

After giving her first group of dances, Mme. Argentina, who has been suffering from a liver complaint, collapsed backstage and was ministered to by a physician.

However, when she had been revived during the intermission, the artist returned to the stage and danced again, to the applause of the audience. She will leave this morning for Kansas City, where she is scheduled to appear.

$1,000 Raised for Prizes at Artists' Costume Ball

More than $1,000 was raised last night in the Fifth Annual Artists' and Old Masters' costume ball held in the main ball room of the Drake hotel, Robert B. Harshe, director of the Chicago Art Institute said last night. Proceeds will be used to provide prizes for the American Oil Exhibit, now showing at the Art Institute, and for the Chicago exhibition to be held next March. More than 1,000 persons attended the ball.

Warant Charges Forgery in Connection with Will

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Fred Steeger, 42, of Philadelphia, was arrested today in the district attorney's office on a warant from Los Angeles, charging him with forgery. Detective Curning, who made the arrest, said Steeger had been questioned several times recently in connection with a will disposing of an estate of $400,000.

27,256 AIR RAID SHELTERS BUILT FOR PARISIANS

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Oct. 26.—Paris has now 27,256 bombproof shelters as refuges for the population in case of air raids. These will be sufficient to serve 1,761,000 persons, police authorities announced today.

This announcement was occasioned by numerous questions to the police regarding placards which have just been placed at every home and apartment house giving directions as to what to do in case of an air attack. This notice directs persons to go to the nearest shelter and thousands of questions have been received asking the police to indicate where shelters are located.

Throughout the summer exceptionally active squads have been digging in various centers of the city, and it is now thought many of these were occupied in shelter construction instead of subway building as inferred by the casual observer.

On Aug. 5 Miss Renee Villon, a "peacock dancer," was sentenced by Municipal Judge Edgar A. Jonas to thirty days in jail on a charge of performing an indecent dance on the stage of a loop theater. Yesterday Judge Jonas allowed her motion for a new trial and then changed the sentence to a $50 fine, which she paid, ending the case.

AMONG FORGOTTEN MEN IN HISTORY.

Lawrence Kinnaird of the University of California has rescued for the general reader one of the forgotten men of history whose merit was beyond the forgotten dust into which he disappeared. [Clark-Leyba Papers. October number American Historical Review]. The documents are in the Cuban records of the Spanish Indies Archives. Fernando de Leyba was Spanish lieutenant governor of St. Louis at the time George Rogers Clark and his expedition occupied Cahokia, across the Mississippi. Clark arrived to take the French town and Leyba to take his post almost simultaneously, and from then until death in 1780 the Spaniard was to be friend and supply agent of the American conquest of the northwest. Credit has gone to many other persons, much of it deservedly to Francis Vigo, to Oliver Pollock, and to Galvez, the Spanish governor of Louisiana Territory. Leyba has been buried in the archives. Here in the territory of the Clark conquest he deserves a better fate.

Historians have had a preoccupation with other sources of material than the Spanish. In consequence, the important contributions of Spain to the success of the American revolution are obscured. Spain was an enemy of the side it aided. There was at no time any illusion regarding that. Madrid played the American game merely to get rid of the British, and the new republic was next on its program when the more formidable enemy was out of the way. Results do not necessarily take their complexion from motives. Spain prevented the occupation of the Ohio valley and the Mississippi by the British. Clark could not have succeeded without this help and if it had been merely in supplies his work might have been entirely undone by British conquest of the Mississippi.

In the long run of events it was fortunate for the United States that coincidental with the American revolution there was a flash of strength in the Spanish colonial policy. Under Florida Blanca in Madrid and his able Louisiana governor, Galvez, Spanish colonial government on the American mainland was suddenly galvanized into energy. When Spain entered the war as an ally of France, not of America, expeditions swept out of New Orleans into British Florida and stopped an elaborately conceived campaign which contemplated the use of the British navy based on Pensacola, clearing the Mississippi to Natchez, where the fleet would be joined by a force from Canada, largely Indian. The Spanish carried their arms as far north as St. Joseph, Mich., which they captured. The British threat on Clark's flank was dissipated and he was permitted to remain in military occupation of the Northwest Territory.

The part the unfortunate Leyba played in this was to ruin himself financially in providing Clark with supplies. He pledged his personal credit with the traders of St. Louis and was energetic in giving the Americans the equipment without which they could hardly have maintained themselves. He acted, it is true, entirely in the Spanish service. It was the wish of Galvez and Leyba was carrying out his master's orders. Clark's letters to him and his letters to Clark show that there was a real personal attachment, enhanced by frequent meetings in which Clark became a familiar of Leyba's family. Leyba stood behind Vigo, to whom much credit for the supplies of Clark has been given, and Clark drew on him frequently for needed material.

Clark's purchases were paid for in continental scrip and Virginia tokens or by I. O. U.'s. The paper money rapidly depreciated and became valueless, and the principal traders who had it in their hands, Vigo and Pollock being the best remembered victims, were for years unheeded plaintifs at the door of the American treasury. Leyba himself succumbed in the wreck of his fortunes, as his wife did before him, and died in St. Louis. Both were buried in a St. Louis church, one in 1779 and the other in 1780. Leyba's letter to Galvez about a half year before his death appeals to his superior's sense of justice for the protection of his little daughters in his desperate situation. He recites the fact of his wife's collapse and death under misfortune, of his undermined health and the poverty facing his daughters.

"The coming of the Americans to this district has ruined me utterly," he writes. "Several inhabitants of this town, who put their property in the hands of these Americans to please me, find themselves in the same situation, and these losses are equally a matter of regret to me with my own, since I consider myself the immediate cause of them. But what was there for me to do with your lordship's orders except to come to their aid in view of the fact that even the principal leader, however many American documents he brought"—one was a letter from Gov. Patrick Henry—"had no shirt to cover his nakedness? I accomplished this on my credit with all the inhabitants so that they might provide these Americans with whatever they needed. This measure relieved them from their affliction and I was left as hostage, since I became bondsman for ten thousand pesos [as is clear from the receipts that I have in various places in this post, which must be paid]."

He concludes with the appeal: "Therefore, in company with my weeping little daughters, I implore your lordship's protection for the collection of these bills of exchange. I do not doubt that your chivalrous heart will grant it to me, at least out of pity for these innocent little girls, even though it be necessary to appeal to the court."

Here is apparently one of history's forgotten men. The two standard biographies of Clark, by Temple Bodley and James Alton James, ignore him. R. G. Thwaites in his work in A. B. Hart's compendious, twenty-eight volume edition of the American Nation, mentions him once by name in a brief sentence. When sentiment is taking any account of the value of the northwest conquest to the territorial integrity of the United States some memorial might well be devoted to Fernando de Leyba.

THE MAP OF THE WORLD.

The first page of today's Graphic section presents a map of the world in colors which register the political control of the territory shown. Maps are always fascinating, and this one, as the Graphic editor notes, should be especially interesting at a moment when two great world powers are engaged in momentous enterprises of territorial expansion.

Most impressive perhaps at first glance is the huge mass that represents the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics. The impression needs some qualification, as the editor warns, as the curvature of the globe when a flat map is made gives a disproportionate appearance to the masses toward the poles. Thus Russia, Canada, and Greenland are not as large in proportion to the United States and the countries of the central regions of the globe as they seem.

Perhaps another observation may be made. The significance of territory is not merely in its size. Quality is more important, and quality is determined by location, by physical factors such as climate, natural resources, and character of population. Thus the United States looks small compared to Russia, but when compared qualitatively no American would be tempted to favor an exchange. Russia includes a vast expanse of arctic and subarctic territory, a region containing resources, notably forests, not yet developed. What the net value of these resources may prove to be no one can reliably say. They may include rich minerals, coal, iron, gold and silver, oil. But the net value of the more important minerals, coal and iron, and that of the great forests depends upon location, upon transport, and unfortunately this factor is not favorable. Siberia has great rivers which would provide cheap transport if they did not all run the wrong way.

Contrast this situation with our own, in which our waterways run as if we had planned them wisely for our own convenience. Our iron and coal are not separated by great distances as the Russian mines are, and therefore our manufacture does not carry a heavy factor of transport cost. We have not only much richer resources of natural wealth but they are conveniently located. Thus an arc which compared to the vast expanse of the Russian territory seems comparatively modest is in fact a continent ideally situated in the temperate zone, blessed with the richest resources, agricultural and mineral, with great rivers and lake thoroughfares so disposed as to give cheap and convenient transport. We need not enter into invidious comparisons of people or institutions. Our point is only that our map does not tell the whole story of the fortune of nations.

But rightly read the map reveals a more significant fact than the wide spreading expanse of Russia. Let the eye follow the red and pink around the globe. They represent the power and possessions of the British people, the British empire, now the British commonwealth of nations. Here is no compact mass, but regions widely scattered. Study the location of these spots of red and pink. It will reveal not weakness but strength. It includes some of the richest regions of the globe and represents a strategic design which, however haphazard its evolution may seem to have been in history, has planted British power along all the main lines of communication of the globe and at the heart of every quarter of the globe. It has been the greatest synthesis of economic, political, and military force contrived by the expanding energy and foresight of modern peoples. What its future is to be it would be hazardous to predict. An era of world-wide disturbance is not conducive to its welfare. National and racial aspirations within its frame endanger its unity, its survival. Expanding ambitions of other nations invade its sphere of interest and influence. But its entrenchments are deep and the skill of its diplomacy unsurpassed.

Very small on the map are Ethiopia and Italy, but their entanglement has threatened the whole fabric of international relations. Very small likewise look Japan and Manchuria, but the expanding force inclosed within these narrow boundaries may reach far to shake the peace of nations and remake a good part of the map of the world. The fate of swarming millions is in flux. The colors of our map are not fixed. All we know today is that they will shift and fuse and make a new picture tomorrow.

DRIVING THE CHURCHES ON THE ROCKS

BY REMBERT GILMAN SMITH, D. D.

The radical propaganda radiating from the Methodist Federation of Social Service, from the New York east, and the New England annual conferences, from certain Methodist ministers, and papers, has been very patiently endured by the body of Methodist laymen, but some of them have lately realized that the welfare of their church was imperiled, and that their loyalty to it forbade their longer silence.

Accordingly, Henry S. Henschen of Winnetka, Ill., Wilbur Helm of Chicago, Carl F. Keck of Milwaukee, Wis., and Ernest M. Sims of Elkhart, Ind., sent out a call to midwest Methodist laymen for a meeting. It was held in Chicago on June 29. About thirty-five leading laymen from Ohio, Indiana, Wisconsin, and Missouri came to this meeting. After careful discussion of the matter, a committee was appointed to formulate a statement for the church and the public. The committee was C. O. Loucks, Chicago, chairman; former Gov. Arthur M. Hyde, Trenton, Mo., Carl F. Keck, Milwaukee, Wis., T. W. Appleby, Cincinnati, O., Ernest M. Sims, Elkhart, Ind. This committee wrote the following statement, which will be an epochal and history making deliverance:

"The fundamental object of the Methodist Episcopal church is the building of Christian character. The message of the church is personal, individual. True Christianity relies for its impact on social and economic conditions, upon the work of individuals who have accepted the philosophy of Christianity and have ordered their lives by it."

"Economic and social systems operate upon mankind in the mass. They are the result of social evolution throughout the centuries. In themselves they are mechanistic in character, impersonal in operation, and not primarily interested in men and women, nor in their hopes, aspirations, or characters."

"Between the philosophy of Christianity, with its emphasis upon the personal relationship and responsibility of man to man and man to God, and the philosophy of economic determinism which relates all human happiness to economic reward, we feel that there is essential and inevitable conflict."

"Therefore, it is the sense of this group that when the pulpit and the religious press substitute economic and social systems for the Christian ideal of individual responsibility and freedom of choice, they are losing sight of their fundamental objectives."

"We call upon Methodist ministers and laymen everywhere to join us in the study of the problem growing out of the conflict between these two opposing philosophies. We, therefore, recommend that the movement among the laity begun in this meeting be encouraged, and that a continuing committee be appointed so that the problems as they arise may be thoroughly studied and facts developed that may be disseminated."

Besides the five members of the committee, this statement was signed by thirty-one laymen.

The reaction of the radical Methodist press and leaders to this statement has been rather hostile. They have charged that these laymen are attempting to dictate to the preachers for the protection of their money, and that they are claiming that, as they pay the fiddlers, they have a right to call the tunes. One prominent editor has unfoundedly declared that these laymen are protesting against the pulpit or press crying out against the injustices of the times. This is itself an injustice to these laymen, who are doing nothing of the kind. As one result of this reaction of the radicals, B. J. Denman of Evanston, Ill., announced that he had decided to withdraw from the church. Two unnamed bishops have been quoted in approbation of the action of the laymen, and the radicals are calling for their names. The signs of schism in the Methodist Episcopal church are quite visible.

The harmony among the Roman Catholic clergy in this country is sadly reduced because of the political agitations of Father Charles E. Coughlin of the Shrine of the Little Flower, Royal Oak, Mich., whose deliverances on nearly all of the fiscal and political problems of this turbulent hour are uttered with most confident dogmatism, and with the approbation of his immediate superior in the church, Michael James Gallagher, bishop of Detroit. This priest claims also that he is only obeying the clear doctrinal commands of the pope, Pius XI., and of his predecessor, Leo XIII., as set forth in certain encyclicals.

But William Cardinal O'Connell of Boston, who officially outranks the Detroit bishop and priest, asserts that Father Coughlin and Bishop Gallagher are misinterpreting the encyclicals of the popes and that they are injuring the church and the nation by so doing. To this Father Coughlin heatedly replies by charging the cardinal with long drawn out disobedience to the popes, and he insinuates in very sharp sarcasm that he has been serving the plutocrats as faithfully as Cardinal Wolsey did the king. Father Coughlin also complains that the cardinal has criticised him publicly when it should have been done, if at all, privately. He seems to forget that he continuously uses the radio and the press.

In reply Cardinal O'Connell sharply attacks those who "stir uprisings and create discontent in the hearts of the poor," and he refers to "disturbing voices, shouting, yelling, and screaming, with a voice that seems to ring with a sort of sham infallibility." He declares that "the Christian principle is not to fight with our neighbors and call names and stir uprisings and create discontent in the hearts of the poor, pretending to alleviate them when they are only making them worse. Oftentimes the faith of our good people is tested by these shouters and shriekers who would be much better occupied by bringing peace and concord among the Christian people of the land and not anarchy, disturbance, and discontent!"

In Germany, Russia, and Mexico sherifs and soldiers are arresting and locking up preachers and priests who refuse to obey the orders of tyrannical, totalitarian states. This is, in part, the result of the attempted dictation of churches in affairs of government. Politicians are retaliating against prelates. The church that undertakes to divide among men political power and material property will fail in the undertaking and will suffer dreadful reprisals. Though appealed to to divide the inheritance between the two brothers, Jesus declined. Some of his followers today, priests, prelates, preachers—though they have not been asked to do it—are rushing into this territory from which Jesus withheld his feet. Who is wise—he or they?

These are indeed sifting times for religion around the world. Much chaff is falling to the ground to be trodden under feet of men, the chaff of mundane methods, of political procedures, of worldly compromises; nevertheless, much good chaffless wheat will be made better for the feeding of the souls of men. In eating of it they will be made better citizens of this world and prepared for the world that is to come. A few years ago a politically excited bishop wrote: "We ought to care less about whether or not we are going to heaven and more about who is going into the White House!" Having failed in his effort to get his friend into the White House, it is to be hoped that the attention of the bishop has turned back to the matter of getting to heaven and that he will recall his flippant exhortation to his flock and urge them "to flee from the wrath to come and be saved from their sins."

Let the preachers perform their special functions. In the most highly developed organisms no organ interferes with another, but each does its own task for the good of the whole. In society the highest welfare is reached when the several organs—the family, the school, the church, the state—function, each in its separate sphere, thus avoiding waste, confusion, conflict. History, as well as scientific analogy, warns, in clear and loud voice, all priests, preachers, prelates, churches to refrain from politics. When they heed not there is not progress, but reaction; not advance, but retreat.

A NEW DRUG PROBLEM.

CANNABIS INDICA is a drug of great antiquity but of little value in medicine. Homer in the "Odyssey" tells of the assuager of grief or nepenthes, and it is highly probable that this was the hemp plant. Galen, the Roman physician, observed that it was customary to give hemp to guests at banquets to increase hilarity. Ludlow, in "The Hasheesh Eater," says: "At the mere vestibule of the temple I could have sat and drunk in ecstasy forever, but lo! I am yet more blessed. On silent hinges the doors swing open and I pass in."

The drug is known under several names, such as hasheesh, cannabis indica, Indian hemp, and marihuana. Because of the ease with which the plant is grown its narcotic properties are employed throughout the world, not so much by physicians as by those who seek drug intoxication. Although its use is common in tropical and semi-tropical regions it did not invade the United States until within recent years.

The effect of the drug on the mental state is quite marked. Following an average dose, ideas flow easily and rapidly and time seems without end. The exhilaration lasts for an hour or two and is succeeded by irritability, dozing, and complete recovery in five or six hours. Poisonous doses are rarely if ever reported.

Observers have noted that the degree of intoxication varies with the individual disposition; some persons will react violently to relatively small doses, while others will be but slightly affected by a large amount. It may stimulate some and sadden others; increase the feeling of sympathy or tenderness, or bring out the worst side of the user's character. Some may be invigorated, others nauseated and weakened.

The typical stimulating effect is described by Robinson as "a flow of laughter let loose." Senseless mirth, boisterousness, and jollity overcome the victim. He wants to sing or make a speech. His arms move, he kicks his feet, he tells a story [that usually has no point], and howls with derision at the mention of some of the world's greatest names. The imagination runs riot.

During the excitement stage the pulse is quickened and the face flushed. When the effect of the drug begins to wear away periods of churlishness or anger may follow with intermittent stages of hilarity. Sleep finally comes. Frequently on waking there is a dull headache and a feeling of nausea and fatigue amounting in some cases to prostration. The head feels as large as a bushel basket. Unless sleep again can be wooed a miserable day ensues. If eight or nine hours of natural sleep can be secured few symptoms will follow the debauch.

After it is all over, if the now sober individual is asked to relate his sensations he may tell of beautiful music the like of which he never heard before. His body was lighter than air; he was floating on a magic carpet that transported him to wonderland.

Walter Bromberg says that in certain parts of our country one out of every four persons is a marihuana smoker, and he notes that in North America during the last five years the increase in the use of Indian hemp has become a real problem. From Kentucky comes the report that whereas 35 years ago the frequency of narcotic addiction was [1] morphine, [2] cocaine, and [3] chloral hydrate, now it is barbituric acid, marihuana, and morphine in the order named. It has been estimated that there are thousands of marihuana smokers in New York City alone.

From the above description it is obvious that the drug is a powerful intoxicant, one that releases the inhibitions and breaks down the moral control built up by the individual. It strips the user of every semblance of modesty and self-respect.

COLLAPSED LUNG.

E. R.: A recent examination disclosed a cavity in my upper right lung and collapsing the lung was advised. Will you explain this treatment?

REPLY.

There are three methods used: [1] Artificial pneumothorax, which introduces filtered air into the pleural space on diseased side of chest. The effect of this procedure is purely mechanical, similar to applying a "splint" to the lung. This must be carried on for at least two or three years and, in some cases, indefinitly. It is usually restricted to patients in whom only one lung is affected, although simultaneous bilateral pneumothorax is fairly common. [2] Thoracoplasty, in which sections of each of the ribs on the diseased side are removed. Excellent results follow this method, especially in advanced cases. [3] Phrenicotomy, in which one-half the diaphragm is paralyzed by crushing the phrenic nerve. This produces a temporary paralysis of about three months' duration and is advised when adhesions prevent pneumothorax.

These operations are not dangerous in the hands of skilled surgeons and are to be used when bed rest does not bring about repair of the diseased lung.

REPORTS NOT TRUE.

Mrs. L. J. S. writes: I recently read a news item about a man who had grown four sets of teeth. Is anything known about the scientific reasons for growing extra sets of teeth when needed? I am facing a lot of bridge work right now and would like to know if there are any vitamins, minerals, or hormones that will do the trick?

REPLY.

Of course such reports are rubbish. There has never been an authenticated case.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MANILA—Making its second thrust in 15 years against the so-called Japanese menace in the islands, the Philippine government has again found it necessary to retreat temporarily.

Land is the present bone of contention. After proving to its satisfaction that Japanese individuals and corporations have been acquiring public lands by circumventing the laws banning aliens from the public domains, the government decreed the cancelation of leases granted in the names of Filipinos and Americans but which are actually in the control of Japanese.

Most of the holdings involved are in Davao, Mindanao, where at least 7,000 Japanese have settled, controling the economic life of the province, and dominating strategic Davao bay, the southern gateway of the Philippines.

But the government seems to be backing out in its action against the Japanese. Reports reaching Manila the other day stated that 5,000 members of the Davao Japanese association held a massmeeting to denounce the cancelation order. Sensational news dispatches reported the matter in a graver aspect, stating that the Davao Japanese had become restive and threatening and might stage a local uprising, thus forcing Tokio's intervention.

The truth is that the Davao Japanese behaved respectfully, denouncing the order, it is true, but not hurling threats against the government. What the dispatches missed was that M. Furukawa, leading Japanese in the province, had been secretly sent to Tokio to seek Japanese intervention and that an official of the foreign office in Tokio, attached to the American division, is in Davao investigating the Japanese side of the matter.

Shortly after the Japanese massmeeting the government suspended its cancelation order, pending, it was stated, further study of the Japanese angle.

The government's activities tending to correct anomalies in the application of the land law is regarded as due to the fact that in the Independence law the control of the public domain is for the first time left entirely in the hands of the insular legislature.

Although, technically speaking, the present "land purge" is not the actual start of the Philippines in using the new grant of powers, it can be construed as having been motivated by it. If this is true, the islands, instead of starting with a bang, began with a fumble. With Tokio concerned and Washington, according to reports, adopting a hands off policy, Manila has shown signs of weakening in the face of Japanese displeasure.

It is not the first time, however, that this has happened. During the world war, when the price of hemp, so essential to the navies of the world, soared to unprecedented levels, the Japanese began to colonize Davao quietly. When the war was over they had settled, acquired or squatted on practically one-third of the agricultural area of the province. The legislature awoke to the situation in 1918 and immediately passed the so-called anti-alien law.

Some 30 of the leading Japanese corporations were caught by the law. They had not perfected their titles to the lands they occupied and, under the new law, they could have been summarily deprived of their holdings. But the Japanese waged a quiet fight in Manila, Tokio and Washington, and won. Francis Burton Harrison, then governor general, urged the legislature to pass a special law legalizing the holdings of practically all these corporations and the legislature complied.

In the present case the anti-alien land law was in full force during all the time that the Japanese went around it in order to acquire the areas they needed. Their favorite method has been to set up dummy corporations ostensibly with Americans or Filipinos owning the majority of the shares. Another equally successful scheme has been for Japanese citizens to marry natives of the place and then to acquire portions of the public domain in the names of the new wives.

DIVORCE DECREE.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Do marriages become annulled automatically after separation of parties concerned for a specified period in this state? 2. If so, how many years of separation are required? 3. Where a decree is granted to wife, giving her custody of two children with provision that husband pay a certain sum monthly toward their support "until further order of this court," what is procedure as children become of age? 4. Can husband discontinue half of payment when first child attains legal age and stop remitting entirely when second child becomes of age without any legal or court proceedings? E. M. B.

1. No.
2. See 1.
3. If the word children is used it probably implies that there shall be no payments after they become of age. We cannot advise to advantage without having the wording of the decree before us.

DEED TO PROPERTY.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I was appointed administrator of my parents' estate. The property [a homestead] was left jointly to myself, my brother, and sister. A few months ago my sister agreed to buy the house, pay a down payment, and the rest monthly for our share of the property. So we had our lawyer draw up a land contract, which my brother and I signed. 1. Our lawyer [2] claims that we should sign the quitclaim deed to the property in favor of my sister before we receive our down payment. 3. My brother, who lives in Indiana, refuses to sign, saying his lawyer says that it isn't necessary until the property is paid for in full. 4. He also states the quitclaim deed should be filed or put in the bank until the property is paid for. 5. Please advise who is correct? Our lawyer claims to sign the quitclaim deed would protect our children. Isn't the land contract sufficient to do that? L. C.

1. He is in a better position to advise you than we are.
2. Such transactions are sometimes handled either way.
3. Offhand we would say that both lawyers are right. In other words, it is reasonable for the first lawyer to propose placing the deed in escrow, and it is reasonable for the second lawyer to reject the proposal.
4. This sounds as if he is agreeing with the first proposal. You have not made the facts clear enough to place us in a position to advise you.
5. See preceding answers.

CRIME AND PUNISHMENT.

Chicago, Oct. 15.—Will any judge, juryman, or lawyer tell me whether it is just, moral, or ethical for me and others like me—who have had nothing to do with any killing—to be made by decisions of judges and juries to provide in direct or indirect taxes for the food, clothing, shelter, keep and [nowadays] amusement of those who take another's life? Why should I be compelled to support for life such murderers or the criminally insane when electricity is so cheap and when every such person has some natural guardian always aware [well in advance of the killing] of his ward's queerness? Would it not be true justice to give the murderer that sole punishment which equals his crime; or to impose on the negligent natural guardian the cost of that support which his failure to control his ward made necessary?

NOT-WIT.

THE JUNIOR COLLEGES.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—To all the taxpayers of Chicago I am sincerely thankful and grateful for the junior colleges provided by the board of education of the city of Chicago. I am a student at one of the colleges, and although the financial condition of my family is worse now than it was when I entered the college, I have a broader viewpoint, I feel of more use to society, I have been occupied, and through the earnest effort of the splendid faculty I have been imbued with a desire to look on the brighter side of things and try to do my share.

A comparison between the rising cost of crime and the increasing number of young criminals with the cost of the junior colleges would immediately open our eyes as to which costs the less, and which you would rather pay.

A large percentage of the students are handicapped in some way. Some are cripples, many have to work part time, some are unable to buy all the necessary texts and many go without lunch in their eagerness for an education.

For each student that finishes at one of the junior colleges there has been added a certain amount in the arts, the sciences, literature, government, and industry to the wealth of the city, state, and nation. JAMES JOHNSON.

IF.

East Chicago, Ind., Oct. 18.—While the mournful and solemn military cortège, the funeral procession of Gen. Milton Foreman, is passing, with his body resting on a military carriage on the road to the grave, it would be well to meditate, if only for a moment, that this very same man, the highest ranking army officer in the state of Illinois, whose body is tenderly wrapped with the flag which he cherished and loved, and upon whom a great state and nation bestow their homage and tribute as a fine example of a true American and loyal patriot—that this very same man would find but a lonely and unknown grave either as an exile or refugee in some foreign country if Hitler and his Nazi cohorts in our own country would be masters over this land.

DARK.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—I wonder why the streets around the west side have such dim street lights? The streets near Garfield park, such as Van Buren, Gladys, etc., are practically dark. People are afraid to walk down the streets.

MISS MARY PETRAKOVIC.

GRAINS OF PURE GOLD.

New York, Oct. 17.—So many new things are being crowded into our lives—new inventions and discoveries, new ideas and sensations—that it is obvious a great deal of what we valued in the past will have to be thrown overboard. It therefore behooves every man and woman who was born before the close of the last century to ponder well and determine what things are really worth preserving from the past, and then to use every effort to keep them alive, leaving all the rest to perish if necessary. We shall not all think alike, but that does not matter so long as we do our sifting honestly. We must treasure the grains of pure gold wherever they are to be found.

I gladly acquiesce in the disappearance of many once familiar features, but there are certain things that I value which seem to me in danger of dying out. I would place first the pursuit of knowledge for its own sake apart from its vocational usefulness, and in particular an acquaintance with classical modes of thought. It is not necessary for all to learn Greek or Latin, but what a heritage he misses who has never come into contact with the humanism of the Greeks, with their many sidedness and their ideal of the "good life"! I think the spirit of amateurism, which means doing things for the love of doing them, is worth preserving, painful as many of its manifestations were in the past. The faculty of wonder, another Greek quality, is also in danger. We have grown old and blasé, and the glory of the world escapes us because we seem to have no wonder left.

Finally, I would like to preserve the graciousness of manner which was so much prized by our elders, but which the new generation is in too much of a hurry to practice, even when not deliberately eschewing it as a relic of the old insincerities which it rightly detests. It does not always realize that true graciousness comes from a fundamental sincerity and regard for the feelings of others. It entails a certain atmosphere of leisure, implying that we have time for something other than business or pleasure. GRENVILLE KLEISER.

THE BREAD TAX.

Oak Park, Ill., Oct. 19.—My husband and I own a bakery and I always read any articles in the papers in reference to that business.

Mr. Wallace's article in Thursday's TRIBUNE amused me. He is politely passing the buck. It most certainly is the policies of the AAA that have caused any increase in the price of bread. I wonder if the public knows that the processing tax on a barrel of flour is $1.38 plus a tax of 3 cents on the cotton bags it comes in, making a total tax of $1.41 a barrel; that on rye flour the mill price is $3.60 per barrel and the bakers have to pay $5.20, or a tax of $1.60 on each barrel. They also pay 50 cents per 100 pounds on sugar and ¾ cent per pound on shortening. After paying all this tax we must not raise the price or we will be profiteering. We are lucky to make ends meet let alone making any profit on our investment.

Why should the bakers as a class be singled out to pay the farmers for products they do not raise but which are imported into this country to make up the shortage? The price of meat is changed every day, but if the bakers raise the price of bread 1 cent there is a hue and cry. ELEANOR J. FOSMER.

GAMBLING BRIBE SCANDAL PERILS SPANISH REGIME

Dissolution of Parliament Seen as Outgrowth.

MADRID, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Dissolution of parliament and convocation of new elections was seen tonight as a possible outgrowth of a scandal in which eight prominent members of the radical party were allegedly connected with the opening of a gambling casino.

A usually reliable source declared that Foreign Minister Alejandro Lerroux and Minister of Education Juan José Rocha had presented their resignations, which have been accepted, effective after a special parliament session Monday night.

Fear Political Chaos.

It was believed political chaos might result if the radicals withdrew their seventy-four parliament votes from the government and if radicals declined to take the two portfolios which Premier Joaquin Chapaprieta is understood to be holding open for them.

Eight officials and former officials of the government—all radicals and including Aurelio Lerroux, the nephew of the foreign minister's adopted son, and former Minister of Interior Salazar Alonso—were involved in charges brought by Daniel Straus, Mexican citizen.

Claims $68,000 Paid.

In a letter to President Alcala Zamora, Straus declared he spent over 500,000 pesetas [about $68,000] in outlay to various officials and in expenses for opening a gambling casino, which was permitted to operate only three hours. He asserted he would have lost an additional 2,000,000 pesetas [about $272,000] if he had complied with all the demands made on him.

Straus asked an indemnity of 450,000 pesetas for himself and his copromoter, Justo Oyazabal, in addition to fees of their attorneys.

After a whirlwind investigation of Straus' charges, including an all night session, a committee of parliament recommended a thorough investigation by the courts. It proposed that those of the eight who now hold public office drop their functions until the investigation is ended.

SEEK TO LINK FORGER SUSPECT TO COW THEFT

Lancaster, Wis., Oct. 26.—[U. P.]—Grant county officials holding Robert H. Bond, 32, alias W. W. Mason, on charges of forging a $3,083 check sought today to link him with Illinois cattle rustling after foiling his attempt to break jail here.

The legitimacy of Bond's activities was suspected when he presented himself to Fred and Oscar Wienbergen, Platteville farmers, as a representative of the Peoria Distilling company, and gave them a $3,083 check indorsed W. W. Mason in payment for 32 cattle.

Shortly after two trucks left the farm with 20 of the cattle, Fred Wienbergen telephoned the Peoria firm which denied that it had authorized agents to make cattle purchases or that it knew anybody named W. W. Mason.

Wienbergen called Sherif Joe R. Greer, who pursued the trucks to Stockton, Ill., and returned the would-be buyer to Lancaster. The captive then told Sherif Greer that his correct name is Bond and that his home is Winterset, Ia.

Justice Richard Sweeney bound Bond over to the Circuit court under $2,000 bonds. Bond wished to plead guilty, Sherif Greer said. He is scheduled to come before Circuit Judge Sherman E. Smalley on Oct. 28.

Bond attempted to break jail the night after he was captured but officers caught him in the basement.

"We are checking with Illinois authorities in the belief that Bond has allies who may be involved in cattle activities in northern Illinois," Sherif Greer said.

Bond admitted that he is wanted in Iowa on check forgery charges and refuses to explain his recent whereabouts, Greer claimed.

Illinois cattle rustling has been serious recently, with a Kankakee farmer shot by gunmen believed to be rustlers.

Identifies Barefoot Man Found on West Side Street

A man who was found, barefooted and unconscious, on the sidewalk at 626 South Western avenue Friday night was identified at the County hospital last night as Harry Meyers, 45 years old, 4250 West Harrison street. The police advanced a theory that Meyers may have been beaten by a robber. He was still unconscious early today.

Fumes Kill Auto Owner; Death Believed Accident

Christ E. Engelbretsen, 47 years old, a motorman for the elevated lines, was found dead yesterday, overcome by exhaust fumes from his automobile in the garage behind his home at 5838 Patterson avenue. Irving Park police said the death appeared to be accidental.

11 FACE SUITS FOR UNPAID U. S. TAX ON LIQUORS

Manitowoc, Wis., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Tax liens totaling $17,050.80 today were filed against eleven Manitowoc county men under the internal revenue laws for money allegedly due the government as taxes on fermented liquors. Besides the taxes claimed, O. A. La Budde, Milwaukee internal revenue collector for Wisconsin, asks penalties totaling $852.54.

Those against whom liens are filed are: Joseph Hoffman, Hugo Hoffman, Richard Gauthier, Raymond Young, Lester Laurenz, and A. B. Stone of Two Rivers; Richard Rolland, James Rolland, Paul Mangin, and Thomas Sullivan of Maple Grove, and Antone Kornely of Two Rivers.

Filing of the liens is an aftermath of two raids made in the county last year by federal agents.

Rumania Crown Prince, 14, Given an Auto on Birthday

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Fourteen year old Crown Prince Michael of Rumania had a new automobile today, the gift of the Rumanian government on his birthday yesterday. Somewhat marring the boy's anniversary, however, was the fact that his father, King Carol, was ordered to bed because of a cold. Physicians said it was only a slight illness and bulletins would not be issued.

CUBA PROVIDES PENSIONS FOR NEWSPAPER MEN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Oct. 26.—A newspaper men's retirement law became effective today. It provides that newspaper men may retire on a pension at 50 provided they have worked at their trade in Cuba for 25 consecutive years. Newspaper men at 55 who have worked for 20 consecutive years would also be eligible.

In either case they would receive an annual pension equal to 75 per cent of their highest salary for one year. In every year Oct. 24, 25, and 26 will be devoted to benefit entertainments. Profits from these occasions, plus an annual lottery netting $350,000 and a 3 per cent monthly salary discount from all active newspaper men will provide the funds for the pensions.

A committee representing the National Press association, the Havana Reporters' association, and the foreign correspondents will handle the funds and award the pensions.

Germany to Leave Jewish Names on Old War Statues

BERLIN, Oct. 26.—(AP)—The propaganda ministry said today that Jewish names will be eliminated from all future war memorials, but that those already erected will not be touched. Paul Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda, recently circulated a letter to this effect through the ministry's subdivisions throughout the country, but a ministry spokesman said the order in no way affected memorials already standing.

AUSTRIA REVEALS WAR MACHINE IN BRILLIANT PARADE

Troops Take New Oath of Allegiance to Cabinet.

VIENNA, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Austria disclosed a modern military machine in a spectacular parade today. Officials said it was a great demonstration that the army is solidly behind Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg and his new cabinet.

What had been announced as a review to restore the old imperial colors to the regiments of the republic turned out to be a disclosure of a variety of new weapons.

Papen Wears Spiked Helmet.

Diplomatic circles buzzed with comment upon the appearance of Franz von Papen, German minister to Austria, in an old spiked German officer's helmet. His appearance awakened memory of the time Austria and Germany were allied.

Some diplomats speculated upon the effect of Austria's apparent disregard of treaty restrictions, which forbade the nation to have tanks, planes and heavy artillery.

Military observers saw little tanks and small cannon, mounted on rubber tired wheels and drawn by single horses. A squadron of 36 planes dipped in salute over Heroes' Square. Some were three motored bombers.

Monarchists Are Delighted.

In some quarters the belief was expressed that Bulgaria and Hungary, which also are restricted by treaties, might now insist upon having modern arms.

The old double eagle insignia fluttering over all Vienna gladdened the hearts of monarchists.

"It is an epoch-making day," said Baron H. K. Zessner-Spitzenberg, one of the most active campaigners for return of the Hapsburgs.

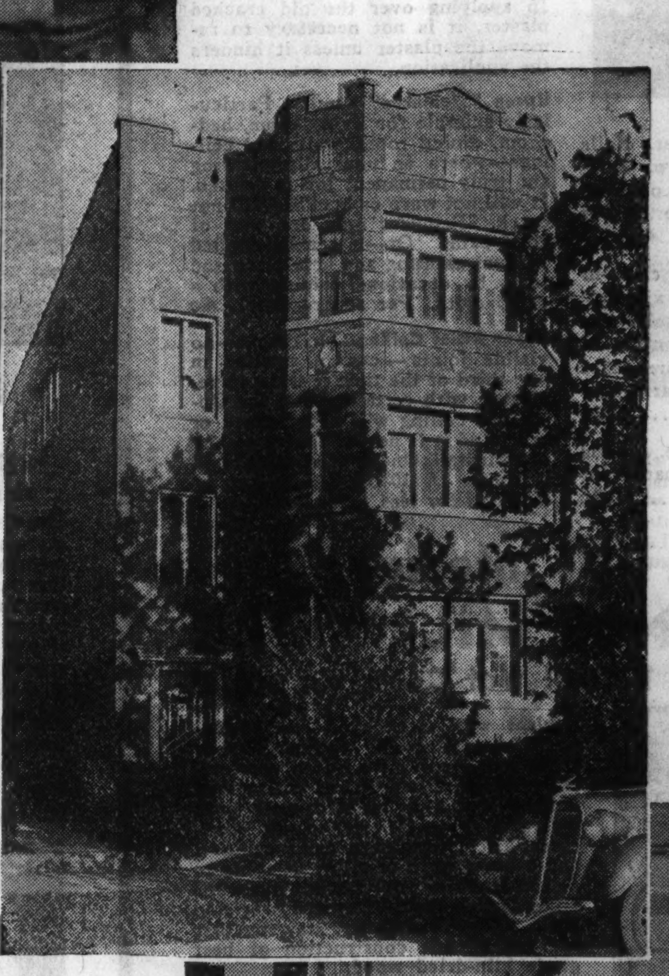
SYLVESTER MILCHZ, 9408 Calumet Ave., tells why he has invested in a three apartment building



"We found a three apartment at 8945 Justine Street, which we liked the best of all we saw."

"We decided that Chicago real estate is the best and safest investment"

"AS a mechanic with the Chicago Surface Lines, I had managed to save up a little money. For a long time I was puzzled as to how to invest it. From what I heard and from what I read, I decided that the best investment, the safest one I could find at this time, is Chicago real estate.

CHECKS TRIBUNE WANT ADS

"I thought if I put the money into a home I would always know where it is. So I read the ads in the Tribune and, attracted by one, called up Mr. Long of the firm of Selz & Southman, Inc., 6100 South Parkway.

PAYS OWN EXPENSES!

"When I told him our situation, he persuaded me that a two or a three flat building would be an even better investment than a home. The building would about pay its own expenses and give us our own rent practically free.

"Mr. Long showed us several two and three apartment buildings. Finally we saw one at 8945 Justine Street, which we liked better than the others. The price asked was reasonable. So we bought it. We are glad we did."

"WE REACH ALL CLASSES OF PROSPECTS THROUGH THE TRIBUNE"

"We wish to express our appreciation of the consistently good results which we have experienced in our advertising in the Chicago Tribune.

"We have found that we can reach all classes of prospects through this medium. In this particular instance, Mr. Milchz answered an ad on a building but was not satisfied with the terms. We showed him another one of our numerous listings and it proved to be just the type of building he was looking for and at the price he wanted to pay."

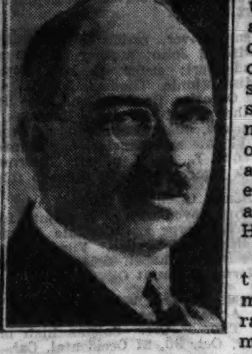
4,000 IN CONTEST NOTING BIRTHDAY OF POET HORACE

Gay Roman, Born 2,000 Years Ago, Still Lives.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

Response to plans of American scholars for November and December celebrations of the two thousandth anniversary of the birth of Horace, singer and satirist who never grows old, has amazed even most ardent Horatians.



DR. R. C. FLICKINGER.

Although the commemoration's climax — Dec. 8 — is six weeks distant, 4,000 responses in the national contest for best translations of Horace by public school and university students have come from 32 states of the Union.

Chicago Colleges Stand Out.

Mundelein college, only institution in Chicago for the higher education of women exclusively, wins first place with a Horatian translation by Miss Virginia Woods, an award that surprised few because the curriculum of the Cardinal's Foundation emphasizes classical culture almost as much as it does home economics.

Rosary college comes in second with a translation by Miss Kathleen Lloyd, and Illinois college, Jacksonville, third with a translation by Miss Ramona Lothian.

In this Illinois collegiate contest the judge was Dr. Frank Justus Miller, University of Chicago, one of President Harper's famous "original faculty," who is now nominally in retirement but is as active as of yore when anybody says "Horace!"

High Schools Show Interest.

In the Illinois high school contest first award goes to Miss Gertrude Jackson, Oblong, a town of 1,400 population down in Crawford county. After 20 centuries the poet whom the devoted Horatian, Thackeray, called "That most delightful and accomplished master," seems to be no stranger in the region of the North Fork and Wabash rivers.

Second award in the Illinois high school contest is won by Streator High school with a translation by Miss Charlotte Blakemor, and third by Oak Park and River Forest Township High school with a translation by Miss Victoria Schraeger.

The reader will mark the fact that all the winners in both Illinois contests are girls. Can it be that twentieth century girls are better classicists than the boys are?

Thornton Wilder, author of the best seller that had style, "The Bridge of San Luis Rey," was one of the five distinguished judges in the high school contest.

More Contests in Offing.

Not all the contests have been concluded.

A prize of $1,000 will be awarded in the contest sponsored by the University of Cincinnati and called the "Essay-and-Ode contest." Here the judges will receive competing material until Dec. 8, so there is still a chance for some clever young American to earn two years of his university expenses by winning that handsome prize.

Meanwhile universities, colleges, public schools, women's clubs, and classical clubs are planning beautiful Horatian pageants, plays, and concerts for the "bimillennium Horatianum," as the pundits love to call it.

Other organizations will listen to addresses by recognized authorities on the life, work, and influence of the Emperor Augustus' friend who gave about thirty-five of his fifty-seven amiable, equable years to study, writing, wine and quizzical, affectionate contemplation of mankind.

Information on Observances.

All that material—plays, outlines for pageants, and names of lecturers who will address clubs for a very moderate fee—may be obtained by addressing Prof. R. C. Flickinger, head of classical department, University of Iowa, Iowa City, Ia., and originator of the commemoration.

Or, if Chicago teachers, students, and clubs wish to make their plans with the untiring assistance of one who is practically a fellow townswoman, they should address Prof. Flickinger's Chicago aid, Miss Florence Brubaker, Oak Park High school, Oak Park, Ill.

She will tell you, among other things, how and where to obtain for 35 cents the unpublished script of the gifted Prof. Allen E. Woodall's new twenty-five page Horatian comedy, "A Friend of Maecenas," which won the substantial money prize in the national Horatian drama contest and which is praised by the judges for "good dramatic form, beautiful diction, smooth verse, actability, humor, and dignity." Dr. Payson S. Wild, Chicago, an accomplished Horatian, was one of the judges.

Another play, written for the two thousandth anniversary and awarded second rank, is by an Illinoisan, Miss Margaret K. Moore of Jacksonville. It is called "The Freedman's Son"—Horace's father, you know, had been a slave—and the jury commends it for "delicacy, flowing verse, and dramatic power."

Texts of seven other Horatian plays and pageants—one of them entitled "He Talked Too Much" and founded on Horace's most famous satire—may be obtained for a few cents each, that charge including acting rights!

The University of Iowa has issued a new four page leaflet that is a detailed guide to alluring ways for celebrating the bimillennium of one of the wisest, wittiest good fellows that ever lived. It may be had for the asking—plus a 3 cent stamp for return postage.

PRESBYTERIAN GROUP STARTS PUBLICATION OF MILITANT JOURNAL

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The Presbyterian Guardian, semimonthly independent publication of that denomination, has sent forth its first issue with a prayer of a fighting Christian on the front page and a declaration that controversy will not be avoided on the back page. It is published in Philadelphia by the Presbyterian Constitutional Covenant union, with the stormy fundamentalist leader, Dr. J. Gresham Machen, featured in the leading article.

Dr. Machen, who is under sentence of suspension from the Presbyterian ministry for developing an independent Presbyterian board of foreign missions, apparently is the organizer of the new union and guiding hand in the new publication. However, no editorship of the journal is announced. The constitution of the union is enclosed in the magazine.

Under the "purpose" clause is the following:

"The purpose of this covenant union shall be to defend and maintain the constitution of the Presbyterian church in the U. S. A.—that is to defend (1) the Word of God upon which the constitution is based; (2) the full, glorious system of revealed truth contained in the confession of faith and catechisms, commonly called (to distinguish it from various forms of error) the 'Reformed Faith, and (3) the truly scriptural principles of the Presbyterian church government guaranteeing the Christian's freedom from implicit obedience to any human councils and courts and recognizing instead, in the high biblical sense, the authority of God."

The covenant described is that of making every effort to bring about a reform of the existing church organization and to restore "the church's clear and glorious Christian testimony which modernism and indifferentism have now so grievously silenced."

The covenant then threatens another Presbyterian church if efforts at reform fail.

"If such efforts fail," the covenant declares, "and in particular if the tyrannical policy of the present majority triumphs" . . . we hold ourselves . . . "ready to perpetuate the true Presbyterian church of the U. S. A., regardless of cost."

Membership in the union is open to former ministers or laymen of the Presbyterian church who have either been removed by church courts or who have withdrawn from the church "for conscience sake."

Mrs. Daley said she screamed and broke away. Rose is held on a charge of assault.

Mother Fox Terrier Upsets Precedent: 7 Male Puppies!

Frank W. Heckel, of 7135 Gunnison street, reported an extraordinary canine event yesterday when his fox terrier, "Sallie," gave birth to seven male pups. Dog experts said a litter of seven puppies was not especially unusual but seven males in one litter was a very rare occurrence. Mother and her seven sons are doing nicely, Heckel said.

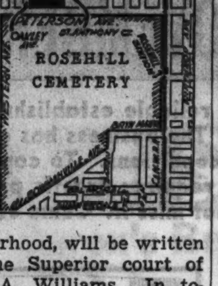
CITY ENLISTING PSYCHIATRISTS IN CEMETERY FIGHT

Sight of Burials Shocks Children, Say Experts.

A new chapter in the long court fight by North Town residents and the city, to prevent the Rosehill cemetery company from extending its burial grounds [an extension already made] across Peterson avenue into a thickly built up neighborhood, will be written tomorrow in the Superior court of Judge Charles A. Williams. In tomorrow's hearing, the cemetery company will seek the final invalidation of a city ordinance which forbids burials in its newest tract.



The present litigation, involving property values in the millions, flared up in 1930. It is one of a long series of legal actions which began more than 70 years ago. Two judges to whom the present case was assigned, died before they could rule on it. Judge Williams is the third to consider it.

New Element in Fight.

Armed with the opinions of psychiatrists, attorneys for the city will go into court tomorrow prepared to charge that extension of the cemetery is harmful not only to public health and public welfare, but has a detrimental effect upon children who witness burials there.

Adjacent to the new burying ground is the Stone elementary school and playground at 6239 North Leavitt street. On other sides are apartment buildings. These factors are the basis for the city's newest fight.

To get the scientific support, Carl Hjalmar Lundquist, assistant corporation counsel, has asked a number of medical authorities whether the establishment of a cemetery on such a site would have a harmful or depressing effect on children, assuming that the burials would be within their view.

Question Mental Authorities.

Among those questioned are Dr. Harry R. Hoffman, director, Behavior clinic of the Cook county Criminal court; Dr. Paul L. Schroeder, director, Institute for Illinois Juvenile Research; Dr. Francis J. Gerty, medical director, Cook county psychopathic hospital, and Dr. David B. Rotman of the Municipal psychopathic clinic.

"I believe that seeing the actual burial would make a profound impression on children with a depressing effect," said Dr. Hoffman when interviewed informally yesterday. "It might result in mental disturbances later in life that would be a manifestation of this earlier mental shock."

"There would be a tremendous influence on impressionable children depending, of course, on how much of the actual burial they saw," Dr. Rotman told interviewers.

Might Bring Out Nervousness.

"I feel that it would be depressing and harmful especially to children of unstable makeup and would have a tendency in behavior and nervous children to bring out latent nervousness."

This battle of property owners and cemetery officials is over the 25 acre plot bounded roughly by Peterson road, Oakley and Granville avenues, and St. Anthony court. The fight has been raging in the courts and city council for five years, while the cemetery has been actually extended.

Protests by adjacent property owners brought the North Town Improvement association into the fight and its former president, Irving H. Flamm, has been employed by the city as a special assistant corporation counsel to aid Lundquist in court.

History of Litigation.

"This litigation runs back to 1859 when Rosehill cemetery, with sixty acres, got its charter," said Flamm. "In 1865 it purchased 200 more acres, but the village of Lakeview, in which it was located, objected. The Illinois Supreme court decided in favor of the cemetery, declaring that few people lived thereabouts and that it was an ideal location, being several miles north of Chicago.

"In 1903 Rosehill bought twenty acres of the plot in dispute, but not in its own name. Fifteen years later it added five more acres. There were frame houses on the land and every one thought it was private property. Development around the plot proceeded until now the area is thickly populated.

"Not until 1930, when cemetery officials began to fence in this plot, did it become generally known that the cemetery owned it. Then it was revealed that ten years earlier four bodies were buried secretly there, presumably one in each corner, for the purpose of establishing the use of the plot for a cemetery.

Meanwhile the plot has been developed as a cemetery and is being used for burials, the city having been enjoined from interfering with the cemetery's use of the land. The injunction applies also to actions taken by the city in an attempt to open streets through the property to destroy it as a burying ground.

OBITUARY HE WROTE IS READ AT FUNERAL OF VET RAILROADER

Tacoma, Wash., Oct. 26.—(AP)—The 350 word self-written obituary of Fred W. Whitmore describing him as a "plain, average citizen who has lived a plain, ordinary life" was read today at funeral services for the retired railway engineer. The 76 year old man, who died here yesterday, wrote the obituary three months ago.

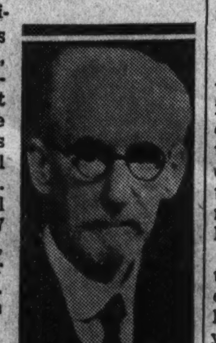
It tells of birth in Maine of the "stock that put prohibition in that state," of being thrown on his own at 16, of becoming a Milwaukee fireman at 21, of marriage at 23, and of removal to Washington in 1889.

It does not tell, however, that Whitmore is referred to in railroad annals as the engineer who made the record run between Hillyard, Wash., and Troy, Mont., in 1924 to win the silk express business for the Great Northern. The feat was considered exceptional, as he operated a coal burning engine while others piloted modern oil burners.

DR. DANIEL IRION DIES; ELMHURST COLLEGE LEADER

School's Ex-President Passes at 80.

Dr. Daniel Irion, president emeritus of Elmhurst college, identified closely with that institution since its founding in 1871, died shortly before midnight Friday in the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Prof. and Mrs. Paul N. Crusius, 177 Virginia street, Elmhurst, after a week's illness. He was 80 years old.



DR. DANIEL IRION.

Dr. Irion, for many years a leader in the Evangelical church, was born Feb. 21, 1855, in Marthasville, Mo., where his father, Andrew Irion, was a professor at the old Eden Theological seminary before it was moved to St. Louis. At the request of his mother, who wished him to enter the ministry and follow in the footsteps of his father, Dr. Irion came to Elmhurst on his sixteenth birthday.

Third to Enroll in New Seminary.

Elmhurst college, then known as Melancthon seminary, had just been established as a pre-theological school of the Evangelical church. Dr. Irion was the third student to enroll in the first class of 14 students.

Upon completing his course Dr. Irion attended the Eden seminary in St. Louis, graduating in 1877. On his birthday that year he returned to the Elmhurst college as instructor in Greek. He later was called to the Evangelical church in Cottleville, Mo. Another transfer brought him back to Elmhurst as pastor of St. Peter's Evangelical church, where he remained for two years until 1887, when he was offered the presidency of the college.

Dr. Irion served as the institution's president until 1919. He watched it grow from a small seminary to a recognized college and during that time distributed diplomas to 2,600 students.

Vice President of Synod.

From 1913 until 1917 Dr. Irion was vice president of the Evangelical Synod of North America. When he retired from active presidency of the college in 1919 to be succeeded by Dr. Timothy Lehmann, he remained as professor of Greek until his retirement in 1930. Shortly before his wife, the former Fredericka Stanger, died that same year, they celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

JOSEPH HERMAN LINDENMEYER OF LAKE FOREST DIES

Joseph Herman Lindenmeyer, 73 years old, pioneer resident of the north shore, died yesterday in his home at 107 North Washington road, Lake Forest, after a short illness of heart disease. Mr. Lindenmeyer was for many years landscape artist on the estate of Cyrus McCormick, retiring in 1930. He is survived by his widow, five sons and three daughters. One of the sons, Edgar, is coach of the Lake Forest High school football team. Funeral services will be held from the residence tomorrow afternoon.

Hundreds at Presentation of 'Alice in Wonderland'

"Alice in Wonderland" came to life yesterday morning and again in the afternoon at the Studebaker theater at the first of a series of children's entertainments sponsored by the Chicago Alumnae club of Hollins college. The Clare Tree Major Children's theater of New York produced the play, which was attended by hundreds of young Chicagoans and almost as many adults.

PIONEER CHICAGO PRIEST IS URGED FOR SAINTHOOD

Rosary College Nuns to Take Action.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Efforts designed to lead to sainthood a mission priest who 100 years ago played an important part in the cultural and religious life of this district are being initiated by the Dominican Sisters of Sinsinawa, Wis., who conduct Rosary college in River Forest.

Their plan in behalf of their founder, Father Samuel Charles Mazzuchelli, that he may be made a saint, was revealed in connection with announcement of an annual Founder's day celebration commemorating his work, to be held at Rosary college at noon on Monday, Nov. 4.

No American citizen has so far been sainted by the Catholic church, although the case in behalf of Mother Frances Xavier Cabrini of Chicago is pending in Rome after a series of hearings here, almost the first of their kind in this country. Mother Cabrini died here in 1917, and was a naturalized citizen. Father Mazzuchelli was a native of Italy, who became a naturalized American citizen soon after he arrived in this country in 1828.

Faith in Priest Grows.

During recent years, according to the sisters at Rosary college, increasing numbers of persons, in their prayers, have been asking the divine intercession of Father Mazzuchelli, who died in 1864 at Benton, Wis. It is this growth of faith in him which makes his candidacy for sainthood a logical next step, in their opinion.

The first step toward having Father Mazzuchelli beatified and later canonized will be the proposed exhumation of his body the last of this year or early in 1936. For the last ten years the Dominican Sisters have wanted to remove the body from its burial place in Benton, Wis., to Sinsinawa, but the older residents of the town objected.

At the time it is exhumed it will be closely examined in the presence of church dignitaries, and a duly appointed jury of physicians for any evidence of miraculous preservation. If any is found, it will be considered as substantiating evidence of merits for sainthood, but this is not necessary if other evidence is sufficient.

Will Outline Evidence.

The findings, together with an outline of evidence they propose to submit regarding miracles performed through Father Mazzuchelli's intercession with the Deity after the priest's death, then will be sent to the Congregation of Sacred Rites in Rome.

If that body sees fit to allow the investigation into Father Mazzuchelli's qualifications for sainthood to continue, informative hearings will be held in Milan, where he was born, and in Benton, where he died. The apostolic see then will order a court convened to hear the evidence of the miracles. This may be held in Rosary college, a representative of the college said.

The rules surrounding the presentation of such evidence before the church tribunal are strict. It meets behind locked doors, and all witnesses take the oath of secrecy. Witnesses to at least two miracles wrought by the Divinity through the intercession of Father Mazzuchelli must testify.

The Devil's Advocates.

They are then subjected to a rigorous cross-examination by two high church dignitaries, who assume the rôle of "the devil's advocate." The historic function of "the devil's advocates" is to doubt and examine all evidence of the miraculous as if they maintained the person designated for proposed sainthood were in fact in purgatory.

After the hearing is completed a transcript of the evidence, written in longhand, will go to Rome. There a jury of physicians, all of eminent position, will subject the findings to a scrupulous examination. If they consider the "miracles" possible through nature or science alone they are not considered divine in character and the case is lost.

The congregation of Sacred Rites in Rome, and finally the pope, decide whether beatification shall be forthcoming. If approved beatification is pronounced by decree and a solemn ceremony held in Rome. Two more miracles then must occur before canonization may be possible.

Observe Building of Church.

The Founder's day program at Rosary college will celebrate the building of the first permanent parish church west of the Mississippi at Benton in 1835 by Father Mazzuchelli. At Green Bay he built the first Catholic school for Indians.

The young mission priest's territory was the wilderness from Lake Huron on the east to the prairies along the Mississippi. It included Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, and western Illinois.

In 1847 he founded a community of Dominican sisters at Sinsinawa, whose chief concern was to be the higher education of women. At present the district of Dominican sisters he founded includes 1,400 nuns in ten states, who operate seventy-six schools. He established St. Clara's school at Sinsinawa, one of the earliest academies for young ladies in the west, which later was removed here and became Rosary college.

Faced Frontier Hardships.

The mission priest, who was 22 years old when he arrived in this country, was a delicate man who nevertheless displayed great fortitude in his travels by horse and by river over his large territory. His life was one of adventurous hardship among the Indians.

Always he wore about his waist a heavy link chain of forged iron, which after his death was placed by the sisters in a room at the Sinsinawa mother house, where it may be seen. There also may be seen the early astronomical equipment, magnets, and a static electricity machine with which he had pursued his studies.

Built Galena Cathedral.

Among the churches he built was the cathedral in Galena. For one entire winter he lived in an unfinished room under the sanctuary while the edifice was under construction. Father Mazzuchelli also built a large church in Dubuque. After this, the tireless priest was offered a bishopric. He refused the honor in a letter written in 1850 from New Diggings, Wis. The letter, preserved in the archives of Columbia college, Dubuque, reads: "To live retired and unknown to the world is a great happiness. If the Lord is not very much displeased with me, he will permit me to work in oblivion before the world and enable me to know Him more and more. . . ."

New York, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Ralph Rappe McKee, vice president of the New York City board of education, died today of a heart attack at his home on Staten Island. He was 70.

Except for brief periods, he had been a member of the board since 1909. He was born in Upper Sandusky, O., and was the son of John D. and Louise Rappe McKee. He attended Cooper academy at Dayton, O., Lawrenceville school and Princeton university.

His health failed several months ago and he had been under a physician's care for three weeks.

COURT REFUSES RULING AGAINST WILLYS' WIDOW

New York, Oct. 26.—(AP)—A move to bar the widow of John N. Willys, pioneer automobile manufacturer and former embassador to Poland, from access to his estate in New York state, valued at $800,000, failed in Bronx Surrogate's court today.

Surrogate Albert Henderson denied an application of Mrs. Virginia Clayton Willys Delanda, a daughter of Willys' first marriage, for the appointment of a temporary administrator for his New York estate.

Surrogate Henderson ruled that "no present necessity for such an appointment has been demonstrated."

Willys died Aug. 26 at his Riverdale home, the Bronx. His will was filed in Florida, where the bulk of his estate is.

EDITOR LIGGETT'S ASSAULT STORY DENIED TO POLICE

Crusader Held Aggressor in Saloon Brawl.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Denials of a plot to waylay Walter W. Liggett, crusading publisher, and a counter charge that he had asked $1,500 to help him fight a statutory charge in Ramsey county district court were developments today in the investigation of the attack which sent Liggett to a hospital.

Isadore Blumenfeld, whom Liggett said he met in a hotel room Thursday night and whom he named as one of his assailants, declared when questioned by police today that Liggett had asked him for the money.

Stories Disagree.

Liggett yesterday said the attack on him, in which he suffered injuries on his face and chest, was made after he had turned down an offer of Blumenfeld that he [Liggett] would "be taken care of" if he would cease attacks on Blumenfeld in his newspaper, the Midwest American.

Liggett's latest published charge against Blumenfeld, who figured in liquor conspiracy indictments, was that Blumenfeld was one of a syndicate of former bootleggers attempting to get control of the liquor trafic in Minneapolis.

Police also took statements from Mrs. Annette Fawcett, divorced wife of W. H. [Capt. Billy] Fawcett; Felix Doran, her secretary, and Abe [Brownie] Bronstein. All expressed the opinion that Liggett's injuries had resulted from a "drunken brawl."

Denies Phone Invitation.

Mrs. Fawcett denied Liggett's assertion that she had telephoned him to come to her apartment. She said Liggett asked to see her. Later Blumenfeld phoned, she said, and was invited up. Mrs. Fawcett said the two men had an argument and a few drinks.

Police said Liggett and Blumenfeld went into a café and that Liggett annoyed other customers. This, police reported, led to the battle in which Liggett received his injuries. Liggett, a powerful man, today stuck by his story that Blumenfeld struck him after he refused demand that he "lay off" him and that Bronstein and four or five others joined in the attack.

No charges had been filed today, Liggett being unable to appear at the police station and legal rules preventing the signing of warants at the hospital.

Liggett is scheduled to go on trial in Ramsey county District court Nov. 4 on charges involving a 19 year old girl.

See Quick Adjustment of Income Dispute.

Attorneys for James E. Watson of Indiana, who was Republican leader in the senate during the Hoover administration, announced in Washington yesterday that his dispute with the government over 1930 income taxes would be satisfactorily adjusted in a few days.

Further, it was asserted that officials of the bureau of internal revenue were ready to drop their demand for taxes on $73,000 if, as the former senator claimed, this amount was a gift from B. J. Grigsby, radio magnate, and not a fee for services rendered. Gifts were not taxable in 1930.

Finklestein Action Starts Quiz.

Attention was directed to the Watson income after Jacob R. Finklestein, who formerly was campaign manager for Senator Watson, was indicted in the Federal court here on a charge of evading payment of $39,028 income taxes, alleged due for the years 1929 and 1930. The government contended that Finklestein had $190,593 income in 1929 and more than $96,000 in 1930, although he reported none taxable in either year.

Finklestein is said to have admitted that he split some of the money he received with the then senator. Samuel A. King, legal adviser to Mr. Watson, said yesterday that they had divided only $73,000 paid in gifts to Senator Watson by Grigsby.

Grigsby, according to the attorney, presented Senator Watson with $50,000 merely because he was grateful to the latter for introducing him to officials of the Radio Corporation of America. A conference with these officials resulted, it was said, in an agreement for the use of RCA patents that was valuable to the Grigsby-Grunow company, of which Grigsby was one of the heads.

Explains Another $23,000 Gift.

Later, said Mr. King, who is a brother of Senator William H. King [Dem., Utah], Grigsby purchased 500 shares of stock in his own company, placed it in the name of Senator Watson and after it was sold turned over profits of $23,000 to the senator.

The gifts did not partake of the nature of fees, the attorneys asserted, and had no connection of any sort with legal or lobbying work. He insisted that they were made only because of Grigsby's gratitude—in a booming stock market era—for the introduction to the RCA officials.

Grigsby refused yesterday to comment on the Watson investigation. He was a grand jury witness in the case of Finklestein and said that he had been instructed by the government's lawyers not to talk about the matter.

His former partner in the radio manufacturing business, William C. Grunow, said only that he remembered Grigsby had once bought a plant to be used in making radio tubes and that it cost $500,000, including a $150,000 payment to Finklestein.

District Attorney Michael L. Igoe and his assistant, E. Riley Campbell, said no claim had been raised in Chicago to the effect that the $150,000 paid Finklestein was a gift. Checks, it was said, for this amount were drawn in Finklestein's favor by Grigsby-Grunow.

Mr. Watson has made no admission that he shared in this large sum, and Mr. Igoe said his office was not investigating the former senator. However, it was disclosed that the bureau of internal revenue has been looking into the affairs of the senator and his onetime campaign manager for 18 months. Grigsby declined to say whether the money paid to Finklestein was a gift or a payment for services.

Watson Issues Statement.

In a statement issued yesterday Mr. Watson said:

"This is simply a dispute between an American taxpayer and his government. The government claims more taxes than I think I owe. I thought the matter, which was called to my attention a year and a half ago, had been disposed of.

"I went to the income tax unit and had a hearing. I explained that my returns had been made out by a treasury agent. Another member of the income tax unit told me that out of an abundance of caution I should pay $200 more, which I did. I am not conscious of having violated any law or made any mistake."

CHICAGO BEHIND OTHER CITIES IN MODERNIZING 'L'

Service Is Speeded and Expanded in East.

A survey of rapid transit facilities in American cities shows that there has been a definite trend toward speeding up the mass movement of passengers in the last twenty years through expansion and improvement in methods and equipment. New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, and Boston are the only cities with elevated or subway lines. All, with the exception of Chicago, have extended such facilities in varying degrees in the last few years.

The movement toward taking electric cars off the surface and placing them either under or above street level has reached the highest stage of development in New York City. The heavy concentration of population in certain parts of the city not only made imperative the improvement in transportation methods but at the same time made practical an extensive underground system.

Rapid Transit Carries Most.

New York elevated and subway lines now handle approximately 70 per cent of all local transportation in New York, while about 20 per cent is carried by the surface lines and the balance by buses. The percentage carried by street cars has shown a steady decline in recent years.

These ratios are the reverse of the movement of passengers in Chicago. Here 80 per cent are carried on the surface lines with about 18 per cent on the elevated.

Contrary to the experience in other cities, the proportion of passengers carried on the elevated in Chicago is smaller than it was ten years ago. A compilation of trafic in major cities shows that the proportion of passengers carried on rapid transit lines, either elevated or subway, in 1925 was 37 per cent. It had increased to 40 per cent in 1929, and reached 43 per cent in 1934.

No Action in 20 Years.

While there has been practically no expenditure for extension of elevated lines here in more than 20 years, according to a report of the Illinois Commerce commission, during that period expenditures for rapid transit improvements in New York have approximated 500 million dollars, while in Philadelphia the amount is placed at 150 millions.

New York City in 1923 had 1,131 miles of surface track and 591 miles of rapid transit. By 1934 the surface lines' mileage had decreased to 899 and the rapid transit increased to 725. In the twelve months to June 30, 1934, surface track abandonment totaled 69 miles and rapid transit gained 42, all of the latter being accounted for by the New York Independent system, operated by the city.

Subway Financed by City.

The first elevated lines in New York were constructed by private capital more than 60 years ago. The first subway, built in 1904, was financed by the city and constructed by a private corporation which leased the development. In 1913 the city built large additions and there has been a steady expansion in facilities with the city owning most of the subways and part of the elevated structures. Subway properties have been valued at 1 billion 300 million dollars and there are over 200 miles of elevated track.

Boston went into the rapid transit field early. The first elevated lines were privately constructed but its tunnels and subways have been financed largely by the city and leased to the Boston Elevated Railway company which operates all electric car lines. Several new elevated and subway structures have been added to the system over the last 20 years and the cost of properties leased by the company was approximately 58 million dollars in 1934. The company is operated under a public management plan with interest on its bonds and dividends on its stock guaranteed, deficits being made up through taxation.

Philadelphia's Plan Similar.

The Philadelphia Rapid Transit company, operating all local transportation in the Pennsylvania city, constructed the first rapid transit lines there in 1907, part of which was subway and part elevated. Rapid transit facilities were increased in 1922 when new additional elevated structures were built. These were constructed and financed by the city and leased to the operating company.

Additional subways were built by the city in 1928 and with the further extensions in the last six years the company is now operating 68 miles of owned or leased rapid transit track and 638 miles of surface line. The recent development in Philadelphia has had as a main objective the faster movement of trafic in the downtown area.

Coincident with the extension of rapid transit lines there has been a further trend toward reduction of surface lines through motorization. All major cities have added bus lines and many smaller centers have substantially or completely supplanted street cars with motorized equipment.

Rip Up Oldest Line.

Early this year the Fourth and Madison avenue route, New York, the world's oldest street car line, was discontinued and motor coach service inaugurated as a further step in a broad motorization program for the city. First reports on the operation of this line showed an 87 per cent increase in trafic over the volume carried by the surface line.

Recent estimates place the percentage of local trafic handled by buses at 14 per cent of the total volume in the country. Four cities of 100,000 population or over have entirely eliminated street cars and use buses exclusively. They are San Antonio, Tulsa, Trenton, N. J., and Canton, O. Spokane is 60 per cent motorized.

OUST ALL TEACHERS SPURNING FLAG OATH, PENNSYLVANIA EDICT

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Pennsylvania's teachers refusing to take an oath of allegiance to the American flag or failing to require pupils to do so should be discharged summarily, Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti ruled today.

"Whether such refusal be based upon conscientious or religious scruples, or upon any other reason, it should be followed by immediate dismissal," declared Margiotti in an opinion given Lester K. Ade, superintendent of public instruction.

The ruling added that students refusing to pledge allegiance to country and flag also should be considered as insubordinate and the act "treated as any other refusal to obey the lawful regulations of our schools."

41 MILWAUKEE THEATERS STILL DARK; WAGE ROW

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Forty-one neighborhood theaters in Milwaukee and suburbs, independently owned, which were closed yesterday when union operators walked out, will remain dark over the week-end pending negotiations with a union committee Monday, according to an announcement tonight. The operators failed to report at their booths yesterday when the 41 theater owners refused to sign new contracts containing an increased wage provision and continuance of the policy of having two men in a booth.

Arrangements for resumption Monday of negotiations between officers of the closed theaters and the union were made late today, it was announced by Ray Tesch, secretary and business manager of the Independent Theaters' Protective association of Wisconsin and upper Michigan, of which organization the affected theaters are members. The striking operators are members of the Motion Projectionists' union, No. 164.

Thirty-three theaters, the majority of them controled by chains and located downtown or in outlying business areas, are open after signing agreements with the union. Tesch said that the agreements were signed on a tentative basis, and their continuance is contingent on the outcome of negotiations betwen the independents and the union operators.

JAPANESE DRIVE TO TAKE N. CHINA IS GIVEN A JOLT

War Lord Tokio Depended On Flies to Nanking.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Oct. 26.—Gen. Yen Hsi-shan, head of the Shansi provincial government and outstanding leader of north China, arrived in Nanking today. The general has been a virtual enemy of the Nanking government since Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek defeated his rebel coalition five years ago.

Because Yen's name has been linked with the Japanese army's scheme to carve out another Japanese protectorate over the five northern provinces of Hopei, Shantung, Shansi, Chara, and Suiyuan, his arrival in Chiang Kai-shek's private plane, created the impression the national government may have decided to defy Japan's latest demands.

To Attend Party Convention.

He also said he would propose a scheme for public ownership of land as a means of preventing a further spread of communism among the peasants.

Yen, dictator of Shansi province, with a population of 12,000,000, for a period of eighteen years, is the only official of the old régime who is still functioning.

When Chiang defeated Yen's rebellion in 1930, the veteran militarist fled to Dairen, in the Japanese leased territory, where he was given protection by the Japanese Kwantung army. The Japanese later flew him back to Shansi over Chiang's lines in a Japanese military plane. When the Japanese began fostering an independence movement in north China last summer, Gen. Tan Takahashi, Japanese military attaché, flew to Taiyuan, capital of Shansi province, and invited Yen to lead that movement. The Chinese leader remained silent.

Urged to Join Jap Army.

Recently the Japanese have been pressing him to enter a coalition with the Kwantung army for joint action against the Chinese Reds. It is said Yen, as well as the other leaders, realized this was a subterfuge to enable the Japanese to establish garrisons and air bases in the northwestern provinces.

The Shansi leader's presence here strengthens the government position against Canton where the southern Chinese politicians are threatening a political rebellion due to Nanking's failure to resist Japanese aggression.

Two southern Kuomintang leaders, Hsiao Fu-chen and Chow Lu, recently charged that the forthcoming party convention was "illegal" due to the government's refusal to include the Canton proposals for punishment of all the Chinese leaders who have capitulated to Japanese pressure.

Fears Alliance with Japan.

Hsiao Fu-chen predicted the convention would vote to abolish the Kuomintang and form an economic entente with Japan. Chow Lu, who is president of Sun Yat-sen university at Canton, charged China's failure to resist the Japanese was responsible for the failure of the other nations to come to China's support. Chow Lu forecast an early outbreak of a world war and said that certain Chinese leaders, instead of trying to save the country, were intriguing for Japanese support in order to hold their own positions.

The Japanese have charged that Chiang has concentrated 150,000 troops in the Shanghai area as well as 100 airplanes for the purpose of resisting any Japanese attempt to coerce the Nanking government.

GREEKS APPOINT COMMITTEE TO BRING BACK KING

ATHENS, Oct. 26—(AP)—Monarchists today began preparation for the return of former King George to the throne of Greece.

A committee was named to attend the former king in his London exile on Nov. 6 and escort him to his homeland. The plebiscite on the restoration is Nov. 3, but the restoration advocates feel that the peoples' expression in the king's favor may be taken for granted.

There was a royalist tone to today's observances of St. Demetrius day, the Greek national holiday. Gen. George Kondylis, head of the new government, in an address to cabinet members, army high officials and diplomats, dwelt on the nation's past glories.

Official denials were made of reports of revolts either in Greece proper or on the Island of Crete. The reports were laid to "false interpretation" of troop movements incidental to the coming plebiscite.

NORSE TANKER RESCUES 10 OFF SALT SCHOONER

Boston, Oct. 26.—(AP)—The rescue by the Norwegian motor tanker South America of 10 seamen from the sinking British three-masted schooner Esthonia early today off Nantucket Island was told in wireless dispatches reaching here.

Waterfront men attributed the sinking of the vessel to a gale a few nights ago. They said waves must have opened seams in the salt-laden Esthonia bound for Bangor, Me., from Turks Island, British West Indies.

With the rescued crew of the Esthonia aboard, the South America headed for Halifax, N. S. There the captain planned to put in Monday. All the Esthonia's seamen were believed to be residents of Nova Scotia. The owner was said to be L. S. Barkhouse of Westport, N. S. The South America cleared from Port Arthur, Tex., about eight days ago for Stockholm, Sweden.

JEWISH EDITOR HITS OHIO CENSORS' BAN ON 'ANTI-NAZI' FILM

Columbus, O., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Sharply varying opinions followed disclosure today that the Ohio censor board had deleted part of a newsreel, "March of Time," on the purported ground that it was "anti-Nazi."

Ohio's chief censor, E. L. Bowsher, said only a small portion of the film was cut and that it was "irrelevant."

Ben Z. Neustadt, Jewish editor, voiced objection to the censorship. "I felt," he said, "the true facts, or those that come uncensored out of Germany, should be told."

"The purpose of the film," said Bowsher, state director of education, "was to depict the progress of the Jews in Palestine. A small portion dealing with Nazi activities in Germany was incidental and had no bearing on the picture.

In New York, editors of the magazine Time said there was no "valid reason" for the deletion.

FILIPINOS FIND U. S. IS BOSS FOR 10 MORE YEARS

Enthusiasm for New Regime Chilled.

MANILA, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Philippine enthusiasm over the new commonwealth régime has been somewhat chilled in advance of the formal Nov. 15 inaugural by rulings from Washington making it clear the United States, retaining sovereignty for 10 more years, is unwilling to have responsibility without authority.

"The government of the commonwealth will be in fact, if not in name, an independent government under the protection of the United States," President-elect Manuel Quezon said in a public address, but American officials at Washington and Manila have indicated they do not subscribe fully to that view.

Bars Official Foreign Guests.

The state department ruled against a proposal to invite official delegations from many foreign governments, including Japan, China, Great Britain, France, and Germany, to the inaugural. Such foreign visitors as are present at the ceremony will be in an unofficial capacity.

Embarrassment immediately was threatened in Manila and Tokio, because Japan, it was generally understood, already had been invited to send an official representative. Tokio dispatches said Prince Fumimaro Konoe, president of the house of peers, had been tentatively selected to head a delegation.

The premature invitation, if issued, came from the Philippine leaders and not through official American channels.

U. S. Flag Stays at Top.

The state department was understood authoritatively to take the position that official delegations will be appropriate upon the proclamation of complete independence, which is scheduled to come at the end of a decade under the commonwealth.

The Stars and Stripes, it was decided, shall continue to wave along with the Philippine emblem—side by side when there are two standards, and above the Philippine flag when they are on the same staf.

However, when the nucleus of the new Philippine army, to be trained by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, former American chief of staf, is formed, the soldiers possibly may march under the Philippine flag alone.

GARNER IS GIVEN NEW SOCKS FOR VISIT TO MIKADO

ABOARD S.S. PRESIDENT GRANT, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Vice President Garner, whose wife took along her darning needles and plenty of darning cotton, tonight received two brand new pairs of socks to wear for his audience with Emperor Hirohito of Japan.

At a dinner party of the 46 senators and representatives aboard the President Grant en route to the far east, Senator Henry F. Ashurst of Arizona presented the Vice President a pair of sock on behalf of the senate. For the house, Representative Karl Stefan of Nebraska gave Garner a pair of socks with yellow stripes two inches wide.

The party is on its way to Manila to attend the inauguration of the Philippine commonwealth Nov. 15.

NAZIS TO REOPEN PARTY TO NEW MEMBERSHIPS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 26.—The Nazi party, which for two years has refused to accept new members, has decided to admit boys and girls who have completed their Nazi youth training.

The membership list was closed in 1933. Boys and girls to be admitted in the future must have joined the Hitler youth organization or the League of German Girls by 1931, and therefore are classed as members of the "old fighting force."

Boys qualify for Nazi party membership when 18 years old but girls must wait until they are 21. They must also prove they have shown themselves to be reliable Nazis.

PALESTINE ARABS STRIKE AGAINST JEWS WITH ARMS

JERUSALEM, Oct. 26.—(AP)—The Palestine police wore protective helmets today and the British police carried guns as Arabs began a general strike against alleged gun running by Jews.

The strike was called when it was disclosed by customs officials that barrels labeled "cement" brought to Jaffa in a Belgian ship really contained arms and munitions.

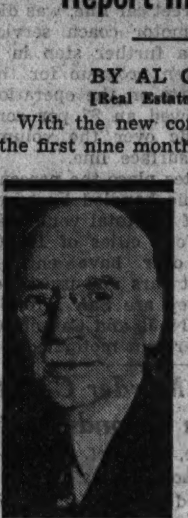
The walkout, which was called for 900,000 Arabs, was only partly effective. It was peaceful throughout Palestine save for a disturbance at Nablus, where 400 Arab youths threw stones and smashed windows.

Building Construction Throughout the U. S. Shows Gains Over 1934

CRAIG PREDICTS 1936 WILL LEAD LONG UPSWING

Nearly All Large Cities Report Increase.

BY AL CHASE.
[Real Estate Editor.]



E. M. CRAIG.

With the new construction during the first nine months of 1935 topping the same period of 1934 in all except two of America's largest cities, and with more new building reported on the boards of awarding authorities than in several years, 1936 is expected to signal the start of a drive of housing activities to continue for several years, E. M. Craig, executive secretary of the National Association of Building Trades Employers, asserted yesterday.

Craig said that a nation-wide survey, just completed by the National Association of Building Trades Employers which has its headquarters in Chicago, indicated that 100,000 new homes will be built in the United States before the end of 1935. Predictions are heard, he said, that there will be double that amount, or 200,000, in 1936. This is much less than an average home building year of 500,000, he pointed out, but a sharp improvement over the last few years.

Expect Higher Labor Costs.

The survey indicates that most building authorities expect that a sharp upturn in construction during 1936 inevitably will result in higher labor costs.

All cities except Boston and Baltimore reported a gain in building construction during the first nine months of 1935 as compared with last year. New York, Los Angeles, Washington, D. C., Detroit, and Chicago lead the country in building totals in the order given.

In New York the building so far this year was $98,700,000 as compared with $62,663,000 a year ago and $51,979,000 in 1933.

Los Angeles reported $23,259,000 this year as against $9,698,000 last year and $10,835,000 in 1933. Modernization totaling $8,000,000 was reported to have been done so far this year. New homes erected there in 1935 totaled 1,800.

Washington Has Boom.

Washington totals, which include the entire District of Columbia, but which do not take into consideration the countless millions spent on federal work, amounted to $19,273,000 this year as compared with $8,529,000 last year and $8,799,000 in 1933. So far this year residential units have been built for 1,301 families. Nevertheless a shortage in dwelling space is reported.

Detroit, which still runs ahead of Chicago in its building program, reported $13,805,000 for 1935 as compared with $6,286,000 for the same nine months last year and $2,983,000 in 1933.

Chicago, fifth city in building volume, had $10,497,000 in permits so far this year. This compared with $5,855,000 last year and $3,030,000 in 1933. More than 300 homes have been constructed so far this year as compared with 146 in 1934, 143 in 1933, and 197 in 1932.

In Cleveland, sixth city on the list, building permits so far this year totaled $9,080,000 as compared with $3,694,000 for the first nine months of 1934 and $3,912,000 in 1933. Although 459 homes have been erected this year a shortage of 3,000 dwelling units is reported.

Frisco Has Upturn.

Following Cleveland comes San Francisco with a total of $8,151,000 this year compared with $4,676,000 last year.

Cincinnati had a total of $7,662,000 compared with $4,146,000 last year, and $4,339,000 in 1933. Modernization work this year totaled approximately $4,000,000 and 322 new homes have been built.

In Philadelphia building permits totaled $6,910,000 this year as compared with $6,478,000 last year and $5,828,000 in 1933. This year 728 homes have been started as compared with 240 in 1934.

Baltimore reported a total this year of $6,607,000 as against $7,067,000 last year. Boston's total so far in 1935 was $6,107,000 as against $7,321,000 last year. A shortage of 22,000 dwelling units is reported in Boston.

St. Louis Prosperous.

St. Louis reported a total of $5,461,000 this year compared with $3,667,000 last year. New homes were sold or rented before completion, it was said.

Among fifteen of the smaller cities, twelve registered gains and three showed declines over last year. The following showed improvement: Akron, Duluth, Fort Worth, Fresno, Louisville, Norfolk, Oakland, Portland, Ore., Sacramento, Seattle, Springfield, Mass., and St. Paul. Building construction fell off in Atlanta, Des Moines and Omaha.

"Most cities in answering the question on 1936 building prospects, are of the belief that a marked improvement will be shown over 1935," said Craig. "They base their opinions upon much contemplated work now appearing on the boards of awarding authorities."

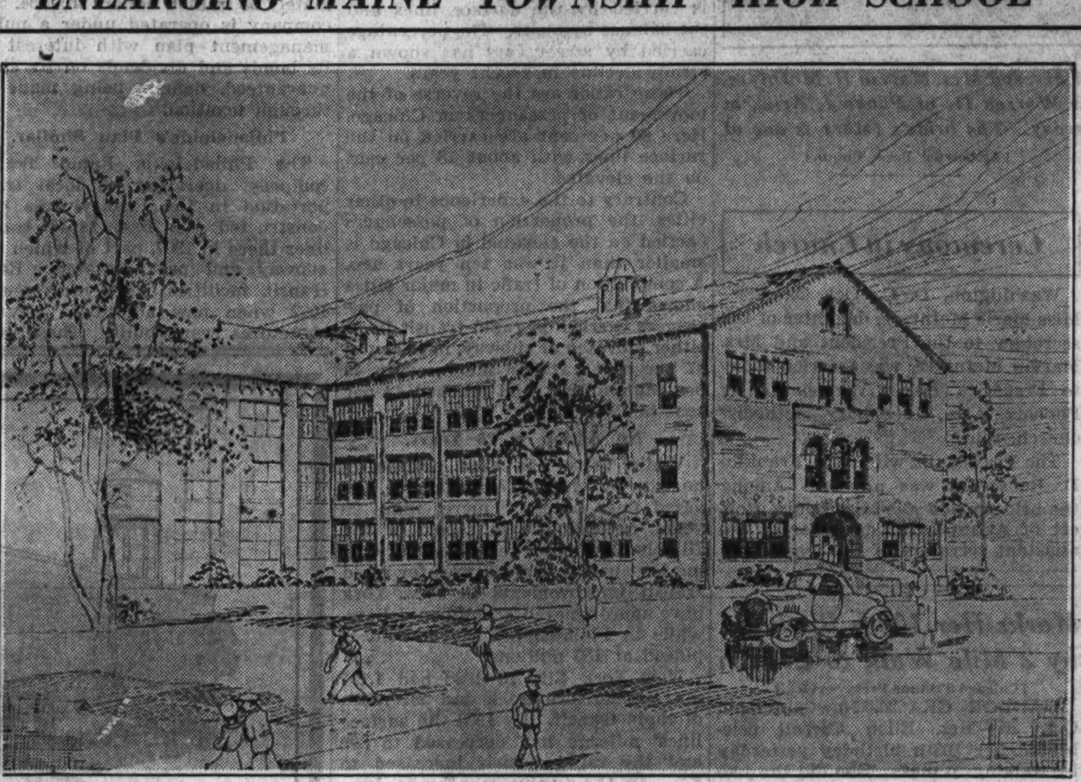
Contracts Awarded

Contracts awarded in Chicago the week of Oct. 18 to 24, according to figures supplied by the F. W. Dodge corporation, totaled thirty-six, with a combined cost of $280,600. For the corresponding week of last year there were thirteen contracts totaling $203,700.

AIR CONDITIONED FLATS FOR UNIVERSITY SUBURB

Frank Polito is architect of the above distinctly modern air conditioned two apartment building, which resembles a large residence, now being erected at the southeast corner of Asbury avenue and Isabella street, Evanston. The owner, Carl Dauber of Dauber Brothers, commission merchants, is owner and will occupy the first floor suite. A novel feature of the building will be its separate apartment entrances on different streets. This is the first flat building, it was said, to be built in Evanston in the last six years. Details of this project are given in an adjoining column on this page.

ENLARGING MAINE TOWNSHIP HIGH SCHOOL



John D. Chubb and W. F. McCaughey are architects of the above $60,000 three story addition to the Maine Township High school now under construction. It is on the west end of the present building at Potter and Dempster roads, Maine township, between Park Ridge and Des Plaines. The general contractors are George B. Sollitt & Son. There will be the equivalent of ten classrooms; four on the second floor and the remainder on the third floor, which will be used by the music department. Two large rooms for band and choral practice will be finished with pecky cypress wood ceilings and acoustical plaster marked off as ashlar. Completion is scheduled for the end of January.

Real Estate Bonds

Real estate bond prices showed little change in the last week. A large number of real estate bonds placed by comparatively unknown underwriters, still sell at low prices, and whatever selling pressure exists at present is in this class of bonds, according to one broker.

Stuart Meech to Address Mortgage Bankers' Dinner

The trend of interest rates and mortgage financing will be discussed by Stuart P. Meech of the University of Chicago at the annual dinner of the Chicago Mortgage Bankers' association at the Union League club next Wednesday evening, Oct. 30. A report on the recent national mortgage bankers' convention at French Lick will be made by Irvin Jacobs. Election and installation of new officers and directors for 1935-'36 will be a feature of the program. LeRoy F. Pape, retiring president, will act as chairman.

Work Under Way on Evanston's First Apartments in Six Years

What is said to be Evanston's first new apartment building since 1929 is being erected at the southeast corner of Asbury avenue and Isabella street, from plans by Architect Frank Polito, 6 North Michigan avenue. The owner is Carl Dauber, of Dauber Brothers, commission merchants, who will occupy the first floor suite. The second floor apartment has been leased.

Among many novel features will be separate entrances to each apartment, one on each street. Indirect lighting, air conditioning, replacement of the old fashioned closets with wide built-in wardrobes, with full width doors opening directly into bedrooms; new type square bath tubs, an 11 foot kitchen sink and drainboard, electric cooking range, and cross ventilation in all rooms are other features.

Resembles Residence.

Resembling a modern type of single family residence, the two apartment building will be constructed of white lime sand brick, whitewashed, on all exterior walls, with trim of black brick. Windows will be of plate glass. A two car garage will be made an integral part of the building.

Each apartment will have two bedrooms and bath, living room, dining room, breakfast room, kitchen, and maid's bedroom and bath. The bedrooms, living room, and dining room will radiate from a circular hall which will be cove lighted. There will be no wall lighting fixtures in any part of the suite.

Walls of Elmwood.

The walls of the living room and dining room will be paneled from floor to ceiling in elmwood. The kitchen will have tile walls. The living room in each suite will have a wood burning fireplace. In the basement there will be a recreation room, also with fireplace, for joint use by the two families.

According to Architect Polito the building will be completed by Jan. 15. The two families expect to move in on Feb. 1. It was said that the building will cost approximately $19,000. It will occupy a site fronting 88 feet on Asbury avenue and 38 feet on Isabella street. It is being built by the Flyer Construction company.

Mutual Trust Life Leases Field Space

The fourteenth lease by a prominent insurance company of space in the Field building and the first home office to establish itself there, has been signed by the Mutual Trust Life Insurance company. More than 18,000 square feet on the ninth floor will be occupied by that concern after Dec. 1, according to Edwin A. Olson, president.

The Mutual Trust is said to be the largest in both assets and premium income of any insurance company chartered in Illinois. It began operations in three small rooms on La Salle street, between Madison and Monroe, in 1905.

It has occupied its present quarters in the Chicago Temple building for more than twelve years. Olson, former United States district attorney, has been president of the company since 1922.

It is the only Illinois company licensed to operate in the six New England states, and it receives more than 40 per cent of its business from eastern commonwealths, Olson said.

ACTIVE RENTING REPORTED FOR WHOLESALE AREA

The most active renting market in the wholesale district within the last three years is reported by Arthur Rubloff & Co. The entire area has registered an occupancy gain of 29½ per cent over the same period of 1932 and 19 per cent compared with last year. During the last two weeks seven store leases have been closed on Adams street, between Wells street and the river, at an average increase of 30 per cent in rental, it was stated.

"To date every first floor on Adams is leased in its entirety," said Arthur Rubloff, "and the demand has so far exceeded the available space that before long we predict rents will resemble those of the boom period."

The Rubloff firm reports having closed a lease with the Neidhoefer company, floor coverings, for the store at 305 West Monroe for five years, from the Phipps Industrial Land trust. It also leased a floor at 500 South Wells to Fred Rubenstein of the Ruby Drug company, formerly at 608 South Dearborn.

WALGREEN RENTS SHERIDAN ROAD, ARGYLE CORNER

The Walgreen company has leased the store at the northwest corner of Sheridan road and Argyle street for twenty years from the Ruth Lederer trust at a reported minimum guaranteed $110,000 for the term, plus a percentage of gross sales.

Modernization and remodeling are planned for the store, which will front fifty-two feet on Sheridan and forty-eight feet on Argyle. According to S. E. Terman & Co., brokers for all parties, the new store will open Dec. 1.

SURVEY SHOWS LESS VACANCIES ON GOLD COAST

Rental Situation Reported Much Improved.

Renting conditions in the north side area extending from Chicago avenue to North avenue and from Dearborn street to the lake, which takes in the entire gold coast district, have improved greatly, according to an annual survey just completed by Baird & Warner.

Frank B. Flannery, manager of the renting department of the North Michigan avenue and Lake View offices of that firm, states the improvement consists of both a better demand for larger suites and higher rentals. The survey was made by the North Michigan avenue office.

Vacancies in all classes of unfurnished apartments in the area outlined on Feb. 1, 1933, aggregated 15.6 per cent. On Dec. 1, 1933, the total had decreased to 8.3 per cent. It climbed a bit during the next twelve months, and on Dec. 1, 1934, it was 10.3 per cent. Now, according to the survey, it has slid down to 6.3 per cent at the present time.

Small Suites Better Filled.

Classification of vacancies shows the smaller suites better rented than the larger ones. There are only 3.9 per cent of the 3 and 4 room suites and 3.3 per cent of the 5 and 6 room flats unoccupied, whereas 15 per cent of the apartments of 11 rooms and over are vacant.

The three and four room suites on Feb. 1, 1933, had vacancies totaling 5.5 per cent. On Dec. 1 of the same year they had dropped to 4.2 per cent. They increased to 5.4 per cent on Dec. 1, 1934, and today they have decreased to 3.9 per cent.

In the next larger bracket the suites with five and six rooms, the vacancy percentage on Feb. 1, 1933, was 9.5 per cent. On Dec. 1 it was 4.2 per cent; a year later it had increased to 6.6 per cent, but today, according to the Baird & Warner survey, it has dropped to 3.3 per cent, a figure below normal.

Big Flats Harder to Rent.

The 7 and 8 room apartments had 14.2 per cent vacant on Feb. 1, 1933. By Dec. 1 this had improved to 7.9 per cent. A year later it had climbed a bit to 8 per cent. Today there are only 6.7 per cent vacant.

Getting into the larger and more luxurious suites one finds the percentage of vacancies higher. A survey of the 9 and 10 room apartments [which means those with four master chambers or three master chambers and library] shows 8.1 per cent empty today. This compares with 14.4 per cent on Dec. 1, 1934, and 17.4 per cent on Feb. 1, 1933.

Apartments with 11 rooms and over are 15 per cent unrented. This compares with 18.3 per cent on Dec. 1, 1933, and 22.6 per cent on Feb. 1, 1933.

"The survey of vacancies for this fall was made even more carefully than usual, taking in practically all of the better type of walk-ups, of which there are many in this vicinity," said Flannery.

BOLIVIA CHARGES WAR PRISONERS SERVE AS SLAVES

Note of Protest to League Attacks Paraguay.

GENEVA, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Bolivia protested against Paraguay's treatment of war prisoners in such scathing terms today that Geneva received the distinct impression all problems of the Chaco war are not liquidated.

Thousands of Bolivian prisoners of war are being held in bondage by Paraguay, Bolivia's note to the league of nations declared.

Claims Thousands Are Periled.

The communication, which momentarily diverted attention from the Italo-Ethiopian war, said the prisoner problem, which the Buenos Aires peace conference was unable to solve, constitutes a "grave detriment to thousands of unfortunate men."

Estimating the number of prisoners in Paraguay at 20,000, Bolivia said their labor represents a big, steady source of revenue for Paraguay under "servitude or bondage similar to the constraint formally exercised by a lord or slave owner over human material."

The note added the refusal of Paraguay to release the prisoners represents a means of bringing pressure to bear on Bolivia to "induce Bolivia to accept peace terms incompatible with justice and honor."

Argues Men Should Be Freed.

Now that the Buenos Aires conference has declared the Chaco war ended, Bolivia contends, there is no valid reason "for keeping men as serfs or hostages when war has given place to legal and diplomatic controversy, the duration of which unfortunately was not fixed by the Buenos Aires protocol."

Bolivia appealed to the world conscience to solve the vital problem of "social and moral salvage."

SEEKS TRANSFER OF MURDER CASE TO U. S. COURTS

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Invoking an old law designed to assure slaves court rights, counsel for David A. Lamson today petitioned the United States District court to enjoin the Santa Clara County court from proceeding with his third wife murder trial.

The unusual petition was taken under advisement by District Judge Harold Louderback, who said he would announce a decision Monday, when Lamson's trial is scheduled to start before Superior Judge R. R. Syer at San Jose.

Efforts to have the trial transferred to federal court, the petition set forth, were made when a petition was filed at San Jose on Oct. 25, on the contention Lamson could not receive a fair trial there.

Patrolman Convicted of Involuntary Manslaughter

Denver, Colo., Oct. 26.—(AP)—A verdict finding Patrolman Ernest W. Ayers guilty of involuntary manslaughter in the fatal shooting of Arthur P. Ware Jr., socially prominent young Denver business man, was returned early today by a District court jury. The verdict carries a penalty of up to one year in jail, court attachés said. Ware was found dead in his parked automobile June 23. His death was reported by Ayers, who informed police that he had aroused himself from a drunken stupor after a party to discover he was in the car and the youth was dead beside him.

Gets Life Term as Killer Before Trial as Kidnaper

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Virtually on the eve of his trial Monday as an alleged kidnaper of Dr. Isaac D. Kelley, Bart Davit, confessed alcohol runner, today was sentenced to life imprisonment for the slaying three years ago of a suburban grocer during a holdup. A Circuit court jury today found Davit guilty of shooting to death Paul Flueck, Maplewood grocer, for resisting a robbery.

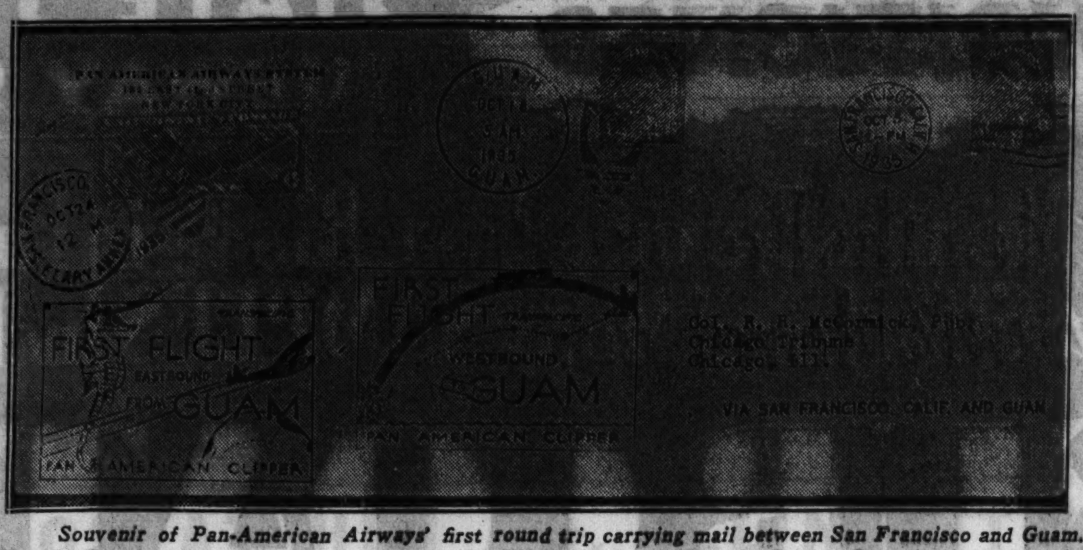
AIR MAIL ON FIRST FLIGHT TO GUAM



Souvenir of Pan-American Airways' first round trip carrying mail between San Francisco and Guam. The big Pan-American Clipper plane makes the 6,600 miles from Alameda, Cal., to Guam in approximately 47 hours flying time.

Letter Received Here

A souvenir airmail letter carried by the Pan-American Clipper plane that made a trial flight from Alameda, Cal., to Guam, island outpost of the orient, and return was received here yesterday. The letter, which was mailed in San Francisco, Cal., on Oct. 5, made a journey of approximately 15,200 miles.

The Clipper plane left Alameda on Oct. 5 with a crew of seven persons and a load of air mail. It arrived at Guam on Oct. 13 after four stops on mid-Pacific islands, flying the distance of 6,600 miles in approximately forty-seven hours flying time. The letters were restamped at Guam and placed on the huge flying boat for the return trip.

AIR MAIL STAMP IS PLANNED FOR PACIFIC FLIGHT

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—(AP)—A new air mail stamp, symbolizing wings following sails and smoke across the Pacific, was planned today for use on the trans-Pacific air mail route.

Postmaster General Farley said the new stamp, of 25 cent denomination, would go on sale Nov. 8 in San Francisco and Washington, and in the rest of the country on the following day.

Rates for the new service, which the Pan-American Airways hope to undertake within the next few months, will be 25 cents to Hawaii, 50 cents to Guam, and 75 cents to the Philippine Islands. No rate has yet been fixed for the full trip to China.

The new stamp will show the sun rising from America upon a seaplane flying over the ocean, upon which appears a Chinese junk, a three masted sailing vessel, a mid-19th century vessel, and a modern ocean liner.

The shields of the United States and of the new Philippine republic will both appear on the stamp.

Farley said collectors must have their covers in San Francisco not later than Nov. 7.

Other rates on the new route were fixed at: Hawaii to Guam, 25 cents; Hawaii to Philippine Islands, 50 cents.

Wife Gets Divorce Decree; Will Take Son to Denmark

STATE OBTAINS COURTHOUSE FOR LINCOLN SHRINE

Mount Pulaski, Ill., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—The deed for the Mount Pulaski courthouse to be used as an Abraham Lincoln shrine has been delivered to the state. The final transaction in the transfer of this historic building to the state of Illinois was completed when a check for $1 was received by City Clerk Charles Schmitz from the state treasurer for the block in which the courthouse is located. The building will be maintained as a Lincoln shrine and the grounds as a state park.

The state will begin work on restoring the building to its original condition as soon as it is vacated. Five thousand dollars has ben appropriated for the work, and $2,500 is available for the salary of a custodian, extra labor, and maintenance of buildings and grounds.

Blind Musician Divorces Her Sightless Husband

Mrs. Mabel McCormick, 34 years old, 3538 Flournoy street, a blind musician, was granted a divorce yesterday by Superior Judge Joseph Sabath from her husband, Neil, 36, also blind, 2312 Monroe street, on a charge of desertion. Mrs. McCormick waived alimony. She told the judge she was able to support herself. The McCormicks were married in 1922. There were no children.

ROBS CAB DRIVER AND TRIES AGAIN; IN HOSPITAL NOW

Joseph Maziarka, 23 years old, 744 North Racine avenue, tried to hold up the same cab driver twice yesterday afternoon, and wound up in the Bridewell hospital with a bullet wound in his right leg.

He hailed the cab of John Goodman, 5021 Quincy street, at Washington boulevard and Ogden avenue, and they started toward Oak Park. Near Augusta boulevard and Lawndale avenue Maziarka drew a revolver and robbed Goodman of $3. As the robber walked away Goodman drove around the block looking for help.

He found Policeman John Olson. A few minutes later they saw Maziarka approaching at Augusta boulebard and Lawndale avenue. The robber flagged Goodman, who stopped the cab. When Maziarka saw Olson he pulled his revolver and fired but the cartridge failed to discharge. Olson shot once and Maziarka surrendered.

FRANCES GOODACRE GETS TIP ON AUTO STYLES

Frances Goodacre (Fashionist, The Hecht Company, Washington): "Mr. Grogan, have you seen any of the 1936 motor car models? I am particularly interested from the standpoint of any radical changes in style and design."

S. Grogan (Auto Editor, Washington Post): "Yes I have. I am sure, for one, you would be interested in the new Dodge. Dodge, of course, has a reputation, I suppose you know, for ruggedness and dependability; a lot of Dodge owners reported amazing gas and oil mileage this past year. There's no gainsaying the fact that Dodge is a fine manufacturing institution, but if it's style you're interested in I don't hesitate to say that this new 1936 Dodge is beyond a doubt the smartest looking, handsomest and most beautiful car that ever came out of the Dodge plant."

REVEAL HIDEOUTS WHERE 'DOC' MAY HAVE BEEN KILLED

Toledo, O., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Federal authorities know the location of two hideouts of the Barker-Karpis gang in the vicinity of Toledo and Sandusky, O., from which Joseph P. "Doc" Moran, Barker-Karpis gangster physician, may have been taken for a one-way boat ride into Lake Erie to prevent him blabbing gang secrets, it was learned today.

One of the hideouts is a cottage at Point Place, a resort near Toledo on Maumee Bay. The other is a cottage near Sandusky. Both were used by the Barker-Karpis gang shortly after the Bremer kidnaping, but when G-men finally learned their location the gang had left.

Federal authorities here decline to confirm or deny reports that Dr. Moran, credited with having mutilated the fingerprints of Alvin Karpis and three of the Barker brothers, was taken for a rowboat trip into Lake Erie, murdered, and his body tossed into the lake. Resorts along the lake north of Toledo have been used repeatedly by gangsters from Detroit and Toledo.

After taking the money while the elevator was ascending the robbers ousted the occupants and then descended to the ground floor and walked through a crowd in the lobby to Michigan avenue.

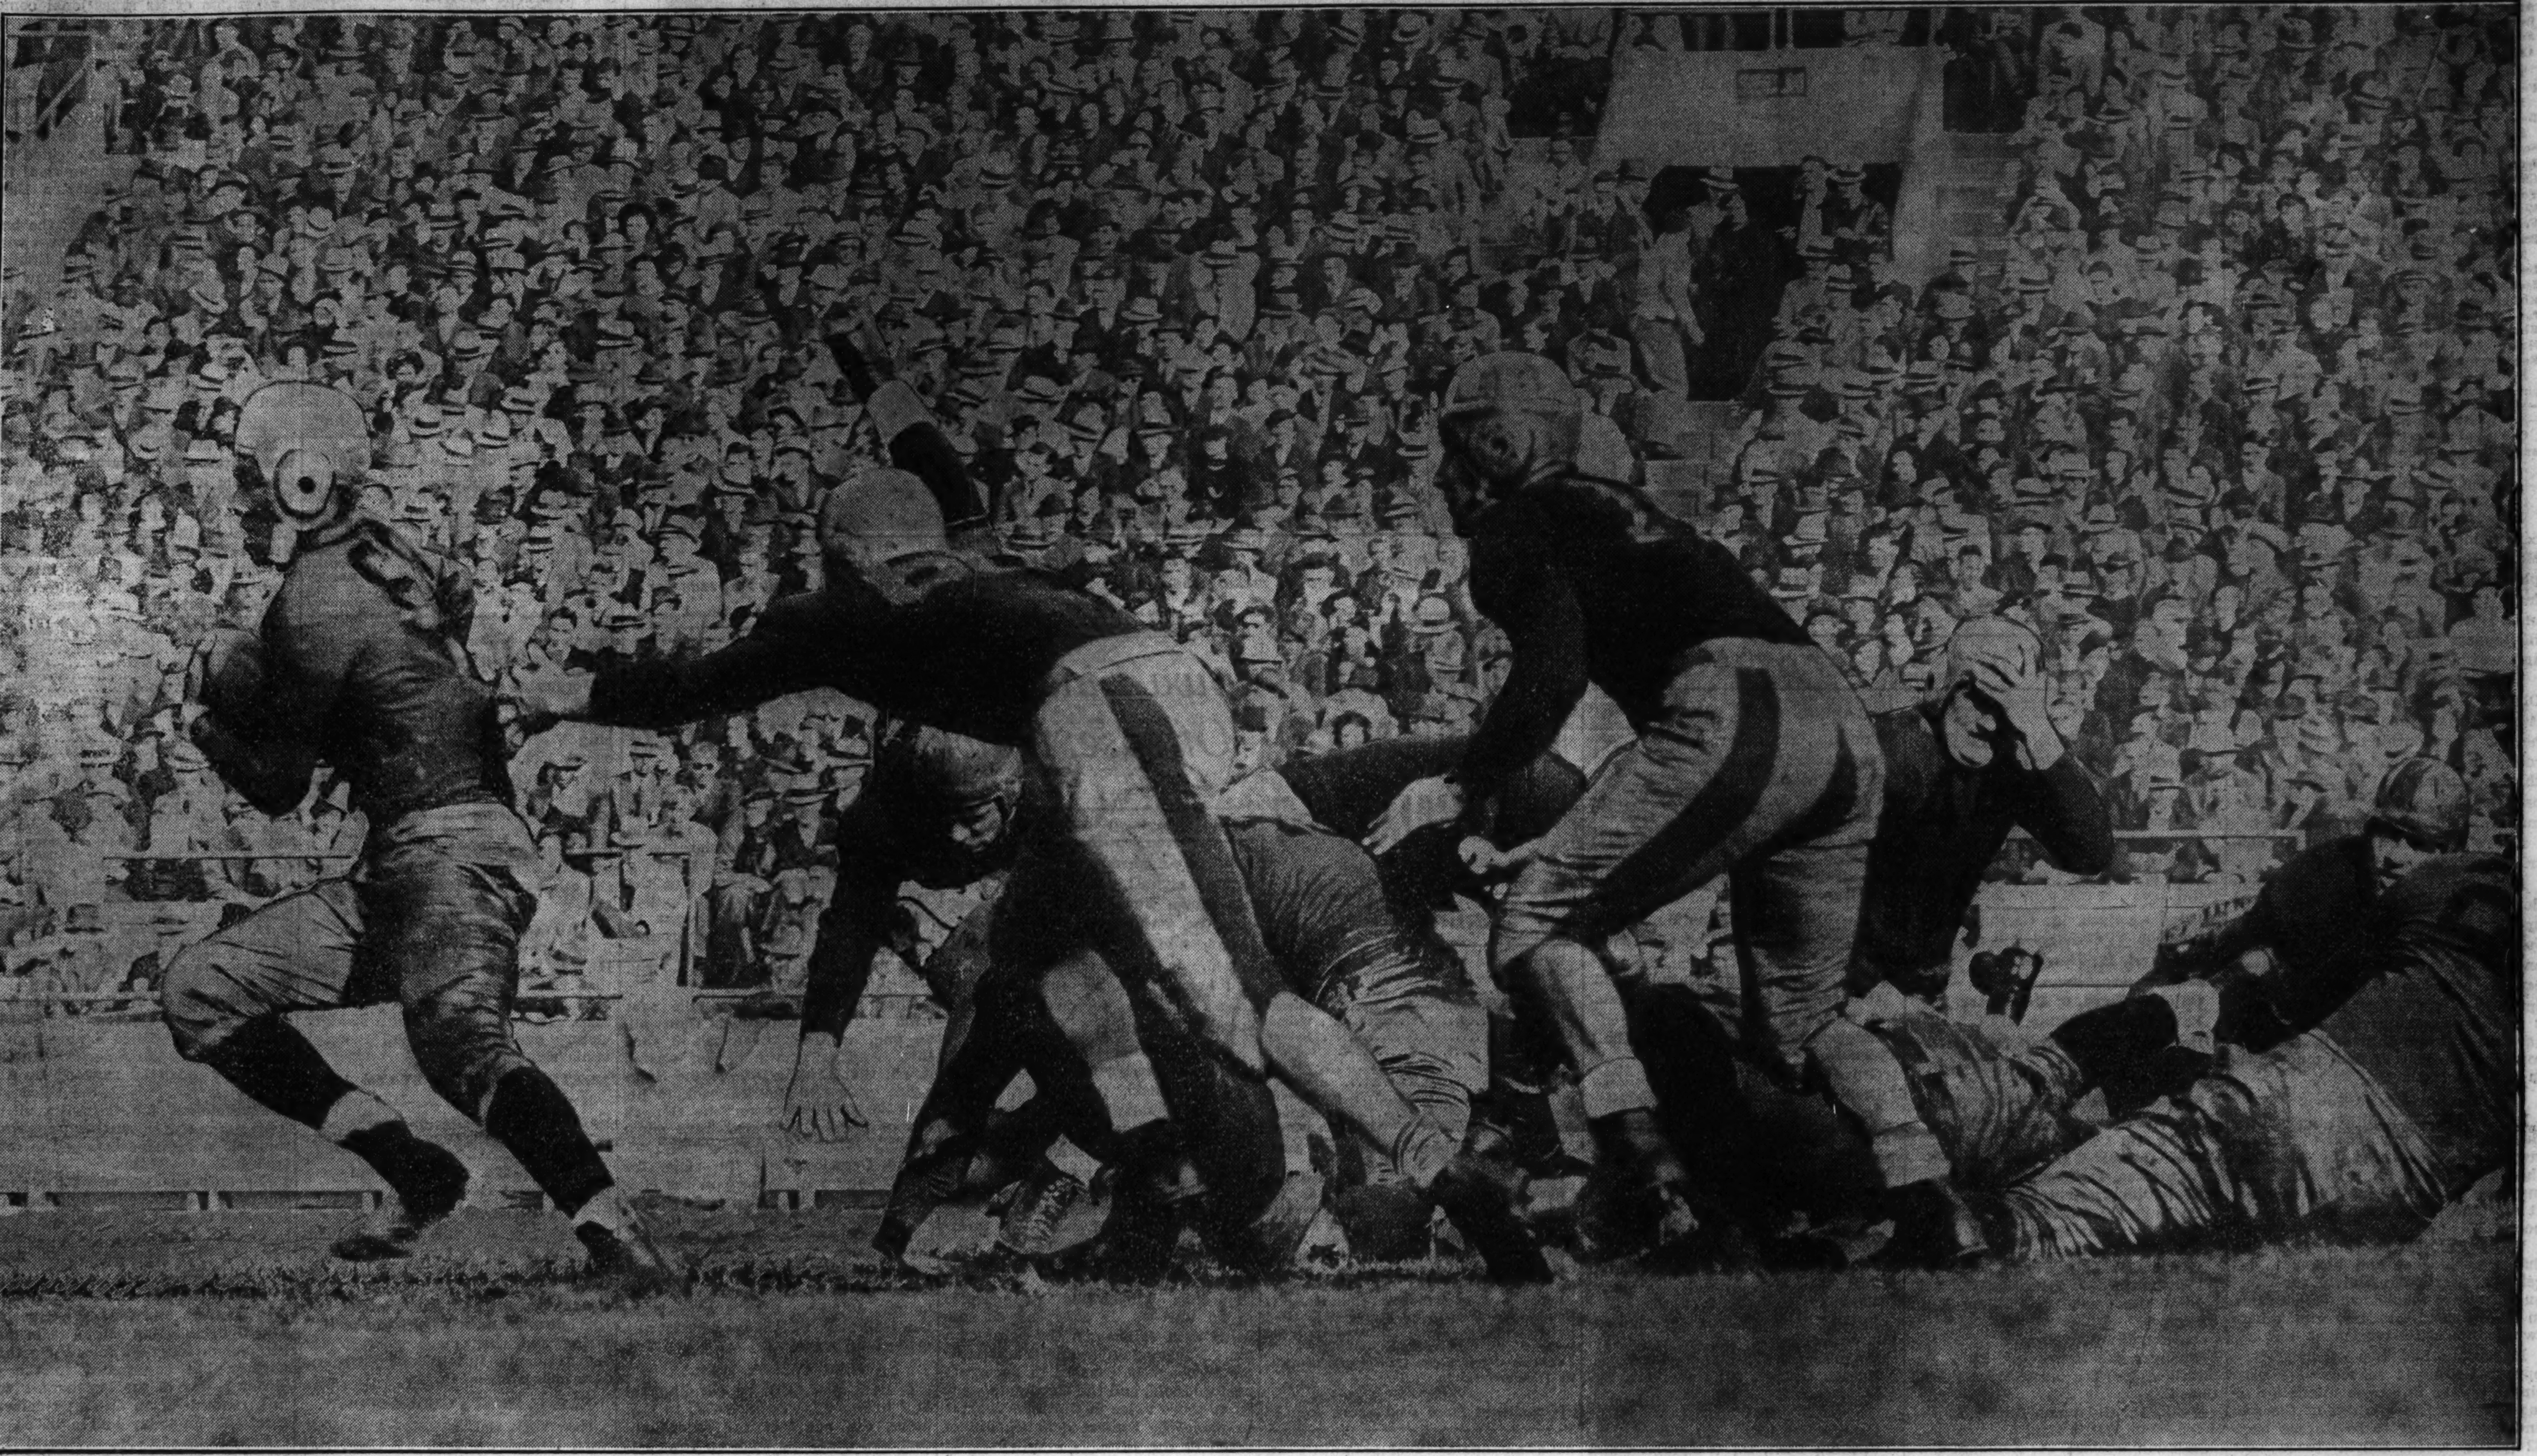
LOOK AT HIM GO, ILLINI! IT'S A 71 YARD TOUCHDOWN RUN



Ozzie Simmons, Iowa's fleet colored half back, breaks through Illinois' right tackle and freeing himself of Cantwell's desperate lunge that just nicks his jersey, starts on his 71 yard jaunt to the goal line. The play occurred early in the second quarter and brought the first score of the Dads' day game which Iowa won at Champaign yesterday, 19 to 0. Simmons reeled off several long runs, but scoring honors went to Capt. Dick Crayne, who crossed the Illini goal twice. It was the first Western conference game for both schools. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

SIMMONS GAINS 192 YARDS TO DAZZLE ILLINI

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 26.—A sturdy phalanx of Iowa linemen, which repeatedly punched gaping holes in Illinois' line through which danced the elusive Oze Simmons and the smashing Dick Crayne, won the Hawkeyes' battle with the Illini, 19 to 0, today in Memorial stadium. By their triumph, before a Dads' day throng of 25,000, the undefeated Iowans hammered home the fact that they must be considered in the Western conference title race.

Iowa's linemen, who held Illinois to a paltry gain of 53 yards and no first downs by rushing, who raced ahead of the ball carriers on every vital play so that a spearhead of gold jersies swept aside the blue of the defenders, dominated the game. Iowa's supremacy rested in them, but, even so, the Illini might have checked the Iowans many times except for Oze Simmons.

Simmons Leads Parade.

It was Simmons, fastest man on the field, who raced 71 yards for Iowa's first touchdown. It was Simmons, a constant threat, who made possible gains by other Iowa backs. And it was Simmons who in 16 attempts crashed through Illinois' line for 192 yards, all but 41 of the 233 yards credited to the Hawkeyes.

Without Simmons Iowa and Illinois would have fought to the final period in scoreless deadlock. It is even conceivable that, despite the Hawkeyes' superb line, the battle might have ended without either team scoring. But, with Simmons, Iowa was a confident, powerful eleven, a menace on every play without regard to position on the field.

EarlyMichigan Attack Beats Columbia, 19-7

New York, Oct. 26.—[Special.]—The University of Michigan, operating under a system of always welcoming opportunity's commands, jammed over two touchdowns in the first five minutes of play to turn back Columbia at Baker field, 19 to 7, today. It was Michigan's first visit to New York. The Wolverine's triumph was watched by 34,000.

A fumble on the first running play of the game gave Michigan its opening opportunity. Michigan had only to travel 16 yards in three plays for a touchdown. The Wolverines then came on again to the two foot line, lost the ball on downs and then ran back a punt from the end zone 42 yards for another touchdown, Chris Everhardus weaving through the widely scattered Lion team for the score.

Columbia, startled by the sudden Michigan attack, rallied thereafter to make a fight of it until the final whistle. Columbia followers were given their greatest thrill when Al Barabas streaked off tackle in the third period for 74 yards and a touchdown.

Michigan Scores on 41 Yard March.

Trailing 12 to 7 and with their attack functioning beautifully, Columbia appeared to have a chance to overtake the Wolverines, but Michigan in the same quarter surged forward to score again. Michigan marched 41 yards on fifteen plays in the face of the grudging Columbia defense before a fourth down pass from Bill Renner to Ernie Johnson was caught in the end zone for the last Wolverine score.

These are the plays that show in the summary. The fierceness of Columbia's struggle to win is shown only when it is recorded that the Lions were balked of a touchdown by the whistle with a first down on the two foot line, and that Barabas' break through the middle of the Michigan line in the final quarter for three yards and an apparent score only to

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 26.—Ohio State's title bound steam roller, expected by its followers to flatten out Indiana's gridiron hopefuls, found a more difficult task than expected this afternoon at Memorial stadium before 17,000 spectators, composed of homecoming alumni augmented by a large delegation from Columbus. Ohio State eventually accomplished that purpose, 28 to 6, but not until Indiana had made a game fight which left the partisans satisfied with the showing of the Cream and Crimson.

Within five minutes of the opening kickoff, Indiana did what Ohio betters wagered it would not accomplish all afternoon. It scored a touchdown on a long forward pass from Vernon Huffman to Roy Eads, good for forty-nine yards.

Buckeyes Take Lead.

Not until just before the first quarter ended were the Buckeyes able to offset this margin and then a break helped. A mistake in Indiana signals left the ball vagrant on the greensward after the pass from center. Wendt rescued it for the Buckeyes at Indiana's 13 yard line.

Tippy Dye and Jumping Joe Williams then entered the fray. After three punches at the Hoosier line without material gain, Dye passed to Williams at right end and he completed the remaining six yards for the touchdown. Richard Beltz, placekicking specialist, then went into the game to add the additional point which put Ohio State ahead, 7 to 6, because Capt. Kelso failed on Indiana's similar attempt.

All through the second period Indiana, playing desperately in its line

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 26.—The football power that belongs to Notre Dame was turned loose on the Navy today and Uncle Sam's sea force, as represented on the gridiron by the Midshipmen, was completely bottled up by 14 to 0 before 63,000 in the Municipal stadium.

The 63,000, including the entire Annapolis corps and even the Navy goat with his brass trimmed horns, packed into the stadium in expectation of a real fight. The fight didn't materialize. The Irish, after feeling their way, suddenly opened up, scored two touchdowns in the second quarter, and then went back into their shell, contented with the amount of damage done.

Thus the jolts administered unexpectedly by the Navy to the Irish in 1933 and 1934 were wiped out in a few minutes of activity that had the future sea dogs as helpless as babes.

Second Team Rips Loose.

What the victorious Irish might have done to their two year nuisance if a big score had been sought never will be known. The first team was tendered the privilege of charting the course in the first period. They didn't score. With the start of the second quarter the second eleven, assisted by Fred Carideo and Mike Layden, ripped loose with the touchdown performances.

The first team relieved them to defend the margin until half time was reached. Then the first stringers were seen no more. The second team came back, then the third and even members of the fourth team handled the proceedings to the finish.

Gaul, Layden Score.

Passes proved the downfall of the Middies. A pass grabbed by Frank Gaul, who charged thirty-eight yards after receiving the ball from Andy Pilney, brought on the first touchdown. That was the climax of a drive which started from Notre Dame's 20 yard line.

Only a few minutes elapsed before the touchdown incident was repeated. The Navy 39 yard line marked the point of this advance. After some running plays the Irish passed again, this time Gaul taking the ball on the Middies' 10 yard line. Then after a line play Pilney passed to Mike

MAROONS CLIMB OUT OF CELLAR IN 13-7 VICTORY

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Those Maroons, who last smacked down the Wisconsin Badgers in 1927, got around to doing it again yesterday and thereby took the elevator right out of the Big Ten zero sector. The Midway gents were ahead, 6 to 0, in the second quarter, behind, 7 to 6, for a while in the third quarter, then went ahead in the same period and wound up that way, winning, 13 to 7.

Jay Berwanger, sometimes called Chicago's one man football team, with injustice to other sterling performers, scored all of his team's points, and, as usual, was a standout. But Jay's part was far from a solo, stirring as it was. For instance, take that Persian boy, Omar Fareed, who made Chicago's aerial attack work. Without Omar's passing Chicago probably wouldn't have come from behind for the victory touchdown.

Fumble Paves Touchdown Path.

Chicago's first touchdown was made in the fifth minute of the second quarter when Berwanger went over after the ball had been obtained on the one foot line when Wisconsin fumbled in an attempted surprise lateral play on the goal line.

The Badgers' touchdown bloomed from a fumble also, but involved some nice play after the ball had been recovered by Stephen Rondone on the Maroons' 20 yard line. The touchdown was scored by John Wilson, who made both of the Badgers' two previous Big Ten touchdowns last week. Lynn Jordan added the point from placement.

Maroon partisans had a great time during the action which followed the Wisconsin touchdown. They saw Berwanger run 78 yards. They saw Wis-

Carnegie Pass and Run Beat Purdue, 7 to 0

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 26.—The mellow October sun beamed down on Ross-Ade stadium this evening in all its glory, but it found only melancholy, for old Purdue had just suffered its first football defeat of the season, and at homecoming of all times. This unhappy blight on the annual gathering of the Boilermaker clan took the form of a 7 to 0 loss to an earnest band of young men from Carnegie Tech, who already had tasted the gall of three consecutive whippings.

If there be woe along the Wabash tonight it is not without its happy side, for the 15,000 homecomers who saw the Boilermakers lose also saw them come back with a fighting brand of football which kept the old grads hysterical throughout most of the fourth quarter.

McGannon Gets Loose, but Falls.

The tragedy of the afternoon for the home folks came with the Techs leading, 7 to 0. Tom McGannon, the Evansville back, took a Carnegie punt and raced past all his foes. Just as he reached the Carnegie 36 yard line, bound for a touchdown, he slipped and Purdue's biggest tying threat was ended.

The homecomers had the daylights scared out of them before the game was hardly under way. Six straight passes, all of them completed, brought Carnegie down to within inches of a touchdown, but Purdue's line, unscored upon until today, made them hold still there.

Purdue Misses Several Chances.

The Boilermakers sent in the first team for the second quarter, and twice they battled their way within the ten yard line, only to halt there. Another Purdue sally in the third quarter ended when a hard working 160 pound Tech back named Jerry

NO DEFENSE FOR THOMPSON, SO WILDCATS LOSE

BY ARCH WARD.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 26.—Paul Bunyan, whose tall tales of physical prowess have been sung in northern logging camps for many years, no longer is a mythical character. In dramatic lore he is known as Minnesota's oldest tradition, the university's patron saint. In reality he is a 168 pound sophomore named Clarence Thompson, who plays right half back on Bernie Bierman's 1935 football team. He was the main reason why Minnesota today defeated Northwestern, 21 to 13, for its fourth straight victory of the season.

The Paul Bunyan legend grips the imagination of the northland because its hero was so strong, so rugged, and so resourceful in overcoming obstacles. Minnesota's pioneers were like that and the spirit survives today. Judging by the performance of Thompson and his mates this afternoon Minnesota has lost nothing of the strength and vigorous character that led to the immortalizating of the Bunyan myth.

Thompson to the Rescue.

Thompson was the spark that enabled a Minnesota team that trailed at the half, 13 to 7, to come from behind and extend its record to 20 games without a defeat. Fifty-two thousand, one of the largest crowds in Minnesota's history, saw the game.

Thompson put his team back in the battle early in the third quarter with a touchdown that tied the score. He clinched victory in the final period with a 36 yard race to the goal that dashed Northwestern's hopes.

So brilliant and inspiring was the sprinting, dodging, weaving fandango that Thompson danced in that deci-

BY CHARLES NEVADA.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 26.—With a convincing display of power, the Marquette football team today toppled the University of Mississippi from the ranks of undefeated and untied teams, 33 to 7. It was the Hilltoppers' fourth victory in a row and was accomplished before 13,500.

Marquette started embarrassing Ole Miss in the first minute and kept it up until the final gun. Art Guepe headed the Marquette attack that rolled up five touchdowns in the first three quarters. The 170 pound quarter back had ample help from his teammates, particularly on pass plays.

Art Guepe—Scored his first touchdown on the first play after the opening kickoff when he caught a 40 yard pass from Ray Buivid and ran another 40 yards to the goal. Intercepted Clarence Hapes' pass and sprinted 22 yards for touchdown No. 2 in the second quarter. Took a 15 yard pass from Buivid in the end zone for Marquette's final touchdown in the third quarter.

Buivid Goes to Town.

Ray Buivid—In addition to accurate throwing for touchdowns, demonstrated his versatility by breaking through the line for a 76 yard scoring scamper in the opening quarter. It was the longest run of the afternoon.

Ward Cuff—Took time from his duties as blocker and kicker to receive a pass from Buivid for Marquette's third touchdown, which came in the second quarter, and added two points with placement kicks.

Marquette had two other scoring opportunities. It moved to Mississippi's 8 yard line from midfield during the first five minutes of the second quarter, only to be thrown back 32 yards when Buivid twice was tackled without getting the ball away on attempted passes. The Hilltoppers reached the Mississippi 1 yard line in the last minute of the final quarter on a march from their 10 yard line and then lost their punch. Runs of 37 yards and 42 yards by Art Guepe featured this drive.

Ole Miss Finally Scores.

After having its first threat terminated on Marquette's 7 yard line at the outset of the fourth quarter, Ole Miss, which until today had averaged 41 points a game, was presented with another opportunity ten minutes later and made the most of it. Len Mierzwa's weak punt following Al Guepe's fumble gave the invaders the ball on Marquette's 22 yard line and on the first play Rab Rodgers shot a pass to Bobo Foose, a substitute, who had only a short distance to travel for the touchdown.

LONG ISLAND LABRADOR WINS IN FIELD TRIALS

Two Labrador retrievers owned by Jay F. Carlisle, East Islip, Long Island, dominated the junior stake of the first annual all-breed retriever trials staged yesterday at Barrington by the Midwest Field Trial club.

Carlisle's dogs won first and third places, while Chicagoland dogs took second and fourth prizes. Ponchery of Wingan, an 18 month old female, was the first place dog; Tyke of Barrington, owned by William Walker, Park Ridge, was second; Pons Junior of Wingan was third, and Yewtree Ted, owned by James O. Heyworth Jr., Lake Forest, was fourth.

A gallery of nearly 300 watched the dogs work in the rough marsh growth on the Thomas Howell estate south of Barrington. Work was done both on land and water retrieving. The judges were Martin J. Hogan, Barrington, and Dr. A. C. Gifford, Oshkosh, Wis. Official guns were Walter Peacock, J. R. Graham, Gerald Batten, and George McDermott.

The trial, the first of its kind ever held in the middle west, ends today.

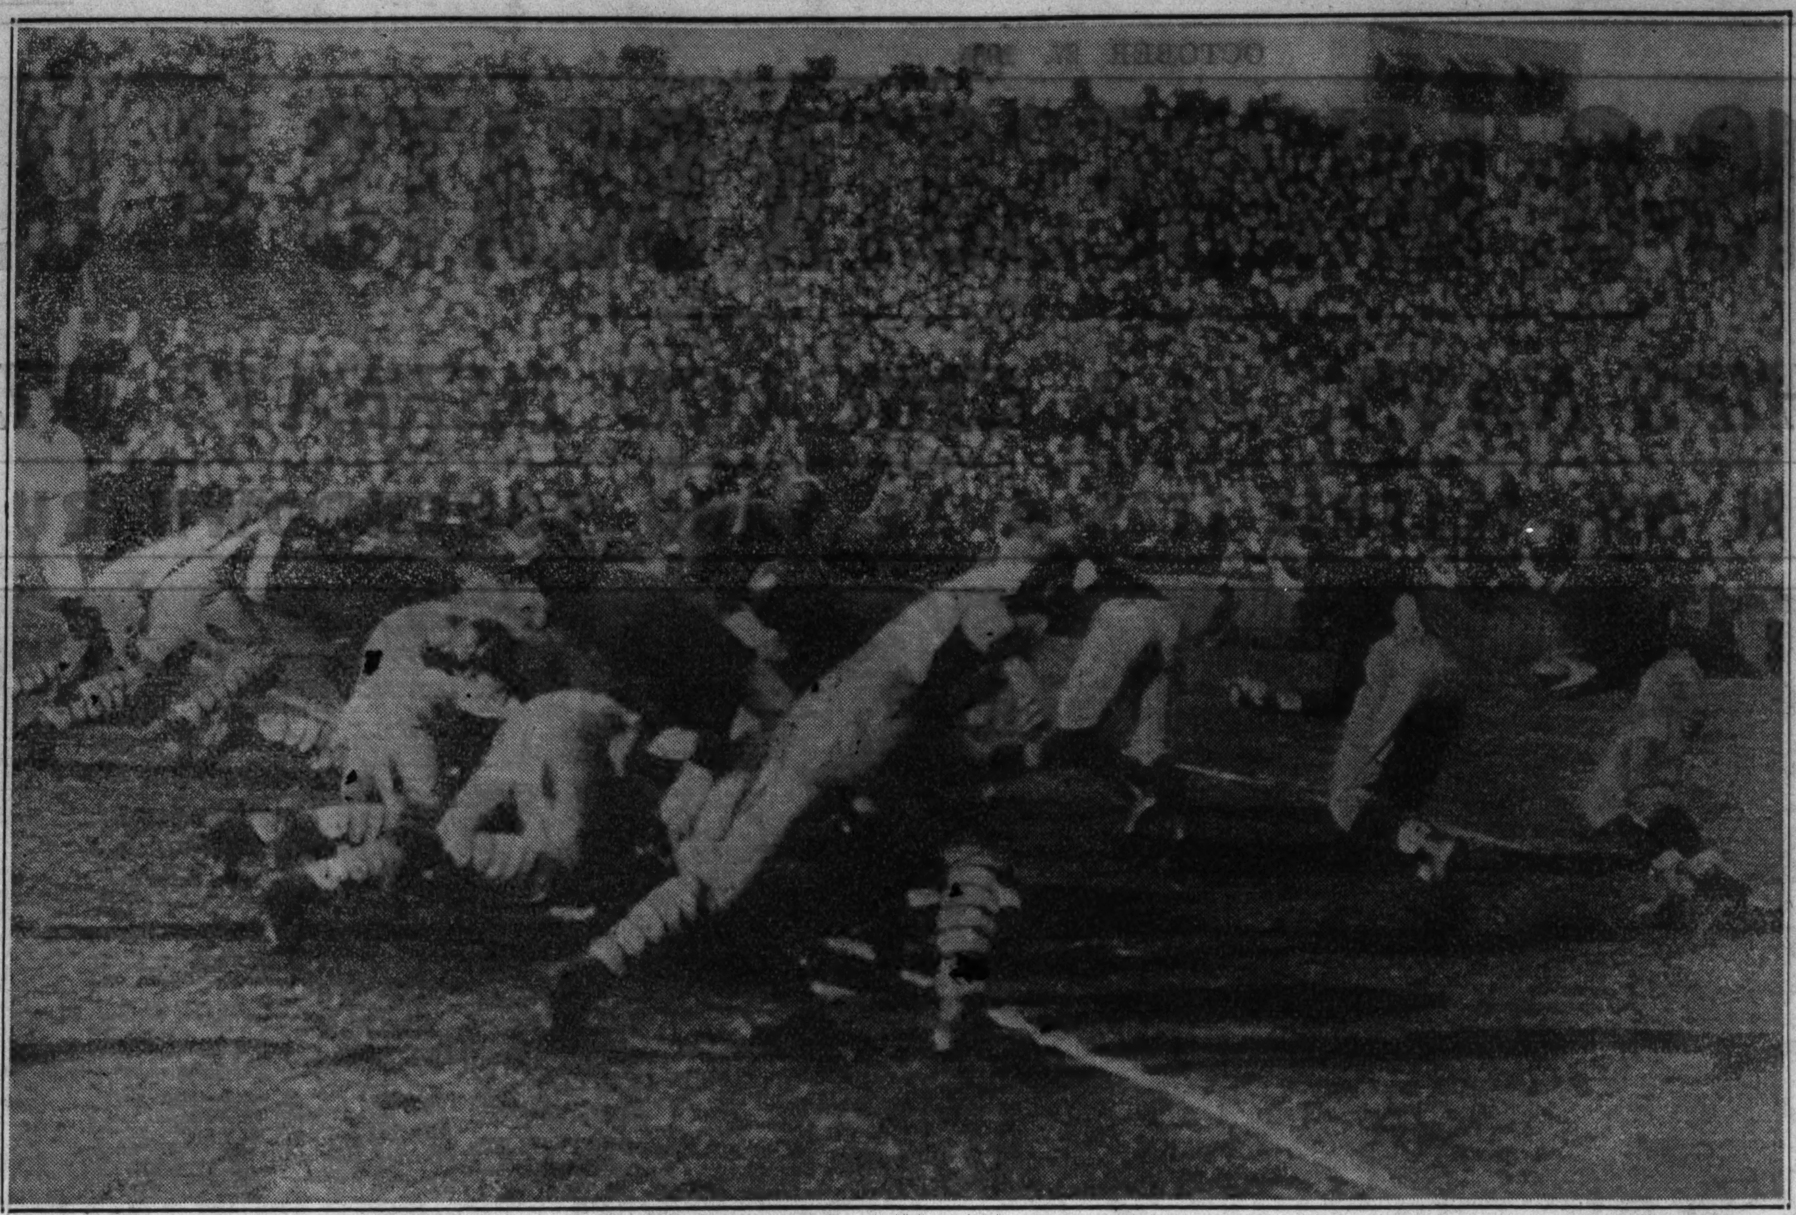
South Side Junior college celebrated its homecoming yesterday with a 46 to 6 victory over Morgan Park Junior college at White City. Weir made the Morgan Park touchdown while Chatman scored two, and Schumaker, Stratton, Wilkinson, Wallace and Havlic each tallied once. Points after touchdown were made by Havlic, Stephna, Powell and Wallace.

WOLVERINES' EARLY RUSH PUSHES ASIDE COLUMBIA'S LIONS



Chris Everhardus (extreme right) goes on a five yard run against Columbia yesterday in New York, where Michigan scored a 19 to 7 victory by dazzling the Lions with two touchdowns in the first five minutes. Everhardus shared with Al Barabas of Columbia the honor of making the longest runs. The Columbia captain sprinted 74 yards for a touchdown and Everhardus crossed the goal line in returning a punt 42 yards.

have an offside penalty nullify it. Columbia also surged to the eight yard line only to have a pass intercepted.

Columbia Fumbles Pass.

On the first play of the game John Hudasky of Columbia tossed a lateral to Barabas. The throw was ill aimed and the catch fumbled. Matt Patanelli, Michigan end, fell on it on the 16 yard line and the Wolverine attack was under way.

Renner pegged a pass to John Smithers, a toss that ended with the Michigan back forced out of bounds on the 3 yard line. Smithers cracked the line once for two and a half yards and hit it again on the next play for the touchdown.

Following the kickoff and two plays, Columbia punted. Everhardus returned the ball to the Lion 43 yard line. Two plays accounted for five yards and Everhardus swept off his own left tackle on a reverse and traveled 34 yards for a first down on the 4 yard line. Columbia took the ball on downs at the two foot line and John McMahon kicked.

Everhardus snatched the ball on the dead run on the 42 yard line and did not stop until he crossed the goal line. Again John Viergever, Michigan tackle, attempted to kick, but for the second time George Saffa blocked it.

Columbia then marched 58 yards to the two foot line a moment before the end of the first half.

Barabas Gives Lions Score.

Early in the third period it was Columbia's ball on its own 26 yard line. Barabas sliced off tackle and cut back to elude the Michigan secondaries. Then he reversed his field again, but was hemmed in by three Wolverine tacklers at the Michigan 40 yard line. He stopped dead in his tracks, moved clear of them and ran straight toward the side lines, eluded one more tackler and crossed over standing up. He added the extra point.

The Wolverines marched 41 yards in the same period and the Renner to Johnson pass insured the victory.

Columbia, though, was not quite ready to admit it. The Lions went 36 yards near the start of the fourth quarter only to have the pass interception by Stark Ritchie halt them. On they came up to the 3 yard line after a 50 yard drive. Barabas went through center for a touchdown that was called back and Columbia's bid was ended.

POLLY BEST SETTER.

Hawkeyes flashed as nearly a perfect defense against passes as any team has shown when faced with Illinois' deceptive aerial attack. By its passes Illinois had whipped Southern California. It was by passing Illinois had hoped to offset the power of Iowa's heavier forwards and the speed of Simmons.

Intercept Six Passes.

But the Hawkeye backs, assisted by Ted Osmaloski, the center, called back to secondary position, blanketed Illini passes. Six of Illinois' 25 forward passes were intercepted, and Illinois' greatest threat, a drive which reached the Iowa nine yard line in the third period, when Iowa led only 7 to 0, ended with Dick Crayne intercepting Lowell Spurgeon's pass.

That was the high tide of Illinois progress, a sortie which had the thousands of loyal Illinois supporters in an uproar. It collapsed as suddenly as a balloon on the point of a pin. Never again could Illinois muster accuracy of passing to penetrate past midfield, and the Hawkeyes went on to score twice in the final quarter to place the contest definitly out of reach of the Illini.

Illinois threw back Iowa's first threat, an opening created in the first quarter when Bob Lannon, Iowa end fell on Spurgeon's fumble on Illinois' 20 yard line. Simmons swept around Illinois' right end for ten yards and first down. Four more times he handled the ball and on the last, Illinois threw the Iowa star on the 25 yard line as he vainly attempted to pass.

Penalty Stops Illini.

The situation now was reversed with startling rapidity. Lindberg kicked to Simmons, who returned to Iowa's 24 yard line. Then Spurgeon stepped in front of Crayne's first down forward pass and raced to Iowa's 21 yard line before he was dropped by Cornie Walker.

Fifteen yards assessed against Illinois for holding checked the Illini almost at once and on third down Simmons took Wib Henry's long pass in Iowa's end zone and downed the ball for a touchback.

Once again Illinois returned to the attack when Spurgeon made a brilliant return of Crayne's punt to Iowa's 21 yard line. But once more the Hawks' alert backs checked Illini passes, this time Paul Akin grabbing the ball thrown by Henry. It was Iowa's ball on its 20 yard line as the teams changed goals at the end of the first period.

Simmons crashed through the line for four yards and Iowa received five more yards when Illinois was offside. Then, without warning Simmons took command.

And There Goes Oze!

The Iowa linemen split open a hole between Chuck Galbreath and Cliff Kuhn. Through that gap dashed Simmons, his first strides taking him past Elvin Sayre, backing up the left side of the Illinois line. Simmons unloosed his speed and outran others in the secondary. Only Jewett Cole, at safety, had a chance to reach the flying colored boy and at Illinois' 20 yard line Simmons used his right arm to push Cole sprawling on the turf. Then he continued to the goal, a dash of 71 yards. Bush Lamb, with Simmons holding, place kicked the extra point. Iowa led, 7 to 0.

Shortly after, Iowa's only completed forward pass of the game, a throw down the center of the Illini defense from Crayne to Don Simmons, netted 17 yards and put the ball on Illinois' 32 yard line. Brother Oze and Crayne hammered to Illinois' 15 yard line and here, on fourth down, Lamb's attempted place kick shot low and to the left of the posts.

Crayne Steps In.

Illinois' opportunity to tie the score at the start of the second half resulted from an Iowa misplay. The Hawks had received the kickoff, accomplished one first down at midfield when Dick Bowlin, after slashing at left tackle, threw a lateral pass wildly in the direction of Simmons at the flank. Simmons jumped and pulled down the ball just as a wave of tacklers hurled him to the ground, the ball bounding back to Iowa's 26 yard line where John Theodore, Illinois full back recovered.

Three plays, the last a rifle pass from Spurgeon to Francis Cantwell, an end, advanced to Iowa's 9 yard line. And it was here, on second down, that Crayne intercepted Spurgeon's pass and hustled back to his own 30 yard line, where he stepped out of bounds in a mad race down field.

Ted Osmaloski set the stage for Iowa's second touchdown in the closing minutes of the third period when he intercepted Henry's pass to Bob Grieve on Iowa's 48 yard line. Crayne hit the line for six yards and then Simmons knifed inside of Illinois' right tackle and was run out of bounds 10 yards from the goal. On the last play of the period Bowlin made four yards.

Illini Unmask Trick.

A trick play, Crayne handing the ball to Bowlin, who lateraled to Simmons, did not fool the Illini, who cornered Simmons back on Iowa's 17 yard line. Simmons stopped, standing upright in the grasp of a tackler at the referee's whistle, but the Illinois full back, Tom Wilson, apparently did not hear the whistle, or, if hearing, not heeding it, came in at full speed and knocked Simmons to the ground. Referee Lourie immediately paced off a 15 yard penalty for unnecessary roughness, which gave Iowa the ball on Illinois' 2 yard line.

Crayne hit straight ahead over center for the touchdown, but Lamb's place kick was wide. Iowa led 13 to 0.

Illinois now resorted to passes whenever in possession of the ball, even although deep in its own territory. With six minutes left to play, Lindberg's forward pass bounced from Henry's outstretched hands and Lamb grabbed the ball and was dropped on the Illini's 27 yard line.

Crayne Goes Over.

On the first play Lamb fed the ball to Lannon, left end, who circled Illinois' left flank. Lannon was run out on Illinois' five yard line. Simmons was held to a yard gain and Crayne was stopped at the scrimmage line. On third down Crayne hammering at Illinois' left guard and left tackle, was stopped momentarily, but slid along the pile of defenders to fall across the goal line outside of the end. Crayne's place kick missed.

Iowa accomplished 13 first downs, of which 11 were by rushing. One was by penalty and one by passing. Illinois failed to make a first down by rushing, and without a serious line threat made possible Iowa's disposition of secondary defense which held Illini passing. Four times Illinois completed passes for first downs and two penalties gave first downs.

Punting Is Excellent.

Iowa completed one forward pass in four attempts for a gain of 17 yards. Two passes were intercepted and one fell incomplete. Illinois passed 25 times, completing seven for 77 yards. Six passes were intercepted. The kicking averages were excellent. Iowa averaging 43 yards, while Lindberg and Nelson averaged 46 yards on their seven punts.

Iowa fumbled seven times, recovering five. Illinois recovered one of its two fumbles. Four yardage penalties against Illinois totaled 50 yards, while Iowa, on four penalties, lost 40 yards.

Dartmouth Rolls Over Harvard, 14-6

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Dartmouth retained its place among the undefeated, untied major football teams of the country today with a 14 to 6 triumph over a courageous Harvard eleven in their forty-second meeting. Thirty-five thousand saw the battle.

Dartmouth showed superiority in every department except punting and it was only two determined goal line stands by the Crimson in the last half that kept it from running up a more decisive score. Harvard made only one first down all afternoon, while Dartmouth was compiling seventeen.

No. 1 for Dartmouth.

The first touchdown was scored by Dartmouth midway in the first period with such ease that the majority of the spectators prepared to witness a slaughter. The march started in midfield and ended with Full Back Kiernan smashing across the goal line. Joe Handrahan added the extra point.

In the third period Fred Hollingworth and Handrahan collaborated in another march to the goal line, Hollingsworth going across from the 6 yard line. Handrahan added the point from placement.

Harvard Fights Back.

Harvard matched Dartmouth's first touchdown with a score of its own in the second quarter. It followed a 35 yard dash through the middle of the Indians' line by George Hedblom, the longest run of the game. Tommy Bilodeau's attempt from placement was blocked.

Dartmouth held the ball fully two-thirds of the time in the last half. Lineup:

ARMY TRIUMPHS OVER YALE, 14-8, BEFORE 47,000

Monk Meyer Leads Cadets to Victory.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Yale's hopes for an unbeaten campaign ended today with its fourth successive defeat by Army. The score was 14 to 8.

In a spectacle that kept the crowd of 47,000 delirious with excitement West Point established a 14 to 6 lead by the half and then desperately fought to prevent Yale from staging a repetition of its sensational comeback against Pennsylvania.

Meyer Scores First.

Charley [Monk] Meyer, who rose from obscurity as the hero of the Cadets' victory over Harvard a week ago, again stood forth vividly today, though in the last analysis it was Army's powerful line that decided the game. Meyer had a strong rival for individual honors in Quarter Back Bill Grohs.

It was Meyer who carried the ball over for Army's first touchdown with good blocking assistance by Stanley Smith. It was Meyer who threw the passes that put the ball in position for his touchdown run around left end and who threw the pass to Janzan for the second touchdown at the climax of a 52 yard march. Yale had pulled up to 6 to 7 with a 77 yard advance.

Meyer Kicks Well.

Meyer's steady, unwavering kicking under pressure was valuable to Army when the madly attacking Elis were threatening to get out of hand in the third period. It was again Meyer who saved the day for West Point with two interceptions of passes in the last half. One of these interceptions resulted in a safety, Meyer tumbling into his own end zone.

PRINCETON, 54; CORNELL, 0.

Ithaca, N. Y., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Princeton established a new high in its twenty-four game series with Cornell here today by running up a 54 to 0 victory. It was the third successive defeat for Cornell and the fourth consecutive victory for Princeton, which remains among the country's unbeaten teams.

For only one period of the game, the first, was Cornell's light and unseasoned team able to hold the Tigers in check. Once they got in motion, however, the Nassau backs never stopped running.

PITT BEATS PENN STATE.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—A fighting Penn State team held Pittsburgh scoreless for nearly three periods, but succumbed to the superior power of the Panthers, 9 to 0 in a renewal of an ancient rivalry at Pitt stadium today before 18,000.

Penn State stopped several Pitt marches by courageous goal line stands in the early part of the game. Frank Patrick, sophomore full back of the Panthers, scored all of Pitt's points, kicking a placement goal from the 14 yard line and diving over for a touchdown from the State one yard line in the last period.

HOLY CROSS WINS.

Worcester, Mass., Oct. 26.—[U. P.]—A field goal by Rex Kidd, quarter back, in the third period gave Holy Cross a 3 to 0 victory over Colgate today before a crowd of 25,000, the largest sports gathering ever seen in this city.

PENN, 67; LAFAYETTE, 0.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Pennsylvania ran over Lafayette here today, scoring ten touchdowns and seven extra points to submerge the Leopards under a 67-0 count.

In a great display of manpower the Red and Blue scored at least two touchdowns in every period while Lafayette failed to move past its own 40 yard line at any time.

AMHERST WINS, 26-0.

Amherst, Mass., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Rallying after an upsetting first half, Amherst scored four times during the last two periods to rout Wesleyan, 26 to 0, here today.

SYRACUSE, 19; BROWN, 0.

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 26.—(AP)—With Fullback Vannie Albanese of Manlius, N. Y., accounting for all three touchdowns, Syracuse today beat Brown, 19 to 0.

Plunges of Dick Crayne Help Iowa Whip Illinois—Purdue Loses in Upset—Chicago Downs Wisconsin

CAPTAIN SUPPLIES POWER AND DRIVE IN IOWA BACK FIELD—Dick Crayne, Hawkeye leader, smashes through Illinois line for a gain in the first quarter at Champaign yesterday. With the aid of a heavy, hard charging line and assisted by the fleet Ozzie Simmons, Crayne directed Iowa to a 19 to 0 victory and contributed two touchdowns to the total. Simmons made the other touchdown on a 71 yard run. Note the young man on the ground behind Crayne. He seems to be listening to the birdies go tweet, tweet.

WHEN PURDUE FELL FROM UNDEFEATED RANKS—John Drake, Purdue full back, nears the end of a gain through Carnegie Tech's line in the second quarter of game at Lafayette, Ind., yesterday. At the time the Boilermakers still thought it would be a matter of time until they forced Carnegie to yield a touchdown, but it was the hitherto undefeated and unscored on Purdue squad that had its goal line crossed. Carnegie put over its touchdown on a pass that netted 69 yards in the fourth period and won, 7 to 0.

A BUCKEYE SMASHES THROUGH FOR 12 YARDS—Full Back Antenucci of Ohio State plows through Indiana for sizeable gain at Bloomington, Ind., yesterday. The Hoosiers were first to score and trailed by only 7 to 6 at the half. The final score was 28 to 6.

KICKING OUT OF DANGER IN CELLAR BATTLE—J. Wilson of Wisconsin boots the ball high and far and has no worry about University of Chicago linemen getting close. The Badgers, and Full Back Jankowski in particular, at the moment are thinking solely of getting down the field and preventing a Maroon from returning the punt. Yesterday's 13 to 7 victory at Stagg field lifted the Maroons out of a tie with the Badgers for the Western conference cellar championship.

Michigan State Drive Piles Up 47-13 Victory

East Lansing, Mich., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Michigan State led by Al Agett showed its old time power and drive to run over Washington university, 47 to 13, this afternoon. Brandstatter, State full back, scored in the first minute when he broke loose for 51 yards. Warmbein crashed over for the second score within five minutes of play.

Agett replaced Warmbein to start the second quarter and State's attack for the rest of the game centered around him. He went over from the ten yard line for the third Spartan score. Early in the third period Agett broke loose for a 53 yard gallop and was downed on Washington's nine yard line. He then passed to Brandstatter for the fourth touchdown.

Lateral-Forward Play Scores.

Washington made its first score on a play in which three lateral passes were followed by a forward to Hafli, who went to the three yard line. Hudgens then plunged across. State scored again when Agett passed to Allman for 55 yards.

The Spartans added 14 more points in the final quarter when Agett went over on an end around play. Agett then followed with a 64 yard run for the final touchdown. Blumberg drove over for Washington's second score late in the fourth quarter.

Spartans Outgain Bears.

Washington made 13 first downs to nine for State, but the Spartans rolled up 311 yards to 117 for the Bears.

Thompson Leads Minnesota to 21-13 Victory Over N. U.

sive drive that there were those who linked his name to that of McGovern, Martineau, Kostka, Lund, and Gophers of other years. And this, mind you, was the first time the young sophomore had a chance to show what he could do.

Purple Supplies First Thrill.

Thompson has a style that is loping, almost lazy. But suddenly he picks up a burst of speed and changes his direction amazingly fast. He seems to have a panoramic eye, an ability to see the whole field at the height of a run and to know exactly where to go.

With Thompson out of the struggle it was anybody's game. Northwestern, off to a whirlwind start, was always dangerous, always fighting to pull the game out of the fire. But Minnesota had the power both on offense and defense when power was needed. Northwestern's dynamos stopped once or twice when another turn meant a score.

An indication of the thrills that were in store came in the first two minutes of play. Northwestern kicked off and Minnesota was unable to gain in two tries. George Roscoe, left half back, punted out of bounds on the Purple's 37 yard line. Wally Cruice made four yards at his left tackle and then came the play that stunned the Minnesota stands.

Wray Saves Play.

The ball was passed to Bob Swisher, who whirled through an opening between tackle and end on the left side of the Minnesota line, eluded the Gophers' secondary and ran 57 yards to the goal. Northwestern's team play on this particular effort was a perfect thing to watch. Its timing was right, its blocking superb. The Gophers resembled a group of disorganized kids trying to stop the fly wheels of a power house with their bare hands and belting bodies.

As Swisher started through the opening in the line he bore hard for the right sidelines and then seemed to be in the clutches of a Minnesota trap. Gophers were around him as thick as flies. But he was an elusive phantom, an intangible something that mocked at Minnesota tacklers who threw themselves at him only to see him fade away and elude them. Ten yards from the goal they almost got him from behind, but Park Wray came to the rescue with a beautiful block that swept Sheldon Beise, Minnesota's safety man, out of the way. Steve Toth's attempt to add the extra point failed.

Was It Hot, Fellows?

Northwestern enjoyed its advantage only another minute or two. Swisher, whose brilliant run still had the fans gasping, fumbled Minnesota's kickoff and Robert Weld, guard, recovered for the Gophers on the Wildcats' 17 yard line.

Roscoe and Rennix, Minnesota half backs, gained only two yards in two attempts, but on the next, Roscoe, faking an end run, slipped the ball to Beise, who crashed straight through center for a touchdown. The play was so cleverly masked that hardly a Northwestern hand was laid on the Gopher full back. Vernal LeVoir, who has missed only one placement kick in three years, scored the extra point and Minnesota was in front, 7 to 6.

Loose handling of the ball got the Wildcats in trouble again a few minutes later. Hugh Duvall fumbled on a line play and Reed recovered for Minnesota on the Purple's 25 yard line. The situation was evened up when Roscoe immediately let the ball bounce out of his hands, Northwestern recovering on its own 33 yard line.

Duval Misses Kick.

Northwestern threatened to score early in the second period after Cruice made 26 yards on an off tackle play. Stopped on Minnesota's 28 yard line, Northwestern called upon Duvall for a place kick but it was short by 15 yards.

Don Heap, substituting for Swisher, got another Northwestern parade under way, one that wasn't stopped until the ball had been planted behind the Minnesota goal. It started on the Purple 30 yard line with a 20 yard pass, Heap to Cruice. Heap then bolted off his right tackle, where most of Northwestern's gains were made, to the Gophers' 20 yard line. Minnesota was set back five yards for off side, and Cruice made it a first down on the eight yard line. Cruice added three through the line. On the next play Heap fumbled, but Lind recovered for the Wildcats on the one yard line. Duvall smashed over for the touchdown. His try for point was good and Northwestern led, 13 to 7.

Mr. Thompson Takes Charge.

Northwestern kicked off to Minnesota to start the third quarter and the Gophers lost no time convincing every one except eleven Wildcats that they were not to be denied. Mr. Thompson ran back the kickoff to his 45 yard line. Beise, Roscoe, and Thompson alternated in carrying the ball up the field to Northwestern's 29 yard line. Thompson spun around his right end for fifteen yards and Beise made a first down six yards from the goal. And then whom did the Gophers call upon? Why, Thompson, of course. And Thompson, the great man in a great march, hammered through tackle for the touchdown that tied the score. Le Voir's placement kick was good and the Gophers took the lead, 14 to 13, never to lose it.

Northwestern, however, refused to surrender. Beise kicked off to Cruice, who returned to his 31 yard line. Heap moved the ball from the gloom of his own goal to the brighter precincts of Minnesota's 47 yard line on an off tackle run. Roscoe intercepted a forward pass thrown by Heap, but Field Judge Meyer Morton ruled that there had been intereence on the play and the ball was given to the Purple on the Gophers' 24 yard line. Three stabs at the Minnesota line availed little or nothing and Chambers' attempted place kick was blocked, Minnesota taking the ball on its 30 yard line.

Blocking Helps Thompson.

Mr. Thompson, of whom you have read before, touched off another Minnesota attack by returning a Northwestern punt to his 47 yard line. Thompson, Roscoe, and Beise took turns at cracking the Purple line until the third quarter ended with the ball on Northwestern's 36 yard mark.

Thompson hit center for six yards, but the gain was nullified when Le Voir fumbled and recovered for a six yard loss on the next play. Then came the thirty-six yard dash for a touchdown by Thompson, referred to earlier in this story. Minnesota's right tackle and end crowded Northwestern's left tackle out of the play. Le Voir, Gopher quarter back, blocked the Purple's left end and there was an opening five yards wide. Once past the line of scrimmage, Thompson cut back sharply and before you could say Wojcihovski three times he was in the clear with nothing between him and the goal. Le Voir kicked the point, winding up the scoring for the day.

Minnesota had one more scoring opportunity when Wilkinson, a guard, intercepted Heap's pass and ran to the Purple's 15 yard line late in the game. Northwestern's defense refused to budge.

N. U. Leads in Yardage.

Individual statistics show that Swisher of Northwestern, who averaged nineteen yards, was the game's leading ground gainer. However, he carried the ball only three times. Thompson lugged it twelve times for an average of seven and Cruice took it eight for five. Heap was the busiest of the ball carriers, for he carried it nineteen times and his average was three and a half.

Minnesota made twelve first downs and Northwestern eight, but the Wildcats had an edge in total yardage gained, 336 yards to 235. Each tried nine passes, Northwestern completing five for 138 yards. The Gophers were unable to make good on any. The Minnesota kickers average forty-three yards on punts and Northwestern thirty-nine and one-half. The yardage from scrimmage was 235 to 198 in Minnesota's favor.

Carthage, Ill., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Illinois college beat Carthage, 12 to 0, here today, scoring touchdowns in the first and third periods. Smith scored the first from the 2 yard line after Feduris paved the way by blocking a punt on the Carthage 40 yard line. Mangeiri scored the second on a twelve yard pass from Speuhr after Speuhr had intercepted a Carthage pass. Carthage threatened in the fourth period, driving down to the Illinois 12 yard line before losing the ball on downs.

Detroit Gives Villanova First Licking, 19-15

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 26.—(AP)—A courageous University of Detroit eleven blasted Villanova from the ranks of the nation's undefeated teams today before 15,000 spectators. The score was 19 to 15.

Detroit had to come from behind to give Villanova its first whipping in six games. It was the first time this year the easterners' goal had been crossed. The game was decided in the air, with all but one touchdown coming on passes. A pass, Lutz to Jones, late in the final period, enabled Detroit to win.

Villanova Gets Surprise.

Detroit, on the third play of the game, surprised the visitors with a touchdown. Lutz passed to Jones for a fifty-one yard gain. Aided by a penalty, Detroit smashed to the 7 yard line, from where Lutz passed to Jones for the first score. Farkas, a reserve back, missed the try for extra point.

Minutes later, with Detroit on its 8 yard marker, Mellus, Villanova tackle, blocked Payne's punt and the ball bounded beyond the end zone for a safety. In the second period Mellus recovered Farkas' fumble on Detroit's 20 yard line, and in five plays Villanova had a touchdown, Stopper passing to Fox for the score. Mellus' kick was wide.

Detroit Goes to Work.

Villanova scored again in the second period, Fox going over on a pass from Quarter Back Higgins, after Kotys and Raimo had smashed and passed their way to the 8 yard line. Kotys place-kicked the extra point.

Detroit closed the gap in the score in the third period, Payne going twenty-five yards on a series of smashes after a fifteen yard penalty had put the ball on Villanova's 25 yard line. Cooper's kick was good. Then came the fourth period drive, started by Lutz's fifteen yard return of a punt to Villanova's 30 yard line and his pass to Jones for the winning touchdown. The try for point was missed.

Crawfordsville, Ind., Oct. 26.—[U. P.]—Wabash added strength to its bid for the Indiana intercollegiate conference championship today by defeating the hitherto unbeaten Manchester eleven, 21 to 7.

Bergquist, Wabash tackle, blocked a punt on the 19 yard line and ran over for the first touchdown. Riggs cut through tackle in midfield for the second, and Rutledge plunged from the one yard for the third score.

Banet plunged a yard for Manchester's touchdown and kicked the extra point.

Rosenthal Scores After 69 Yard Gain.

Pushed back into the shadow of his own goal posts at the start of the fourth quarter, this same Matelan, who was the standout workman of the day, flipped a pass to Half Back Gene Rosenthal, and the latter scampered down the field for the touchdown that won the ball game. Charley Spisak, Tech quarter back, attended to the extra point with a placement kick. The pass and run accounted for 69 yards.

Boilermakers Outgain Winners.

Carnegie can well be proud of the seven points which sufficed to win, and also of their total of 368 yards gained against Purdue's 415. Much of that accrued from the yards they collected through the air, 163 on ten completed passes in 17 attempts. Two were intercepted. Purdue tried 13 passes, connecting on seven, with one intercepted, for a total of 95 yards. In first downs, they were even, with ten each. No penalty was called in the entire game.

McGannon led the Purdue ball carriers with 90 yards in ten attempts, including a 51 yard dash, and Matelan gained 58 yards for the victors in 13 tries.

Air Attack Succeeds.

Carnegie didn't waste any time announcing their aerial intentions for the afternoon. Following an exchange of punts, the Tech passing attack began to click. One from Spisak to Bowser brought eight yards, and Bowser tossed to Spisak for seven more. Spisak promptly passed to Rosenthal on the Boilermakers' 21 yard line. Napotnik got four yards and Henrion caught Spisak's pass going to the 10 yard line. Napotnik and Bowser then hammered the Boilermaker line four times, the former failing to score by inches.

Dailey immediately kicked out, but line smashes by Napotnik and a pass, Bowser to Keller, brought Carnegie back to the Purdue 23 yard line. The Boilermakers stopped three line plays, and Spisak topped his attempt for a field goal from the 35 yard line.

Decker Recovers Fumble.

The Techs took Dailey's punt on the Purdue 40 yard line and Keller fielded a Bowser pass on the Boilermakers' 23 yard stripe. On the next play, Napotnik fumbled and Decker recovered for Purdue. Dailey's long punt pushed the Techs back as the first period ended.

Purdue's first team came into the game at the opening of the second quarter and the homecomers soon were given their first pleasant moments of the day. After Bowser had punted for Carnegie, McGannon squirmed around left end for a 51 yard dash to the Carnegie 40 yard line. Isbell followed this with a pass to Drake that netted 29 yards. The threat ended when McGannon's fourth down toss over the goal line was knocked down.

Several moments later Isbell punted to Matelan, who fumbled when tackled by Graves, and Loebs recovered for Purdue on the Carnegie 25 yard line. McGannon and Drake hammered away for a first down on the 15 yard stripe. Isbell's pass to Loebs in the end zone was incomplete. Drake pounded the line three times, but missed first down by inches on the Carnegie six yard line.

Two neat catches of Isbell's passes by Guirl brought the Boilermakers into scoring position again, but they couldn't put it over.

Mr. Matelan Spoils Things.

After an exchange of punts which opened the third quarter the Boilermakers advanced to their 45 yard line, but the ever present Matelan came dashing up to intercept Isbell's pass in midfield. Carnegie finally punted to Purdue's 23 yard line.

Isbell and Drake made first down at the 34 yard line and the elusive McGannon twisted his way on two end sweeps to the Purdue 49 yard stripe. There the Boilermakers were stopped.

Isbell punted out of bounds on the Tech 24 yard line as the third quarter ended. Matelan picked up seven yards at center on the first play of the fourth quarter. On the ensuing play he tossed to Rosenthal, who traveled the rest of the way for the touchdown. The pass and run produced a total gain of 69 yards. Spisak made it 7 to 0 with his placement for the extra point.

McGannon's Leg Gives Way.

Purdue then came back with a display of fight which had the crowd in a constant uproar for the remainder of the game. After Trbovich had intercepted a long pass by Isbell, Spisak immediately punted to McGannon, who made a return that looked to be a certain touchdown. His right leg appeared to buckle under him when he was in the clear, however, and he fell on the Tech 36 yard line.

Drake then pounded to the visitors' 12 yard line, but fumbled, Napotnik recovering for Tech. That was the final threat for the Boilermakers.

AURORA COLLEGE ELEVEN DEFEATS WARTBURG, 19-0

Waverly, Ia., Oct. 26.—[U.P.]—Aurora college of Aurora, Ill., pounded the Wartburg college football team for a 19 to 0 victory today in a homecoming contest.

Aurora crossed the goal line three times, once in the second quarter and twice in the fourth. John Wredling, Aurora star, outran the entire Wartburg team for 50 yards at the beginning of the fourth quarter to score the second touchdown.

A threat by Wartburg to score in the same quarter was stopped short as the game ended, with the Iowa school on Aurora's one foot line.

CREIGHTON BEATS GRINNELL, 7 TO 6, IN LAST MINUTES

Grinnell, Ia., Oct. 26.—(AP)—A fourth quarter drive and a final mighty push for a touchdown with only three minutes to play gave Creighton a 7 to 6 victory over Grinnell today in their fight for the Missouri Valley conference leadership.

After a forward pass, Zuercher to Fishler, tied the score, Bokmueller dropkicked the extra point that spoiled Grinnell's homecoming.

Grinnell scored its touchdown on the first play of the second quarter when Bauer tossed a lateral pass to Schlotterbeck, who ran 10 yards for the touchdown. The kick for the extra point was blocked.

Grinnell lost a touchdown in the first quarter because of a holding penalty. Schlotterbeck raced 75 yards across the goal, but the Pioneers were holding on the play.

VIRGINIA TECH WINS.

ALABAMA UPSETS GEORGIA, 17 TO 7, IN 4TH QUARTER

Rallies to Give Bulldogs First Defeat.

Athens, Ga., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Alabama rallied spectacularly to old time form today to whip the undefeated Georgia eleven, 17 to 7, before 25,000.

Fighting doggedly for three periods, with the score 7 to 7, the Rose Bowl champions capitalized on awaited breaks to score a field goal and add a touchdown in the waning minutes to the fourth quarter.

Georgia Scores First.

Georgia scored first, midway in the opening period, on a pass from John Bond to Al Minot that netted 43 yards, Minot catching the ball in the end zone after Georgia had been given the ball on Alabama's 32 yard line because of interference on a pass. Bond place kicked the extra point.

In the second period Riley Smith paved the way for a touchdown with a 24 yard run off tackle to Georgia's 22 yard line. An end around play, with Bryant carrying the ball, gave Alabama first down on the eleven yard line. Riley added six, then Georgia was penalized half the distance to the goal for roughness. Young Boozer slashed off tackle for a touchdown and Smith added the extra point.

Francis Intercepts Pass.

In the fourth period Kay Francis, Alabama center, intercepted a pass from Bond on Georgia's 47 yard line. On a fake Riley handed the ball to Rhordanz, who raced 21 yards to Georgia's 26 yard line. Georgia was penalized 15. On fourth down Riley Smith dropped back and place kicked to give Alabama a 10 to 7 lead.

Two and one-half minutes remained to play as the teams lined up for the kick off. After taking the kick off Georgia gambled with passes and Al Anderson fumbled, Alabama recovering on eGorgia's 9 yard line. Bryant got eight yards on a familiar Alabama end around play and on the next play Smith scored on a quarter back sneak. Hillman Walker added the extra point.

RICE BEATS TEXAS.

Austin, Tex., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Rice institute achieved a comeback today by defeating University of Texas, 28 to 19, in a Southwest conference game before 30,000.

Rice scored a few minutes after the opening kickoff when Nicholls, center, recovered a fumble on Texas' 25 yard line, and repeated a few minutes later with a sustained drive from its 40 yard line.

Texas scored in the second period, after recovering a fumbled punt on Rice's 9 yard line. In the third period John Sylvester, Rice end, kicked a field goal from the 15 yard line.

In the fourth period Rice scored when Wallace turned Texas' left end for 15 yards and Vickers, a substitute back, cut back through the secondary for 19 yards and a touchdown.

Texas retaliated four plays later when Jurecka dropped a 27 yard pass into Harris Von Zandt's hands in the end zone. Texas scored again on a drive from its 36 yard line on a series of passes, and Jurecka's dash off left tackle from the eight yard line. McCauley then took the Texas kickoff on his goal line and returned 26 yards. Then he made two successive first downs to Texas' 47 yard line. Texas drew penalties of 20 yards and McCauley went over on three plays.

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Louisiana State eliminated Vanderbilt from the Southeastern conference football race today, scoring a touchdown in the third period to win, 7 to 2.

Playing its first conference engagement of the season, Louisiana opened a pass attack early in the third period that netted a touchdown on three plays. With the ball on Vanderbilt's 47 yard line, Abe Mickal shot two short passes to Tinsley, left end, placing the ball on the 26 yard line. After a futile line play, Mickal tossed a high, looping pass to Barrett, right end, who took the ball and stepped over the goal line.

NORTH CAROLINA WINS.

Chapel Hill, N. C., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Displaying a powerful and varied offensive, the University of North Carolina football team defeated Georgia Tech, 19 to 0, today to remain one of the nation's unbeaten teams.

G. L. Edwards of Tech fumbled on Carolina's 43 yard line late in the first quarter, setting the stage for the first North Carolina score. Jackson, Hutchins and Snyder hit the line and a pass, Hutchins to Bill Moore, brought the ball to the 13 yard line. Andy Bershak then went 13 yards to a touchdown. Babe Daniel made the extra point from placement.

In the third period Hutchins, in three line smashes, got to Tech's 20 yard line. Bill Moore took the ball from there for a touchdown. Daniel missed the extra point. The final score came on Crowell Little's 17 yard run through right tackle.

CENTENARY LOSES, 27-7.

Shreveport, La., Oct. 26.—[U. P.]—Texas Christian broke the Centenary jinx today, whipping Centenary 27 to 7, the first time the Shreveport team has been defeated at home in four years.

TENNESSEE WINS, 25-14.

Knoxville, Tenn., Oct. 26.—[U. P.]—Centre college threw a scare into Tennessee university today when it scored two touchdowns in the final period. Tennessee's early margin was too great, however, and it won, 25 to 14.

CALIFORNIA TOO POWERFUL FOR TROJANS, 21-7

Berkeley, Cal., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Combining power with an alertness which took advantage of every break, University of California drove steadily toward the Pacific coast Conference championship today by defeating Southern California, 21 to 7.

California's display of power was a complete reversal of other meetings between these two teams in the last decade. Southern California today relied upon speed instead of the crushing power which made it famous.

Speed Goes to Waste.

But speed was not enough. It broke forth in sparkling runs on occasion, interspersed with passes that kept 60,000 in a state of excitement, but changes in the Southern California lineup left half its ranks composed of inexperienced men and their greenness hurt.

Fowler threw a 27 yard pass into the end zone to J. Brittingham for a California touchdown in the first period; Kenneth Cotton drove through the U. S. C. line for a yard and another after a fumble in the third period, and Chapman scored in the fourth on a 52 yard run after taking a short pass from Archer.

U. S. C. Blocks Kick.

Southern California had three excellent chances within California's 20 yard line, but failed each time. Then, unexpectedly, with the game in its final seconds, Thurlow blocked a California punt. The ball bounced across the goal line and Dittberner fell on it for Southern California's touchdown.

U. C. L. A. WINS, 33-6

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 26.—University of California at Los Angeles fortified its claims for the Coast Intercollegiate championship with a 33 to 6 victory over University of Oregon today before 38,000.

U. C. L. A. was led by a fleet half back, Chuck Cheshire, who scored the first touchdown on a 34 yard run in the first quarter and going 81 yards to another in the second period. Cheshire also figured in another U. C. L. A touchdown when he passed 13 yards from Oregon's 40 yard line to Funk, half back, who ran the remaining 27 yards to the goal.

Passes Aid in March.

Cheshire was aided in his long run by a hastily formed two man bodyguard, Stawisky, tackle, and McChesney, end, who together took out Oregon's little 155 pound safety man, Ray Lopez. Covering 37 yards in 9 plays, two being Funk's 18 yard pass to Cheshire, and Cheshire's nine yard pass to Funk, U. C. L. A. scored in the third quarter on a buck by Funk.

In the last quarter a partly blocked punt came down on Oregon's 17 yard line. On the next play Ferguson swept around his right end for 17 yards and a touchdown.

Lopez Goes Over.

Lopez carried the ball from U. C. L. A.'s 47 yard line in the 4th quarter, then scampered around end for his team's only touchdown. U. C. L. A. turned back Oregon on the 15 and 11 yard lines in the first and second quarters, taking the ball on downs each time.

STANFORD WINS, 6-0.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Stanford, led by James [Monk] Moscrip and Bobby Grayson, defeated the University of Washington, 6 to 0, today, before 30,000.

Moscrip, veteran end, scored Stanford's points with two field goals in the first period after Grayson had placed the ball in position. The victory placed Stanford in the running to retain the championship it has held the last two seasons.

Grayson led a march from Stanford's 19 yard line to Washington's 23, reeling off one run of 25 yards to put Moscrip in position to kick. Moscrip kicked from the 30 yard line. Five minutes later James Coffis, Joe Vigna and Grayson again marched from their 33 yard line to Washington's 15. Moscrip dropped back to the 23 yard line and kicked. At this point Jimmy Cain started a Washington drive with a 25 yard dash from behind his own goal line. The march carried to Stanford's 17 yard line before it was stopped.

OREGON STATE LOSES.

Portland, Ore., Oct. 26.—[U. P.]—Washington State defeated Oregon State, 26 to 13, before 20,000 today.

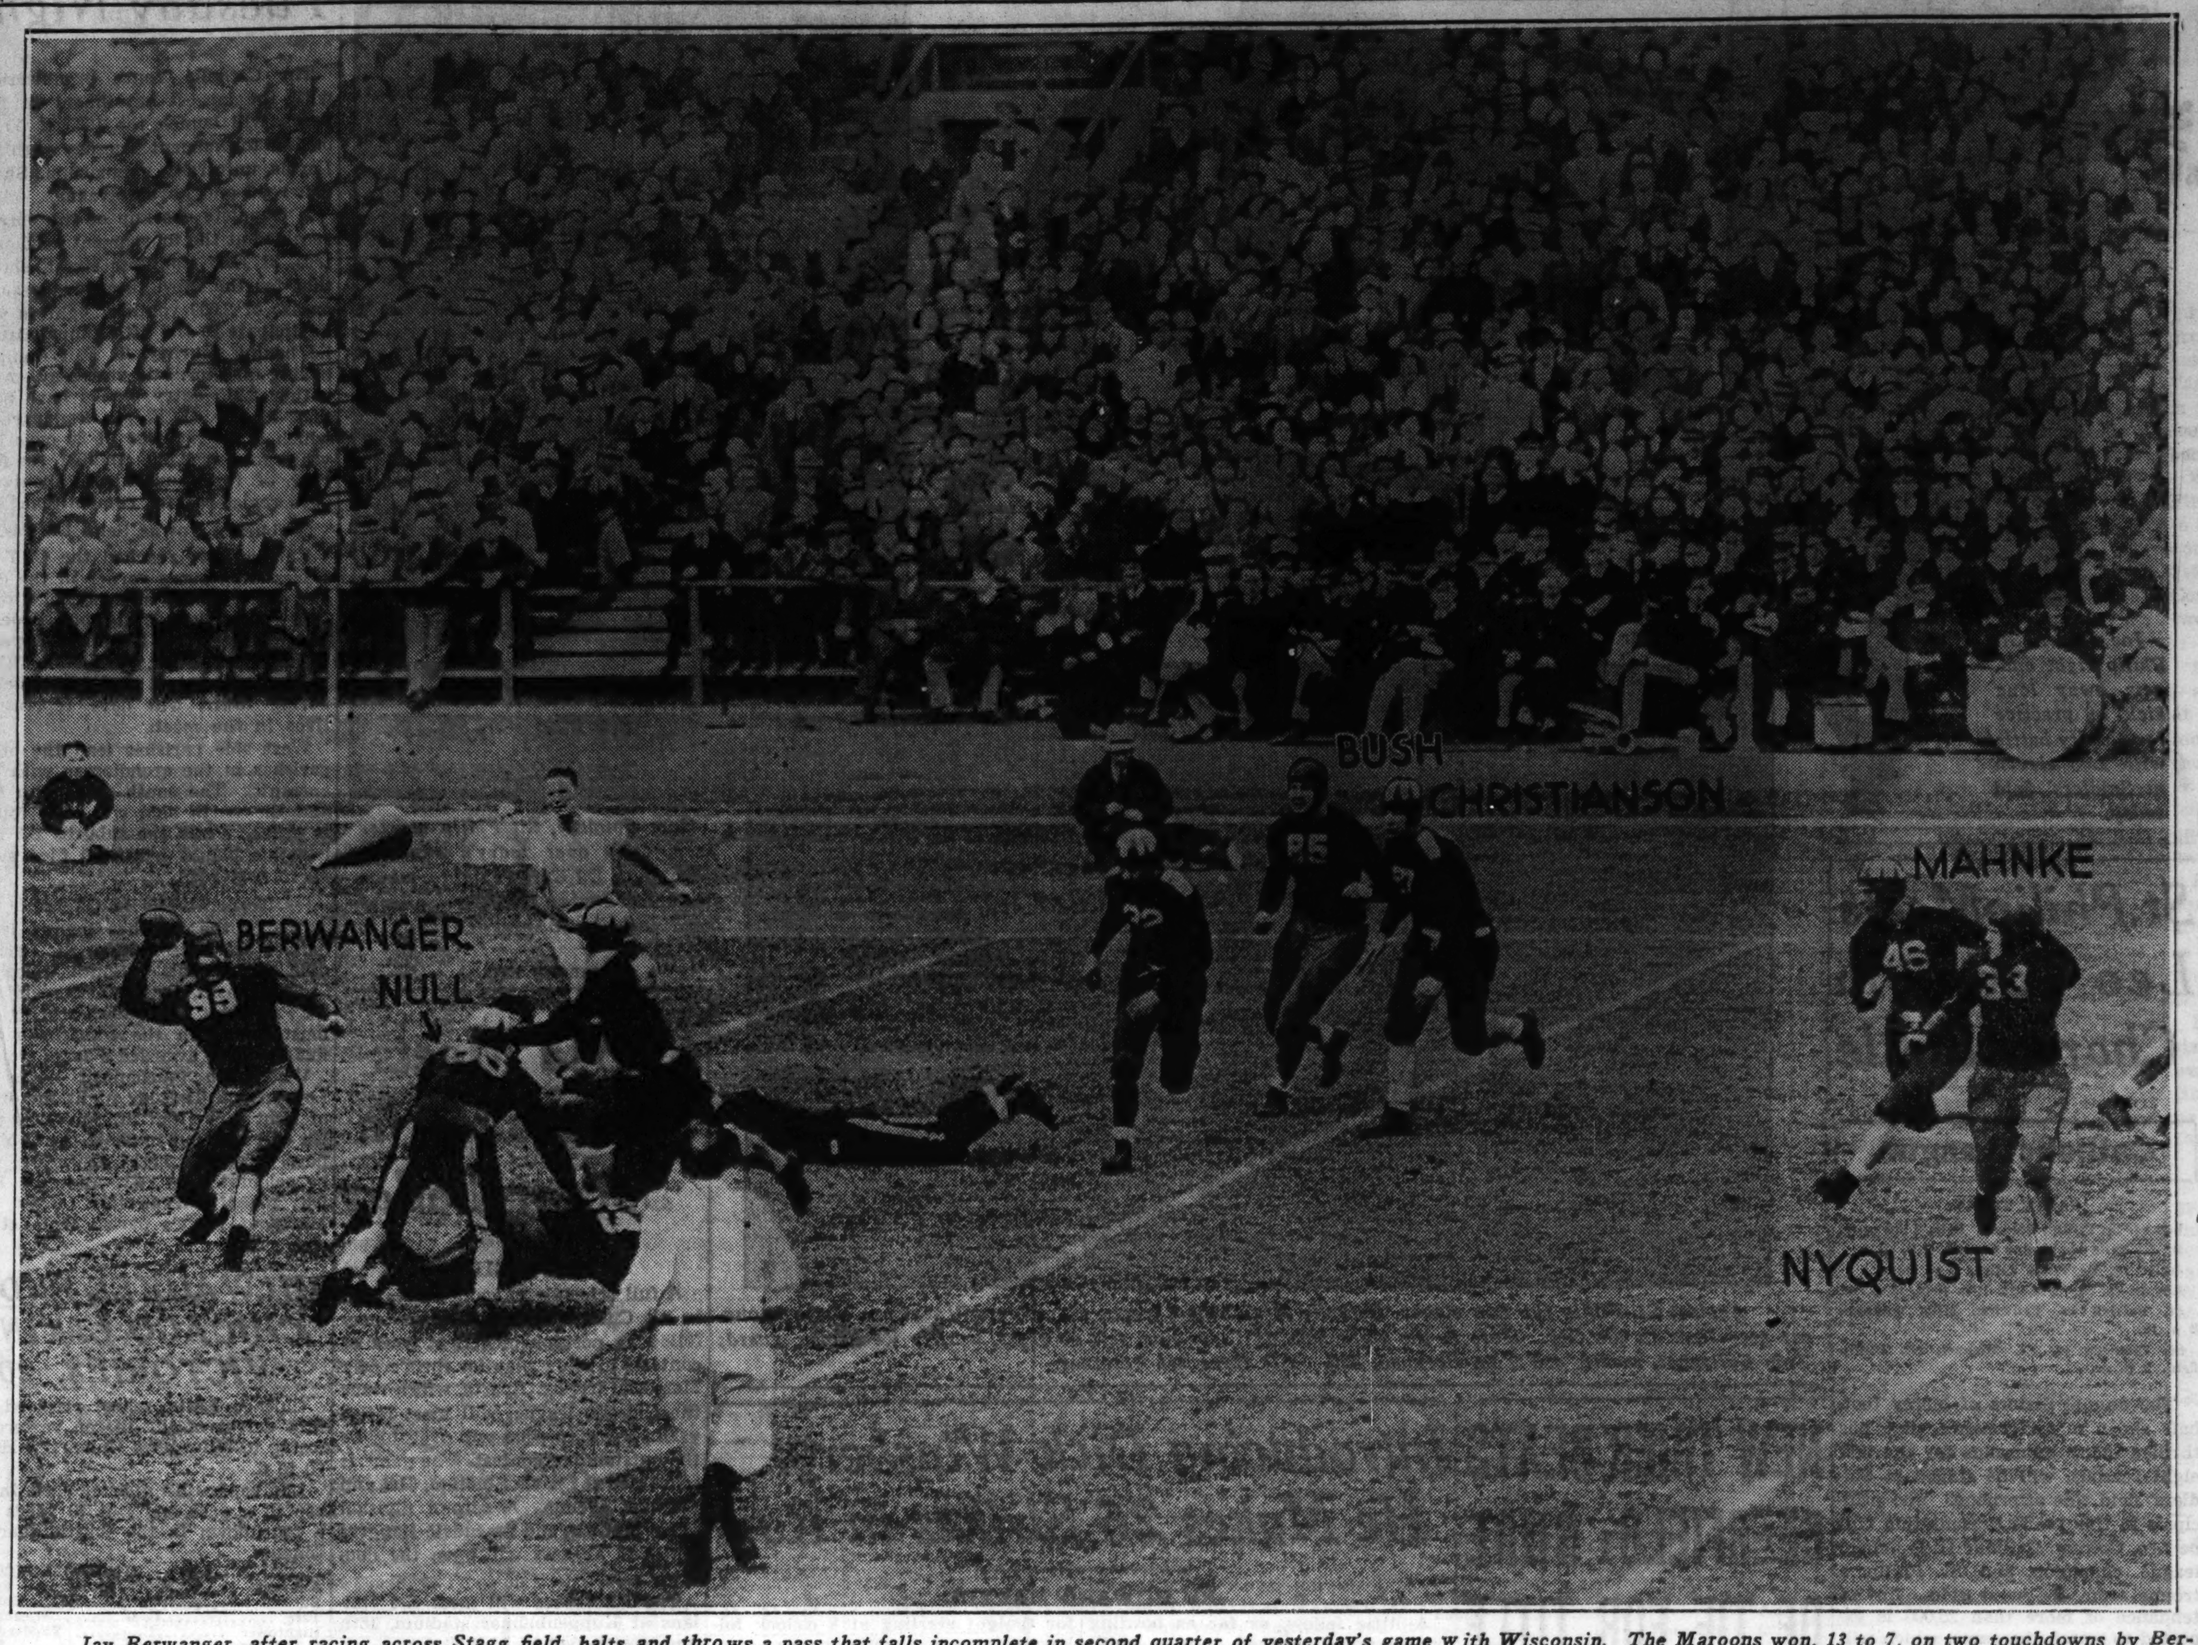
Play was slow and marred by times out and penalties, Washington State being set back 82 yards and Oregon State 15.

Both teams took to the air and the margin of difference was largely the splendid ball carrying and passing of Big Ed Goddard, Washington State half back.

Virginia and V. M. I. Play Scoreless Tie

University, Va., Oct. 26.—(AP)—The University of Virginia and V. M. I. played to a scoreless tie today before a homecoming crowd of 8,000. Virginia threatened early in the game when Harry Martin sprinted across the goal line, only to be called back by a penalty.

IT'S WISCONSIN'S CELLAR—MAROONS GIVE UP THEIR CLAIM TO IT



Jay Berwanger, after racing across Stagg field, halts and throws a pass that falls incomplete in second quarter of yesterday's game with Wisconsin. The Maroons won, 13 to 7, on two touchdowns by Berwanger. Berwanger plunged over from the Badger one foot line early in the second quarter following a Wisconsin fumble. After Wisconsin had gone ahead the Maroons fought back and Berwanger again scored after catching a pass. As a result of the victory Chicago left the Big Ten cellar in favor of the often defeated Badgers.

consin stop the Maroons momentarily; then they saw Omar, the scoremaker, complete a 38 yard pass to Gordon Petersen and back it up with another pass to Berwanger which negotiated ten yards and the winning tabulation. Berwanger added the point after on this one.

Berwanger, in carrying the ball 25 times and passing 12 times lived up to expectations. Jay gained 115 yards, not counting his sensational running back of kickoffs and punts for a similar total. The surprise, perhaps, was afforded by Fareed, who, in addition to making his passes count as aforesaid, carried the ball 67 yards in 12 attempts.

Badgers Check Threat.

The Badgers had turned back a severe Maroon threat a very short time before the Chicagoans put over their touchdown in the second quarter. The Maroons had advanced to the Wisconsin 15 yard line, but when Berwanger sought to run his left end with two yards to go on fourth down, he was spilled for a three yard loss and it was Wisconsin's ball. Wilson promptly kicked out and the Badger constituency felt swell when the ball rolled to Chicago's 40 yard line. On the first play after the apparent escape from danger the Wisconsins felt even better, for Jankowski plunked Bartlett for a three yard loss.

Badgers Fumble at Goal Line.

It was at this juncture that productive events set in. Berwanger executed a handsome quick kick which rolled to the Badger four yard line. The Badgers lined up in punt formation, but they had some slick business in mind. Instead of going to Tommerson, who was back to kick, the ball went to Jankowski, who attempted a lateral to Wilson on the goal line. Wilson fumbled but managed to bat the ball short of the goal. When Nyquist fell on it it was a foot from the stripe that counts. Berwanger plunged over the center of the line for the touchdown. Poor handling of the ball prevented Berwanger from getting a chance to add the point.

Berwanger Runs 78 Yards.

Berwanger didn't wait long to start the retaliating process. He took Null's kickoff three yards behind his own goal line and started toward his left. He negotiated 78 yards before he dodged out of Jordan's grasp into the arms of Fish, who tackled him. Fareed made five yards, but Berwanger fumbled and Wisconsin recovered on the Badger 17 yard line. The Badgers could not advance adequately and punted to Berwanger, who returned the ball to the Wisconsin 48 yard line. At this point Fareed made his 38 yard toss to Gordon Petersen, 38 yards to the 10 yard line. This Fareed pass was straight down the right side line and his next, to Berwanger, was to the left. Berwanger received the ball on his 3 yard line and gracefully whirled for the touchdown.

The fourth quarter had many tense moments for partisans of both sides, but both teams were able to break up attacks after long runs or passes had threatened their goals.

After outplaying De Paul in the first quarter the Hilltoppers saw the Demons come back in the second period with a touchdown and then add two more in the third period and another in the final quarter.

As the second quarter opened Cowhey recovered Neuman's fumble on the Western 40. Loess then passed ten yards to Postair, who ran 30 yards to a touchdown. The second half had hardly started before Loess hurled a 15 yard pass to Durkin, who dashed 53 yards for another touchdown. Muleski fumbled the next kickoff and Phillips recovered for De Paul on the Western 14 yard line. Loess hit tackle for 4 yards, after which Mattei slipped off tackle to the goal. Durkin added the point.

In the final quarter, after Western had repelled two assaults, Muleski punted poorly to the Hilltoppers' 17 yard line. Fay passed to Durkin in the end zone and Durkin added the point again. Lineup:

and alertly covering Ohio receivers against the enemy's dreaded forward pass, held its rivals, so the half ended, 7 to 6. The impression left was that Ohio was stronger, had more power but was being held by a foe playing at its topnotch form.

Buckeyes Turn On Power.

Ohio State turned on its steam in the second half. Without losing the ball from the opening kickoff, the Buckeyes drove sixty-four yards for the second touchdown. Indiana was still fighting, but there was too much power, too many replacements, too versatile an attack opposing. After Ohio State added its third touchdown, also in the third period, the contest became a game of open play with all conservative tradition thrown to the winds by both elevens. It was the kind of football which pleased a crowd with laterals and passes which would have caused coaches two decades ago to have brainstorms.

In these scrambles possession of the ball changed freely, Indiana even threatening to score again in the final quarter when the count was now 28 to 6 against it, but the Buckeyes recovered a grounded Hoosier lateral when the oval was inside Ohio's 20 yard line and that menace was over. Indiana, no doubt, could have held the score to 21 if it had not been trying so many long passes in the second half, five of which were intercepted.

Here Are Statistics.

Statistics reveal Ohio State superiority, but show better than the score that the issue was not all one-sided. Here they are:

First downs—Ohio State, 15; Indiana, 8.

Yards by passing—Ohio State, 100; Indiana, 107.

Total yardage—Ohio State, 220; Indiana, 142.

Forward passes—Ohio State completed 11 of 22, with none intercepted; Indiana completed 6 of 15, with 5 intercepted.

Fumbles—Ohio State, 6, with 5 recovered; Indiana, 4, with 5 recovered.

Penalties—Ohio State, 15 yards; Indiana, 15 yards.

Indiana Scores First.

Ohio State won the toss and chose the east goal. After an exchange of kicks Indiana had the ball on its own 49 yard line. On second down Huffman looped a forward pass to Eads near the left side line. The latter took the ball over his shoulder on the full run, getting behind Dick Heekin, who was covering him, and sped the remaining 30 yards unhindered. Capt. Kelso's kick for the extra point was wide, but Indiana was ahead, 6 to 0.

Indiana was put on the defensive following the next kickoff when Boucher's beautiful punt rolled outside at the Hoosier 8 yard line. Finally Indiana had the ball on its 20 yard line following a touchback. It gained a first down to Indiana's 28. Then a lateral to Walker netted 17 yards loss. A mistake in signals on the following play, with the oval being passed into space, gave Ohio the ball at Indiana's 13 yard line. On fourth down Dye passed to Williams for the touchdown. Beltz placekicked and the count was 7 to 6. There was no more scoring in the half.

Ohio State tallied its second count at the opening of the second half by carrying without interruption for 64 yards, mixing passes with gains by the veteran Frank Antenucci, John Bettridge, Frank Boucher and Dick Heekin until it was first down at Indiana's 14. On third down thereafter Boucher went around his left end for the touchdown. Beltz, again called in to placekick, added the extra point, making it Ohio State, 14; Indiana, 6.

Buckeyes Increase Lead.

Ohio State's third tally came near the end of the third quarter. Boucher intercepted a pass at Indiana's 30, Indiana by this time taking chances in hopes of scoring again. Pincura passed to Heekin for first down at the 12 mark. On fourth down Pincura passed over the center of the line to Boucher, who was tackled inside but fell across the goal line. Sam Busich placekicked the extra point. Ohio State, 21; Indiana, 6.

The final touchdown in the fourth period likewise was the result of an intercepted pass. Bus Zarnas picked off a Hoosier aerial and sped 20 yards to Indiana's 23. Dye completed a pass to Williams for first down at the 13 yard line. On the next play Williams went around his right end and scored standing up. Busich again added the extra point and the score was Ohio 28; Indiana, 6.

At this stage, Ohio State's third eleven took the field while all the remaining subs on the Hoosier bench trotted out on the field, and it is suspected President Bryan of Indiana U. and Gov. McNutt might have been in Crimson uniforms. Neither eleven threatened thereafter.

Rockford Center's Neck Is Broken; He'll Recover

Rockford, Ill., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—His neck broken, Charles Larson, 16 year old center on the Rockford High school lightweight football team, was given a better than even chance to recover by attending physicians today. One of the vertebrae in Larson's neck was fractured in the final quarter of the Rockford-Freeport game last night. Rockford won the game, 27 to 13.

NEBRASKA BEATS OKLAHOMA, 19-0; CARDWELL STARS

Scores Twice, Returns Kick 82 Yards.

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 26.—[U. P.]—Oklahoma's hopes for a Big Six championship were blasted today by Nebraska, which struck early and then staved off last quarter threats to win, 19 to 0, before 25,000.

Nebraska scored touchdowns in each of the first three periods. Lloyd Cardwell, hobbled the last two weeks by Minnesota and Kansas State, scored the first two and provided the game's greatest thrill, an 82 yard return of a kickoff that ended on Oklahoma's 10 yard line.

It was the first conference defeat for Oklahoma and kept intact Nebraska's record of never having lost to Oklahoma at Lincoln.

KANSAS WINS, 9 TO 2.

Lawrence, Kas., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Kansas State college, defending football champion of the Big Six conference, was upset, 9 to 2, by the University of Kansas today and virtually eliminated from the 1935 race.

Kansas took the lead with Tom McCall's field goal in the second period, gave Kansas State two points through an intentional safety in the fourth quarter, and then pushed over a touchdown.

The safety was Kansas' method of squirming out of a hole after a quick kick had backed it to its goal line. Soon afterward Clarence Douglas, substitute full back, broke through center for 51 yards to Kansas State's 16 yard line. A pass from the 5 yard line, Bill Decker to Emil Weinecke, scored the touchdown.

IOWA STATE, 6; MISSOURI, 6.

Ames, Ia., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Iowa State and Missouri, two underdogs of the Big Six Football conference, battled to a 6 to 6 tie today before a homecoming crowd of 9,000. Missouri dominated play in the first half and State came back in the third period to score the tying touchdown.

Lochiner, Missouri back, intercepted Miller's fumble in the air on Iowa State's 43 yard line in the first quarter and raced fifty-seven yards for a touchdown. Catron, cyclone tackle, blocked the try for the extra point.

An exchange of kicks in the third period gave State its chance. A forward lateral pass gained thirteen yards, Miller's run around end was good for ten, and a shovel pass added twelve more. Then Allender plunged over for the touchdown. Poole missed the kick.

STATEVILLE HELD TO 6-6 DEADLOCK BY GARY ELEVEN

Stateville prison's football team was foiled in its quest for its 14th consecutive victory yesterday when the Gary, Ind., Hoileukoy semi-pro eleven held the transgressors to a 6 to 6 tie at Stateville.

Capt. Eddie Piech threw a 29 yard touchdown pass to Berry for Stateville's touchdown in the second quarter. Piech failed in an attempted plunge for the extra point.

Gary scored in the third quarter after a long march when Kedroviski went through right tackle on a cutback from the three yard line. Kedrovski was stopped at the line of scrimmage when he tried to duplicate the play for the extra point.

ILLINI CRUSADE AGAINST LIQUOR A BIG SUCCESS

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—The crusade against drinking at football games at the University of Illinois met with success today. It was not necessary to eject any one from the stadium and only seven spectators had to be cautioned. Only three persons were denied admission because they were under the influence of liquor. University authorities said they were greatly pleased with the coöperation by the public.

PREP STARS WHO'LL BATTLE FOR CHARITY TODAY

Tom Connery, St. Philip quarter back, talks over today's offensive plans with Ed Carey (right), whom he replaced when the latter suffered head injuries in practice early in the season.

St. Philip Meets Leo Today in Charity Battle

Catholic League

GAMES TODAY.

Leo vs. St. Philip, Soldiers' field, 1:30 p. m.
De La Salle vs. Mount Carmel, 2 p. m.
Joliet vs. De Paul, Joliet, 2 p. m.
Loyola vs. St. Rita, St. Rita field, 2. p. m.
St. Patrick vs. Fenwick, Mills stadium, 2 p. m.
St. Ignatius vs. St. Michael, St. Philip field, 2 p. m.

The annual Sisters of Mercy football show, a performance that has thrilled many thousands for the last eight seasons, will be staged at Soldiers' field this afternoon. The principals in this year's presentation will be Leo, Chicago Catholic High School league champion, and St. Philip, a troupe from the west side. An attendance of more than 25,000 is expected to watch the game, which will start at 1:30 o'clock.

St. Philip's favorable performances in 1933 and 1934 have earned it another part in the show. It will be Leo's first appearance, but the champion band from the south side should not suffer stage fright, for it has played before many large audiences, including a crowd of 50,000 in its engagements against Lindblom last season for Mayor Kelly's Christmas basket fund.

Series Begins in 1927.

This year's engagement is expected by critics to be one of the best in the series, which started in 1927 on the lake front arena when the Chicago Cardinals opposed the Kansas City Cowboys.

Several regular members of the cast of both teams will be unable to display their prowess, but their places are expected to be ably filled by understudies. Coach Whitey Cronin of Leo announced that Art Heil, full back, and Bud Mulcahy, quarter back, will not appear because of injuries sustained in other engagements.

Mike Hanley and James Evans, a pair of old troupers themselves and now head men at St. Philip, also will send a revised cast into the show because of the injured Bill Carey and George Brocker. Coaches Hanley and Evans have decided to shift Tom Connery from half back to Carey's quarter back position.

Has No Effect on Standing.

The result of the engagement will have no effect on the present standings of the teams in the Catholic league, since Leo performs in the east division and St. Philip in the west section. However, this is not expected to prevent them from displaying all the tricks in their bags and gain considerable prestige in the eyes of their divisional opponents.

Five regular league games also will be played today. De Paul, which is Leo's closest rival in the east division, will go on the road, opposing Joliet on the latter's field in the outstanding game on the program. De Paul will be seeking its fourth consecutive victory in as many contests.

Fenwick's engagement against St. Patrick at Mills stadium, Lake street and Kilpatrick avenue, also should draw a large attendance. Fenwick is undefeated in two games, while St. Patrick has won two and lost one. In the other games De La Salle will meet Mount Carmel at White City; Loyola will play against St. Rita at St. Rita field and St. Ignatius will oppose St. Michael at St. Philip field.

Introducing Dick Winsberg: He Makes 26 Strikes in Row

BY HOWARD MARTIN.

A little fellow, as far as bowling is concerned, walked into a south side alley and thought he would take a warmup for his chores in the Classic bowling league, the truly major league of these parts.

He shot a 213 game, but no one paid any attention as he wound up with four strikes in a row. Then came a string of 12 strikes and every one in the Woodlawn Recreation alleys remarked, "Sure, that's Dick Winsberg of the Monarch Beers. He's anchor man of the team that won the Classic league championship last year."

Those 12 in a row put together Winsberg's first 300 game. But he did not stop there. He cracked the pins for ten more successive strikes and on the eleventh ball the ten pin became stubborn, leaving him with a 288 game.

All this warmup netted him a total of 801 for three games, but the amazing part of the exhibition was 26 strikes in a row, those four to finish the first game, his 12 that brought the 300 game and then ten straight in the finale.

On South Side Alleys.

White City's Major league saw three records established when the Sawyer Restaurants shot 1,137 for team high game and Oscar Johnson and Alex Arvia of that team registered games of 280 and 266, respectively. The James Whalens lead the team standing with 13 won and five lost, with the Woodlawns and White Way Restaurants a close second. . . . Barney is putting on a individual tournament today at White City. . . . As an example of how tough the pins are at the Stevenson and Schalk Recreation the best individual average in the American league is the 186 of Konar. The E. J. Ryans are setting the team pace.

Wally Freitag is leading the White City All-Star Individual league with eight games won and two lost, and is averaging 210. Second is Eli Maricich with 7 won and 3 lost, and tied for third are Sykes Thoma, Jerry Skovie and Eddie Zajac at 6 and 4. Today's pairings will be: Al Rankin vs. Maricich, Harry Halgren vs. Skovie, Tom Chyzy vs. Zajac, Adam Plunge vs. Joe Wilman, Freitag vs. Thoma, and Bill Lenzen vs. Jim Waterson. . . . Anthony Rudicki connected for a 631 series to beat John McKay and Frank Lazar by six pins for high series in the Archer-Kedzie Junior league. . . . Jack Sampayo of the Michelobs was high individual with 689, while Mike Anderson of the Schambergers took a firmer grip on the individual lead with a 673 series.

About the Women.

While the Boyle Motors were having their troubles the Mineralites coasted to two victories over Budweiser, all members of the former team getting 600 or better. Johnson of Sunkist Pies turned in third high series with 695. Sandquist of Mary Ann Bread was fourth with 684. Hoar of Beich Candy was next with 669.

Windy City League.

The Mineralites, Blazek Tailors, and O'Keefe Coals share the Windy City major league lead with 15 won and 6 lost, but the former team is placed on top by virtue of carrying the highest average, 960. Sykes Thoma is leading the individuals with a 200 average, with H. Lippe second, also at 200 but three pins back of Thoma. Drs' 667 series topped the individuals. Phillips' Shoes, with 17 won and 4 lost, lead the Windy City Junior league with Tumble Inn and the Economos Boosters the strongest contenders. Hottest of the individuals was W. Sorka with 669.

The Catholic Youth organization, with the largest enrollment in five years, will launch the 1935 C. Y. O. boxing tournament Tuesday night at Loyola university gymnasium, Sheridan road and Loyola avenue.

A complete checkup of the entries received at the tournament headquarters, 31 East Congress street, shows that for the third successive year in excess of 2,000 youthful fighters will participate in the fifth annual Catholic boxing tourney, T. F. O'Connell, boxing director, said yesterday. Altogether 2,215 entry blanks have been filed at the C. Y. O. headquarters, which is an increase of 80 over last year's total of 2,135. In 1931, the first year of the tournament, about 800 boys registered for competition.

Suburban Towns Send Entries.

Entries have reached the C. Y. O. offices from every corner in the city, and every suburb and adjacent town. Joliet, Kankakee, Braidwood, Chicago Heights, Lockport, Elmhurst, Berwyn, Cicero, Oak Park, Evanston, River Forest, Waukegan, and other neighboring towns will have representatives in the meet.

West side parishes lead the other parishes in the archdiocese with 835 entrants. The south side, with 680, and the north side with 505, follow in order. From the suburbs 195 registration blanks had been filed away up to yesterday.

Team Trophy Is Offered.

Among the parishes having large entries are Presentation, St. Bernardine, St. Michael's [South Chicago], St. Alphonsus, Lady of Pompeii, and St. Patrick's. The parish scoring the most points in the semi-finals and finals will be awarded a team trophy.

When the tournament opens at Loyola gym Tuesday night hundreds of fight fans from St. Andrew's parish will turn out to cheer the C. Y. O. boys. Tuesday night at Loyola will be celebrated as "St. Andrew's Parish night." Wednesday night St. Margaret Mary's parish will act as sponsor.

CELEBRON AND TONELLI BATTLE AGAIN TOMORROW

Bout Will Head Card at Marigold Gardens.

Billy Celebron, the 24 year old Rockford welterweight, and Ernest [Laddie] Tonelli, Marsilles youngster, both of Italian antecedents, will meet for the second time in less than two months in a ten round windup bout at Marigold Gardens tomorrow. Tonelli defeated Billy after ten hard rounds at Western stadium Sept. 3. Each has engaged in only one contest since, Celebron scoring a one round technical knockout over Ernie Kirchner at Freeport, Ill., Sept. 19, and Laddie whipping Puggy Weinert in ten rounds at Marigold Sept. 16.

Celebron, 1933 International Golden Gloves and National A. A. U. welterweight king, was forced to bow to defeat for the third time in his professional campaign in his previous meeting against Tonelli. The other victories over Billy were scored by Billy Miller and Babe Marino. He evened the score with Miller when he handed a beating to the latter July 1. Miller won a disputed decision over Tonelli Jan. 7. Laddie has not been defeated since then. He conquered Puggy Weinert Jan. 21, Nestor Bruggman Feb. 11, and fought draws with Sammy O'Dell April 9 and Petey Mike Aug. 6. Tonelli won the 1930, 1931, and 1932 Streator, Ill., Golden Gloves sectional titles.

Bob Olin, former Brooklyn broker, will make his first defense of the light heavyweight title Thursday at St. Louis, Mo., in a 15 round bout against John Henry Lewis of Phoenix, Ariz. That is, he will if he doesn't contract another toothache on the eve of the bout as he did Jan. 18 at which time he previously had been signed for a championship bout against Lewis at New York under the auspices of Madison Square garden and then had it canceled. Thursday's encounter is being presented under the joint promotion of Benny Greenberg, St. Louis, and Lou Raymond, Pittsburgh. Consequently, the Garden is taking steps to halt the match under the premise it holds an option on Olin's services for his first defense of the crown.

Promoter Raymond pointed out the Garden had signed Olin after the Rosenbloom scrap, but the agreement applied only to New York.

Bouts on this week's boxing and wrestling schedule include:

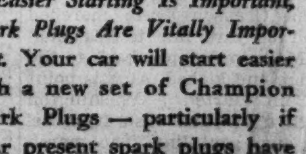
FIELD CLUB TO HOLD SHOOTING DOG STAKE TODAY

The Chicagoland Field Trial club will hold a shooting dog stake today on their courses north of Addison. Five courses will be used, and there are plenty of Hungarian partridges, pheasants, and quail to provide ample bird work for the dogs.

The drawing was held last night [Saturday] at Louis' tavern, Lake street, Addison. However, late entries will be accepted until 10 a. m. this morning. The only restrictions are that all dogs must be handled on foot.

Spectators who want to rent horses for following the trials should contact Lester R. Carson, the club secretary, 102 Broadway, Melrose Park.



Fred Jacoby, using Champions, won the annual Albany to New York Marathon and made a clean sweep of the Inter-Shrine Convention Regatta, winning Classes A, B, C, F and championship event.

If Easier Starting Is Important, Spark Plugs Are Vitally Important. Your car will start easier with a new set of Champion Spark Plugs — particularly if your present spark plugs have been in service 10,000 miles or more. FAITHFUL MAUD WINS AT 21 TO 1; THAT ISN'T ALL 12,000 See Lots of Things Happen at Sportsman's.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The 12,000 racegoers who spent the afternoon yesterday at the Sportsman's Park race course were offered a thrill a minute even though they may not have profited to any great extent during the running of the eight race program.

A few of the exciting happenings were:

1. Just before the program opened Trainer George Vuillemot of Chicago was suspended by the stewards. It was rumored that he had attempted to bribe a jocky to pull a horse earlier in the week. Instead of pulling the horse the jocky he approached won the race and then reported the incident to the stewards.

2. Faithful Maud, a mare from California, sent here along with other horses by a group of Hollywood residents, won the carfare back to the Pacific coast for the entire stable when she galloped to victory in the $1,200 Chicago handicap and paid off at $43.80 in the $2 mutuels.

Two Visitors Are Ejected.

3. Jocky Adrian Vuillemot, brother of the suspended trainer, and former Jocky William Fronk of Lexington, Ky., were ejected from the track by police early in the afternoon. "They're both nice boys and I just wanted to get them off the track before they got into trouble," a high official of the National Jocky club said. The stewards made no ruling against either Vuillemot or Fronk.

4. Bosopi won the sixth race after coming from behind in the stretch. The race was at a mile and seven furlongs and most of those in the crowd were dizzy when it ended. The horses had dashed past the stands four times before the battle ended.

Everybody Bears Down.

5. The manner in which the longshots and favorites divided honors indicated that everybody was "trying" and that there will be no suspensions nor life terms inflicted after this particular session of racing.

When Faithful Maud scored her easy yet unexpected triumph she beat the fleetest sprinters left in the Chicago racing district. Busy Spain was the favorite and Mr. James, owned by former Ald. William O'Toole's Blue Ridge Farm stable, also was stoutly backed. The crowd believed the contest strictly was between the pair.

Both turned in fine performances but neither was good enough to beat Faithful Maud.

Jocky R. R. Simpson was in the saddle on Faithful Maud. On sufferance, he let Lady Federal make the pace for the first half mile. As soon as he gave Faithful Maud her head she drove into the lead. Mr. James and Busy Spain moved up at the same time.

The daughter of Sun Flag—Faithful Friend was full of run, however, and shook off every challenge of the two stoutly backed horses.

Faithful Maud ran the seven furlongs in 1:28 1-5. It was her 16th start and only her third victory.

In the mutuels she paid $43.80 to win, $11 to place and $5.20 to show.

MIDDIES MADE FIFTH STRAIGHT VICTIM OF NOTRE DAME

Frank Gaul (right) dashes over Navy's goal for Notre Dame's first touchdown of game witnessed by 63,000 at Baltimore yesterday. The Irish took the ball on their 20 yard line, pounded their way to midfield and then Andy Pilney passed to Gaul, who scampered over with the aid of good blocking and his ability to elude Full Back Schmidt of Navy. A few minutes later in the second quarter Notre Dame scored again, this time on a pass, Pilney to Mike Layden. Both scores were made while the second team, reinforced by Carideo and Layden, was in operation.

JUSTA SHEIK, outrun for half a mile, was forced to lose ground while gaining, responded readily to strong riding, took command in the stretch and won thereafter. DEFIER, taken under mild reserve while racing close to the pace, gave improved speed when urged, but was not good enough. ALLENS, rushed to the lead early, disposed of MONTARIS after half a mile, then gave ground gradually in a good effort.

M'KELL took command early, was cleverly rated while setting the pace, continued gamely, responded gamely to strong urging, and outfinished TWO BROOMS. Latter, suddenly improved, moved up fast after half a mile and was rapidly wearing down the winner. JIM M'CONNELL, a strong factor most of the way, held on gamely after forcing the pace.

SARILLA, away in stride, took command at once, continued under clever rating, repulsed the challenge of LITTLE DUKE and held the race safe. Latter, placed forwardly early and steadied while forcing the pace, offered good contention, but was not good enough. KISSIE raced evenly under a hustling ride.

FAITHFUL MAUD, suddenly improved, took command after three-eighths, continued under strong pressure, and gamely outfinished BUSY SPAIN. Latter, taken in hand for the early racing, moved up gradually when urged, closed strongest, but could not overhaul the winner. MR. JAMES, a strong factor throughout, held on with good courage under strong riding.

BOSOPI, rank at the post, was placed outside the stalls, was cleverly rated, moved up strongly when urged, continued gamely, was subjected to severe punishment in the final stages and held sway to the end. PILLNITA, a strong factor throughout, closed gamely but could not menace the winner. BECKVILLE, prominent after half a mile, gave good response when strongly urged, but weakened in the stretch.

SEVENTH RACE—Mile and one-eighth. Purse $700. Net value to winner, $550; second, $90; third, $40; fourth, $20.

Winner trained by E. J. O'Connell. Went to post at 4:29. At post 3 minutes. Start good. Won handily; place driving.

NASSLYN, rank at the post, refused to remain in the stall, was placed on the outside, broke well, took command after a quarter-mile, withstood several challenges, repulsed the strong bid of GRECIAN KING, then drew away and held POLLY DEAR safe. Latter lost much ground throughout, closed gamely, but was not good enough. BLACK FLASH, slow to attain her best stride, finished resolutely; was never dangerous.

EIGHTH RACE—Mile and one-eighth. Purse $700. Net value to winner, $550; second, $90; third, $40; fourth, $20.

Notre Dame Defeats Navy, Gaul, Layden Score on Passes

Layden and the second touchdown was recorded.

Notre Dame had only one thing to worry about and that was limited. Its line was vastly superior and it had speed not possessed by the Navy. The superiority was noticeable and evident throughout. But for a good portion of the battle the Navy offered a tough customer in one Jack Schmidt, full back, who was persistent in his attempts to go places. Eventually he was smothered right out of the game.

Navy Threatens Once.

The Navy made only one thrust deep into Notre Dame territory, and that happened only because of a break. At the opening of the second period when the Irish second eleven was summoned for work the Navy recovered a Notre Dame fumble on the latter's 20 yard line. They immediately resorted to trickery in all its phases, but it availed nothing. Then the Irish, bouncing out of this scare, went touring to their two touchdowns.

Statistics show that Notre Dame's advantage was even greater than the 14 point difference in scoring. The victors piled up 15 first downs to 9 for the Navy. Notre Dame rushed the ball for 177 yards while the Middies gained 122 in the same way. Notre Dame threw nine passes, but the Navy tossed 16, a matter easily explained by the desperate predicament of the latter.

Five Irish Passes Click.

Five of Notre Dame's 9 passes were completed. The Navy connected on only 3 of its 16. Four of the Navy passes were intercepted by Notre Dame. The Navy grabbed two aerials which were started by their opponents.

Yards gained by passing showed another huge Notre Dame advantage. It was 104 yards against 28 for Navy.

Right after the first kickoff of the battle Notre Dame revealed its strength. Navy took the kickoff and was forced to punt to Fromhart, who came back ten yards to the Navy's 46 yard line. With Shakespeare doing most of the work, the Irish progressed to a first down on the Middies' 32 yard line. Wojcihovski ripped through for two yards, and Shakespeare and Elser plunged for 5 yards, but the ball was called back and a 5 yard penalty inflicted on Notre Dame. This broke up the march. The Irish were forced to punt, the ball rolling over the Navy goal line.

Navy promptly put on a power show of its own. Starting from the 20 yard line Schmidt raced over his right end for first down on the 32 yard line. On a reverse King stepped off another first down on Navy's 48 yard line. Pratt then attempted to pass, but Shakespeare broke up the attack by intercepting the toss on the Irish 33 yard line.

Notre Dame's second team swung into action at the start of the second period and the shock troops immediately fell into difficulties. Pilney, subbing for Shakespeare, fumbled on the first play of the quarter and after a mad scramble for the loose ball Navy recovered on the Irish 20 yard line. Schmidt plunged one yard toward the westerners' goal. Scenting a touchdown chance, the Navy revealed some of its tricks. Schmidt tossed a lateral to Pratt, but it lost 3 yards, O'Neill doing the tackling. Schmidt shoveled another lateral to Pratt, who sent a forward to the goal line, but Pilney knocked it down.

The Middies followed with an attempted goal from placement, but it was only a fake. It wound up in a long pass over the goal line but there was no receiver on hand and Notre Dame took possession of the ball on its 20 yard line. The Irish then were on their way.

Notre Dame's First Touchdown

The parade to the first touchdown started with Pilney ripping through for 5 yards. He followed with 4. Carideo plunged for first down on Notre Dame's 33 yard line. Pilney picked up a yard and a penalty against Navy added 5 more. Carideo slipped through for first down on Notre Dame's 45 yard mark. Layden went through center for two yards and the touchdown play followed.

Pilney, taking the pass from center, sprinted over toward his right end and most of the Navy defenders drifted over to head him off. Suddenly he halted and sailed a long forward pass to Gaul on the left side of the field. Gaul eluded a couple of Navy tacklers, leaving only Schmidt and King in his path with about 25 yards to go. A Notre Dame blocker cut in to dump King back on his haunches and then hurried on to treat Schmidt similarly, but his services weren't required. Gaul shook off Schmidt and went his way over the goal. Pilney's toe added a point to make it 7 to 0.

Layden Scores on Pass.

Notre Dame's second touchdown surge, completed before 8 minutes of the second quarter were run off, started when Pilney carried a Navy punt back to the Middies' 39 yard line. The return netted 27 yards. Layden cut through at left tackle for a first down on the 25 yard mark. He went through the same spot for three yards in the next play. Pilney whipped a short pass to Gaul, who slipped and fell on the 10 yard line. Carideo hit left tackle for 5 yards on a reverse from Pilney. Then Pilney passed and Layden, standing unnoticed over the Navy goal, took in the ball for the second touchdown. The score became 14 to 0 on Stilley's placement.

Late in the third period Notre Dame went on another march, which progressed to the 31 yard mark, whereupon the Navy first string performers were rushed back into action. After two short gains by Miller and Pilney the latter passed, but the ball was intercepted by Evans on the Navy's 21 yard line. With the help of a penalty inflicted on Notre Dame for roughing the kicker, Navy ripped its way out to its 39 yard line, and then was forced to punt just before the third quarter closed.

There wasn't much to the fourth period. The job of keeping the Navy in its place was entrusted to the South Benders' third eleven. The latter couldn't make any appreciable headway, but they did protect the turf in their half of the field.

Americans Get 536 Prizes in Irish Sweep

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Americans were assured at least a million dollars from the hospital sweepstakes in the first round of drawing today even before the horses go to the post at Newmarket next Wednesday.

Pretty Irish nurses picked 536 tickets with United States addresses out of the huge and gaily decorated drum in Mansion house from a grand total of 1,261 tickets, representing 97 horses, drawn in a day of high pressure work.

Thus more than 43 per cent of the prizes went to Americans. Each of them was assured of winning almost $2,000 and a few may win much more, depending upon the success of the horses they draw for the Cambridgeshire race.

Thirteen tickets were drawn on each horse. The sum eventually going to the United States will be considerably boosted, for Americans hold 20 tickets on four or the first five favorites in the betting all over in London last night.

Americans hold seven tickets on Law Court, seven on Pegasus, four on British Quota and two on Finalist.

The draw will be resumed at 10 a. m. Monday with ten residual prizes and 1,300 consolation ones to come out of the drum. Officials hoped to complete the work Monday, but there is a possibility it may be necessary to continue till Tuesday.

The prize fund this year is $6,490,356.17. Each holder of a ticket on the horse which wins the race will receive $147,300. Tickets on the holders of second-place horse will get $73,650 each, and the third horse will pay its holders $49,100. Each drawer of a horse will get $1,825 regardless of how the horse finishes.

There will also be ten residual prizes of about $10,792 each and 1,300 consolation prizes of $491 each.

CHICAGOAN BUYS $15,000 HORSE, SIGHT UNSEEN

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 26.—(AP)—David Harums who looked horses in the mouth and otherwise inspected them critically before swapping, would be interested in Hubert S. Silverman, Chicago, who paid $15,000 for a horse he never had seen.

Silverman purchased Anne Boleyn, five gaited chestnut mare, exhibited at the American Royal Horse show by Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Helm, Minneapolis, Minn., by telephone. He accepted the judgment of a friend here and the record of the mare—three victories in three competitions for five gaited horses.

Michigan State Defeats Notre Dame Harriers, 15-44

East Lansing, Mich., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Michigan State's cross country team defeated Notre Dame, 15 to 14, today to maintain its undefeated record which started in 1931.

FIRETHORN WINS $10,000 STAKE; DISCOVERY 4TH

Vanderbilt Racer Trails by Five Lengths.

Laurel, Md., Oct. 26.—(AP)—One hundred and thirty-eight pounds weighed heavily on Discovery today, and the Vanderbilt horse went down to defeat in the $10,000 Maryland handicap—in fourth place, more than five lengths back of the winner.

Walter M. Jeffords' 3 year old colt, Firethorn, carrying 119 pounds, raced to a three length victory in the mile and a quarter feature to pay backers $14 for $2. Second by a nose was Count Arthur, with Only One third, two lengths ahead of Discovery.

Discovery Is 65 to 100 Favorite.

Before a crowd of more than 18,000—which made Discovery the favorite at 65 cents to a dollar—Firethorn moved up on the outside rounding the last turn, wore down the leaders at the furlong pole, led by a half length going into the home stretch, and went across the finish going away.

Discovery trailed his opposition during the first five furlongs. Seventh at the post, he got off ninth, and was in that position at the quarter mark. The half-way mark saw the Vanderbilt colt in eighth place.

He closed some ground, running sixth at the three-quarter mark, and was fifth entering the home stretch. But, in the drive down the stretch, he could not come up and did not threaten the leaders.

Firethorn Earns $10,075.

The value to the winner was $10,075, with second getting $1,500; third, $750, and fourth, $500. Discovery's winnings of $500 brought his earnings for the year to $102,545. Firethorn, with Jocky H. Richards up, negotiated the distance in 2:02 3-5.

The secondary feature, the $3,500 Spalding Lowe Jenkins handicap over a mile for 2 year olds, went to Greentree Stable's Memory Book by a length and a half. Maeriel was second by two lengths and Ned Reigh third by five lengths.

PINEHURST GOLF CLUB AWARDED P. G. A. TOURNEY

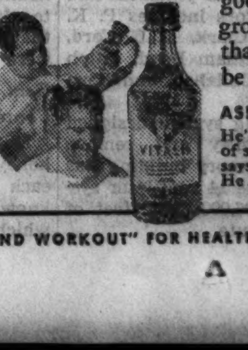
THE way to healthy, handsome hair is to go right down into the scalp after it—right down to the hair roots themselves. And that's why Vitalis and the "60-Second Workout" is so splendidly effective. It loosens your tight scalp . . . speeds up circulation . . . stimulates the hair roots . . . the actual source of hair health.

And the pure vegetable oils of Vitalis not only stimulate and loosen the scalp . . . they also help to replenish the natural oils so necessary to a healthy scalp and to healthy hair.

Vitalis helps your scalp to help itself. It helps your hair to save itself. Loose dandruff disappears. Your hair looks lustrous and alive. It stays in place. No "patent-leather" shine—just a well-kept, naturally well-groomed look to it.

Use the "60-Second Workout" twice a week—or more often if you want to. And here's another suggestion with good sound sense in it: For a perfectly clean scalp, use Vitalis and a vigorous massage just before your regular shampoo—and just after, too. You'll have a clean, healthy, good-looking, well-groomed head of hair that any man would be proud of.



ASK YOUR BARBER—He's an expert on the care of scalp and hair. When he says Vitalis—take his advice. He knows best.

BEARS OUT FOR REVENGE TODAY AGAINSTPACKERS

Cardinals Battle Giants at New York.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Four of the strongest teams in the National league are matched today in games which will have an important bearing on the western division championship. The Bears, present leaders, meet the Green Bay Packers at Wrigley field at 2:15 o'clock. In New York the Cardinals, league leaders until last week, play the Giants.

Victory for the Bears, who are the favorites to avenge an early season defeat by the Packers, will leave the former league champions in first place in their division. The Packers, however, can take the lead with a victory only if the Giants beat the Cardinals.

It's 33d Meeting of Rivals.

The Bear-Packer game will be the 33d meeting between the rivals, who began their series back in the early days of professional football. In fourteen years they have been able to gain no better than a draw with each other, with 14 victories apiece. Four games were tied.

On the occasion of their last meeting, the Packers surprised the Bears with an 83 yard pass for a touchdown on the first play of the game from scrimmage. Repeated drives by the Bears fell short of the goal thereafter and the Packers won, 7 to 0, achieving the first of their four victories in six league games to date. The Cardinals, who have only two victories, defeated the Packers twice.

Halas Expects Severe Test.

Coach George Halas anticipates no recurrence of last month's jolt at Green Bay, but he expects victory only after the Bears' severest test of the year. Relieved of the Brumbaugh complex, which gripped the squad after the star quarter back of last year resigned to accept a coaching job, and revived after the let down following the All-Star game, the Bears found themselves against Philadelphia two weeks ago. They gave one of the best demonstrations of football seen at Wrigley field in several seasons last week in defeating Brooklyn.

Brooklyn, however, was not as good a team as the Packers have proved themselves. It will take just as high a caliber of football to beat the Packers, and more of it, Halas feels. To reach the perfection of attack attained last week, Halas will start the same team which kicked off to Brooklyn.

This array will include Reds Pollock, a newcomer, at right half back, and Beattie Feathers, the league's leading ground gainer last year, at left half. Pollock and Feathers, while not the fastest set of half backs in the league, are two of the most efficient. Their long runs last week were the chief factors in the Bears' first half drive to three touchdowns.

Manders Fills Nagurski's Post.

The back field will be rounded out by Jack Manders at full back in place of the injured Bronko Nagurski, who may not be ready to play for several weeks yet, and Bernie Masterson at quarter back. Masterson has developed into a steady and reliable field general since taking over Brumbaugh's place.

In the line Halas will start Frank Sullivan at center, Carlson and Kopcha at guards, Musso and Buss at tackles, and Hewitt and Karr at ends. Sullivan, captain of the Loyola university eleven of New Orleans last year, has taken the starting assignment from the veterans Ookie Miller and Ed Kawal. Tall and rangy, and fast despite his 210 pounds, Sullivan combines the best attributes of the other two and appears certain to remain as the Bears' regular pivot man.

Starting lineup:

BEARS.		PACKERS.
Hewitt	L. E.	Hutson
Buss	L. T.	Hubbard
Carlson	L. G.	Michalski
Sullivan	C.	Barragar
Kopcha	R. G.	Evans
Musso	R. T.	Schwammel
Karr	R. E.	Gantenbein
Masterson	Q. B.	Bruder
Feathers	L. H.	Sauer
Pollock	R. H.	Herber
Manders	F. B.	Hinkle

HILLSBORO WINS, 26-12.

Hillsboro, Ill., Oct. 26—Hillsboro High defeated Carlinville in a South Central Illinois conference football game here this afternoon, 26 to 12.

Indoor Midget Auto Racing to Open Tonight

Midget car racing will open for the season tonight at the 124th Field Artillery armory, 52d street and Cottage Grove avenue. Preceded by time trials starting at 7:30 p. m., the first race is scheduled to go on an hour later, with three 15 lap contests and a 50 lap final.

A field of 30 entrants will be out for cash purses totaling $700, as well as other prizes to be awarded the winners. Of this amount $300 will be distributed to the first four to finish in each of the 15 lap events and $400 to the first six in the 50 lap feature.

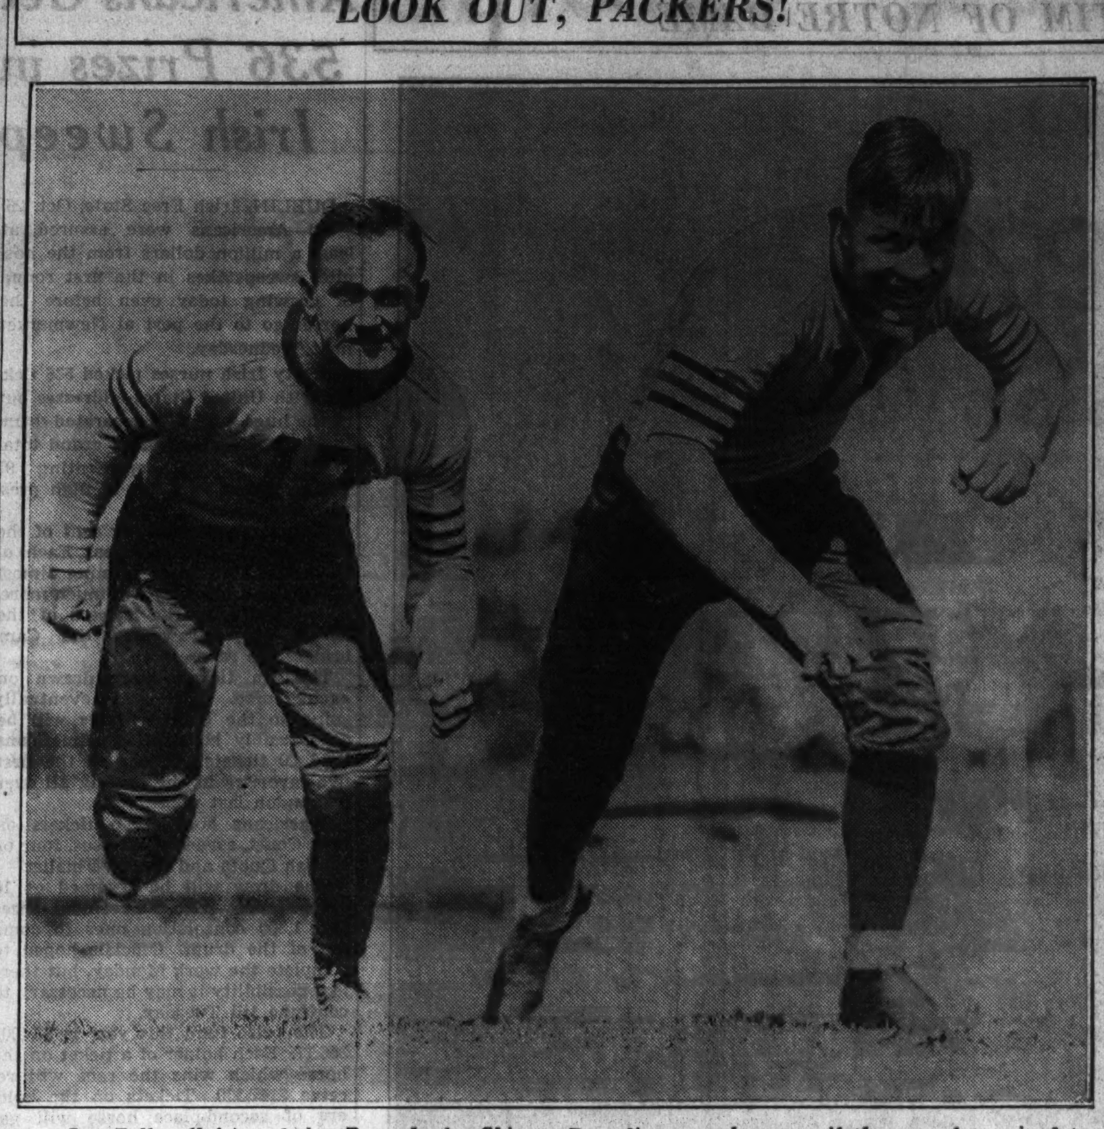
The races are under auspices of the newly formed Chicago Auto Racing association, which has been organized not for profit. It is headed by Thorne Donnelley as president and its board of directors includes P. K. Wrigley, Sheldon Clark, E. L. Cord, Newton Perry, William Boyd, Ralph Isham, Lawrence Callahan, and Bern Swanson.

A new ventilating system designed to improve visibility and remove fumes from the armory building has been installed. The 14 ventilator system gets rid of 106,000 cubic feet of exhaust air a minute.

LOOK OUT, PACKERS!



Joe Zeller (left) and Art Buss, husky Chicago Bear linemen, charge as if they are determined to sweep aside any one resembling a Green Bay Packer. The Bears will play the Packers at Wrigley field this afternoon.

Foes of U. S. Entry in Olympics Lose Ground

What Happened in Week's Sports

American participation in the Olympic games in Germany next year became almost a certainty last week as the Olympic forces in the United States after weeks of quietude struck back at the opposition factions which for months have been campaigning to keep the American team out of the quadrennial contest.

Firing was continuous from both sides throughout the week, but inasmuch as those who favor sending an American team to Germany are the controling powers of the American Olympic committee it seemed likely their opinions would prevail regardless of the forcefulness of any arguments which the opposition might advance. The opening gun in the week's battle was fired by Jeremiah T. Mahoney, national president of the Amateur Athletic union and most vociferous foe of the Olympic program. Mahoney, carrying on from the previous week, demanded in a formal statement on Sunday that Dr. Theodore Lewald, president of the German Olympic committee, resign his position. He charged that Dr. Lewald is "being used as a screen to conceal his government's most flagrant violations of the Olympic ideal of fair play for all."

"No Question of Religion in German Sports."

Scarcely had the cables carried Mahoney's demands to Berlin when Dr. Lewald replied.

"There is no question of religion in German sports," he said. "Every Jew and every German Catholic has exactly the same chance and right to compete for places on our 1936 Olympic team as any athlete of another confession."

His defense of Germany's attitude toward Jews in the Olympic games was backed up by Brig. Gen. Charles H. Sherrill, old time Yale athlete and now the United States representative on the international Olympic committee, who returned from Europe on Monday. Gen. Sherrill declared that Germany has done its part by inviting Jews to the Olympics in good faith. Whether Jewish athletes accept or not does not matter, he argued, as long as Germany has shown its good faith by inviting them and pledging fair and equal treatment to all athletes of all nations and creeds. Continued agitation against American participation will only serve to arouse anti-Semitic feeling in the United States, he predicted.

German-Jewish Girl Fencer Accepts.

Then, in contradiction of Dr. Lewald's and Gen. Sherrill's statements, came a denial from Helen Mayer, German-Jewish fencer, that she had received an invitation to compete for Germany in the Olympic games. Germany countered by sending another invitation which Miss Mayer accepted on Friday. Stella Walsh, Cleveland, O., girl sprinter, who has been competing for her native Poland, added fuel to the opposition fires by describing conditions in Germany and charging further mistreatment of Jewish athletes. She said that in one meet in which she had competed in Germany, Nazi spectators had hooted and jeered at a Jewish girl on the Polish team.

Despite all this the American Olympic committee went ahead with its plans on Tuesday and announced that passage for three American teams which will compete in the winter Olympic events early in the year had been booked on the liner Manhattan and that the teams would sail on Jan. 3. The committee voted unanimously in favor of sending the athletes to Germany. This action was followed the next day by indorsement of the Olympic plans by the national physical education committee of the Y. M. C. A., meeting at Niagara Falls, which adopted a resolution favoring American participation. At the same time the New York Athletic club announced that it would conduct a tour to the Olympics next summer and that 500 members and their families were expecting to make the trip.

Gen. Sherrill and Mahoney Continue Sniping.

Meanwhile Gen. Sherrill and Mahoney were sniping vigorously at each other. Gen. Sherrill wanted to know why the New York A. C., of which Mahoney is a member, does not admit Jews to membership and why Mahoney does not campaign against discrimination against colored athletes in the south. Mahoney retaliated by pointing out that Gen. Sherrill also is a member of the N. Y. A. C. and that colored athletes have run off with most of the honors in A. A. U. competitions in recent years.

All of this squabbling seemed to have resulted in exactly nothing, however, on Thursday when Avery Brundage, president of the American Olympic association and chairman of the American Olympic committee, announced in Chicago that the United States positively will be represented in Germany next year. Germany's political policies in or out of its own country have no bearing on the situation, he said.

"In accepting the invitation to compete in the 1936 Olympics, the American Olympic committee—like committees of the 48 other nations which accepted invitations—did not indorse the policies of any government," he said. "The only factors entering into the matter were sport and the requirements of sport. After all the Olympic games belong to athletes, not politicians."

Since the American Olympic committee is the organization which directs the Olympic affairs in the United States, it appeared that Brundage had had the deciding, if not the last word. All he has to do now is raise the $300,000 to pay the expenses of American athletes to Germany.

Four Cubs, Moriarty Fined for Series Row.

Not the least exciting phase of the recent world series between the Detroit Tigers and the Chicago Cubs was the almost continuous bickering between the Cubs and Umpire George Moriarty of the American league, one time star third baseman and later manager of the Tigers. In the third game of the series which the Cubs lost, 6 to 5, in 11 innings, Moriarty chased three Cubs, including Manager Charley Grimm and Capt. Woody English from the bench, leaving them without a manager or a utility infielder in the tense extra innings. So violent was the language used by the contending parties that even President Ford Frick of the National league was outraged when he heard Moriarty burst out in an unusually profane tirade within hearing of spectators near the Cubs' bench.

The Cubs and Umpire Moriarty paid for their fun last Thursday when Commissioner K. M. Landis announced that he had fined Moriarty, English, Second Baseman Billy Herman, and Shortstop Billy Jurges $200 each for "using vile and unprintable language" and had fined Grimm the same amount for refusing to leave the bench when ordered to do so.

Gabby Hartnett Named National League's Most Valuable.

While other Cubs were being penalized for their conduct in the world series, Gabby Hartnett, Chicago Cubs' great catcher, was being rewarded last week for his conduct on the baseball field. A committee of baseball writers chose him as the most valuable player in the National league during the 1935 season, giving him a total of 75 out of a possible 80 points. Dizzy Dean, St. Louis pitcher, was second with 66 points; Arky Vaughan, Pittsburgh shortstop, third, with 45, and Billy Herman, Cubs' second baseman, fourth, with 38.

American league writers picked Hank Greenberg, slugging first baseman of the Detroit Tigers, as the American league's most valuable player. He received 80 points in the voting.

The Cubs on Tuesday announced one of the most extensive spring training trips in baseball history for 1935. Opening with the White Sox in Los Angeles on March 13, the Cubs will play 29 games in 18 cities and 7 states from California to Florida to Illinois, ending with the Sox in Chicago on April 12. The Sox will open their training season as usual at Pasadena on Feb. 26, spend most of the exhibition period playing the Pirates as the two teams work back east.

Revolta Beats Armour for P. G. A. Title.

Last Tuesday when the Professional Golfers' association tournament reached its semi-final round at Oklahoma City, Paul Runyan of White Plains, N. Y., the defending champion, was missing. He had been beaten by Eddie Zimmerman of Troy, N. Y., 4 and 2, the day before. When the semi-finals were over, Zimmerman, the conqueror of the champion, likewise was missing, beaten by 24 year old Johnny Revolta of Milwaukee, 4 and 3. In the finals on Wednesday, Revolta met Tommy Armour, veteran Chicago professional. At the end of the first nine holes Revolta was 3 up. At the end of the morning 18 holes, he was 4 up. He finished the first nine of the afternoon round, 6 up, ended the match on the 32d green, to win, 5 and 4. For his victory, which carried with it national professional championship, Revolta received $1,000. Armour's second place share of the prize money was $500.

Pirates Hand Cardinals First Pro League Defeat.

The Chicago Cardinals, the surprise of the National Professional Football league, because of the way in which it has clung to the lead as the only unbeaten team, did another surprising thing last Sunday by losing to the Pittsburgh Pirates at Pittsburgh, 17 to 13. When the final gun sounded, the Cardinals had the ball on Pittsburgh's 1 yard line with a touchdown almost a certainty. Deprived of their victory, Cardinal players rushed at Field Judge Earl Cavanaugh, trying to snatch his watch from him. Cy Casper, Pirate half back, was knocked unconscious in the rush. Next day Charles Bidwill, Cardinals' owner, announced he would protest the game, claiming Cavanaugh had told his players there were 2 minutes 17 seconds left when they ran the last play.

The Cardinals' defeat and the victory of Chicago's Bears over Brooklyn, 24 to 14, put the Bears in first place. Green Bay's Packers upset the Detroit Lions, 13 to 9, and the New York Giants beat Boston, 17 to 6.

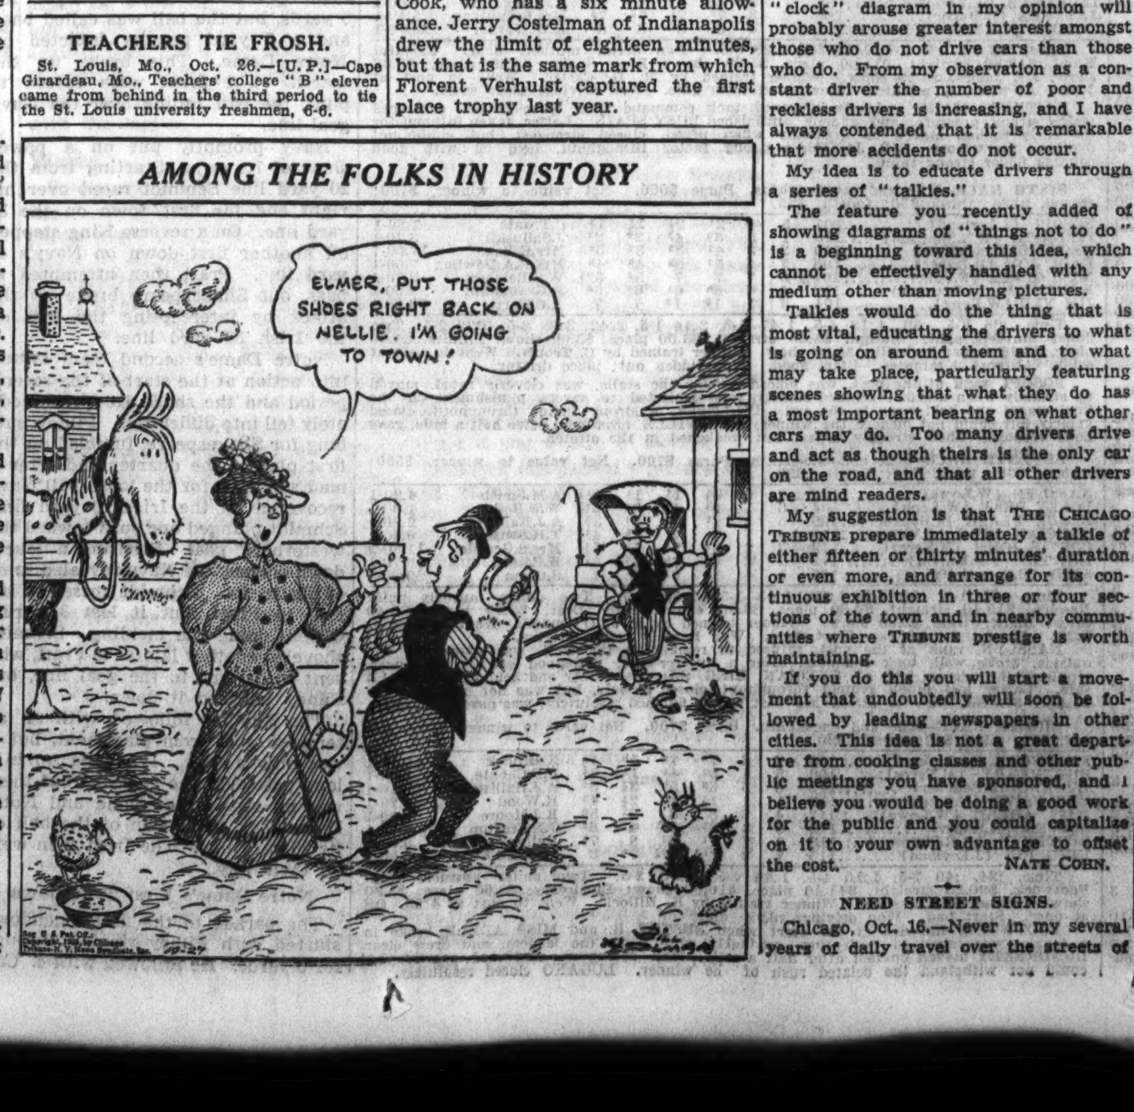
Ed Skoronski of Chicago, captain of the Purdue university football team, was declared ineligible for further competition by the university's faculty athletic committee on Wednesday when it was learned that he had played at Georgetown university in 1931. Skoronski, enrolled as a special student, played as a substitute in one game for Georgetown, but under western conference rules that counts as a year's competition.

Adolph Kiefer of the Lake Shore Athletic club, Chicago, set a new world's record for the 100 meter back stroke swim in Berlin on Sunday in 1 minute 7 seconds.

TEACHERS TIE FROSH.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 26.—[U. P.]—Cape Girardeau, Mo., Teachers' college "B" eleven came from behind in the third period to tie the St. Louis university freshmen, 6-6.

AMONG THE FOLKS IN HISTORY



IT'S DOLLAR PER DUCK THIS YEAR, MR. SPORTSMAN!

Daily Fee Shooting Places Ask $10 a Day.

BY BOB BECKER.

It's going to cost about a dollar a duck and you hope the birds will swing close to the block decoys! That's the lineup along the Illinois river this fall for the duck hunter who does not belong to a club and therefore must pay a fee at a day shooting place for a chance to sling shot at the mallards and pintails.

This department has just made its annual survey of the places where one may hunt ducks along the Illinois river this fall, and from Hennepin in the upper river down to the Beardstown area the charge for privileges averages about $10 per day for the rental of a blind and block decoys. In addition to this fee the hunter must figure the cost of shells, transportation, and in some cases board and lodging.

Here are some of the places along the Illinois river where a duck shooter can obtain hunting privileges by paying a fee. Since the sport has become highly commercialized along the Illinois river and elsewhere in the United States the daily fee hunting place is an established institution.

Henry, Ill.—The price here is $10 per day per man unless there are two or three in the party. Then the price is $8. Room and meals are $1.50 extra.

Lacon, Ill.—This is in the upper Illinois river. Blinds may be rented at various prices. Those on the river may be obtained for as little as $3 per day. These are for open water river ducks. Marsh blinds rent for $15 per day for two men, or $7.50 per man. We hunted in this locality last year and saw plenty of birds.

Putnam, Ill.—Blinds are on an island between several lakes. They rent for $10 per blind.

Hennepin, Ill.—An old established hunting place in this territory will charge $15 for two men in a blind and $20 for three men in a duck blind. Board and lodging is extra.

In the lower Illinois river section most of the old guides and day shooters will operate as usual.

Topeka, Ill.—Where we have had some of our finest hunting, the charge again is $10 to $12 per day. [Last year you paid in proportion to your success in the blind.]

Bath, Ill.—This big duck hunting center will again have day shooting privileges. The charge will be $10 per day or around $12.50 for hunting and board and lodging.

Beardstown, Ill.—One operator of a duck shooting property informs us that he will charge $10 per day per man for rental of blind and decoys. Hotel accommodations are extra, of course.

Elgin-Chicago Bike Race Has Field of 247

Riders from six states will compete next Sunday in the ninth annual Elgin to Chicago bicycle road race, which has attracted a field of 247 entries. The sixty mile grind, sanctioned by the Amateur Bicycle League of America, will have a bearing on the selection of candidates for the next Olympic team. Leading riders from Missouri, Minnesota, Ohio, Wisconsin, Indiana, and Illinois will try to win this classic.

St. Louis has the largest out of town entry, the delegation being headed by Richard Lenver, who has been placed on the six minute mark by the handicap committee of the A. B. L. of A.; Ray George, Virgil Herman, and Ray Florman, all on the nine minute mark, with Andrew Biondo and Harry Lockner starting with twenty-eight others who were allowed twelve minutes.

Cleveland drew six minutes for its three riders, William Meuer, Bill Peden, and Wayne Croyer, while Bud Thorpe, wearing the colors of Minneapolis, is on the nine minute mark. Kenosha, Wis., the home of Bobby Thomas, member of the 1932 Olympic team, will depend for victory on Gene Cook, who has a six minute allowance. Jerry Costelman of Indianapolis drew the limit of eighteen minutes, but that is the same mark from which Florent Verhulst captured the first place trophy last year.

This is the 1936 Plymouth four door sedan. The long, low contours emphasize its greater length and width, making it look much bigger and more massive than its predecessors. The car has been lowered one inch in overall height.

VOICE OF TRAFIC

PLEADS FOR ACCUSED TREES.

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Oct. 20.—You are to be commended for the splendid effort you are making, and my hope is that it will bear fruit.

One item in today's column catches my eye. Mr. Edmond F. Weber suggests that some Lombardy poplar trees be cut down at 89th place and South Park avenue. I wonder where Mr. Weber grew up. I wonder if he ever planted a tree and watched it grow, year by year, eagerly watching for the first buds of springtime and the opening of the tiny leaves, later to enjoy the welcome shade in the fullness of summer, to see the lovely tree in the glory of autumn, and to joy in the thought that he planted something that will live on and on after he has gone.

If he did all of that, I wonder how he can even think of such a thing as cutting it down because of the reason he mentions, so as to make it safer for speeding. Safer for what? O, just a lot of folks who, as the late lamented Will Rogers said, "are hurrying to get some place so they can turn around and hurry home."

Why not place a few "slow" signs near that corner and even a "stop—dangerous corner" sign at the intersection? Remember, "Only God can make a tree."

Hope that you will accept this outburst in the spirit in which it is written.

EDWARD J. GORDON.

SAVE THOSE TREES.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—Regarding the item in your issue of Oct. 20 by Mr. Edmond F. Weber I wish Mr. Weber would make a thorough investigation of past accidents before making such erratic statements.

All accidents which have happened at my corner have been caused by motorists coming from the west and not stopping for South Park avenue.

I have tried for some years past to have a stop sign placed at the southwest corner of this intersection, but have been unable to do so.

I would think with your competent staf of men you would also make a thorough investigation before putting such an item in your paper.

I have been a subscriber of your paper as far back as I can remember, and this does not go over in a big way with me just because an unfriendly neighbor takes an erratic viewpoint of something he knows nothing about.

A. E. MEDLAND.

SUGGESTS SAFETY TALKIE.

Chicago, Oct. 15.—I would like to offer a suggestion for reducing the number of automobile accidents. Your daily "clock" diagram in my opinion will probably arouse greater interest amongst those who do not drive cars than those who do. From my observation as a constant driver the number of poor and reckless drivers is increasing, and I have always contended that it is remarkable that more accidents do not occur.

My idea is to educate drivers through a series of "talkies."

The feature you recently added of showing diagrams of "things not to do" is a beginning toward this idea, which cannot be effectively handled with any medium other than moving pictures.

Talkies would do the thing that is most vital, educating the drivers to what is going on around them and to what may take place, particularly featuring scenes showing that what they do has a most important bearing on what other cars may do. Too many drivers drive and act as though theirs is the only car on the road, and that all other drivers are mind readers.

My suggestion is that THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE prepare immediately a talkie of either fifteen or thirty minutes' duration or even more, and arrange for its continuous exhibition in three or four sections of the town and in nearby communities where TRIBUNE prestige is worth maintaining.

If you do this you will start a movement that undoubtedly will soon be followed by leading newspapers in other cities. This idea is not a great departure from cooking classes and other public meetings you have sponsored, and I believe you would be doing a good work for the public and you could capitalize on it to your own advantage to offset the cost.

NATE COHN.

NEED STREET SIGNS.

Chicago, Oct. 16.—Never in my several years of daily travel over the streets of our fair city has the lack of street signs been so apparent, and the situation is becoming worse from day to day, particularly in the residential districts. Would venture to say 50 per cent of such streets are without markers of any description.

In the absence of sufficient city funds to replace the original metal marker, why not adopt the practical and economical method used by some of our neighboring cities and stencil the names on the curbings? I find this very convenient for motorists, particularly at night, and another thing, they would not attract the destructive youth who seems to be largely responsible for the missing signs and those made illegible by contact with well aimed stones by the aforesaid.

WILLIAM J. BENSON.

REPORT HORN TOOTERS.

Chicago, Oct. 26.—All good citizens can help to stop unnecessary horn blowing when they notice it by asking the driver if he knows he should not blow the horn, and then take down his car license number. Note the time of day, the place, and the date. Then write your report to James P. Allman, commissioner of police, city hall, Chicago. The commissioner requests such reports. Mayor Kelly says let everybody help.

RICHARD J. JACKER.

DETOUR BULLETIN TO BE ISSUED BY PARK DISTRICT

Otto K. Jelinek, trafic engineer for the Chicago park district, announced last week that he will issue a detour bulletin service to newspapers and motor clubs while many of the boulevards are being resurfaced with federal unemployment relief money.

The city bureau of streets, the county and the state likewise will be engaged in extensive paving work in Chicago during the next six months. Mr. Jelinek's service will cover only those jobs under park district jurisdiction. A coördinated detour control would relieve motor trafic of unnecessary inconvenience.

NEW YORK'S AUTO SHOW WILL OPEN NEXT SATURDAY

First Time Annual Exhibit Has Been Fall Event.

BY HAL FOUST.

The national automobile show will open in the Grand Central Palace in New York on Saturday. Chicago's 36th annual motor exhibition will be held Nov. 16 to 23 inclusive in the International Amphitheater, the new exposition hall at the stock yards.

With the opening of the New York show dealers throughout Chicagoland will be displaying their respective 1936 models. Some of the new cars have been seen on the streets for a week or more, while others were announced yesterday. All manufacturers will have their 1936 products on the market on and after next Saturday.

This is the first time in the 35 years of automobile shows that the event has been held in the autumn. Since the horseless buggy demonstration of 1900 the exhibitions have been staged shortly after the first of the new calendar year.

Seasonal Employment.

The autumn date was selected this year in an effort to level seasonal employment in automobile manufacturing and allied industries. Spring has always been the heavy buying season, tapering off during summer and approaching zero in late fall and early winter.

The long standing date shortly after the first of the year was originally established to give the manufacturers opportunity to organize a dealer force throughout the country before the spring rush of business. Dealers and prospective dealers attended the shows, looked over the products of the manufacturers and then decided what car they would handle in the approaching sales season.

Stimulated Some Buying.

The shows in January and February stimulated some retail buying before the market received the great stimulus of the first warm sunshine of spring. It called for higher production schedules from factories already engaged in producing a supply for the approaching seasonal demand.

With the new autumn date motor factories and the plants furnishing materials and parts are now running full blast at a time when with the old show date many of them would be idle.

With 1936 models available through the coming winter, there will be no inclination to postpone purchase of a new car until early next spring. You can save the expense of a winter overhaul that would be necessary to keep the old bus running until spring.

Trafic Violations Observed

On Wednesday an automobile with license 372502 issued to Lawrence E. Gray, 6808 North Wayne avenue, turned east into Ohio street from St. Clair without a pause for the stop sign on the corner.

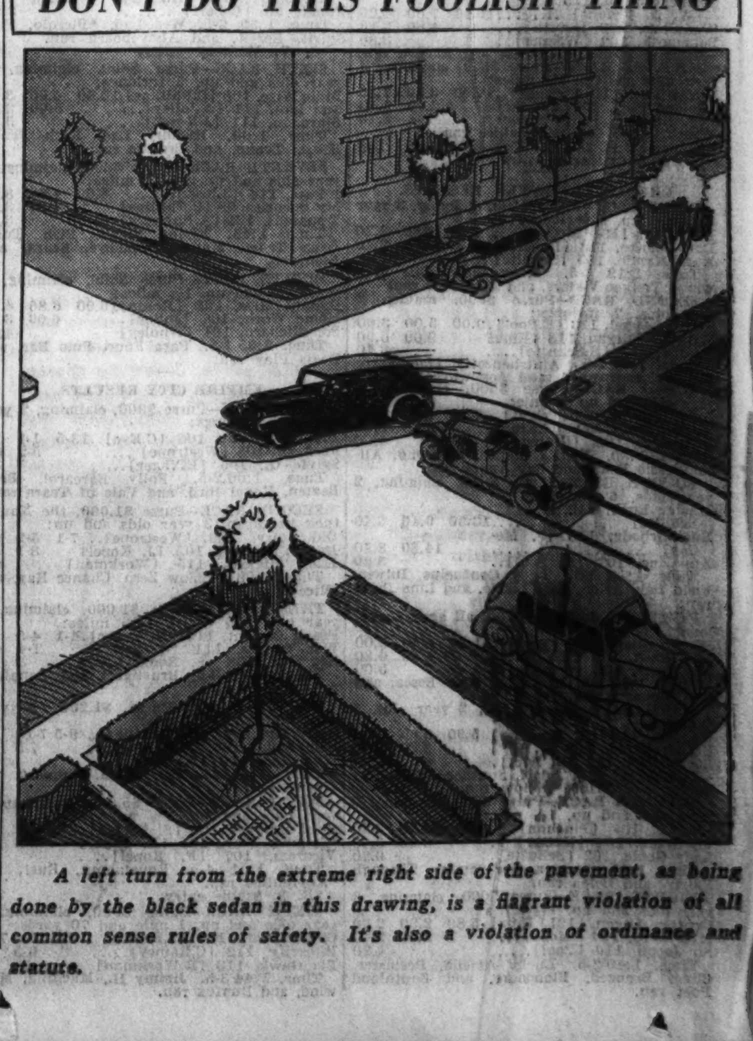
At 3:55 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon a Checker cab with license 304608 was parked in Michigan avenue beside a fire plug in front of the Medinah Athletic club.

A car with license 305731, issued to the Grant Radio company, 6521 South Halsted street, went through a red light in South Michigan avenue at 19th street at 12:45 p. m. on Oct. 19.

An improper right turn from Michigan avenue into Adams street was made on Wednesday morning by a delivery motorcycle with license 4719. The turn was started from the center of the boulevard rather than from the lane next to the right curb.

An improper left turn was made by the woman driver of a car with license 589886 in heading north in Clark street on Tuesday afternoon from the northern terminus of La Salle street. The turn was started not far from the right curb rather than from the center of the street. This license number was issued to Helen Hanson, 4842 North California avenue.

DON'T DO THIS FOOLISH THING



A left turn from the extreme right side of the pavement, as being done by the black sedan in this drawing, is a flagrant violation of all common sense rules of safety. It's also a violation of ordinance and statute.

War

The Campaign.

Italian and Ethiopian troops have yet to fight a real battle. Italian troops made slight advances along the Webbe Shibeli river course in the south. On other fronts Italian troops remained stationary until late yesterday. The Ethiopians took advantage of the delay to rush thousands more of savage warriors to points selected for the defense of the high plateau which forms the heart of Ethiopia.

Along the Webbe Shibeli the Italians captured several small towns in a slow march northward. They were opposed by small bands of Ethiopian irregular troops. The Italians claimed great victories. The Ethiopians said that the captured towns were merely frontier outposts, of no importance, that had scarcely been defended.

The Ogaden district of southeastern Ethiopia is a dry country when the rains stop. When the rains are on it is one great mass of sticky, impassable mud. It rained there all last week. Italian troops could not advance. Dedjazmatch (General) Nasibu, Ethiopian commander, said the rains probably would last for two weeks. He also said the rains would stop the Italians from making much progress in the Webbe Shibeli region.

The Italian army believed to be in northeastern Ethiopian, west of Assab, in Eritrea, disappeared from the news.

In the north the Italian forces worked hard to establish communication between their base at Asmara, Eritrea, and their outpost at Adigrat, Ethiopia. Soldiers relaxed while labor battalions widened narrow cliffside trails to accommodate army trucks. Italian linemen had a hard time with monkeys that tore down telephone wires as fast as they were put up.

Sixty miles south of Adigrat the Ethiopians waited. Below them dropped steep cliffs and gorges up which the Italians must come to reach the plateau. The Ethiopian emperor has said they will stay there until the Italians try to reach the plateau. Then, says Haile Selassie, the Ethiopians will stop them.

In the south Ethiopian troops were waiting in other natural fortresses at Jigjiga. The southern Italian troops are now in comparatively flat, though nasty, country. They must climb to get on the plateau. Thousands of Ethiopians are waiting for them.

The delay helped Ethiopia. Thousands of savages from the interior joined their hitherto unknown countrymen in both the north and the south. Emperor Selassie took his first airplane flight in many years on Tuesday, when Col. John C. Robinson, colored, of Chicago, took him up to wave good-by to 8,000 well equipped troops riding to the northern front from Addis Ababa in American motor trucks.

The same day the emperor denied that Italian troops were using gas or dumdum bullets against his troops. (Dumdums have soft noses which rip huge holes in human flesh.) On Friday he reviewed native troops who cried, "Let us slaughter our enemies!" To aid in the slaughter Chief Bakala Ayele trained his whole family, including his wife, in straight shooting.

Like most of his subjects, the emperor is a superstitious person. His private fortune teller told him he would not be safe outside the capital, Addis Ababa, until after the anniversary of his coronation, Nov. 2. The emperor plans to stay home until then. [See Main News Section.]

Peace Moves.

Chances of a European war faded somewhat during the past week. Many rumors of a peaceable settlement of the Italian-Ethiopian dispute were reported. The British said flatly they will not go to war with Italy, even to stop it from conquering Ethiopia. Premier Laval of France received support at home in his moves for peace. Italy said league of nations penalties were a barrier to peace negotiations between Great Britain and Italy over the Ethiopian dispute.

On Tuesday Sir Samuel Hoare, British foreign secretary, told the house of commons Britain has no quarrel with Italy. He said the Britons have no intention of going to war with Italy. He also said the league of nations will not use military power to stop Italy from conquering Ethiopia. The British will act only with and through the league, Hoare said.

The next day Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin said the idea of war was never in the British mind. At the same time he said Great Britain should immediately begin the reconstruction of its navy. He called that a defense measure.

On Thursday Dictator Mussolini of Italy announced that 15,000 of the 60,000 Italian troops in Libya would be immediately withdrawn. They have been considered a menace to Egypt. Previously Mussolini had allowed the rumor to grow that he would take out his troops if the British would remove their warships from the Mediterranean sea. The British did not announce the removal of any warships.

It was rumored that the Italians were ready to make peace with Ethiopia. A counter rumor on Friday said Italy had made no peace proposals. Both rumors came from Rome.

On Friday King George dissolved the British parliament in preparation for the election which will be held Nov. 14. The day before Winston Churchill, former first lord of admiralty, gave the house a biting warning that Germany was an armed military camp. He said Germany was the nation to be feared as the starter of a European war. [See League.]

Premier Laval of France was given double assurance that his peace policy is approved at home. Sunday he was elected to the French senate from two different districts. (He must resign one of the seats before his nine year term begins in January.) His cabinet voted solidly in favor of his peace moves. Then he set out to try to make the Italians give a definite statement of what they want for peace in Ethiopia.

The League.

The league marked time. It will meet Oct. 31 to hear reports on penalties against Italy. In a message recalling the 13th anniversary of the Fascist march on Rome, Mussolini yesterday warned that Italy would fight penalties with the most desperate defense. [See Main News section.]

Two years ago Germany notified the league that it was withdrawing from membership. Last Monday its withdrawal became effective under the rules of the league.

Germany.

The Nazi government backed down in its struggle with German churches during the last week. Last Sunday Hans Kerrl, minister for church affairs, ordered the police to stop taking action against churches. On Thursday he requested Reichsbishop Ludwig Mueller, who was appointed by the Nazis to head the Protestant church in Germany, to resign. Mueller, who is disliked by most German pastors, refused to get out. Kerrl appealed to Mueller's followers to persuade him to retire.

Free wine was passed out in the streets of Berlin last Monday for the first time in 234 years. The occasion was a national celebration designed to increase the drinking of German wine.

Two weeks ago a high official of the Prussian financial administration sat down with his fellow officers to listen to a radio speech by Adolf Hitler, German dictator. Last Tuesday the official was fired because he fell asleep during the speech.

China.

Last Wednesday night two American sailors all but caused an international incident in Tsingtao, on the Shantung peninsula of northern China. The sailors were ejected from a dance hall. In their anger they were reported to have torn down a Japanese flag and thrown it into the street. A Japanese mob gathered and the sailors were taken to a Japanese jail for protection. The next day the sailors were turned over to American naval authorities upon the promise they would be punished under naval regulations if found guilty of insulting the Japanese flag.

Riots flared in the northern Chinese provinces of Honan and Hopei in the early part of the week. Chinese farmers were protesting against high land taxes. Japanese police were sent from Peiping to put down the trouble. The Japanese claimed that the protests were caused by the high taxes imposed by the Chinese Nationalist government. Chinese officials claimed that the protests were encouraged by the Japanese who plan to take over the five northern provinces of China. The Chinese also said the Japanese stirred up the riots as an excuse for sending Japanese troops to that area.

GEN. LIGGETT.

Lieut. Gen. Hunter Liggett was critically ill in San Francisco last week. He is 78 years old. Gen. Liggett commanded the first American corps to enter the fighting lines during the world war. This was in the Soissons-Château Thierry salient. Under his leadership the First corps drove the enemy back from the Marne. Gen. Liggett was born at Reading, Pa. He was graduated from West Point in 1879. Less than a year later he was fighting Indians in Montana.

AAA.

The agricultural adjustment program, set up as an emergency two years ago, is to be made long time or nearly permanent. President Roosevelt, in announcing this Friday, sought to convince the farmers that they would be better off under the new policy. He also sought to assure the city people that they would not have to foot the bills in higher prices. This was seen as a bid for votes from both.

Some changes will be made in the permanent program. It will be simplified. It will be decentralized, or broken up. It will include soil conservation as an important feature. It will increase federal power over what and how much farmers will be allowed to grow.

Under the new plan, farmers will decide, with the advice of AAA officials, the amount of crops to be grown in their particular county. Also each farmer (or farm) will be given only one contract rather than separate contracts for the various crops and live stock. The soil conservation feature probably will call for further curtailment of crops.

The feud between AAA New Dealers and the Bakers of America continued last week. The New Dealers recently charged the bakers with raising or planning to raise the price of bread 1 cent a loaf. The bakers, meeting in Chicago, denied this and countered with the charge that any boost in prices should be charged to government tax eaters.

At Madison, Minn., Wednesday the Minnesota Farmers' Holiday association demanded the removal of Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace. They charged he is putting the farmers under a dictatorship.

Farmers through the country voted yesterday in a referendum on whether or not to continue for another year the AAA corn and hog policies, under which they collect bonuses for cutting down crops and pork. [See Main News section.]

President.

President Roosevelt landed at Charleston, S. C., on Wednesday, ending a three weeks' fishing cruise in the Pacific and Atlantic oceans. He looked tan and healthy. He was met by several members of his official family, including Postmaster General Farley. The postmaster, it was reported, had hurried to Charleston to give his chief sad news of political winds. [See Politics.]

Several thousand welcomers cheered the President as he left the U. S. S. Houston. In a brief speech the President said he had found evidence that the country was coming back to prosperity. He hinted that his New Deal deserved credit for economic improvement. He also repeated his intention to keep America out of foreign wars. In a press conference aboard the Houston earlier, he denied that Nov. 1 was the deadline when 3,500,000 persons should be at work under the 4 billion dollar public works program. He'd be glad to see 3,000,000 at work by Nov. 30, he said. [See Works.]

The President returned to the White House on Thursday. He gave his immediate attention to the African war, the work relief program, the coming session of congress, and the 1936 campaign. That night the President, speaking by radio, observed that private industry was doing nobly in hiring unemployed. During September, he said, 350,000 men and women were returned to private employment.

On Friday President Roosevelt conferred with his cabinet on the New Deal neutrality policy anent the African war. [See War; also League.] It is known that league powers have asked for a statement from Washington on its attitude toward sanctions against Italy. It is believed that the President's political advisers will urge him not to become entangled with the league.

Works.

Friday was a red letter day for Chicago and Illinois under the federal public works program. Controler General J. R. McCarl, in Washington, approved 925 projects costing $40,343,078, and released $9,933,189 toward starting them. Other sums will be freed from time to time. Chicago will get money for sidewalk improvements, for parkway and vacant lot clearance, and for rodent extermination. The Chicago park district and the board of education also will get allotments.

Monday was another happy day for Chicago. Final approval of the permanent fair in Burnham park came from Washington. An allotment of $6,455,777 was released for this project. By next week 5,000 men will be at work clearing the old world's fair grounds. The approval of this project, also by McCarl, was a victory for Mayor Kelly, who had to fight strong opposition. In addition to the $6,455,777 released for the fair grounds, McCarl handed out $6,416,296 for 173 other Illinois projects. On Wednesday Gov. Henry Horner of Illinois announced that President Roosevelt had approved the building of 27 National Guard armories in the state.

Meanwhile the New Deal's efforts to put 3,500,000 men to work on public works by Nov. 1 progressed slowly. So far only 1,400,000 jobs have been created. According to President Roosevelt, he had never set such a definite date as Nov. 1. [See President.] This put the blame on Works Progress Administrator Harry L. Hopkins, who promptly extended the deadline to Dec. 1.

Navy.

The United States on Thursday accepted an invitation from Great Britain to attend a naval disarmament conference in London on Dec. 2. Other nations invited were Japan, France, and Italy. The conference will try to draw up new agreements to replace the Washington and London naval treaties which end Dec. 31, 1936.

In a speech in Washington on Wednesday, Admiral William H. Standley, chief of naval operations, charged that certain radical groups were using the schools, the Y. M. C. A., and the Y. W. C. A. to keep America from strengthening its national defenses. On the same day, in Chicago, Rear Admiral John Downes, commandant of the Great Lakes Naval Training station, also charged various groups were trying to undermine the nation's defenses.

Tomorrow is Navy day. In a letter yesterday the President called attention to the day and said that because of unsettled conditions throughout the world the United States needed a strong national defense. A feature of Navy day will be the christening at Philadelphia of the destroyer Cassin. For the first time in American naval history a foreigner, Mrs. Helen Carusi Lombard, will officiate. She is the wife of a French military attaché in Washington. [See Main News Section.]

The City

Tobacco Road.

Husky, round-headed Erskine Caldwell has never been proud of Georgia and Georgia has never been proud of him. He was born 32 years ago among the "poor white trash" of Coweta county and grew up with a first hand knowledge of their shiftless, squalid, vulgar ways. His father was a traveling missionary, and Erskine had no schooling until he was 14. He was a farm hand, mill worker, cotton picker, hack driver, collegian, stage hand, soft drink dispenser, vagabond, night cook, waiter, lecture bureau manager, professional football player, book reviewer, and reporter before he became a short story writer and novelist. By 1933 he had written two novels which brought him praise and abuse. Said he then: "I am ashamed of 'Tobacco Road' now, and if I'm not ashamed of 'God's Little Acre' inside the next six months I'll never write another book." He has written two more. His shame was not for having written profane and ugly truth, but for having fallen short of his own artistic ideals.

Others besides Georgians have thought he should be ashamed. John S. Sumner of a New York vice suppression society complained that "God's Little Acre" was obscene, but liberal Judge Benjamin Greenspan threw the case out of court. "Tobacco Road," also about the lowdown Georgia "crackers," was never suppressed in book form. In 1933 Jack Kirkland rewrote it into a play. It has run continuously on Broadway for 22 months and may break all records. Henry Hull, James Barton, and James Bell played the "Jeeter" lead successively as Hollywood "discovered" first Hull and then Barton. Now Kirkland and the co-owner, Sam Grisman, have three casts on the road. One, with Henry Hull back again, came to Chicago's Selwyn theater seven weeks ago.

Last Sunday Mayor Kelly saw "Tobacco Road." The next day he revoked the theater's license to close the show. Said the mayor: "Chicago has always been liberal . . . and still is, but liberalism does not condone filth. There is no so-called artistic merit to this production. . . . It is an insult to decent people. . . . [If] this play is justified because it supposedly depicts conditions as they really are . . . I do not see that this is an argument for inflicting upon the people of Chicago . . . a concoction so disgusting. . . ."

Caldwell happened to be in town. Said he: "I lived with these people [the poor whites], was one of them. It is a true story and, therefore, a universal story. . . . It certainly is not a dirty play. It ran with unqualified approval in other cities." A few small cities have banned the play. Said "Jeeter" Hull: "That 'Tobacco Road' is vulgar there is no doubting. So is life in the raw. The purpose of the play is to shock. . . . The same was true of 'Uncle Tom's Cabin.'"

The producers went to Federal Judge William H. Holly. He read the play. Although the city attorneys said he had no jurisdiction, Judge Holly ruled, "I do not find it obscene or indecent," and ordered Mayor Kelly not to interfere with the play's production for seven days. Judge Holly did not doubt the mayor's "good faith," but "one must take into consideration the customs of the times. . . . Profanity . . . is accepted by the best of people. . . . Some characters are represented as sexually excited." He cited movies with "more to offend" that ran in Chicago. "Complaint is made that some of the gestures are obscene. I am sure . . . the producers will be willing to omit them."

While the mayor's attorneys fought the restraining order the Selwyn remained without a license and the play remained without a stage. Other theaters feared Mayor Kelly's wrath. He said it would extend to every indecent show in town.

The last play banned in Chicago was the lurid "Frankie and Johnnie," in 1929. Jack Kirkland was also its playwright. Even New York banned it and arrested Kirkland.

Time.

More Chicagoans chose sides last week in the question of changing city time from central standard in winter and eastern standard in summer to eastern standard, or daylight saving, time the year around. One faction saw advantages in later afternoon daylight, the other in early morning daylight. Since the winter sun shines only nine or ten hours, darkness must encroach on the working day at one end. The city council judiciary committee held its second public hearing, but there were too many to be heard. Opinion seemed to favor permanent daylight saving by a little less than 2 to 1. Monday the committee will draft a new ordinance for the council's vote. Submission of the question to a public vote at the April primary will be considered. Otherwise the ordinance may become effective some time after Jan. 1.

Supporters expect health benefits from more sunshine. Convenience was the sole objective of the standard time zones adopted by the railroads in 1883. The United States Supreme court in 1926 upheld the right of convenience when it ruled that local time changes did not violate federal rights. How convenience has altered the mathematical standards of time is obvious in the wide variations of the accepted time zone boundaries throughout the world. [See map on next page.] Standard time is measured from the zero meridian at Greenwich observatory, London. It takes the sun an hour to pass over 15 degrees of the earth's surface. Thus every fifteenth meridian becomes the basis for an hour's change. The meridian zones lie 7½ degrees on either side of these base north-south lines. But accepted zone boundaries zigzag so much for the sake of time tables and regional interests that some North Dakota and Texas localities are an hour off sun time. This occurs when the central zone (based on the 90th meridian) wanders so far west that it crosses the mountain time meridian (the 105th). To have a standard time, any point not on a base meridian must vary from actual sun time. Thus the standard itself is artificial and merely a convenience.

Mayor Kelly reported that the city government's operating expense this year is $9,051,552 less than it was in 1930 under Mayor Cermak. The government then cost $58,768,000. The appropriation this year is $49,716,448. The cost in 1934 was $44,185,000. The original budget for 1935 was $49,716,448, but it had to be raised.

The grand jury at Louisville, Ky., on Thursday voted indictments for the murder of Mrs. Evelyn Sliwinski, 22 years old, wife of a Louisville tailor. Willie [Smoky] Saunders, 20 years old, a jocky, who rode Omaha to victory in the Kentucky Derby last May, was charged as an accessory. Walter Schaeffer, 25, race track exercise boy, was charged with murder. Saunders and Schaeffer went out with Mrs. Sliwinski and Mrs. Agatha Mackison last week-end. Early last Sunday morning her body was found in a road. She had been run over by a car. Mrs. Mackison accused Schaeffer of deliberately running over her after she had been put out by Saunders. Both Saunders and Schaeffer said Mrs. Sliwinski got out of the car voluntarily. They denied running her down.

Seattle police on Friday formally charged Leo Hall, 33 years old, with the mass murder of six persons at Erland's Point in March, 1934. He was arrested on the story of Mrs. Larry Foulos, 27, a beer parlor waitress. The victims of the robbery killings were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Flieder, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Chenevert, Magnus Jordan, and Ezra Bolcom. Mrs. Foulos is quoted by police as saying that she tied up the victims and that Hall stabbed, shot, and beat them to death so there would be no witnesses.

Last March Rolland B. Steele, 25 years old, a clerk in the Chicago office of the Home Owners' Loan corporation, won $40,000 in the Irish sweepstakes. Last month he returned to his home town, Eutaw, Ala. He planned to buy a farm, marry his childhood sweetheart, and settle down. First, however, he went to have a good time in New Orleans. Early last Sunday Steele visited a beer parlor. He quarreled with the bartender, Henry Langhauser. Elva Cross, alias Elsie Smith, an Indian girl and friend of Langhauser's, stabbed Steele in the back, killing him.

Joseph Slaney, a Boston tobacco merchant, dropped dead Tuesday when federal revenue agents entered his place of business to question him about suspected bootlegging of tobacco. Government officials say that tobacco bootleggers are doing a million dollar business, cheating the government out of thousands of dollars in taxes.

A change of venue from Minneapolis to St. Paul was granted Monday to Walter W. Liggett, Minneapolis editor, who is charged with gross immorality. He charges that the case against him is made up of lies by political enemies. On Friday hoodlums beat Liggett severely. He said he was attacked because of his fight against vice and gambling.

Charges of assault to kill against Jack Blackburn will be heard in the Felony court, Chicago, Nov. 19. Blackburn, colored trainer of Joe Louis, heavyweight fighter, shot it out Sunday with John Bowman, also colored, near 57th street and South Park avenue. Two colored bystanders, Enoch Houser and Lucy Cannon, were wounded. Houser died later.

Manuel Vargas, convicted murderer, was executed with the garrote at Granada, Spain, on Tuesday. The garrote is an iron collar which is tightened by a screw. Death is by strangulation. [In some models a plunger dislocates the neck bone.]

Officials on Tuesday upset a suspected plot of dangerous criminals to blast their way out of the Kansas State penitentiary at Lansing. Twelve employés of the Dev-Lin gambling house, on the outskirts of Chicago, were fined on gambling charges Wednesday by Justice A. L. Sengstock in Morton Grove. James Brown, the keeper, was fined $50. The others were each fined $1.

A jury in New Orleans on Wednesday acquitted Abraham Lazard Shushan of income tax evasion. Shushan, notions merchant, president of the New Orleans levee board and close political friend of the late Senator Huey Long, was surrounded by scores of happy friends after the verdict was read. They escorted him out of the court with a rush, his bodyguards clearing the way of newspaper photographers. The government charged that for the five year period between 1929 and 1933, inclusive, Shushan owed a tax of $71,153.

Dan Perretta, 23 years old, Gary's, Ind., youngest alderman, was found shot to death Thursday in a roadside ditch in Griffith, Ind. Police the next day arrested Ernest Fannone, Fenora Barthole, and Gabriel Barracchia for questioning. Perretta was a foe of gambling. Police think he was a black hand victim.

Politics

Nearly 5,000 men and women from all parts of the country gathered at the Stevens hotel in Chicago last week. They were delegates to the first national convention of the Townsend movement. Most of the delegates were elderly, and some were very old. All seemed imbued with a religiouslike fervor.

Their object was to promote support to force congress to pass the Townsend plan. This scheme would give an easy money pension of $200 monthly to everybody over 60 years of age who would quit work and promise to spend his or her pension every 30 days. More than 8,000,000 persons could qualify at once for the pension. A few years hence the number would rise. The Scripps Foundation for research in population problems recently predicted that in 1960 America will have twice as many people over 60 as it has now.

The Townsend convention opened Thursday. Everybody seemed happy. Dr. F. E. Townsend, 68 years old, California father of the plan, received a rousing welcome. He asked for larger contributions. To be successful, the cause would need $500,000 a month for promotional purposes, he said.

Republicans and Democrats alike chose to ignore the Townsend meeting, although several leaders admitted they'd probably hear from the Townsendites later. Right now the Republicans are busy building up party strength and searching for a new leader. The Democrats are concerned with regaining some of the popularity lost by their New Deal leader, President Roosevelt.

The Democrats' only ripple in the political waters was the President's remark at Charleston, S. C., that the "country is coming back." Postmaster General James Farley, the President's campaign master, who is reported a bit worried over the New Deal's loss of popularity, was among those who met Mr. Roosevelt. [See President.]

A new kind of attack—satire—was leveled at the New Deal last week. It was carried in the New Deal Follies, a show staged in Philadelphia by the Sentinels of the Republic, a nonpartisan organization. It will appear next in Chicago. The program included speakers, movies, cartoons, pictures, charts, and mechanical devices. All purported to show the extravagances of the New Deal and what they mean to the everyday citizen. The show was the idea of Raymond Pitcairn, lawyer, industrialist, and chairman of the Sentinels. The Sentinels were organized in 1922 to uphold the constitution, to check communism, to prevent too much power in Washington, and to help preserve free government.

Meanwhile potential candidates for the Republican presidential nomination did little last week. Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. of New York, an avowed candidate, debated in Chicago with Upton Sinclair, California Socialist Democrat. They agreed that the New Deal has failed.

Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, Frank Knox of Illinois, and Col. Theodore Roosevelt made several speeches. Col. Roosevelt, speaking at New Brunswick, N. J., on Thursday, charged that the New Deal has distributed poverty rather than wealth. Gov. Alf Landon of Kansas, a strong contender, attended to his duties at the state capitol and spent the rest of his time at home with his wife and two children.

Mrs. Alf Landon.

Mrs. Landon, the former Theo Cobb, was married to Gov. Landon in 1930. They have two children, Nancy and John. Friends predict that if Landon is elected President she will make as gracious a first lady as Mrs. Coolidge. Landon's first wife, Margaret Fleming, died in 1918.

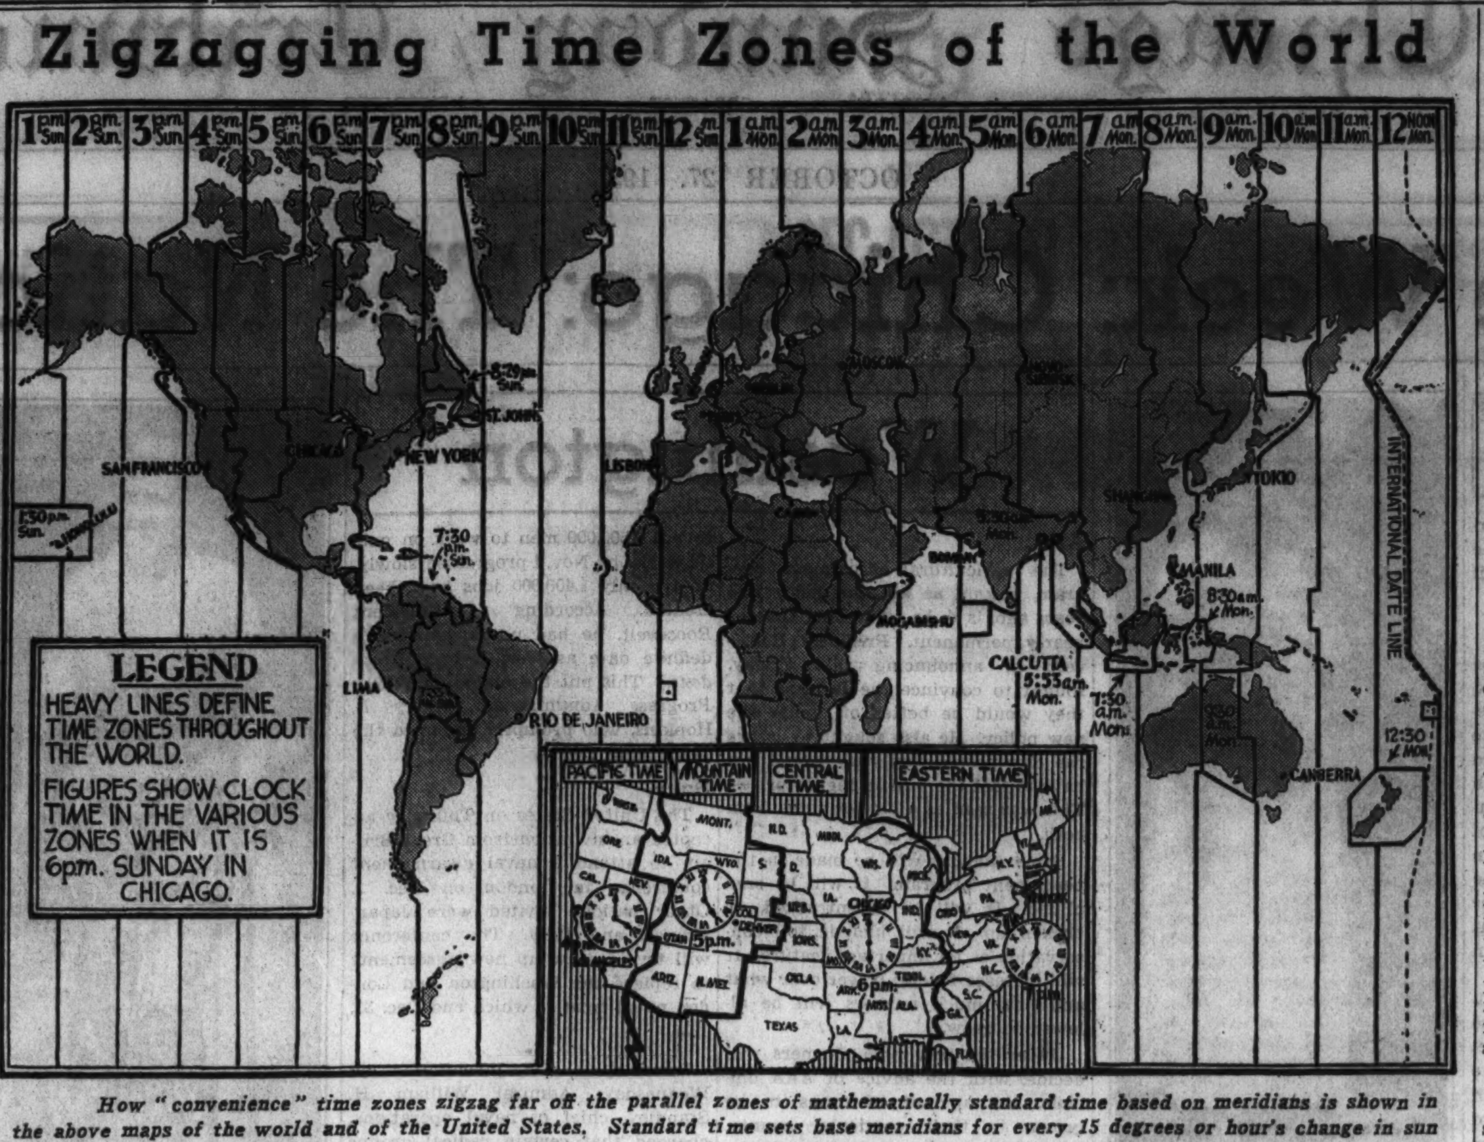
A coroner's jury of chemists and engineers was unable to determine the cause of the explosion at the Glidden soy bean plant which killed 11 persons and destroyed the five story building. But it recommended safety measures. Next day Fire Chief John E. Murray, expert fire chemist, said a bean dust explosion in a huge tank was the probable cause.

The Illinois commerce commission announced that transfers between surface and elevated lines total 70,000 a day, a rate of 25 million a year. This more than doubles estimates made before the new system took effect.

The county board removed Robert M. Sweitzer as county treasurer last May, after it was discovered that he had withheld $414,000 in public funds from his successor as county clerk, Michael Flynn. Sweitzer had been county clerk from 1910 to 1934. After a hide-and-seek game, during which Sweitzer promised to return the money, he was indicted on June 20 and arraigned in Criminal court the next day. He pleaded not guilty and the trial was continued until July 22. The case was continued from July 22 to Aug. 12 to Sept. 3 to Sept. 17 to Sept. 24 to Oct. 21. Last week Sweitzer's attorneys obtained a seventh delay—until tomorrow.

Zigzagging Time Zones of the World



How "convenience" time zones zigzag far off the parallel zones of mathematically standard time based on meridians is shown in the above maps of the world and of the United States. Standard time sets base meridians for every 15 degrees or hour's change in sun time east and west of Greenwich, England, near London. Thus, for the 360 degrees of the earth's circumference there are 24 time zones. The parallel lines in the oceans show the correct time zones, while the wandering divergences of these show the accepted distortion on land.

Flying

Aviation men again are talking of Ruth Nichols' luck. In eleven years of flying she has crashed five times—and lived. The fifth time was last Monday, near Troy, N. Y. Her large luxury plane fell from a height of fifty feet and burst into flames. Miss Nichols and her pilot, Capt. Harry Hublitch, were thrown clear. He died later. Miss Nichols was seriously hurt, but was reported improved yesterday. Miss Nichols, 31 years old, is considered one of the world's leading airwomen. She has held many women's records—the altitude record, 28,743 feet; the speed record, 210 miles per hour, and the long distance record, 1,977 miles.

An airplane was converted into a lie detector by Argentine detectives. They arrested Emilio Gustavo Lajus last week. They accused him of robbing the Anglo-South American bank at Santa Cruz, stealing $30,900 and killing two clerks. He denied guilt. They put Lajus in an airplane. The pilot did some daring stunts. Lajus became so frightened he confessed.

Capt. R. O. Sullivan, commander of the Pan-American Airways' clipper which has been making long flights over the Pacific, predicted in Honolulu Sunday that a regular flying schedule of 58 hours will soon be established between San Francisco and Manila. •• All international air mail, passenger, and express service to Latin-America will be put on new high speed schedules Nov. 1. This is to meet rising foreign competition. Juan T. Trippe, president of Pan-American, said the new schedule will average 150 miles an hour, 50 miles an hour faster than the average European service.

William L. Waterhouse, pioneer aviation engineer of Los Angeles, announced that he had designed and built a successful two cycle engine. This is expected to reduce the weight per horse power of airplane motors.

Heavy weather again delayed the inflation of the world's largest balloon, Explorer II., at Rapid City, S. D. When inflated the balloon will be sent aloft in an attempt to better the record height in the stratosphere.

Frank Kurtz, 20 years old, flew from Mexico City to Newark, N. J., Tuesday. He had hoped to set a new record for that trip. Compass trouble over the Gulf of Mexico delayed him for several hours.

Fire and Quake

Quakes, fire, and high winds made Montanans and Californians jittery last week.

The worst hit was Helena, Mont. On Oct. 12 several light earth shocks occurred. Others occurred daily. A week ago Friday a stronger jar wrecked buildings, drove thousands of people from homes, killed three persons, and injured 20. In ten days 327 tremors were recorded. More shocks occurred Tuesday and Wednesday. Property loss was set at $2,500,000.

California also reported quakes. Four shocks were recorded between San Diego and Long Beach on Thursday. No injury resulted. High winds that damaged orange and other fruit trees caused more worry. The worst woe was a brush fire in the Malibu beach area, dotted with homes of many famous movie stars. The fire broke out in the Malibu lake area Thursday. It was still raging yesterday. Total fire damage is put at $10,000,000.

Foreign Notes

One cold morning in January, 1899, servants broke in the door of a bedroom in a hunting lodge at Mayerling, Austria. On the bed lay the bodies of Rudolph, crown prince of Austria, and his mistress, Baroness Marie Vetsera. Both of them had been shot. How they died has never been explained, though many theories have been advanced. The former Princess Stephanie, wife of the crown prince at the time of his death, has written a book in which she claims the lovers died in a suicide pact. Her book, which was announced last Monday, is another blow at Hapsburg hopes of regaining the throne of Austria. The next day Austria banned the book.

Turks stayed home last Sunday. They were obeying Mustapha Kemal Ataturk's order that every one stay indoors until the taking of a census was completed. Mustapha is the Turkish dictator.

Costers, London push cart peddlers, held their Harvest Festival services recently. Jim Duckworth, coster king, attired in the costume of the costers, who adorn their clothing with pearl buttons, preached at the services. Dress costumes of the women include large feathers in their hats, as well as the pearl buttons.

The resignation of Premier Richard Bennett of Canada was accepted Tuesday. William Lyon Mackenzie King was immediately sworn in as the new premier. King now is premier for the third time. King, leader of the Liberal party, which scored such a crushing victory in the recent dominion elections, announced his new cabinet of fourteen, with one post to be filled.

Mrs. Keke Jugashvily is the mother of Josef Stalin, dictator of Russia. Tuesday she announced that all mothers would be happy if they had a son like hers. Speaking of a recent visit of her son to her home, she said they spent the whole day laughing and talking together.

The Italian-Ethiopian trouble and labor disputes combined to cause rioting at Kingston, on the island of St. Vincent, 100 miles west of Barbadoes, last Monday. Colored men were aroused by race feeling and workers' problems. British marines were landed on the island, which is a British possession, and soon restored order. Three were killed and fourteen injured.

For the first time since the world war France and Germany swapped spies Friday. The Germans gave the French three Frenchmen and the French gave Germany two Germans. All of them had been convicted of spying and had served parts of prison terms. The spies were exchanged on a bridge over the Rhine.

The Spanish government sent word to Paramount Films that no more of its pictures would be allowed in Spain unless "The Devil Is a Woman" is withdrawn everywhere in the world. The Spaniards said the picture insulted them.

Science

Fifty business men guests of the National Research council making a tour of industrial laboratories last week stopped at the General Electric company in Schenectady, N. Y., and looked at a mechanical garbage man that will go on the market soon. The machine is attached to the pipe under the kitchen sink and whatever is brought to it in the draining water is chopped fine enough to wash down in the sewer. Even meat bones are ground up. The device uses less energy than an electric clock.

They saw a new X-ray tube which has power equal to $2,000,000 worth of radium. Better results in cancer treatment are expected. The rays, produced by 800,000 volts of electricity, will penetrate four inches of metal and detect casting and welding defects.

They saw a new steel magnet which is capable of lifting 60 times its weight, a vast increase over previous magnets. The metal — aluminum, nickel, and cobalt alloyed with iron—magnetizes with difficulty but when magnetized holds its power stubbornly. It may simplify electrical machines and eliminate electro-magnets.

Moving on to the Gulf Refining company at Pittsburgh, they saw how the waste gases escaping in the process of making gasoline can be conserved and made into a higher quality of gasoline. Gas from oil wells, refineries, and storage tanks which have been wasted amount to 300 billion cubic feet a year. Turning this into gasoline will extend the life of the nation's oil reserves by many years. The entire process is a secret, but the principle is compression of the gas, mainly hydrocarbon, into liquid. This liquid is similar to the high quality ethyl gasoline. A superior lubricating oil may be made by the same process. Scientists said it will be two years before such artificially created products can be marketed.

Education

One set of twins in a classroom is bad enough. At Harding High school, in Marion, O., there are five sets of twins. All of them elected the same courses. One of the sets, David and John Peterson, 16 years old, are third great grand nephews of Betsy Ross, who designed the American flag.

Carleton B. Nichols Jr., 8 years old, has started suit to compel the mayor and "each and every misguided member" of the Lynn, Mass., school committee to let him back into the third grade. Carleton Jr. is carrying on the suit through his father, Carleton Sr., a member of the religious sect known as Jehovah's Witnesses. Carleton Jr. was expelled from public school for refusing to salute the American flag. As the son of a Witness he called it an instrument of the devil.

On Wednesday the school board of Saugus, Mass., expelled seven children from school because they refused to salute the American flag. They are children of members of Jehovah's Witnesses. They claimed they could not salute the flag because it is an emblem of man, not God.

The Italo-Ethiopian war has resulted in a vast increase in students' interest in courses dealing with international relations, according to reports from both Chicago and Northwestern universities.

PETER PAN.

A New York jury on Monday awarded $25,000 to John D. Williams, a former stage director, against Miss Maude Adams, famous as an actress and as the creator of the rôle of Peter Pan in Barrie's play. He had sued for $200,000. Williams claimed Miss Adams owed him that sum for his work in bringing her out of retirement four years ago. The trial brought out that Miss Adams' real name was Kiskadden.

Walker

Ending his three year exile abroad, former Mayor James J. Walker of New York City is homeward bound. He sailed Thursday from Southampton, England, on the S. S. Manhattan. With him was his wife, the former Betty Compton. Walker will arrive in New York next Thursday.

Walker smiled happily as he boarded the ship. This was, he said, the most exciting thing for him since he was a boy. He admitted he had been asked to reënter politics, but said he would not. He refused to describe his long absence as an exile.

Until 1931 Walker's life was happy and successful. In that year the Seabury legislative committee began investigating political affairs in New York City and Walker's own affairs. Many deals which enriched Walker were disclosed. In August, 1932, he was charged before Franklin D. Roosevelt, then governor, with violating the ethics of a public officer. On Sept. 1, 1932, Walker resigned.

Chicagoland

Wisconsin.

Talk of a political scandal in the administration of Wisconsin Works Progress administration (WPA) simmered all week following an opinion of Attorney General James E. Finnegan that a special senate committee had no authority to investigate the affairs of government agencies in the state. Chairman William H. Shenners of the senate committee has had many complaints, he said, that only Radical Progressives can get jobs under WPA. Democrats have been resentful since appointment of Adjt. Gen. Ralph M. Immell, La Follette leader, as state director of WPA. The Shenners committee met and voted to investigate regardless of Finnegan's opinion. •• Thirteen persons were injured or overcome by gas at Green Bay by a fire in a chip bin of the Northern Paper company. •• Mrs. Frances Newman, 43, at Wisconsin Rapids, held her 10 year old daughter under water in the bathtub until the child was drowned, fearing, she confessed, what the future held in store. •• Ripon, Wis., a city of 4,000, which boasts it was the birthplace of the Republican party, acquired additional reflected glory Tuesday with a welcome home party for H. Gordon Selfridge, London merchant, who also was born in Ripon. He came back for a day to receive the degree of doctor of humane letters from Ripon college and to see the municipal park renamed Selfridge park in his honor. The world known merchant, however, stated that he neither remembered the town nor any one in it.

Iowa.

Guns began booming over the Mississippi river at 7 a. m. Monday as the duck hunting season opened. •• Twelve state and five federal highways in Iowa were closed for construction, necessitating many detours. •• Screw worms have invaded Clarke, Union, and Lucas counties. The worms, which come from the south, feed on scratches and sores on live stock and sometimes cause death. •• Four automobiles crashed into a freight train at Rockwell. Neither trainmen nor drivers could explain the accidents. •• Police raided the Jo-Jo inn in Sioux City and seized a jug of whisky. Only state liquor stores may sell whisky in Iowa. •• Dr. Rex Martin of Omaha was elected president of the Iowa Society of Osteopathic Physicians of the Fifth district at Sioux City. •• Walter H. Richter, controler for a chain store company, testified in the Polk county court that enforcement of the state chain store tax would put his company's 51 stores into debt. The legality of the law is under attack. •• Mike Mercurio, alleged bootlegger, pleaded guilty to contempt before Judge Russell Jordan in Des Moines. Sentence will be imposed Nov. 2. The contempt was committed when Mercurio disappeared just before he was to have testified in the trial of Bernard Manley, Iowa liquor commission chairman. Manley was accused of having sold hundreds of liquor seals to Mercurio. He was acquitted. •• Hundreds of visitors motored to McGregor, famous little town on the Mississippi, to see the marvels of autumnal coloring. •• Gov. Herring has refused to save Reginald Tracy. Tracy, Manchester insurance man and choir singer, convicted of murdering his wife, is scheduled to be hanged at Fort Madison prison on Nov. 29.

Michigan.

In a review of employment the state emergency welfare relief commission at Lansing accused Michigan industry of increasing unemployment by lengthening the working hours and cutting down forces. •• A special election will be called by Gov. Fitzgerald to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Congressman Henry M. Kimball of the Third district. •• Justice Nelson Sharpe of the Michigan Supreme court died in Lansing at the age of 77. •• More than 20 persons were killed in auto accidents in Michigan over the week-end. •• A new county courthouse was dedicated at Alpena. It is fireproof and replaces the old building which was destroyed by fire. It cost about $100,000. •• Gov. Fitzgerald told a delegation that he would not quarrel with the federal government on relief because to do so might end all federal aid in the state. Gov. Fitzgerald has fought for state rather than federal relief control. •• The state administrative board appropriated $5,000 for a statewide trafic safety campaign. •• More than 500 missionaries, clergymen, and laymen attended a meeting of the American board of commissioners for foreign missions at Grand Rapids. •• After 33 years of playing cribbage, Fred Kelly of Battle Creek received his greatest thrill. The letters, demanding $250, were sent to Elmer J. Fox, supposedly his best friend. •• Mrs. Violet Fitzwater, Fort Wayne, filed a suit against the Yellow Cab corporation of Fort Wayne and Theodore Gase for $15,000 damages. She was injured by a cab driven by Gase. •• The Wells county council will meet at Bluffton Oct. 31. Highway construction costing $20,000 will furnish the chief business to be considered. •• The South Bend city council refused to approve an ordinance to prohibit house to house selling.

Gangsters

A few years ago New York City was fond of saying that life was not safe in Chicago because of its prohibition murders. But Chicago eventually mopped up its gangsters, many of them, like Al Capone, being New Yorkers. Today Chicago can smile. Hoodlums are warring in New York.

Last week five of them were assassinated. A sixth was found dead. In addition a police captain and a patrolman were killed. The big gang victim was Arthur [Dutch Schultz] Flegenheimer, million dollar racket leader.

The murders began Wednesday. Louis [Pretty] Amberg, inventor of the bag murder—putting victims in bags and killing them—was tortured and slain. His nude body was found in a burning car in Brooklyn. That night machine gunners trapped Flegenheimer and three of his lieutenants, Otto Berman, Leo Frank, and Bernard Rosenkrantz in a tavern in Newark, N. J. A little later other gunmen shot Marty Krompier and Sammy Gold, two more Flegenheimer men, in Manhattan. By Thursday night, Flegenheimer, Berman, Frank, and Rosenkrantz were dead. That night Policeman Walter Miller killed Capt. Richard McHale of the Flushing district, because McHale reprimanded him, and was killed by a brother policeman, Edward Hayes.

Yesterday Al Stern, young gunman, sought for the Amberg murder, was found dead in his gas filled room in Newark. Although a necktie was knotted tightly around his neck, police said he might have committed suicide.

SNOOPERS.

Chicago members of the Paul Reveres, a patriotic organization, vowed last week to help Dr. Hugh S. Magill fight New Deal despotism. Dr. Magill, head of the American Federation of Investors, a few months ago fought the death sentence clause, favored by President Roosevelt, in the public utility control bill. About two months ago two federal snoopers visited Dr. Magill's office and tried to get at his business and personal files. He drove them away. He asked the Paul Reveres to help him fight for American ideals and against this tyranny. They promised.

Medicine

Bloodgood.

Dr. Joseph Colt Bloodgood died last Tuesday night at home in Baltimore, Md. He was 68 years old. A blood clot near his heart caused his death. It had weakened him for more than a year, but had not kept him from his work as dean of surgeons in nearby Johns Hopkins university and hospital, where he spent his last day. Forty-three years ago he went there, a tall, broad shouldered doctor of 25 from a family of Milwaukee lawyers. The great toll cancer was taking appalled him. In 1896 he watched Dr. William T. Halstead perfect a cancer operation which is still standard practice, and he threw his tremendous energy into the battle against cancer. Dr. Bloodgood saw that cancer could be prevented. On that premise he became one of America's greatest authorities on the disease. While he was skilled in research and preëminent in surgery, Dr. Bloodgood, as he said, chose to be a preacher and not a practitioner. Year after year he toured the country teaching the advances of radium treatment, tongue-lashing doctors for tolerating ignorance and negligence, but, above all, warning the public that it was easier to prevent cancer than to cure it. Awarded the Radiological Society of North America's seldom awarded gold medal and elected to the University of Wisconsin's hall of fame, Dr. Bloodgood lived to see cure of some cancers become the rule and not the exception. •• A favorite audience of Dr. Bloodgood, the Chicago Women's club, last week heard Dr. F. L. Rector of the American Society for the Control of Cancer advise a return to breast feeding of babies to avoid cancer of the breast, most vicious of the eight kinds. Dr. Rector said that 98 per cent of breast cancers occur in women who have had babies and 20,000 die each year. Secretion of milk, he said, is likely to cause swollen tissues and cancer when breast feeding is abandoned.

Yawn.

Last December Mrs. Harold McKee of Round Grove, Ill., yawned for nine days. Removed from the home where she cared for her tubercular husband and diabetic son to a Sterling hospital, she stopped as suddenly as she started. The hospital received countless suggestions of remedies and charms. Two main factions emerged with affidavits in an argument over who had cured her. Last week, on the twelfth day of a new siege, Mrs. McKee's yawns dwindled from 8 to 6 a minute. Late the 13th day her yawns decreased to one in 2 minutes. A nurse, who donated her services, suddenly cried, "You've stopped!" Mrs. McKee, her jaws and throat sore and her body weak, said, "I'm glad." Dr. H. L. Pettit, who attended her, was not sure of the exact cause.

Meanwhile, a report came from Victoria, B. C., that Mrs. P. E. Wakelin had yawned from 3 to 12 times a minute for six weeks. Her longest respite was a half hour. Doctors were unable to find a cause.

BOND DEALERS ASK CHANGES IN SECURITY LAWS

Seek Way to Assist New Financing.

BY HOWARD WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Oct. 26.—Leading bond dealers have set in motion a program of modification of federal securities legislation in the hope of removing impediments to new financing, it was learned here today as delegates gathered for the annual convention of the Investment Bankers' association of America.

In a special forum on marketing problems, a committee headed by R. Parker Kuhn of First Boston corporation disclosed that a group of investment bankers' association representatives met officials of the Securities and Exchange commission last Thursday and made specific recommendations for revision of existing laws to make possible a freer distribution of new securities.

Object to Time Ruling.

Chief objection of the bond men is the requirement that twenty days must elapse between the filing of a registration statement with the SEC and the date on which a new stock or bond issue can be offered the public. Delegates to the convention freely admit that certain dealers have been "beating the gun" by selling before the deadline, and they argue that there is no way in which the law can be strictly enforced. Dealers who observe the law say that they are placed at a disadvantage.

At today's forum it was also disclosed that bond houses and corporations desiring to issue securities still fear the provisions of the securities act of 1933 which exposes them to unexplored liabilities in the event purchasers suffer losses. They urge that the law be modified to make the liabilities of sellers and underwriters of securities more explicit.

The extent to which the SEC is willing to go along with the bankers in their attempt to make the new securities legislation more workable may be disclosed on Monday when Judge John J. Burns, general counsel to the SEC, is scheduled to address the convention.

Attendance Is Large.

Attendance at this year's convention is the largest since 1929. The number today 830 delegates had registered, compared with approximately 500 last year. Having done some two billion dollars worth of business during the last year, after a long lean spell, the bankers are optimistic, but they are still worried by the fact that practically all of the security offerings that they have handled during the last year have been refunding issues. Little new capital has been poured into business.

Timorous because of the many ways in which the administration can "crack down" upon them, members of the Investment Bankers' association have gone to almost ridiculous lengths to stifle criticism of the New Deal. Even the possibility that some outspoken critic may say his piece from the floor in one of the open forums has not been overlooked.

Newspaper correspondents are invited to these forums on the understanding that the remarks of individual speakers are not privileged material for quotation, but are to be used merely as "background" material.

These precautions during the first sessions proved entirely superfluous thanks to the yeoman work done by an assiduous secretariat in selling its "hush" policy to the delegates.

STANDARD GAS GETS 67% ASSENT ON NOTE DELAY

The Standard Gas and Electric company has obtained consent of 67 per cent of holders to a five year extension of the $24,000,000 of debentures which fell due last Oct. 1, it was learned yesterday. These consents make possible adoption of the company plan for reorganization under Section 77B of the amended bankruptcy law, if the court and other creditors agree. This approval, however, is regarded as highly doubtful.

While no other security holders would be affected directly under the company plan for reorganization, it is understood that some groups will contend that they are affected indirectly, making their assent necessary to adoption of the plan.

On Friday the United States District court of Delaware continued the company in possession and operation of the property, pending adoption of a plan of reorganization. Only one of the four security holder groups represented was opposed to the continuation of the present management.

HUNDREDS SEEK TO RETAIN DUAL UTILITY POSTS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—A flood of applications to the federal power commission today brought the number of operating utility executives seeking to continue as directors of more than one such company to more than 700. This was cited by that agency as indicative of a coöperative spirit within the industry.

The commission announced that additional applications not yet recorded would number several hundred and that other petitions not yet received but in the mail by midnight Friday probably would further increase the number.

Wheat Drops; Guarantee in Canada Futile

General liquidation developed in North American wheat markets yesterday and sent prices in Chicago off about 2 cents from Friday's finish at the extreme, while Winnipeg prices dropped as much as 3 cents, the permissible limit for one day's decline in the Canadian market. While the official low on December wheat at Winnipeg was 86¼ cents, the blackboard showed sales at 86⅛ cents and this quotation was not erased for nearly ten minutes after it was originally posted.

A rally of about 1 cent from the low level occurred at Winnipeg, but the close both there and in American markets showed losses of about 2 cents per bushel for the day. A feature of trading in Winnipeg was heavy buying of lower grades by United States millers.

Below Guaranteed Price.

The sharp break in Winnipeg carried the October and December deliveries of wheat 1¾ cents per bushel below the government guaranteed price of 87½ cents for No. 1 northern from this year's crop, delivered at either Fort William or Vancouver.

The situation which has developed in the Canadian market is regarded by the trade as paralleling that which existed in American cotton markets early this year, when cotton futures suddenly broke through the 11 cents per pound level on a wave of liquidation despite the fact that the AAA was making loans at that figure on spot cotton to producers.

It is understood that a large quantity of cash wheat held by Canadian cash and elevator interest has been hedged by sales of futures. This wheat is not under the control of the newly created wheat board, which took over only the grain owned by the pool.

Argentine Market Weaker.

Weakness in the Buenos Aires market, which closed 1 cent lower, was ascribed as the main factor in starting the selling movement in North American markets yesterday. Many stop loss orders were uncovered on the way down. Buying against bids and week-end evening up checked the break in Chicago, but the close was within a fraction of the bottom.

Corn and other grains, while lower, showed considerable more resistance than wheat, and net losses were confined to small fractions.

Closing prices of principal December futures in Chicago yesterday follow:

	Yesterday.	Friday.	Wk. ago.
Wheat	$0.98¾	$1.00⅝	$1.00⅞
Corn	.60⅝	.61⅛	.59
Oats	.26½	.26⅞	.27¼
Rye	.50½	.50¾	.49⅞

A forecast for less favorable weather for drying out the corn crop over the week-end and buying of corn against sales of wheat helped to sustain the former grain. The movement of new corn is showing a steady increase and a somewhat easier basis was reported in the sample market.

STUDEBAKER'S THIRD QUARTER LOSS $1,104,923

The Studebaker corporation yesterday reported a net loss of $1,104,923 on operations in the third quarter of the year, bringing the total loss since the reorganization on March 9, to Sept. 30 to $1,192,760.

Paul G. Hoffman, president, said that advancing the date for introducing new models to November moved from the fourth to the third quarter the adverse effects of the annual model change on revenue. Production of the new lines began last week, and the 1936 cars will be on display for the first time at the New York automobile show which opens next Saturday.

Net sales amounted to $7,182,096 in the third quarter, for a total of $22,638,527 since March 9. Earlier profits from sales after deduction of manufacturing cost and selling expense were turned into a $453,287 loss by third quarter losses of $776,814.

Other deductions for the quarter were $195,793 for depreciation and $132,316 interest, bringing the respective totals charged since March 9 to $440,540 and $298,933. Current assets on Sept. 30 totaled $10,595,440, including $5,133,937 cash. Current liabilities were $2,997,519.

COMMODITY PRICES MOVE IRREGULARLY DURING LAST WEEK

Commodity markets moved erratically during the last week. Wheat, oats, lard, and eggs averaged lower, and hogs dropped sharply, closing nearly $2 per 100 pounds under the high point six weeks ago. Hide futures reacted rather sharply from the high point of the season established the previous week, due to profit taking.

Corn developed independent strength. Butter advanced. Despite hedging pressure, cotton prices were higher, with an active demand for spot article a feature.

The following table gives yesterday's closing prices on a representative list of commodities, quotations of the preceding week, and the high and low figures for the season:

BUSINESS DONE BY CHECK SHOWS SHARP INCREASE

Volume of business handled by check increased sharply throughout the nation last week. Debits to individual account by member banks of the federal reserve system totaled $8,344,314,000 in the week ended Oct. 23. This compares with $7,697,329 a week earlier and $6,300,970 in the corresponding period of 1934.

Institutions in the Chicago reserve system reflected the same trend. Withdrawals by 162 banks in 41 clearing house cities aggregated $990,484,000, an increase of 5.1 per cent from the preceding week when volume amounted to $942,760,000. Excluding Elgin, Ill., for which comparable figures were not reported, debits in the 40 cities totaled $988,966,000, against $836,156,000 last year, a gain of 18.3 per cent.

Bank clearings reported by members of the Chicago Clearing House association for the week ended yesterday fell to $266,600,000 from $315,200,000 a week earlier. In the same week last year the total stood at $208,000,000.

AUTO OUTPUT RISES TO 62,015 IN LAST WEEK

Automobile production in the United States and Canada last week amounted to 62,015 cars and trucks, according to Cram's Reports, Inc. This was a sharp increase over the 44,416 units produced in the preceding week, and compares with 23,626 manufactured in the corresponding period last year.

Cram's attributed the upturn to heavier schedules on new model cars put into effect by companies in the low priced field. Weekly increases may be expected for an indefinite period, the agency adds.

Independent Store Sales Above 1934

Retail sales of independent stores in Illinois, Indiana, and Wisconsin during September registered gains over the same month of 1934 the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce of the department of commerce reported yesterday.

Illinois was the only state of the three to report a gain in dollar volume over August business, but all three showed improvement on an average daily basis, making adjustment for September's three fewer working days.

The 576 reporting stores in Illinois disclosed a 4 per cent improvement over 1934 and a 2 per cent gain from August. With adjustment for difference in working days, the latter figure is placed at 10 per cent.

Wisconsin Above Year Ago.

Wisconsin sales, reported by 387 stores, were 6 per cent better than in September of 1934, but 3 per cent under August, 1935. The daily average, however, was estimated 9 per cent above August.

The 319 Indiana stores showed the largest gain over the preceding September, 9 per cent, but volume was 6 per cent less than in August. The daily average sales, however, were 6 per cent larger than in August.

Of the reporting Illinois stores, 55 per cent showed gains over last year, 4 per cent had less than 1 per cent change, and 41 per cent had declines.

Illinois returns were divided into ten classifications, with men's and boy's clothing and groceries the only two to show sales smaller than a year ago. Best gains were made by lumber and building material dealers and hardware stores, both running up more than 30 per cent higher than a year ago.

Powers' Production Dips.

The Federal Reserve board yesterday reported production of packing house commodities in the United States declined 3½ per cent in September to a level 22½ per cent under the 10 year average and 38 per cent below a year ago, including processing for relief agencies. The decline was 16 per cent for commercial lines only. Average daily production, however, was slightly lower than in August.

Creamery butter production in the seventh federal reserve district fell 16 per cent both from August and a year ago. In the country as a whole the recession was less sharp. Wisconsin cheese manufacture for the four weeks ended Sept. 28 was 1½ per cent higher than the preceding period and 31⅛ per cent better than a year ago.

GOLD MOVEMENT HALTS; EXCHANGE MARKETS QUIET

New York, Oct. 26.—[Special.]—For the first time since Sept. 9 last no gold was reported today by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York to have been engaged abroad for shipment here. The bank also reported no imports or exports of gold here today, but it announced that word had been received of the arrival in San Francisco of $395,000 gold from China.

A consignment of 10,250,000 ounces of silver, consisting of purchases made by the treasury in London in obedience to the silver purchase act of 1934, has been shipped on the Manhattan, due here about Nov. 1, it was announced.

Today's lack of gold engagements probably reflected in part the usual reluctance of banks to make such commitments at a week-end, but it was also indicative of the tapering off of the gold movement because recently the pressure of capital fleeing from Europe has been such that substantial gold engagements have been made on Saturdays as well as on week days.

The foreign exchanges were quiet and without uniform trend. Sterling gained ¼ cent at $4.91¾, the franc sagged ⅛ point at 6.59⅛ cents, and the lira rose a point to 8.13 cents. Other leading currencies were steady.

SEC ACTS TO BAR MEEHAN FROM BIG EXCHANGES

Manipulation Basis of Ouster Move.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Michael J. Meehan, one of the most spectacular and widely known speculators in Wall street and head of the brokerage firm that bears his name, was ordered by the Securities and Exchange commission today to show cause why he should not be suspended from trading on the New York Stock and Curb exchanges and the wheat pit at Chicago. It was the SEC's first punitive action against a member of the exchange.

Announcement of the action a few minutes after the market closing at noon came with a dramatic suddenness that dumfounded the financial community. It was predicated upon the belief that Meehan, alone or with the help of others, had attempted to manipulate the market for stock of the Bellanca Aircraft corporation.

May Spike Transactions.

At the same time, the SEC moved to spike transactions in nearly 200,000 new shares of Bellanca common stock, the registration of which became effective today. It ordered the aircraft concern to show cause why a stop order should not be issued suspending the effectiveness of its registration statement covering $1,060,000 of new common stock and option warants.

The corporation was directed to appear before the commission at a hearing on Nov. 7 and Meehan on Nov. 12. Should the commission's belief be substantiated at the hearing, Meehan could be suspended for not more than a year or expelled entirely from the three contract markets.

He would also be liable under the securities exchange act of 1934 for claims by any persons who could establish damages resulting from the purchase or sale of the Bellanca stock, the price of which was affected by the activities the SEC believes Meehan engaged in.

Known as "Matched Trades."

Commission officials would not elaborate upon the trading practices it said it had "reason to believe" Meehan had indulged in, but said they were generally in the nature of what is known to the street as "matched trades," and consisting of a series of purchases and sales of substantially the same size and price.

Specifically, the SEC order alleged that Meehan had used the mails, various instrumentalities of interstate commerce, and the facilities of the New York Curb exchange "to enter divers orders for the purchase of said security with the knowledge that an order or orders of substantially the same size, at substantially the same time, and at substantially the same price, for the sale of such security had been or would be entered for the same or different parties."

The commission further asserted that it had reason to believe that such transactions, beginning on or about April 5, 1935, and continuing to the present had been "for the purpose of creating a false and misleading appearance of active trading in the common stock of the Bellanca Aircraft corporation and a false and misleading appearance with respect to the market for such security."

False Statements Alleged.

As to the registration statement of the corporation, the commission said it appeared to "include untrue statements of material facts and omits to state material facts necessary to make the statements therein not misleading."

Should this be found to be true the SEC could suspend the effectiveness of the registration statement, thereby making unlawful transactions in the security of any registered exchange. While there was nothing in the notice of suspension hearing today to prevent such transactions, officials pointed out that it probably would have the same effect.

Made Prominent by Radio.

In 1929 Meehan came into prominence as a result of the immense advance in the common stock of Radio Corp. of America. He was reported to have netted millions of dollars in the rise that carried Radio from a lowly price range in the 40's to more than $540 a share just before the crash.

Radio common had been a relatively obscure issue with colorless market sponsorship.

Meehan's firm holds five stock exchange seats. The fifth was acquired this week, when Meehan paid $130,000 for a membership and presented it to his son, William, as a birthday gift.

Meehan Denies Violations.

New York, Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Michael J. Meehan today said that he was prepared to prove at any time that he had not, wittingly or unwittingly, violated any of the provisions of the Securities and Exchange act, or the rules of any exchange of which he is a member.

BUSINESS NEWS IN REVIEW

Business Hovers Close to 1935 Peak—Steel Activity Best Since 1929—Construction Rises—Mussolini Juggles Gold Account—Stock Market Advances.

Business last week hovered close to its peak of the year and well above levels existing at this time in 1934. The pace of activity was in many lines the best in three years and November is expected to bring a rise above the corresponding period of 1931.

With steel output increasing 1½ points last week to 52½ per cent of capacity, production was the best for this season since 1929, despite the fact that demand from automobile manufacturers held well below expectations. However, new car output increased sharply during the week, when 62,000 units rolled off assembly lines in this country and Canada, compared with 44,400 a week earlier and 23,626 a year ago.

Indicators.

The volume of construction was expected to establish a new high for the year. Industrial purchases of coal were again heavy. Warm, sunny weather pulled electric power output from its all time high of the previous week, but production was still 11.7 per cent above last year and only slightly under 1929. Railroad car loadings also dipped below the preceding week as mild weather brought a contraseasonal change, but volume exceeded any corresponding period since 1931.

Department store sales in the Chicago area for September were 20 per cent ahead of August, although the seasonal upturn is usually larger.

From New York came a report of the national industrial conference board that business continued to improve in September and the first half of October, that wholesale and retail prices continued to rise. Industrial employment and pay rolls in Illinois registered the largest gains in September that have been recorded in that month in the last twelve years, the department of labor reported.

Marshall Field.

Marshall Field & Co. reported its first profit this year for the third quarter. Net income of General Motors corporation for the period was about 50 per cent ahead of last year. Youngstown Sheet and Tube company reported its earnings were three times larger than in the second quarter. Allis Chalmers Manufacturing company found the quarter the most profitable since 1929.

A gloomy touch was injected by the interstate commerce commission reporting that in the first eight months of the year only 13 of the 50 largest railroads in the country earned a profit after depreciation and retirements. Earnings, generally, were below last year.

Stocks.

Marketwise the week was marked by soaring stock prices as trading expanded on a wide front. Turnover was the heaviest since the week ended Feb. 10, 1934, averaging 2,600,000 shares for each full session. Automobile stocks led the forward movement, but rails, oils, silvers, and mercantiles had their flurries. Bond prices shared in the rise.

New York bankers, to keep out of town banks from the call money market, took steps to make participation unprofitable unless the money rate goes above one-half of 1 per cent. The New York Clearing House association amended its constitution to make effective a minimum service charge of 0.5 per cent instead of 0.25 per cent as heretofore. With call money abundant at one-quarter per cent, out of town banks would actually lose money because of the increased service charge.

Gold.

How Mussolini juggled his balance sheet to include 158 millions of vanished gold was disclosed in an official "leak" from the Bank of England. Italy has been losing gold reserves since April, 1928. Stocks of metal held by Il Duce at the end of September were estimated at only 379 million dollars, a drop of 140 millions since the start of the year. Approximately 158 millions of the supposed stocks, however, are not held in Rome, British financial reporters discovered. This leaves Mussolini with only 221 millions of gold, a reserve which is being rapidly dissipated in war expenditures. The missing gold was rushed to London in 1915 as security for a British war loan. London transferred it immediately to the United States as surety against Britain's indebtedness here. The gold is now part of the United States' huge reserves.

The heavy toll Italy's African expedition is making on its treasury was shown in a report of the Bank for International Settlements to the league of nations. During the first ten days of October the Bank of Italy lost 206,000,000 lire in gold. Experts estimated that if this figure is taken as average about 453,000,000 lire, or 10 per cent of Italy's theoretical gold reserve at the end of September, had been withdrawn in the last three weeks. [See War, main review section.]

Speed.

Back in 1905 the Broadway Limited of the Pennsylvania railroad pushed its load of steam to the maximum one June morning near Ada, O., and traveled a distance of three miles in 85 seconds, establishing a world's record for train speed of 127.1 miles an hour. Last week the Mark Twain, latest addition to the Burlington railroad's fleet of Zephyrs, churned its Diesel engines to the limit and traveled 122 miles an hour over a three mile stretch near McCook, Neb., claiming a new world's record. Pennsylvania officials here delved into the files, produced pictures of the Broadway, and an authenticated article telling of the 30 year old feat which appeared in the June 16, 1905, issue of the Railroad Gazette, forerunner of the Railway Age.

Said Burlington President Ralph Budd aboard the Mark Twain:

"The Pennsylvania has the same right of way and the same engines as in 1905. Why don't they try again?"

Pennsylvania officials said nothing for publication, but proceeded to prepare photostatic copies of the Broadway's time sheet for that day and the Railroad Gazette article.

War Exports.

In Washington commerce department officials reported mounting exports of materials useful for war, with Italy receiving many such items. Coincidently Secretary of Agriculture Wallace told a press conference of an "extraordinary" demand for American cotton, although he discounted the Italo-Ethiopian conflict as a factor. Heavy increases were reported in cotton linters, useful alike for explosives and rayon cloth; iron and steel, copper, trucks, airplane engines, explosives, and chemicals.

At the same time record imports of farm products were reported for the first nine months of the year. The reversal of the United States' traditional position as an exporter of agricultural products extended to almost every line.

New Deal.

Business leaders continued to bombard New Dealers for excessive spending. On Wednesday R. H. Cabell, president of Armour & Co., told the Institute of American Meat Packers the government is spending vast sums beyond the comprehension of ordinary mortals, and demanded a "showdown" on taxes and their effect in raising prices of things the public buys. "In the end," he said, "the public pays the bill. That most people are not aware of it is due to the manner in which it is collected." Cabell attacked the practice of forcing business to serve in the rôle of tax collector without that fact being apparent to people from whom it is being collected.

In Atlantic City the National Association of Real Estate Boards adopted a resolution calling for a reduction in the number of local, state, and federal taxing agencies through coördination of their activities.

Deficit.

Lewis W. Douglas, former director of the budget, writing in the Atlantic Monthly, warned that the mounting federal deficit, which now exceeds 15 billion dollars, has raised fears of the

STOCKS FORGE AHEAD IN HEAVY WEEK-END TRADE

Oil, Motor and Steel Issues Lead Rise.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 26.—Stocks continued their forward movement on the New York exchange today on a much broader front than has been witnessed in the average Saturday short session in recent months. Volume ran to 1,182,530 shares. Prices trended upward, but the market was evidently being held in restraint in view of the growing urge to take profits on fresh bulges and price changes as a rule were fractional.

Speculative interest centered in the oils, motors, and steels. The sharp gain in movement of miscellaneous freight shipments last week drew favorable comment as a constructive development in the railroad field, but the progress of the carrier group as a whole was slight and final prices were somewhat irregular. Union Pacific and Atchison finished lower, but most of the others managed to retain slight gains.

Motor Show Is Influence.

Publicity attendant upon the New York automobile show, which opens next Saturday, stimulated interest in the motor shares to some extent. General Motors and Chrysler rose about a point each, while Studebaker and Packard, the low priced favorites of the division, continued highly active, although neither was able to show much in the way of net results.

The steel stocks were stimulated by expectations of another rise in operations next week. United States Steel and Bethlehem, as usual, attracted the lion's share of new orders.

News that the posted price of crude oil in California had been raised 55 cents a barrel was the chief stimulant in the oils.

Considerable demand appeared for the leading utility shares, American Water Works, Columbia Gas and Standard Gas and Electric being especially prominent. American Telephone closed unchanged after edging fractionally higher.

Records For Week Shown.

Industrial shares today reached another four year high in the "averages" to climax the heaviest week's trading since February, 1934. A total of 14,274,511 shares was exchanged during the week. This was at a daily average of 2,379,085 shares, or an hourly average of 528,687.

Gains in the market today ranged to more than 2 points and brought individual gains for the week to more than 6 points. The industrial average closed at 141.47, the highest level since August 29, 1931. In addition, there were 235 new 1935 highs made during the week—some extending even farther, including General Motors, which today equaled the high made in 1930—which was the best since the week of Aug. 17. There were 688 advances, the best since the week ended Dec. 29, 1934. There were 1,078 issues traded in, the largest number since the week ended Aug. 17.

ultimate destruction of currency and savings to such a point that it is definitly retarding recovery. Douglas predicted that unless a halt is called impoverishment of the entire people through currency depreciation eventually will result.

Administration plans for a conference of NRA's future received a cold shoulder from automotive manufacturers when George L. Berry, industrial coördinator, received a letter from the Automobile Manufacturers' association, asserting "the industry does not see any usefulness in the proposal," and therefore was declining to be represented.

Labor.

On Tuesday attorneys for the Pennsylvania Greyhound Lines, Inc., charged with violation of the Wagner labor law by dismissing nine of its Pittsburgh employés for alleged union activities, challenged the constitutionality of the act in a case heralded as the start of a fight that ultimately may reach the nation's highest court. The bus concern charges the law violates the constitutional amendment prohibiting involuntary servitude, seeks to abridge the freedom of speech of the employer, and denies the company the right to trial by jury.

Next day John M. Carmody, member of the national labor relations board, at a hearing in Pittsburgh, objected against labor board spying on the bus lines. Ernest Dunbar, an employé of the regional board, testified he posed as a garage mechanic while investigating the alleged dismissals.

"I did not know Dunbar was to testify," said Carmody. "I don't like that business. It may have been justfied; I can't say. But I want to put into the record how I feel about it."

Coal.

Five of the nation's largest coal producers bolted from the Guffey control act Thursday when they refused to sign the miniature NRA coal code. They were the Pittsburgh Coal company, Consolidation Coal company, Pocahontas Fuel company, Berwin-White Coal Mining company, and the Island Creek Coal company. Next day blunt warning was served by the government that it would crack down on the "rebels" by enforcing the act vigorously. The coal men planned a court test of the law's so-called "compliance tax."

Banks.

Further evidence of the drying up of assets in Cook county's 142 closed state banks was provided in quarterly reports showing total receipts and payments to depositors were the smallest for any quarter in 15 months. Expenses took a larger proportion of receipts because collections dropped more sharply during the quarter.

BRITISH COAL TIES UP SHIPS AT MONTREAL

Replaces American Fuel in Canada.

BY HARRY A. LAIRD.
[Chicago Tribune Traffic Manager.]

A transportation tangle as involved as it is interesting is facing exporters and importers at the port of Montreal.

The great bulk of the grain, which forms the most important commodity moving through the port, arrives at the Canadian metropolis in St. Lawrence canal vessels. At present 48 of these carriers are lying idle in the harbor awaiting their turns at the grain elevators, but the grain elevators are idle. The elevator bins are filled to capacity because ocean vessels are not loading grain out of the huge granaries.

This condition frequently occurs when the ocean charters or tramps are late in arriving, but at present fifteen oversea carriers are also lying in the harbor with their holds filled with British coal. The ocean vessels cannot discharge their coal cargoes because all available coal pockets are filled to capacity and there are no canal sized vessels to carry away their burdens.

Will Eventually Unravel.

One or more of the ocean tramps will eventually dispose of its coal cargo and will start unravelling the knot as described in the familiar nursery. "The fire commenced to burn the stick, the stick commenced to beat the dog, the dog commenced to bite the pig" and all will eventually get home, but the navigation season is nearing a close and the situation is producing gray hairs in shipping circles.

But perhaps the most interesting angle to an American public is the realization that such a volume of British coal is moving up the St. Lawrence to destinations in the Great Lakes basin in successful competition with American products despite the transportation handicap of a transfer at Montreal.

Twenty years ago American coals were supreme, even in Quebec, and the Canadian government was, with little success, trying to substitute Nova Scotia coal through the assessment of a duty against the American fuel and the payment of a subsidy on the Canadian product.

British Coal Fills Bins.

Now British coals almost exclusively fill the bins of Montreal householders, and it is penetrating in ever increasing volume up the St. Lawrence to the heavy consuming Canadian territory bordering on Lakes Ontario, Erie, and Huron, where the United States miners formerly sold seventeen million tons. A householder in Niagara Falls, Ontario, burns British coal, while his neighbor in Niagara Falls, N. Y., burns American coal. The foreign product—may even cross to the American shores.

Measures such as The Guffey Bill to raise the price of American coal and St. Lawrence seaway treaty to remove all transportation barriers against foreign products emphasize this possibility. British coals are now used at Windsor, Ontario opposite Detroit and within three hundred miles of Chicago.

3 OF 10 BANKS MAKE REFUNDS TO DEPOSITORS

Liquidation Progresses in Third Quarter.

Further repayment of depositors was made in the third quarter of this year by three of the ten closed state banks for which reports as of Sept. 30 were released yesterday by State Auditor Edward J. Barrett. These banks are the Cheltenham Trust and Savings, Cicero Trust and Savings, and the Citizens State of Glencoe. The latter is expected to yield a further return early next year.

A fourth institution, the Chatham State bank, is expected to pay at least 3 per cent, its first return since closing, as the result of a loan approved by the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Two other banks, Chicago Bank of Commerce and Citizens State of Chicago, showed fairly good progress in liquidation last quarter.

Make Progress in Liquidation.

Individual analyses of the ten banks, based on the auditor's reports and information from men closely associated with the affairs of these institutions, follow. They show progress of liquidation, together with prospect of future returns. Figures, unless it is stated otherwise, apply to the entire period of receivership:

CHATFIELD TRUST AND SAVINGS—Receipts, $139,000 [$2,000 last quarter]. Paid $14,000 prior claims and $76,000, or 30 per cent, to depositors. Heavy losses of $104,000 in converting assets to cash. Another 10 per cent or so is seen for depositors in time. Still owes RFC $5,000 after paying $7,500 [$6,000 last quarter]. Costs: $2,000 interest and to protect assets, $20,000 clerical, $5,800 legal, $2,000 receivers. Cash of $12,000.

CHATHAM STATE—Receipts, $330,000 [$10,000 last quarter]. Paid $120,000 prior claims and still owes county $71,000 plus taxes. Cash of $75,000 and RFC loan of $84,400 expected to net first 3 per cent return on $1,037,000 deposits since closing. Little more left. Costs: $36,000 to protect assets, $1,500 interest, $48,000 clerical, $41,500 legal, $7,900 receivers.

CHELTENHAM TRUST AND SAVINGS—Receipts, $274,500 [$29,000 last quarter]. Paid $16,000 prior claims and $173,000, or 65 per cent, to depositors [15 per cent last quarter]. Return of another 10 to 20 per cent indicated. Cash now, $6,500. Costs: $31,000 to protect assets, $22,000 clerical, $17,500 legal, $8,100 receivers. Losses moderate. One of best of closed banks.

CHICAGO BANK OF COMMERCE—Receipts, $2,895,500 [$110,000 last quarter]. Paid $758,500 prior claims and $432,000, or 10 per cent, on deposits. Whether more than another 10 per cent is returned will depend on whether $832,000 in trust claims are given a preferred status or can be paid at the same rate as deposits. Cash is $388,000 [$37,000 added last quarter], but unpaid taxes are estimated near $500,000 and undecided claims for preference aggregate $250,000. An involved situation, with much real estate. Advance $815,000 to protect property [$26,000 last quarter] with returns only $496,500 [$38,500 last quarter]. Costs: $234,000 clerical, $240,000 to law firm of Schuyler, Weinfeld & Hennessy, $22,000 receivers, $5,700 interest.

CHICAGO LAWN STATE—Receipts, $547,000 [$10,000 last quarter]. One of four "practically hopeless" Bain banks; RFC refused to make loan, and little return anticipated. Has $41,000 cash [$3,500 last quarter], but has $220,000 undecided claims for preference, $45,000 taxes, and $21,000 trust claims. Paid $232,500 prior claims so far. Costs: $140,500 [$5,000 last quarter] to protect assets with return of $84,000 [$6,500 last quarter], $75,000 clerical, $41,000 legal, $14,500 receivers.

CICERO TRUST & SAVINGS—Receipts, $371,500 [$25,500 last quarter]. Paid $83,000 prior claims and $135,500, or 15 per cent, to depositors [5 per cent last quarter]. Another 20 per cent indicated eventually, but cash now only $12,700 and mostly reserved. Costs: $58,400 [$11,500 last quarter] to protect assets, $37,300 clerical, $34,700 legal, $9,800 receivers.

Citizens State of Chicago.

CITIZENS STATE OF CHICAGO—Receipts, $51,300 [$3,700 last quarter]. Paid Paid $1,051,000 prior claims. Costs: $558,000 [$62,000 last quarter] to protect assets, with return of $319,500 [$38,500 last quarter]; $117,000 interest, $81,500 clerical, $31,500 legal, $10,300 receivers. Cash of $55,500 but still owes $626,000 on loan before bank closed and has $167,000 undecided trust claims. Depositors repaid nothing so far, may expect very little despite efforts for RFC loan.

CITIZENS STATE OF GLENCOE—Receipts, $51,300 [$3,700 last quarter]. Paid $11,000 prior claims and $19,500, or 25 per cent, of deposits [10 per cent last quarter]. Cash of $7,000 indicates something more early in 1936, but not more than another 20 per cent return seen in long run. Costs: $7,500 clerical, $4,400 legal, $1,600 receivers.

CITIZENS STATE OF MELROSE PARK—Receipts, $280,500 [$4,000 last quarter]. Paid $108,500 prior claims and $27,000, or 5 per cent, to depositors. If forced to pay $110,000 disputed claim for preference, nothing more expected for depositors; small further return in any event. Costs: $69,000 to protect assets, with return of $55,000; $27,500 clerical, 19,000 legal, $9,400 receivers. Cash, $18,000.

CITIZENS TRUST & SAVINGS—Receipts, $925,500 [$2,000 last quarter]. Paid $477,000 prior claims and $259,000, or 25 per cent, to depositors. Costs: $36,000 to protect assets, $70,000 clerical, $34,000 legal, $19,000 receivers. Cash, $29,000. Further small return for depositors seen, but progress is slow, assets being heavy with dubious real estate.

PRICES OF HOGS LOWER FOR WEEK; RECEIPTS HEAVY

The selling wave that swept the hog country adjacent to the Chicago market was the outstanding feature of the live stock trade last week. Volume of slaughtering by Chicago packers was stepped up 35 per cent in six days. Receipts ran largest since February and double the average of the preceding six weeks, but they still were far below normal and less than 25 per cent of the capacity of the stockyards.

Hog prices fell sharply, anywhere from 35 cents to $1 during the last six days, with the least decline in the heavy "lard hogs" and the most decline in the young new crop stock weighing 175 to 225 pounds, which comprised the bulk of the week's run. The average price for the week at $11.95, processing tax included, stands lowest since the week ended July 20.

Cattle prices dipped sharply in midweek, when reports of a beef boycott in New York were circulated, but the market rallied and final quotations were 25 to 40 cents above the low point. Compared with the preceding week's close, beef steers were steady to 35 cents lower.

Prime slaughter steers were scarce, the top sales again reaching $13.25, or within 10 cents of the highest price since June. The week's average for good beef steers at $10.45 was steady with the preceding week.

Lamb prices fluctuated sharply last week. Top sales dropped from a $10 high to $9 in three days, but reached $9.65 on a later rally. Final quotations were mostly 25 cents under a week ago.

LARD FUTURES ERRATIC; CLOSE STEADY TO LOWER

Fluctuations in lard futures were somewhat erratic yesterday. The January delivery advanced moderately early on scattered buying, but quickly lost the upturn when small selling orders appeared. The sharp break in grains and prospects of larger receipts of hogs this week had a depressing effect. Closing trades were unchanged to 7½ cents lower with October showing the most strength. Cash lard closed at $14.45; loose, $14.20; leaf, $14.12, and bellies at $18.32 per 100 pounds. Prices in dollars per 00 pounds follow:

HIDE FUTURES.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Trade in hide futures was light, but the market advanced 6 to 8 points today, due more to lack of pressure than to aggressive buying. Sales were 20 lots, or 800,000 lbs. Closing bids in cents per lb: December, 11.96c; March, 12.28c; June, 12.60c, and September, 12.90c.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—(AP)—COTTONSEED OIL—Bleachable was irregular today in a quiet trade, closing 6 points lower to 3 points higher, with sales of only 26 contracts. Bleachable spot nominal; December closed 10.26c per lb; January, 10.25c; March, 10.35c; May, 10.39c.

BUTTER AND EGG PRICES IN SMALL TRADE UPWARD

Trade in butter and egg futures slowed down yesterday, both closing unchanged to ⅛ cent higher. November butter was 27⅝ cents per pound and October eggs 24 cents per dozen at the close.

A small dip in egg futures early brought in short covering and the loss was quickly recovered. The out-of-storage movement continued below the corresponding period a year ago. Consumption of cheese is reported to be good and futures advanced to a new high for the season, gaining ¼ cent per pound. Sales of butter futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange were 34 cars; eggs, 131 cars, and cheese, 6 cars. Prices follow:

CHICAGO STOCK TURNOVER NEAR 27 MONTH HIGH

599,000 Shares of 185 Issues Are Traded.

With a turnover of 58,000 shares in the two hour short session yesterday the Chicago Stock exchange closed its third busiest week in twenty-seven months. Volume for the week was 599,000 shares, compared with 480,000 in the preceding week and 103,000 a year ago.

The week's volume is the best this year and was exceeded in 1934 only by the weeks ended Feb. 3 and Feb. 10, which had 613,000 and 662,000 respectively. With those two exceptions the total was the largest since the 1,063,000 chalked up in the week ended July 22, 1933.

83 Reach Year's Peak.

Trading extended to 185 issues during the week, with 83 of them selling at their best prices of the year. Only 39 lost ground, 27 were unchanged, and 119 registered advances during the week.

Yesterday's trading moved in a narrow groove, only 8 of the 109 issues appearing on the tape changing as much as a point, although 15 issues edged up to new highs for the year. Fifty-three advanced, 30 were steady, and 26 declined.

Merchandise shares continued among the most active on the list, Marshall Field and Butler Brothers each accounting for more than 1,500 share turnover in fractional rises. Goldblatt and Wieboldt hit new tops.

Chicago corporation common was the volume leader with 5,000 share trade as it touched a new high of 4.

Utilities Are Strong.

The utilities continued strong, with the exception of Public Service no par, which reacted 1⅝ after its sharp climb Friday. Most gains in the group were confined to fractions, with Central Illinois Public Service preferred at a new top for the year. General Household Utilities continued active, but slumped sharply from 6⅛ to 4¼ as recent good news reports met with skepticism.

Among those connected with the building industry National Gypsum soared 1¼ to another high of [illegible]. Crane marched to another top of 19⅝ and had a ⅝ gain for its active morning trade.

Packers were firm, with Swift, up ⅛, in good demand. Motors, while not particularly active, gained fractionally with the exception of Noblitt-Sparks, which dropped off from a new peak struck Friday. Steels were inactive, Continental losing ground. Radio shares were steady to firm, with Zenith the volume leader.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 26.—Although demand for United States government obligations was almost at a standstill, the volume of trading in other bonds today spurted beyond the usual Saturday total. Prices were generally mixed.

With trading in federal issues limited to only $160,000, prices still were irregular, some moving up 1-32 to 5-32ds of a point and others receding by the same margin.

Carriers Gain Slightly.

The carriers made slight gains, the industrials were mostly unchanged, and while the utilities fell back Murray Body convertible 6½s continued the feature, moving up to a new high of 201. In the rail section the New York, New Haven and Hartford issues held steady. Chicago and Alton 3s gained more than a point. Chicago and North Western issues advanced.

Niagara Shares 5½s proved the leader in the utility group with an upturn of 2 points, closing at 97½. Elsewhere a few movements of 1 to 2 points stood out boldly against the general background of small fractional fluctuations recorded by the main groups of active loans.

Italian Loans Sag.

Sagging tendencies were noticeable among active Italian bonds following the brisk upturn throughout most of the week. The government 7s closed ¼ lower at 65, and Publicity Utility 7s were 1⅜ lower at 52⅝. Other foreign bonds did little either way.

Transfers totaled $5,390,000 compared with $4,758,000 last Saturday.

Copper.

Shares of copper mining companies have been especially buoyant in the stock market recently. This is due to the fact that the technical position of the copper market is believed to be the most favorable in years.

After 1929 the leading copper producers agreed among themselves to peg the price of copper at 18 cents a pound. This enabled the small high cost producers to operate profitably. The little fellows sold copper at less than the pegged price maintained by their larger competitors. The small high cost producers got all the business and the big fellows were producing copper that they could not sell.

The situation was impossible and the cartel fell under the weight of accumulated inventories and lack of sales. The price of copper dropped steeply. The price reduction came too late. By that time inventories had increased greatly and purchases had been sharply curtailed.

The low price, however, made it impossible for the mines to operate at full blast. Many mines were shut down. Quite a few were permanently closed.

Then the companies began a period of waiting until the accumulated inventories could be worked off. This period of waiting appears to have passed.

Demand has shown positive signs of increasing, while inventories have shrunk. On Aug. 31, 1935, it was estimated that the total visible supply of copper in this country was 248,000 tons, against 355,000 tons on Jan. 1, 1935, and the high of 524,000 tons on Dec. 31, 1933.

Current consumption is running at about 50,000 to 55,000 tons a month, with a good prospect that the rate will be 60,000 tons by the end of this year.

Domestic producers, to meet this situation, stepped up production from 20 per cent of rated capacity to 27 per cent.

There are three main factors accounting for the improved demand. The most important is the natural improvement resulting from reviving industry. Electrification and increased building are probably the most important elements in this category.

Second, the prospect of higher prices has stimulated advance buying.

Third, the foreign price situation is bullish. There has been a substantial increase in foreign demand for copper. Much of this is due to increasing armaments of foreign nations as a result of the war scare at a time when European copper production has fallen off, probably 30 per cent since June 1.

Copper has been selling at the best prices since 1931. This has enabled about 80 per cent of domestic producers to operate profitably.

COTTON FUTURES ERRATIC IN RESTRICTED PRICE RANGE

Cotton markets were unsettled yesterday, with prices holding within a range of 5 points. Trade buying gave the nearby deliveries a firmer undertone, while distant futures were easier. Closing trades in leading domestic markets ranged from 4 points to 5 points lower. Trading in cotton for delivery in October, 1936, started yesterday, with the price at a discount of more than ten points compared with the July. Uncertainty as to crop control plans was a factor.

Spot cotton was unchanged to 5 points higher with New Orleans and New York 11.30 cents, Houston 11.15 cents, and Galveston 11.20 cents per pound. Prices follow:

"My husband didn't have time to look for a better car, so I did the job for him!"

Mrs. Edythe Vollmer
3337 Hutchinson Street

"My husband says I am a success as a purchasing agent."

"You can see the car is in splendid condition."

IF YOU ARE IN THE MARKET FOR A GOOD LATE MODEL CAR, one which will give you fast, reliable, economical service, check the automobiles for sale columns of the Tribune want ad section. There you will find a wealth of offers in practically all makes and body styles of late model cars. There you can find a car to suit your needs and at a price which will suit your pocketbook. Start looking now!

"My husband uses a car constantly in business. He is a freight solicitor and drives around the city all day, making calls on prospects.

"We had a 1929 sedan which had gone more than 70,000 miles. It had lost its pep, was hard to handle and slow getting under way. Mr. Vollmer often remarked that he intended to look around and get a better car, but he never seemed to find the time.

Watches the Want Ads

"Finally I decided to take the matter into my own hands and find him a good, late-model car. I started watching the automobiles for sale columns in the Tribune want ad section.

"After looking at several cars which I thought were not quite suitable I saw an advertisment of the Ray Tennes Motor Company of 2451 N. Sacramento Ave. I called at their showroom and Mr. Millard, one of the salesmen, showed me the car. It was an Essex four-door sedan.

Tries Out the Car

"We tried it out. The car was in splendid condition. It ran fine. The paint was good. What was most important, the price was reasonable. I made an appointment with Mr. Millard to bring the car over that same evening to show to my husband.

"Mr. Vollmer was delighted with the late-model I had found for him. One ride in it and he was convinced that it was just what he needed. The company made us a good allowance on the old car, and the next day I signed the papers. My husband says I am quite a success as a purchasing agent."

GIVES TRIBUNE WANT ADS CREDIT FOR BIG INCREASE IN USED CAR SALES

"It gives us pleasure to advise you of the fine results we have had in the past five years through the use of the Chicago Tribune's classified medium as a material aid in the marketing of our used cars. We find that the use of your classified advertising brings us prospects from out of town as well as from Chicago and suburbs.

"You may be interested to learn that the number of used cars sold to date this year by the Ray Tennes Motor Company is practically three times the total sold in 1931. We feel that Chicago Tribune classified advertisements are in no small way responsible for this marked increase. For the above reasons the major portion of our classified advertising has been placed in the Tribune."

NORTH CENTRAL ALUMNI REUNION TO SET RECORD

Diamond Jubilee Will Be Celebrated Nov. 9.

The greatest number of "old grads" ever to return to the campus is expected Nov. 9 at North Central college, Naperville, for the celebration of the school's Diamond Jubilee year homecoming. Festivities will begin on the night of Nov. 8 with a pep meeting at Pfeiffer hall. Irving Artes of Lombard, is general chairman of the homecoming committee.

IRVING ARTES.

For several years, homecoming has been combined with Parents' day at North Central, and the double program has attracted parents in large numbers, especially from the suburban area.

Out to Avenge Defeat.

A feature of homecoming will be the football game between North Central and Illinois college. Last year the game at Jacksonville resulted in a 6 to 0 victory for the downstate institution, and the Cardinals are out to avenge that defeat before the alumni and friends.

On the morning of homecoming day champions of the Intramural Softball league will be determined in the last game of the season at Fort Hill campus. Later, the Freshmen-Sophomore flag rush will be held, and the women's varsity soccer team will play the best that the alumni has to offer.

Also on the morning of homecoming, the finals of the men's fall tennis tournament will be held on the Heatherton courts, and the natatorium will be opened in Merner fieldhouse for a social swim.

Banquet to Start at 5:30.

The annual homecoming banquet will start at 5:30 o'clock, following the football game, and for the first time will be held at Nichols hall, one of the college buildings. Hitherto, lack of space has necessitated laying the banquet tables in one of the local churches. Gordon Smith, '35, will be toastmaster, and the football and cross country squads will be guests of honor.

Following the banquet, the homecoming play, "The Tightwad," will be presented by the Golden Triangle Players.

Godfrey Cummings, chairman of the welfare committee, is assisting in planning the festival. The various booths will be in charge of the woman's auxiliary.

VAGRANTS SHUN RIVER FOREST AS RESULT OF DRIVE

Trafic Mishaps Decline, Police Report.

For its strictness in enforcing trafic laws and freeing the suburb of vagrants the River Forest police department is receiving commendation from residents of the village.

Recently the department made a report covering three months this summer as compared to the same months in 1933 and 1934. The figures show a decided increase in the number of persons fined and the revenues from fines, and a decrease in the number injured in accidents.

River Forest is said to be the only community of its size equipped with two way radios on its police cars.

Property Loss Reduced.

Along with the strict enforcement of trafic laws reports of the department show property losses to have been cut to about one-ninth, criminal complaints dropped 50 per cent, and a decrease in the number of criminal complaints cleared by arrests. The showing is said to have been due in part to the finger printing system, with the result that the suburb is given a wide berth by vagrants.

Following a three months' survey the River Forest village board recently awarded a new contract for the maintenance of its street lighting system at a reduction in the cost under the original contract estimated at $3,000. The new contract, it is explained, also includes additional items such as the making of repairs and lighting of viaducts.

Trustees to Decide Disputes.

A $10,000 cash bond was deposited to guarantee the contract's fulfilment. The board of trustees under the new arrangement also will decide disputes arising as to the performance of the contract.

BOYS' CLUB BAND TO RECEIVE MEDALS WON AT FESTIVAL

Engraved bronze medals won by the Chicago Boys' club band last summer in THE TRIBUNE'S Chicagoland Music Festival, will be presented to those young musicians at 2 o'clock next Sunday afternoon in the auditorium of the Lawndale branch of the club, 2801 South Ridgeway avenue.

JOHN SOVINEC.

John Sovinec, director of the group, will present three Boys' club bands in concert. The newest addition to the Lawndale branch's music department is the intermediate band, composed of boys and girls who are playing in a group for the first time.

The intermediate band was organized less than two months ago by Mr. Sovinec. Its membership has increased to more than 75. Full programs of ensemble numbers, solos, duets, and trios have been presented by the group during community nights. Another feature of the concert will be the appearance of a saxophone band.

The concert is being sponsored by the Band Parents' association of the Lawndale club, of which Joe Martinec is president. Howard Evans is secretary of the association.

DESIGN EVENTS TO LURE YOUNG FROM MISCHIEF

Parades, Contests on Programs.

BY PHYLLIS HAMMOND.

Costume parades, masquerade dances, drama, music, contests of every description, a water carnival, and huge bonfires have been planned among other features of entertainment by the Chicago Park district for west siders Thursday evening, when traditional Halloween celebrations will be held in Garfield, Stanford, La Follette, Sheridan, and Columbus parks, and Austin Town hall.

According to V. K. Brown, chief of recreation for the park district, the celebration, to be city-wide, will aid in reducing property damage such as broken or soaped windows, stolen gates, and broken fences, to a minimum. Altogether 83 fieldhouse parks are to participate.

Make Masks and Animals.

Two weeks ago 100 tons of blue clay was distributed to the fieldhouses to be used in making models for masks and grotesque heads. Paints, paste, and all instructions were provided to children and adults, who have been working on masks and odd looking animals.

The largest of these Halloween festivals will be held in Garfield park. Three costume parades from the south, east, and west of Madison street will meet at the south end of the band stand in the park. Here a cup will be awarded to the largest masked group from any school in the district.

A cracker eating contest, blackberry pie eating contest, apple bobbing, balloon bursting, and other events are on the program. A cup will be awarded for the best ten minute skit in costume, and there will be community singing. Prizes and refreshments are being donated by business men.

Prizes for Best Costumes.

Two prizes each for the best costume and the most comical costume will be awarded at Austin Town hall. There will be a basketball game and water stunts in the swimming pool. Members of the North Austin Junior players will present dance numbers under the direction of Miss Esther Brassovanyi. A two act play will be given by the Austin Town hall dramatic class. Mrs. Carol Loucks is coaching the players.

Eugene Douglas will be featured in a novelty dance and social dancing will be held from 9:30 to 11:30 o'clock to the music of a nine piece orchestra. Apples are being donated by the Chicago Central Business Men's association.

Boy Scouts and American Legion units will take an active part in La Follette park's program. A costume parade will be led by a Scout's drum and bugle corps, and a Sea Scout drum and bugle corps will be in the line of march with other Scout troops of the vicinity. American Legion members will act as guards along the line of march, which is to extend three mils.

Merchants to Have Floats.

Prizes for the best costumes are being provided by the North Austin Lions club. Business men will exhibit floats. About 150 children are now making masks for the event, while others are working on large papier maché figures.

Following the parade there will be a treasure hunt, bonfire, potato and marshmallow roasts, and water carnival in the park pool. The new light tower in La Follette park will be lit for the first time.

A children's costume party will be held at Sheridan park, with a parade in which contestants will be awarded prizes for the best costumes.

Traditional old world customs to include folk dances of the Mexican and colored people, will be seen at Stanford park's party. There also will be community singing, apple bobbing, and a social dance in the fieldhouse.

Parade in Columbus Park.

Fifteen prizes for costumes will be awarded at Columbus park following a masked parade. Games and stunts will be held in the playground, together with a marshmallow roast, rations for which have been donated by Mrs. Christine Andrews, 3860 Lexington street, a member of the Assumption Greek church.

Fifteen bushels of apples, donated by the Lions club, a bonfire, band music, cracker eating contest, and movies have been listed on the Halloween program to be held Thursday evening under the auspices of the Berwyn Boy Scouts, district No. 1. Festivities will be held at 31st street and East avenues, in the suburb, starting at 7:30 o'clock.

Fun for Oak Park Young.

Oak Park youngsters will receive their bushel of fun from the Southern District association, which has planned a costume parade and bicycle race. The line of march will form at Harrison street and Oak Park avenue at 6:30 o'clock Thursday evening.

The wheel events, being held under the direction of the West Suburban Wheelmen, will open with a velocipede race for boys and girls. A girls' bicycle race will follow, then a junior race for boys under 15 years of age, and a senior race for boys 15 and over.

GIRL SCOUTS, NOW GROWN, SURPRISE THEIR FOUNDER

Mrs. Elizabeth Shroyer Feted in Suburb.

Back in 1917, Mrs. Elizabeth Shroyer, 4434 DuBois boulevard, Congress Park, organized in her community the first Girl Scout troop in Cook county. The movement was so new at that time that Mrs. Shroyer was obliged to write east for information regarding the organization.

MRS. ELIZABETH SHROYER.

The effort of Mrs. Shroyer was appreciated by girls of the neighborhood, and the new troop grew swiftly to a membership of 60. A year later, the Girl Scout movement was started in Chicago, and Mrs. Shroyer was made a member of the board, serving in that capacity for four years.

A Surprise Reunion.

Time marched on. On a recent October night, Mrs. Shroyer sat at home expecting Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Morgan for an evening of bridge. Then the surprise. Mrs. Morgan appeared, and with her were ten other former members of the Whippoorwill patrol of Girl Scouts now grown to womanhood.

The intervening years were bridged in an instant. Memories of the Girl Scout days, with their pleasurable outings and high ideals, were revived, and the evening was turned over to reunion.

Revive Old Games.

The old Girl Scout games were played, and gum drops and peanuts were included in the refreshments.

Members of the group included Mrs. Jane Dowd Morgan, Mrs. Ethel Blanchard Bestler, Miss Irene Sullivan, Miss Jeanette Hamilton, Mrs. Ella Houlberg Redis, Mrs. Libbie Bishop Johnson, Mrs. Mary Amato Dowd, Mrs. Virginia Hammersmith Rayfeldt, Miss Ella Skowbo, and Mrs. Grace Burnet Saunders.

Should there be government competition with private enterprise for regulatory or other purposes? Should all grants of authority by congress to the executive department of the federal government be within clearly defined limits?

Charles W. Stiger, councilor for the Oak Park chamber to the national body, said in regard to the questions to be discussed at tomorrow's meeting: "Of all the activities of our chamber, perhaps none is of greater importance than its affiliation with the national body, from which emanates information, detailed study, and careful analysis of national legislative policies affecting every individual.

Study All New Laws.

"The United States Chamber of Commerce, through the appointment of a specially qualified committee, has made a comprehensive study of practically all the new legislation passed by congress in the last two years," continued Mr. Stiger. PROVISO GIRLS START SUNSHINE PAL WEEK TODAY

Sophomores Bring Cheer to Old People.

Culminating in a party Friday night at the Baptist Old People's home, observance of annual Sunshine Pal week will start today as an activity of the Girls' league of Proviso Township High school, coöperating with the Baptist Old People's home, 315 Pine street, Maywood.

Each day during the week sophomore girls of the school will communicate with their elderly friends, concealing their identity until party night, when the pals become acquainted.

Narrowed to One Class.

Formerly every girl in the school took part in the project, but Proviso has grown so large that now only the sophomore girls participate. During the year Junior Pal and Senior Fellowship weeks are held for the upper class girls.

Sponsoring matinee teas for girls is another activity of the league. Entertaining and educational programs are presented, and girls are given the opportunity to learn the proper procedure at formal social functions.

Aid Holiday Work.

Other projects are dressing dolls at Christmas time for children at the Cook County hospital, distributing Thanksgiving baskets, decorating Christmas trees at the Hines hospital, and an annual bazar.

A major organization of the league is the Senior guard, composed of twenty-five girls who serve as guides to freshman girls and act as "big sisters" to the newcomers when they meet at the freshman party in the fall. During the year the guard arranges parties, hikes, and picnics for the younger girls and helps them to familiarize themselves with their new surroundings.

JOINT RECEIVER FOR EIGHT ALLIED BANKS IS NAMED

Louis E. Nelson, who has charge of a receivership which is liquidating twenty-one banks from headquarters in Melrose Park, recently was appointed deputy receiver for the Des Plaines State bank and seven other banks allied with it in receivership. Plans indicate that the headquarters for the eight banks may be moved from Des Plaines to the Melrose Park bank offices.

LOUIS E. NELSON

The move is in accordance with the plan of further consolidating receiverships to reduce liquidating expenses, it is announced by Edward J. Barrett, state auditor.

The process devised by Mr. Nelson of public listing of checks mailed out by closed banks and returned with addresses unknown, has resulted in a 50 per cent response.

A Maywood resident, active in community and civic affairs, Mr. Nelson has been a leader again this fall in the membership drive conducted by the Oak Park Y. M. C. A.

PIONEER CHURCH IN FREEPORT HAS 85 YEAR HISTORY

Celebration of Birthday Opens Tomorrow.

The days when church pledges were paid in kind—lumber, vegetables and all sorts of produce, poultry and live stock—will be recalled this week when Grace Episcopal church, Freeport, celebrates its 85th birthday. For in the early days of the parish, there were occasions, especially in the building of the first church, when the records indicate members paid their pledges out of the products of their labors.

THE REV. E. VICTOR KENNAN.

Freeport was a small trading post out on the fringe of civilization when James Bentley, missionary, went there in 1849 to start the work of the Episcopal church in the community on an organized basis. Philander Chase, stalwart missionary bishop, had visited the post as early as 1842.

The parish celebration of its 85th birthday will start tomorrow when the Woman's auxiliary of the northern section of the diocese of Chicago meets in Freeport. Bishop George Craig Stewart will be the principal speaker at this all day session.

Homecoming on Nov. 7.

Next Sunday is another red letter day on the celebration program. The anniversary service will be held on that day, with an anniversary confirmation class presented by the Rev. E. Victor Kennan, rector, to Bishop Stewart. On Nov. 7 the celebration will come to a climax with homecoming events, followed by a visitation intended to renew the life and work of Grace church.

First services of the Episcopal church in Freeport were conducted by the Rev. Mr. Bentley in a room on Galena street, in the fall of 1849. The first church was completed and consecrated on Feb. 27, 1853. In the early 1870's the need for a larger and more pretentious church was felt and a new building was started. This was nearly complete when a tornado swept the country and demolished the structure. Undaunted, the parish started a third building immediately.

The late Rev. Dr. William C. DeWitt, who became nationally known as the dean and president of Western Theological seminary; the Rev. F. D. Butler, now of Madison, Wis.; the Rev. Floyd E. Bernard, now rector of All Saints church, Ravenswood, and the Rev. John R. Pickells, now rector of old Trinity church, Chicago, are among the former rectors of Grace church.

Church is Redecorated.

The Rev. E. Victor Kennan became rector in 1930, coming from St. Mark church, Evanston, where he was curate. In recent years, the parish has gone forward under Mr. Kennan's leadership. The interior and exterior of the church and parish house have been repainted and redecorated, new walks installed, two memorial windows added, new equipment added, the organ redecorated and rebuilt and a parish circulating library established. Mr. Kennan was awarded the distinguished service cross of his church in 1932 for outstanding accomplishments.

The present vestry of the parish is: W. L. Calkins, senior warden; John Bruce, junior warden; A. J. Stukenberg, Mentor Wheat, I. P. Grassman, Harry Deery, Preston Boyd, Richard E. Wahler, John Place, F. A. Raubenheimer, Joseph Gund, Marvin Burt, and F. L. Liebetrau, vestrymen.

Forest Park Groups Join to Promote Charity Ball

All organizations in Forest Park have joined in plans for the charity ball to be held Nov. 22 at Melody Mill, Des Plaines avenue and 26th street. The ball is the outstanding social and civic event of the year in the west suburb. Mrs. Frank Petersohn, president of the Associated Charities of Forest Park, is general chairman of the ball.

OLD RESIDENTS WED 60 YEARS, ALL ON WEST SIDE

Today marks the 60th anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Eudorus Cripe, 3037 Warren boulevard, who were married on the west side and have lived there ever since.

Mr. Cripe was born in Dublin, Ind., Jan. 13, 1853, and came to Chicago shortly after the Civil war. He retains a scar caused by a chair thrown from the window of a burning building during the great Chicago fire.

MRS. CRIPE.

EUDORUS CRIPE.

Mrs. Cripe was born at Columbus, Wis., Nov. 22, 1855, and came to Chicago in 1873. There is one daughter, Mrs. Roger L. Avery of Chicago, and a son, Frank, of Clarendon Hills.

WORKSHOP CLUB OF SUBURB WILL REPAIR OLD TOYS

Begin Christmas Plans in Western Springs.

The Western Springs Workshop club, a new organization of men of the village who make wood carving, furniture building, and wrought iron work a hobby, already has started its Christmas plans. A decision was made recently to request fellow townsmen for outgrown or damaged toys that may be repaired and repainted for distribution through the local charity organizations to those less fortunate.

Announcement is made that members of the club, including E. L. Whistman, E. T. Dorpole, D. C. Wilson, H. J. Winchester, or G. E. Blackstone, will call for the discarded toys if notified.

Begins in Basements.

The Western Springs club came into vogue when basements began to be utilized for attractive dens and work rooms. Men who found pleasure in devoting their leisure to handicraft started by working alone in their basements, and until recently their developed kill was known only to close friends.

Recently, products of the basement shop were brought forth by Mrs. Calvin George and her co-workers for a display at the Creative Art exhibit at the Western Springs Congregational church house.

Members Trade Ideas.

H. K. Shore and E. L. Whistman were responsible for starting the workshop club, and the membership has grown steadily as the result of a desire to exchange ideas and improve skill. E. T. Dorpole, host at a recent meeting of the club, obtained a high speed spindle carving machine and an expert professional carver to demonstrate its use.

The next meeting of the club will be held Nov. 13.

Weds on West Side

Mrs. Thomas M. Coe, who was Miss Helen Condon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Condon, 1121 Roosevelt road, before her marriage recently in the Church of the Holy Family. Mrs. Coe is a graduate of Clarke college, Dubuque, Ia., and Mr. Coe a graduate of Armour institute.

MINISTERS WILL STUDY WORK WITH NEW AMERICANS

Protestant Conference to Open Nov. 21.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Surveying the work of Protestant churches today among foreign-speaking groups, and planning for the next decade—how Italians, Czechs, Mexicans, Hungarians, Russians and Armenians may best be welded into American citizenry makes the interdenominational conference on "Work with New Americans," to be held Nov. 21 and 22, at the New First Congregation church, Ashland and Washington boulevards, among the most important sponsored by the Chicago church federation.

Under the auspices of various local and national religious organizations, a committee of 100 Protestant ministers, with Dr. Charles S. Laidman of the Chicago Congregational union as general chairman, has arranged a conference program devoted to the extensive work among the nationality groups of Chicago's neighborhoods.

Will Consider Policy.

It will concern also the present religious situation among these new Americans; the contributions of foreigners to the culture and life of Chicago, and the policy for this far-flung missionary work of the Protestant churches in all large cities of he United States throughout the next ten years.

For three representative national groups there will speak at the first morning session, the Rev. Ralph A. Mautone, pastor of the First Italian Methodist Episcopal church, and the Rev. Edward Catlos of the First Czech Baptist church, both in Chicago, and Prof. Frank Kovach of Bloomfield seminary in New Jersey, who will outline the work among Hungarians. In the afternoon, George Pushman and the Rev. William B. O'Neill will speak, respectively, on the Armenian and Mexican work in this city.

Banquet on Thursday.

Among other Chicago speakers scheduled to appear are Dr. Samuel C. Kincheloe on "The Cosmopolitan City"; Dean Shailer Mathews on "The Meaning and Message of Protestantism to These Present Times," and Otto Jaburek, attorney of the Chicago Business Men's association.

Significant aspects of the two day conference will be the fellowship banquet on Thursday evening, Nov. 21, when the Rev. Ernest M. Halliday of New York will speak on "The American Scene" and the massmeeting the following night when Prof. Edward A. Steiner of Grinnell college, Ia., will discuss "My Observations After Fifty Years."

Among the leading preachers of the younger generation is Dr. Harold C. Phillips, pastor of the First Baptist church, Cleveland, O., who will address the Sunday Evening club tonight in Orchestra hall. He is noted for his selection of daring topics—"Christianity, the Religion of the Radical" is that for this evening—but keen insight rather than sensationalism is Dr. Phillips' treatment of such subjects as is to be expected from one who studied under Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick at the Union Theological seminary in New York.

Born in Jamaica, British West Indies, Dr. Phillips began preaching at the age of 16. He was educated at Doan academy and was graduated from Dennison university.

The monthly union ministers' meeting to be held tomorrow at the Central Y. M. C. A., 19 South La Salle street, will observe the 400th anniversary of the translation of the Bible into English by hearing an address from Dr. Edgar J. Goodspeed of the University of Chicago, and viewing an exhibit of testaments and portions of scripture displayed by the Chicago Bible society.

The October Bible conference of the Illinois Christian Fundamental Ministers association will be held at the Leavitt Street Fundamental church, Leavitt street and Haddon avenue, tomorrow afternoon and evening.

ADULT CLASSES IN CITIZENSHIP SHOW INCREASE

New Course Will Begin at Dante School.

A steady increase in enrollment in the Day School for Adults in the Dante school building, 840 South Desplaines street, was reported last week by C. W. Hill, principal, who said that the age range was from 16 to 65 years.

"Seventeen different nationalities are represented in the student body," said Mr. Hill. "Vocal and instrumental talent has been found in the group, and a male quartet is now rehersing for an appearance on one of our assembly programs.

"The board of education has furnished us with a motion picture machine so that much of the history and citizenship work can be taught more effectively," he said. "Three sets of books have been sent us by the federal government for use in preparing students for citizenship, and the Chicago public library recently loaned the school 150 books.

"Some of our students are completing the regular elementary course, others learning to speak English for the first time, others preparing for citizenship," Mr. Hill pointed out. "Sewing, the buying and preparing of meals, and mechanical drawing also are being taught."

A second six weeks period will open tomorrow at the Dante school. Classes will be in session from 9 o'clock in the morning until 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Students may attend a full day or part time.

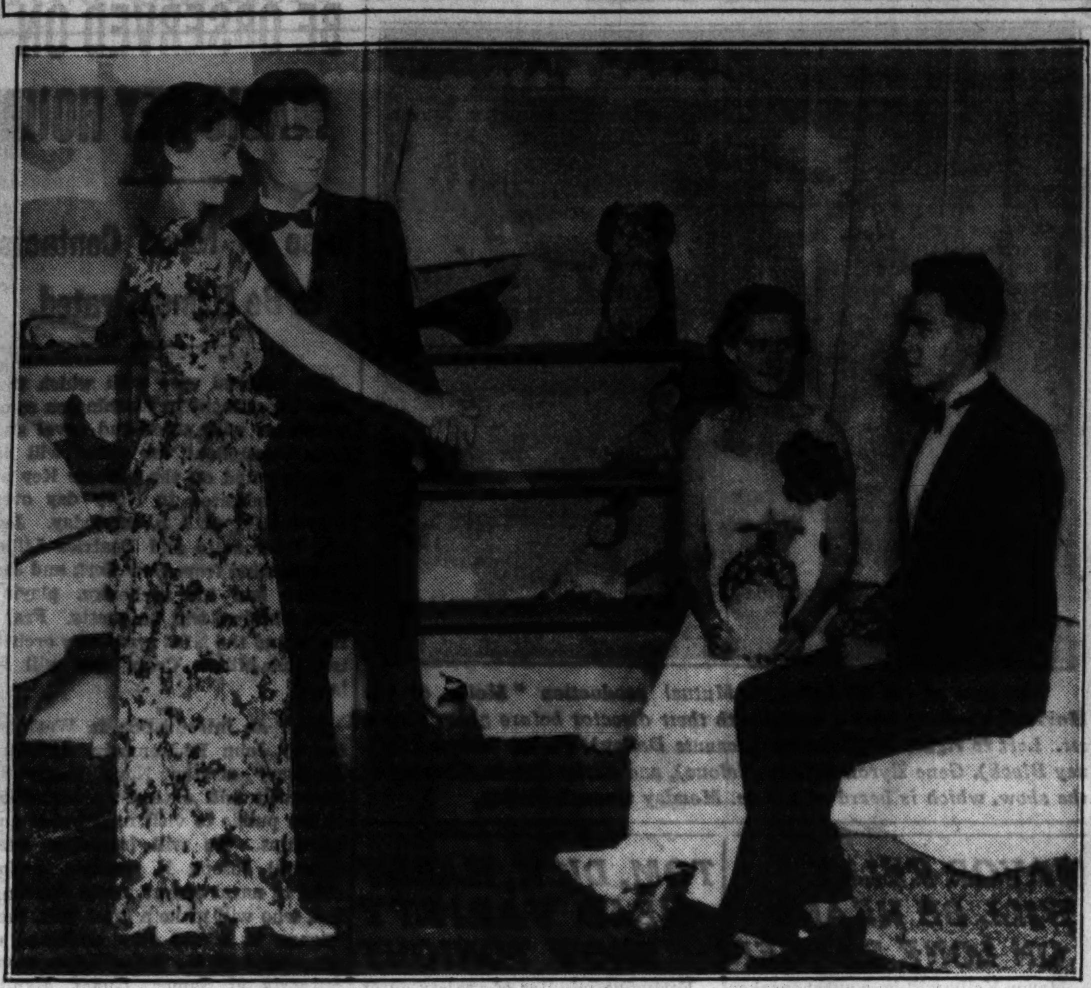
NURSERY BYPLAY IN YORK HIGH COMEDY



A bit of byplay in the nursery makes for one of many diverting moments in Philip Barrie's three act comedy, "Holiday," to be presented by the senior class of York Township High school Friday evening in the school auditorium, Elmhurst. The dancers are Miss Mary Jordan and Joe Jernegan. Miss Ruth Ragland (seated) is doing her best to fathom that dubious expression on the countenance of Grover Haines, known more intimately to his schoolmates as "Buzz." [TRIBUNE Photo.]

DAYTIME SHOWS DRENCHED WITH BEAUTY PALAVER

Morning Listening Tough for Males.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

If you are in the main an evening listener and still find much to mutter over the airfare that comes out of your loud speaker, take a day off some time and learn what your wife has to put up with if she turns on the radio on a weekday morning. Your observer spent a morning and portion of the early afternoon doing that recently—and gladly returned thereupon to the nocturnal offerings.

In the morning serials, heavy laden with advertising talk that is dedicated to the proposition that all women may become attractive, yea beautiful, if they only will, fill the airlanes.

These sketches touch on many themes, but in the main they seem to hold the view that all women are more or less unhappy with their lot as housewives. Thus the sketches encountered deal with unrequited love and romance, thrilling adventures, the glamorous life in Hollywood and Broadway, triumphs over tremendous odds, and plots that prove that every man's success is due to his wife.

There Is a Way Out.

But if there is loneliness, longing, and heartbreak in these sketches, every woman soon learns that it is because she is using the wrong foods, soaps, toiletries and household cleaners.

"Rough hands," "blackheads and blemishes," "cosmetic skin" are terms that are heard again and again. But fear not, there is always a solution. The commercials are drenched with such hopeful phrases as "all you need do," "inner glow," "alluringly beautiful," "enticing loveliness."

Of course there are redeeming features about the daytime programs—even the serials. But one does wonder how any person could keep track of the plots and characters in all of them.

Many of the daytime sketches, of course, relate very human stories—and several are humorous. We have been hearing a lot of praise for the comedy in the "Couple Next Door" on W-G-N. That one, however, happens to be aired in the evening. "Painted Dreams," Clara, Lu, 'n' Em, Vic and Sade, "Today's Children," and "Flying Time" are among those for which one hears much enthusiasm expressed by various types of listeners.

Several Diverting Shows Found.

Leaving serials, your observer did find a measure of pleasant and diverting entertainment on his day of daytime listening. Tom, Dick, and Harry always present a briskly paced musical program, well splattered with comedy. Milton Charles, who sings as he plays the organ, will probably find a nighttime place on the networks one of these days.

Jack Major, a one man entertainer, puts on a lively show. Several fine recorded programs are to be heard in the morning hours, and throughout the day, particularly on W-G-N and WAAF. The Gold Medal Minstrel Men are well above the average for morning entertainment.

It is always a pleasure to encounter Ralph Ginsburgh's ensemble, too. "Words and Music" with Edward Davies and Maud Muller is good listening.

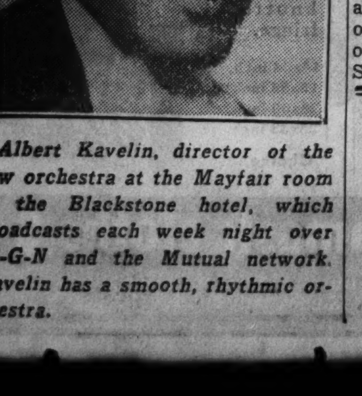
No attempt is made here to record all the attractive things that might be found by diligent search of the radio schedules. We set down only the results of some random tuning with the purpose of finding out what typical daytime programs hold.

Notes on New Drama.

Most of the networks' big musical shows this year, except for minor changes, are the same as last year. But there are several new dramatic shows. These include serials in which Helen Hayes and Leslie Howard are starred.

Miss Hayes plays her rôle for all it is worth. She portrays the matron of an orphan asylum who is trying to forget about an unhappy love affair in work with children. The piece is titled "The New Penny" and is written by Edith Meiser who also turns out "The Amateur Gentleman" in which Leslie Howard is the headliner. Howard is cast as a young boxer who has social ambitions. All in all, it seems these serial vehicles are hardly up to the stature of the actors working in them.

MAESTRO



Albert Kavelin, director of the new orchestra at the Mayfair room at the Blackstone hotel, which broadcasts each night over W-G-N and the Mutual network. Kavelin has a smooth, rhythmic orchestra.

RADIO NEWSREEL

Mark Love, veteran singing star of the W-G-N staf, signs a contract to appear in five operas with the Chicago City Opera company while Paul Longone, manager of the opera, looks on. Mr. Love will appear in "Thais," "Rosen-Kavalier," "La Fiamma," "Aida," and "Tannhaeuser."

Jack Hylton, English orchestra leader, with his troupe of singing stars, who will take part in his radio revue, "You Shall Have Music," which opens at the Civic theater at 9:30 tonight over WBBM-CBS. In the picture (left to right): Miss Peggy Dell, Billy Ternent, the Countess Caneva di Rivarolo, Jack Hylton, Magda Neeld, and Pat O'Malley.

Mrs. Mars to Feed, Train Horse for Winner.

One of radio's newest script shows, Milky Way Winners, a story of horse racing, will announce one of the most unusual contest offers ever presented over the air at 6:30 p. m. tomorrow on W-G-N. Mrs. Ethel V. Mars, the sponsor of the program, who owns one of the largest racing establishments in the country, will present a thoroughbred colt, purchased for approximately $5,000, to the person who suggests the winning name.

Because of the inability of the ordinary person to maintain and train a race horse the sponsor will train the animal, feed, stable, and transport it, pay jocky fees, and nominate it in all of the leading races for 2 year olds at no expense to the owner.

Three of the races the colt will be nominated for are the 1936 Belmont Futurity, worth $50,000; the National Stallion stakes, valued at $15,000, and the famous Arlington Futurity, valued at $60,000. As a 3 year old it will be entered in the Kentucky Derby.

The horse is a bay colt by Stimulus, out of Be Careful. The sire is one of the best known stallions on the American turf. Among his most famous offspring are Risque, Cousin Jo, Riskulus, and Slap Dash.

When the colt becomes a 3 year old it will be turned over to the winner of the contest, who may do as he pleases with the animal, either race or sell him and receive the full purchase price.

The contest will last for five weeks. The winner will be named before Christmas, and the horse will become eligible for racing on Jan. 1, 1936, when he becomes 2 years old, according to the laws that govern thoroughbred racing.

The birth of the colt has been woven into the story of the radio show, and the name given the colt will be used in the sketch.

"MOLLY OF THE MOVIES" CAST

The cast of the W-G-N and Mutual production "Molly of the Movies" checking over a script with their director before going on the air. MAYOR KELLY WILL BE HEARD ON LONE RANGER

Mayor Kelly will be a guest speaker on the "Lone Ranger" drama at 7 p. m. next Wednesday over W-G-N. The sponsors of the western drama are staging a campaign for safety among the children and grownups who listen to the story of the Ranger and Tonto, his Indian friend. They have presented Mayor Couzens of Detroit, the governor of Michigan and various police commissioners during their broadcasts in safety talks. A certificate is given the youngsters who pledge to uphold the principals of the campaign and already more than 200,000 youngsters have joined the safety club.

The program is heard over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system at 7 o'clock every Monday, Wednesday and Friday night.

TOM, DICK, HARRY HEAD VARIETY SHOW TONIGHT

Forty-five minutes of variety entertainment will be aired from W-G-N's main studio in a public broadcast at 9:30 o'clock tonight. The concert of popular entertainment will feature one of radio best known trios, the singing comedians, "Tom, Dick, and Harry" and their accompanist, Carl Hoefle, Ester Tarler, an outstanding mimic of radio and stage personalities, Lawrence Salerno, the Neapolitan baritone, and Anita Boyer, a new singer of blues songs.

Book a Week Program.

"Sylvia of the Minute," by Helen R. Martin, will be presented on the "Book A Week" program beginning at 9:15 a. m. tomorrow over W-G-N. Margery Graham will read the book.

NAVY DAY WILL BE OBSERVED ON MAGIC KEY HOUR

Ease of Naval Contacts to Be Demonstrated.

The magical ease with which the navy department in Washington communicates with ships and naval stations throughout the world will be demonstrated on the "Magic Key of RCA" dedicated to Navy day over WENR-NBC at 1 p. m. today. Jessica Dragonette and Beatrice Lillie, broadcasting from New York and Jan Garber and his orchestra, playing from Chicago, will be guests. Frank Black and the NBC symphony orchestra and Milton Cross also will be heard.

After an introduction in Washington by John B. Kennedy, Assistant Secretary of the Navy Henry L. Roosevelt will extend an invitation to the public to visit navy yards and warships. He will introduce Rear Admiral Joseph K. Taussig, acting chief of naval operations in Washington, who will make a brief talk, then engage in a two way exchange of greetings with the United States naval outposts at Samoa, Guam, Manila, Honolulu, Dutch Harbor, Alaska, and Panama.

Some of the stations will reply in code, to be translated as it is received in Washington, but Admiral Taussig will talk by radiophone with the commanding officers at Manila and Honolulu.

Admiral Taussig next will call the roll of navy yards in the United States.

Following this he will talk to the commanding officer aboard a submarine in the Hudson river and to pilots of a squadron of marine bombing airplanes over Bolling field, Washington.

Crosley Follies Will Be Back on W-G-N Tuesday

HUGH STUDEBAKER

Studebaker served in the world war before he was 18. Upon returning from the front, he was a helper in a blacksmith's shop in Missouri, planted pinto beans in New Mexico, and finally wound up as a postoffice clerk in Kansas City, his home town.

Then he sang with a quartet in a small theater in Kansas City. While appearing at the theater his boss from the postoffice showed up and fired him for being absent from work. His radio career started on WDAF and KMBC, Kansas City. In addition to being featured on "Bachelor's Children" he is also heard on W-G-N's "Helen Trent" and on various shows in the Columbia and NBC nets.

Mr. Crooks' first group will include the aria "In Fernem Land," from Wagner's "Lohengrin," and "Then You'll Remember Me," from Balfe's "Bohemian Girl." "I'd rather fly through smoking craters than have another Blow-out" says ROBERT SHIPPEE, President, Aerial Explorations, Inc.

THE ONLY TIRE IN THE WORLD WITH GOLDEN PLY BLOW-OUT PROTECTION

"I'VE had 'close ones' galore mapping the 'Valley of Volcanoes' by plane, but I'd rather take chances in the air any day than have another blow-out," says Robert Shippee. "It happened near Deal, N. J. I had just passed another car when my tire blew out. I smacked a bank and the motor came back through the dash—would have gotten me sure if I hadn't been thrown against the side of my car. But I don't worry about blow-outs now, for my car is equipped with Silvertowns."

Most motorists would no more gamble on tires they knew to be unsafe, than a card gambler would "open blind" in a poker game.

If you could only realize the damage to limb, life and car that one blow-out might cause, you'd start in tomorrow to ride on Goodrich Safety Silvertowns. Because Silvertowns have something that no other tire in the world has—the Life-Saver Golden Ply. The Golden Ply is not an ordinary ply with a fancy name but a scientific invention developed by Goodrich engineers. By resisting heat generated inside the tire by high speeds, it keeps rubber from losing its grip on the tread—it keeps heat blisters from forming inside the tire. Thus, that blow-out that might have caused serious trouble never gets a start.

See your Goodrich dealer about a set of Goodrich Safety Silvertowns with the Life-Saver Golden Ply. Remember they cost not a penny more than other standard tires!

Here's something absolutely free! A special chemically-treated Polishing Cloth for your car. Works like magic. Just a few quick rubs and presto—your car sparkles like new. Will not scratch or mar the surface. Simply send your name and address to the B. F. Goodrich Company, Akron, Ohio, Dept. 41, and this wonderful Polishing Cloth in a special handy case will be mailed to you—free of charge. Act now! This free Polishing Cloth offer good for only one week.

WHERE THE PEACE OF NATIONS HANGS IN THE BALANCE—A view over Geneva showing the league of nations palace, where the meetings which may determine the peace of Europe have been taking place. Here the league invoked for the first time the sanctions clause against Italy, deciding upon economic penalties against that nation in an effort to force Premier Mussolini to halt warfare with Ethiopia. Statesmen from all the member nations have been worried in the last few weeks lest the war spread throughout the continent.

JUST BECAUSE YOU DO YOUR OWN HOUSEWORK?

NOW—A REMARKABLE DERMATIC LOTION THAT SOFTENS HANDS IN 15 SECONDS!

THERE'S one physical charm that every woman can now have: the charm of soft, smooth hands—lovely to look at, thrilling to touch.

Why let your hands lose their softness, become dry and coarse? Why not keep them romantically smooth and young-looking—always?

You can—so easily—with the new dermatic hand lotion! It works with nature, restoring the oils that have been dried out. It makes hands look soft, smooth, well-groomed—in 15 seconds!

This new-type lotion is called Velure.

A few drops have more actual softening value than a whole teaspoonful of ordinary lotion. It dries instantly, leaves no sticky coating on the hands. Nothing ever like it before!

Try Velure free

We will be glad to send you a bottle of Velure Lotion free. A dainty little bottle—just right to carry in your purse, ready for instant use. Here's your chance to try this new fast-working, quick-drying hand lotion without cost! Just send your name and address to Bauer & Black, Dept. 32, 2500 South Dearborn Street, Chicago, Ill.

MAKE THIS "Elbow Test"

Rub a few drops of Velure Lotion into the skin of the elbow—the coarsest, roughest skin anywhere on your body. Watch it soften before your very eyes! Compare this elbow with the other, on which you have used no Velure Lotion. You'll be thrilled!

BAUER & BLACK Velure LOTION

Are you powdering sallow color into your skin?

Coty's dramatic new Air Spun method makes powder shades as warm and rich as living skin. There's years of difference!

IT'S A COMMON complaint that face powder does not leave your skin looking fresh and young as it should.

Even when the shades look nice enough in the box they so often look sallow on the skin.

Now Coty has found a way to put the warmth of living skin into powder shades. The difference lies in an utterly new way of making powder... the Air Spun method.

Now Coty spins in color, using torrents of air, driven at cyclone speed! For the first time, it is possible to diffuse tints with exquisite fineness. To blend color as smoothly as Nature blends her colors in young skin!

Years of difference

You see the difference the moment you put Air Spun Powder on your face. There's a vitality about it. A look of radiance, at once soft and glowing. A springtime freshness!

This warm, young coloring makes Coty Air Spun the ideal powder for girls and younger women—it gives the smooth finish they seek while keeping alive the pulsing, living quality that means youth.

For the older woman, whose skin has faded and sallowed, Air Spun is almost a miracle. It seems to bring back lost, forgotten color. The skin looks more animated. Actually younger!

A new, smoother texture, too!

Coty Air Spun Powder is different in other ways that are just as important. It is by far the smoothest face powder ever made. You can feel the difference the moment you touch it. And especially, you can tell the difference in the way it goes on your face. Never do you see a dry, flaky particle resting on top of the skin. Just a soft, flattering haze that makes your skin look finer-grained and clearer.

And because Air Spun Powder is so much smoother, it is "friendlier," as chemists say, to your skin and clings longer.

Invitation—try it FREE

Coty will gladly send you Air Spun Powder free... knowing that no words can possibly be as convincing as the feel of it in your hand, the flattering look of it on your face. Please send coupon.

Most Bad Breath Begins with the teeth!

How Colgate Dental Cream Protects You!

PROBABLY you are already taking precautions against bad breath! But—are you making sure that your teeth are thoroughly clean?

Yes, your teeth! For improperly cleaned teeth, authorities say, are by far the commonest cause of all bad breath! Food residue and acid deposits collect in the hidden crevices between your teeth . . . they decay . . . and the result is offensive breath!

Ordinary cleaning methods, which merely polish tooth surfaces, cannot remove these deposits. But Colgate's, with its special penetrating foam, gets into every tiny crevice, emulsifies odor-breeding food particles and washes them away!

At the same time a soft, grit-free ingredient gently and safely cleans and brightens tooth enamel. Thus Colgate's assures you of cleaner, brighter teeth . . . and sweeter, purer breath.

DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK
If, after using one tube of Colgate's your teeth aren't brighter—your breath sweeter—send the empty tube to Colgate, Jersey City, N. J. We'll refund TWICE what you paid.

Wake Up that Sleepy Under Skin

with "Deep-Skin" cream

See outer skin lose
Lines, Blackheads, Blemishes

● Miss Constance Hall, of New York, says: "I use Pond's Cold Cream night and morning. It leaves my skin refreshed and glowing—keeps it clear, smooth and fine."

Skin Faults start Underneath!

Just below that dark layer begins the underskin where tiny oil and sweat glands, nerves, fibres and blood vessels nourish your outer skin—keep it firm, flawless. When they begin to fail, skin faults start. But Pond's "deep-skin" treatment can put fresh life into this failing underskin—keep skin faults away.

Which of these is YOURS?

1 LINES FADE when wasting under tissues are stimulated and fill out.

2 BLACKHEADS GO when clogging secretions from within the skin are removed, and underskin stimulation prevents further clogging of the pores.

3 BLEMISHES STOP coming when the blackheads that cause them are removed and new ones are prevented.

4 COARSE PORES REDUCE when kept free from pore-enlarging secretions that come from within the skin.

5 DRY SKIN SOFTENS when penetrating oils restore suppleness and failing oil glands grow active.

6 TISSUES WON'T SAG when underskin nerves and fibres are kept toned up and circulation is stimulated.

THE FIRST LINE that shows in your face . . . is a danger signal! A sign that right under it skin glands and nerves and cells are growing tired—getting sleepy.

Every blackhead that marks your skin means those same little glands underneath are overworked! Clogging your pores! Every blemish that bothers you began the same way.

That's true of almost all common skin faults. Coarse pores, sagging tissues, wrinkles—start coming when your underskin begins to slow.

BUT—you can waken that sleepy underskin! Start the circulation going briskly again! Stimulate those little glands and cells to full activity! Put new snap into fibres! Soon your outer skin blooms flawless.

What your underskin needs is the rousing action of Pond's "deep-skin" Cream. Pond's Cold Cream is made of fine, specially processed oils which don't stop halfway in the pores—they go deep. The first application flushes pores clean of every particle of dirt . . . make-up . . . skin secretions. At once your skin feels fresher, livelier. It actually looks many times clearer and smoother.

Mrs. Richard C. du Pont

lovely young Society sportswoman, holds many awards for her achievements as an aviator. Her skin is fair, fine-textured, unusually smooth, clear! She says: "Pond's Cold Cream does everything for my skin. After using it, my skin looks as if it never saw a speck of dirt in its life! And I never have a sign of a line or wrinkle or whatever happens to skin as it goes along."

Lady Helena Fitzwilliam

one of the most beautiful of London's younger set, says: "Pond's Cold Cream keeps my skin in perfect condition. It smooths out lines and blackheads. I depend upon it daily and would use no other."

How to stir up Underskin

Then you pat fresh Pond's Cold Cream right into your newly cleansed skin. Pat it briskly with your finger tips. Feel the blood coursing through! Every little nerve and gland and fibre is wakened by this treatment. Toned up. Invigorated! Your skin feels alive! . . . fresh and wide-awake!

Do this day after day—regularly—night and morning. The very first treatment makes your skin clearer—feel satiny. Soon little threatening lines begin to fade. Blackheads clear away. Blemishes stop coming. Once again your skin is firm—young! Its color blooms fresh again! Here's the simple method:

EVERY NIGHT, give your skin this double-benefit treatment . . . Pat in Pond's Cold Cream to flush out all dirt, make-up, skin impurities. Wipe off. Then—briskly—pat in more Pond's Cold Cream to invigorate your underskin—wake up tired skin glands, nerves and cells.

EVERY MORNING, and in the daytime before you make up, refresh and reawaken your skin with Pond's Cold Cream. Your skin will be smooth and satiny. Your powder will go on evenly—cling for hours.

Try this for just a few days—see what happens! Send for the special 9-treatment tube offered below. You'll always be glad of the day you started to use Pond's! Pond's Cold Cream is absolutely pure. Germs cannot live in it.

MAIL COUPON FOR Special 9-Treatment Tube
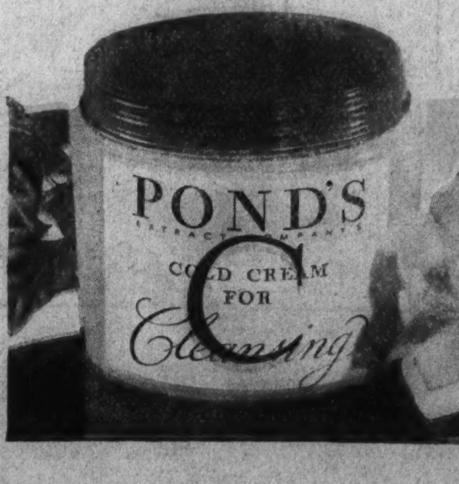
AND 3 OTHER POND'S BEAUTY AIDS



Begin to clear YOUR skin faults away . . .

POND'S, Dept. K, 34, Clinton, Conn.

I enclose 10¢ (to cover postage and packing) for special tube of Pond's Cold Cream, enough for 9 treatments, with generous samples of 2 other Pond's Creams and 5 different shades of Pond's Face Powder.

Job Interviews Are Your Biggest Chances; Make the Most of Them, Employers Advise

[This is the fifth of a series of articles to appear on Sundays carrying advice to job seekers. The articles are based on interviews with employers and others who are vitally interested in helping the unemployed sell their services in the best ways possible.]

Interviews are the high points in any campaign to get a job, allowing the full play of personality in the "self-salesmanship" attempt, but also imposing stiff tests upon nearly every quality in the job hunter. This is conceded by those whose business it is to interview thousands of men and women who want work.

"What to say and how to say it" is the target of suggestions from these personnel directors today. "Job hunters' jitters," which loom menacingly during many an interview, were discussed previously, and another important factor—appearance—will be the subject of next week's article.

Say Right Thing Quickly.

"When we consider the problem of 'what to say and how to say it,' we are thinking of the fact that the right thing must be said quickly," the employment manager of a public utility concern declared. "In writing a letter of application there is plenty of time for thought, but not during an interview.

"It all boils down to the need for looking ahead. The job hunter must ask himself the questions a prospective employer is likely to ask, and get the answers ready before he enters the interviewer's office. He can do this better if he tries to view things from the employer's angle.

"Then, when he faces the interviewer, he can take the initiative in presenting his qualifications, if the situation calls for this course of action on his part.

Straightforward Answers.

"And if the interviewer has a set order of questions, the applicant will be able to give straightforward answers, if he has made preparations. In our company we encourage applicants to do the talking, figuring we learn more about them that way when they are more at ease.

"Some applicants take the bit in their teeth and talk too much. Of course, they are not the best material, because they will probably talk too much after landing a job. Intelligent questions from the applicant are welcomed, and some applicants may guide their conversations by our answers to these.

"If we give an applicant the opportunity to talk freely, and he keeps his remarks within sensible bounds, making his statements brief and to the point, he has made a favorable impression.

Reluctance Arouses Suspicion.

"The applicant should not be reluctant to explain why he lost previous jobs—reluctance arouses suspicion. We know that the turnover has been heavy recently, and if it happens he was discharged for some fault of his own, it still is wise for him to tell us frankly. Generally speaking, it is not good strategy for an applicant to blame former employers for dismissals. Young men make more mistakes in talking about such incidents than do older workers."

This expert urged that job hunters review each day's efforts, pick out the flaws, and determine how to avoid a repetition.

"If an applicant has been given any encouragement at all, he should not neglect to go after 'follow up' interviews within a reasonable length of time," he said.

Keep a Notebook Record.

"I have had a number of men who made a practice of calling back on me to make sure they were not forgotten. Of course, if an applicant takes too much of a business man's time, he will not be welcome, so this is a point to be watched.

"Keeping a notebook record of these steps in looking for work is a good idea. However, in at least one case in my experience, this good idea was carried to extremes.

"The young man I am thinking about came in to talk to me a number of times. I was impressed by his earnestness. After a while, though, he got into the habit of pulling out his notebook upon entering my office and telling me everything I had said the last time we met, and just what he had said. The result was that he pushed his personality into the background and I became uncomfortable in his presence."

Don't Wait to Be Prodded.

Another employment manager for a large corporation said:

"Volunteer the proper information about yourself without waiting to be prodded, if the interviewer does not seem inclined to examine you as to your experience and education. This provides you with a good opportunity to 'put your best foot forward' if you know just what you want to say."

The representative of an oil company supplied several "don'ts" which he believed would be useful in dealing with any prospective employer. He said:

"Don't stress unusually heavy family responsibilities, if you have them, unless you are willing to stake your chances on the prospective employer's sympathy alone. He is thinking, as he must in this world of competition, in terms of efficient personnel; therefore, he may believe you will think more about family problems on the job than of your work. Remember, you are selling ability and character—not your worries.

Forget Big Pay of Past.

"Don't talk about the big salaries you received before the depression, if they are nowhere near the salary you would expect to get. The company may decide that you devote too much thought to your 'comedown' and that you are likely to be 'sour on the world.' They may also fear you would not put forth your best efforts for pay that is only a fraction of your former income.

"For somewhat similar reasons don't talk about the fortune your parents once possessed and lost. If you emphasize that your parents are still very well to do, your prospective employer may suspect that you are a spoiled child.

"Don't say anything that will give the interviewer the impression that you are prejudiced against any race, nationality, or religion. If he is a good business man—and most employers are—he will realize that prejudices on these subjects will neither help his business nor promote teamwork in his organization.

Don't Talk Too Much.

"Don't talk too much to the interviewer. It will be assumed you would do the same thing at your duties if you were employed."

Two employment managers made suggestions about the applicant's voice.

"Give some thought to the tone and inflection of your voice," said the representative of a State street department store. "It is essential that any one meeting the public should have a voice that is not irritating—neither shrill nor harsh. Use it carefully.

"The inflection of a voice can show interest, friendliness, and intelligence, or it can show sarcasm, sullenness, or dullness, just as plainly as words. I take the voice as a mirror of the applicant's thinking."

A man who hires employés for a small loans company said: "Tone and inflection must arouse interest. Rather than speak in a flat, listless way, put a touch of the dramatic in your voice to help the interviewer realize that you are fully alive."

[Next Sunday's article will take up what might be called "personality items," including clothing, cosmetics, and bearing.]

Broke 7 Weeks Ago! Now Makes $37 a Week.

Sounds like a fiction story? Maybe so, but it's being done here right along. This man had a wife and two children to support, and he had lost everything—that is, everything but his self-respect. He kept on trying, and one day answered an ad like this one. After he saw our invention he said, "You have an amazing mechanical product here. If other fellows are making a good living representing you I can do it, too. It ought to give any one a lot of confidence to handle anything as different and as interesting as this."

He was right. The next week his check was $32. The following week he made $37—and so on. Now he is really in the money and going strong. His list of prospects and friends is increasing, and we earnestly believe that inside of 30 days we can say he is making over $65 a week comm. regularly. Then, perhaps, a managership.

If you're up against a problem of making both ends meet—come in and see us. This electrical unit may mean your future security. See Personnel Director, 10 a. m. Monday.

NEW SAVINGS AND INCOME PLAN

We will immediately place nine men in an enviable position and an opportunity for a five year program of weekly cash earnings, plus a special plan which will guarantee to those who meet the tests a bank balance of several thousand dollars at the end of the period.

Naturally these men are going to be selected with great care. Yet we do not necessarily require men with any previous experience. Ages may be anywhere from 22 to 45. When those we choose have completed the five year program on the basis above outlined their future in this position will be assured. Inasmuch as this position begins in the sales department of a company making a most unusual electrical unit, those who have had some sales experience, or who believe they have a leaning to that line of work, will be given preference.

Applicants must be of neat appearance, and able to furnish substantial references—particularly in view of the fact that they will in the aggregate handle a considerable sum of money as time goes on. We prefer [though this is not essential] married men who are maintaining a home. Above all, we want only those who are serious minded about their future, and willing to give an honest day's work in return for this income producing opportunity.

The company for which you will work is known internationally. Last year was the greatest year in our history, and this year, to date, is ahead of last year.

There is no investment to be made. We are basing our selection on personality and record. And just in case we have not made ourselves entirely clear in this advertisement we wish to add right now that the income opportunity offered is immediate. There will be no long training or delay. Positions are waiting to be filled. If the experience of others is any indication, your percentages should make you about $45 a week to start.

One thing we do require above all else, and that is the ability of the men chosen to follow instructions. Our plan has been based on experience, and it is working. The men who work as we tell them to work will succeed in 99 cases out of 100. This is a straightforward offer of sincere intent to worthy men who are in need of a good substantial position. We have tried to state the facts clearly. Please do not apply for these positions unless you feel you can meet the requirements. Applicants will be personally interviewed at 4832 Lincoln-av., Room 210, Monday from 11 to 1 and 3 to 5.

Y-O-U-R O-W-N B-U-S-I-N-E-S-S

Would you be interested in starting in business for yourself without one cent of investment on your part?

Well, that is exactly what we have done for many men in this territory.

These men are previous storekeepers, doctors, lawyers, shop workers, mechanics, etc., and are now earning and receiving in percentage as much as $50 a single day.

We are an old line, nationally known manufacturer of electrical units that defy competition and for which there is a constant increasing demand.

Now here are our requirements—you must be under 50, preferably married, honest, reliable, possess a neat appearance, and possess at least a grammer school education.

At this time we will only interview men living on the South Side of Chicago, northern Indiana, and northeastern Illinois.

Every man answering this advertisement will be given a confidential interview and, if selected, will be trained at our expense in our methods, which are successful.

There are no strings attached to this offer as we even pay rent, light, heat, telephone, girl hire, consign your merchandise, and finance your accounts.

Apply Monday only between 1 and 3 p. m. Ask for Mr. Leonard, Suite 404, Maryland Bldg., 63d-st. and Maryland-av.

A FEW PERMANENT POSITIONS ARE now available in our Hoover department. New model just released for sale at $49.75. Many men making 5 to 8 sales per week. Protected territory and all store sales and leads furnished; promotion assured right man. Men must be over 23, neat appearing and own a car and furnish best of references. Generous commission paid in full each week. Apply 12th floor Employment Office, Mon. 10 to 11 or 1 to 2.

WHY
WE THINK YOU WILL BE HAPPY IN THE
"Second Best Place to Live"
THE BRYN MAWR
AT BRYN MAWR AND KENMORE.
[5600 NORTH.]
In our opinion the best place in which to live is a home of your own with all it has to offer; privacy, lots of room, sun light all the day long, a porch to sit on when nights are hot and sticky—shade trees, flowers and a green lawn that nature will soon cover up and "tuck in" for the winter.
The Bryn Mawr has none of these to offer but—knowing its limitations—it does have the following features to make up for the ones it lacks. Large 1, 2 and 3 rm. furn. and unfurn. apts. Separate kitchens, huge closets, new furn., new carpets, employes who are really interested in our guests; an excellent location: 1 blk. to Lake Mich. and 1 blk. to L and bus—and no taxes—no inter.—no mort. —no furnace to worry about—no fuel to buy —no gas bills—no elec. bills—no linens to buy or launder—no repair bills—no maid service to pay for.
All the above advantages from $45 up.
Three room apts. Furn. and unfurnished. Drop in or write for circular.

ON THE LAKE SHORE
IN EVANSTON.
It's rather nice to live in a house built high on a walled-in terrace where every room is flooded with sunlight and where the views to the north and south are over lawns and into woods, and to the east out over the colorful waters of Lake Michigan. A beautiful, secluded spot where you never feel lonesome or isolated, for it is right in the midst of Evanston and only 25 minutes by motor or train from Chicago's business district. A real retreat for a busy business man who cannot afford to spend much time commuting. 12 rooms, large living rooms, huge porches, garage with living quarters and everything that goes to make up a marvelous home. You may not believe it, but a pair of cardinal birds nest in the shrubbery and stay the year round. They like it.

NEAR NORTH SIDE
It's very nice when you close your desk at the end of the day to know that after a short, brisk walk just 5 blocks north of the river, you will come to a quaint little lamp-lighted court that makes you feel far away from Chicago, where up a winding stairway there's a charming little studio that—well you're glad you live there, that's all. It's great to have a little home with a fireplace, delightful to live in and interesting to your friends and that's what we try to give you. We are glad to make changes that you personally may suggest. The rent of one of our best studios is very reasonable if a lady portrait artist is allowed the use of the studio during the day on week-days only. One little sky parlor studio in the Italian court, $50. Also daytime studios and shop space.

Buy a "Rent Investment Home" and Save

The "RENT INVESTMENT PLAN" is a long term, fixed monthly payment plan of home purchasing worked out by the actuaries of a large national institution which for many years has specialized in the lending of money on moderately priced homes.

According to this plan, after a modest down payment has been made, the remaining unpaid balance is reduced over a period of 139 months by a series of equal monthly payments of $8.00 per thousand, including interest. At the end of the 139 month period, the unpaid balance has been reduced by 60%. 54% of the total monthly payments having been applied to principal.

No Financing Charges

There are no loan commissions or financing charges of any kind involved in the "RENT INVESTMENT PLAN."

The Time to Buy

Thousands of homes are being sold under this plan. Real estate prices are advancing steadily and the shortage of homes in the United States is rapidly becoming a national problem. The "RENT INVESTMENT PLAN" has removed the last obstacle from the path of "HOME OWNERSHIP" and you are urged to

Rich Fabrics Fashion Evening Gowns of High Individuality

By RHEA SEEGER.

WITH magic materials, materials that shimmer, gleam, or glisten by moonlight, starlight, and under the blazing lights of winter gala occasions, you will have for your winter wardrobe the most romantic of gowns and wraps. Metallic brocades as soft and supple as chiffon, velvets like liquid silver, golden lengths of metal cloths, lovely, feminine laces, and stiff taffetas that swish seductively as you dance or walk fashion the ultimate in dress parade gowns.

In the large group at the left . . . the most picturesque of evening capes, fashioned of yards of soft velvet, cut in a huge circular swirl, and lined with a velvet of contrasting color—in one case, scarlet for a black cape. It's practically reversible. The hood, also lined with velvet, is a new idea to keep your evening coiffure in curls. In the center, a typical picture book velvet gown, made to sweep around the ankles with subtle fullness. The deep drop shoulder yoke or bertha collar effect is lavishly studded with simulated jewels . . . sapphires and emeralds against a shining metal background.

At the right . . . a beautiful metal cloth gown, cut and fashioned to reveal every curve of the figure. It shimmers with color transposed over the gleaming metal fabric, and uses kolinsky fur for breath-taking lavish trimming. Below, at the left . . . thousands of twinkling crystal and rhinestone beads are sewn in the meshes and patterns of a cobweb-thin lace evening gown of superlative grace and beauty. The skirt is full, and plaited in sunburst formation. It is worn over a gleaming satin sheath slip that enhances the flattering loveliness of the delicate lace. The bodice is softly draped and also beaded. Over it, the soft folds of an ermine evening cape that reaches the hipline and curves softly up in front.

At the right . . . the glorified evening suit or ensemble of pale metal cloth as soft and seductive as chiffon. The long, trailing skirt of the slim, clinging dress is slit at the back and ends in three slender trains. The fitted, short peplum jacket has long, light sleeves that end well down on the hand and a gorgeous face-framing collar of fox.

By MARY MEADE.

IF the young goblins at your house are planning a big evening this week, with jack-o'-lanterns for "scairing," and tick-tacks, if the more sedate members of the family are going to unbend for a little apple-bobbing—in short, if you're going in for any traditional Halloween activity you're sure to be thinking about food! Wandering fantoms (probably ruining your best sheets!) cultivate healthy appetites not at all in keeping with their eerie appearance or disembodied shrieks. Indoor revels, as well, and all sorts of informal fun making serve to work up an enthusiasm for eating entirely unbecoming to bona fide ghosts and "sperrits."

If the annual merrymaking begins at your house at dinner time, a Hobgoblin Cocktail, with its bright jack-o'-lantern face, makes a cheerful beginning. Jack-o'-Lantern Pie is a timely and delicious finish to the same meal.

These Will Enliven the Party.

More likely you are merely pondering over the possibilities for evening refreshments. Whether your party is for youngsters or grownups, these are assured a hilarious reception: Chocolate caramel apples, at once firm and chewy; a chilly cider sherbet; chocolate doughnuts or old-fashioned brownies, or honest-to-goodness homemade taffy. If you're looking for something special in the way of a sweet, try popcorn balls, hollowed out to hold a gay cache of orange and chocolate mint patties, or serve plain popcorn balls from a huge pumpkin basket. These specific recipes may help you to get set for the party you're planning.

HOBGOBLIN COCKTAIL.

Use one small, thick skinned orange for each person. Cut off the top, leaving a good sized opening. Remove the center as much in sections as is possible, and cut in pieces. Combine these whole pieces of orange with chopped, unpeeled apple, chopped dates, and ground English walnuts. Blend with a little whipped cream mayonnaise and pile back into the orange cups. With a sharp pointed knife cut a jack-o'-lantern grimace into the top of the orange which was sliced off, and replace the cap. This trick pumpkin may be served preceding a meal, as a salad or as the main dish at a children's party.

Pie Adopts Halloween Motif.

JACK-O'-LANTERN PIE.

1 package orange flavored gelatin	1 baked 9 inch pie shell
1 pint water	4 marshmallows, quartered
Dried currants	16 pecan halves.
8 halves canned apricots, drained

Dissolve the gelatin in hot or warm water, according to the manufacturer's directions, and chill. Meanwhile press currants into the rounded side of each apricot half to make the eyes, nose, and mouth of a jack-o'-lantern face, and arrange in a baked pie shell, face side up. When the gelatin is slightly thickened, pour over the apricots, being careful not to disarrange the fruit. Arrange border of alternate marshmallow quarters and pecan halves on gelatin, and chill until firm.

CHOCOLATE CARAMEL APPLES.

2 cups sugar	3 tablespoons butter
½ cup corn sirup	2 squares unsweetened chocolate
¾ cup evaporated milk	1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ cup water

Measure all of the ingredients, except the vanilla, into a saucepan, mix thoroughly, and cook until a test forms a firm ball in cold water (246 degrees F.). Remove from heat, cool slightly, and add the vanilla. Stick skewers into clean, firm apples, dip in the caramel mixture, and whirl several times to insure a thorough and even coating. Cool on waxed paper.

Doughnuts Take to Chocolate.

CHOCOLATE DOUGHNUTS.

3 eggs	4 teaspoons double acting baking powder
1¼ cups sugar	1 teaspoon salt
3 squares unsweetened chocolate	1 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
4 cups sifted flour

Beat the eggs until fluffy and whip in the sugar gradually. Blend with the melted chocolate and vanilla, and add the flour (sifted with the baking powder and salt) alternately with the milk, beating well after each addition. Roll one-third inch thick and cut with floured, medium cutter. Fry in deep fat at 385 degrees F. for 3 or 4 minutes, or until done, turning frequently. Drain on unglazed paper and sprinkle with powdered sugar. This recipe makes four dozen medium sized doughnuts.

CIDER SHERBET.

1½ cups sweet cider	2 tablespoons sugar
2 dozen marshmallows	2 egg whites
2 tablespoons lemon juice	⅛ teaspoon salt

Add three-quarters cup of the cider to the marshmallows and melt over hot water, stirring frequently. When the mixture is smooth and fluffy, add the rest of the cider with the lemon juice and half the sugar. Cool until partly jellied. Whip the eggs until stiff, adding the remaining sugar and salt, and fold this into the marshmallow mixture. Pour into a refrigerator tray and freeze as rapidly as possible.

OLD-FASHIONED BROWNIES.

5 egg yolks	1¾ cups sifted cake flour	1 cup heavy sour cream
1⅓ cups sugar	½ teaspoon soda	1 cup broken nut meats
2 squares unsweetened chocolate	1 teaspoon salt	1 teaspoon vanilla

Beat the egg yolks until thick and lemon colored, and gradually beat in sugar. Blend with carefully melted chocolate. Sift the dry ingredients together and add alternately with the cream, beating well after each addition. Add the nut meats and vanilla. Turn into tiny greased cup cake pans, filling them about two-thirds full. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees F., for 15 to 20 minutes. Yield: About four dozen small cakes.

Paris Designs a Suit for Both Day and Evening

New Ensemble Practical for Afternoon, Elegant for After Six Festivities.

By Bettina Bedwell.

PARIS. — [Special.] — The most spectacular fashions of this wintry season are those they call here in Paris "daytime-evening clothes." They are clothes that are good both in daylight and after nightfall. They are one hundred per cent Paris, in the real sense of the word, and fancy runs sky high in making them.

Suits of heavy cloky with skirts that are ankle length in back and draped up to show considerable shapely legs in front, have deeply low cut bodices under fitted jackets, and hats that are feather pinwheels whirling around the head. Suits made of brocade striped 'round and 'round with blazing colors, and worn with fur tipped helmets, come in this class of styles. There are suits with dizzy sleeves of monkey fur shooting in all directions and, in fact, suits, suits, and suits. Some people call these "midnight suits" to set them apart from suits that have the run of the town only in daylight.

Even Simplest Ensemble Has Some Exaggerated Feature.

Some of them are only courtesy suits, for they combine a draped fur cape and heavily draped, day-length frock. They are, whatever you call them, the big thing in styles for playtime hours of adult women. They get their chic from the Parisienne's love of individuality, and even the simplest have some exaggerated feature, if it's no more than a cabbage size flower, or a jeweled girdle heavy enough to weigh down a slim waistline, or a hat with foot-length feathers on it.

These daytime-evening clothes will make fine feathers to wear during the coming holiday season, and the way they sidestep either the strict day or purely evening class makes them adaptable to more varied parties than either of the other types of dress-up clothes. Famous Parisiennes like Baronne Eugene de Rothschild, Princess Sixte de Bourbon, Mrs. Fellowes, and such women are making these ensembles boom in Paris. Members of New York's Famous Forty, such as Mrs. Vincent Astor, are taking them home to wear in rarefied social atmospheres, and such Hollywood stars as stop here to buy clothes—Grace Moore, Helen Vinson, and the rest—are falling for them, too. In short, the daytime-evening mode is a smash hit.

Dark Colors Invariably Used for Daytime, Evening Clothes.

The girl or woman who has to think twice before she splurges on a real evening gown finds this kind of clothes the answer to most of her festive frock needs. I have ordered a day-evening ensemble and expect to live in it in my hours of ease this winter. So have many other women who want to be chic and whose lives are lived in a hurry.

The materials that are used to make these suits and ensembles are not too dressy, of course. They come in cloky, in velvet, in wool, and in satin combined with fur. They are chosen in dark colors, invariably. These dark shades, however, are often rich variants of red, violet, green, or blue.

A hat that is both daring and dressy is a necessary part of the ensemble that is to be worn both for day and evening. If the model chosen is a suit, a blouse will also be essential. A low cut one is the best choice. A simple handbag, rather on the small side, and quite dressy, and slippers of suede or satin or even patent leather will complete the day-evening suit.

Riotous Monkey Fur Relieves Tailored Severity.

Many of these suits have accompanying muffs, as the Mainbocher suit No. 1. This suit is made of brown taffeta-velvet, with a green undertone, and it is tailored in effect, except for the brown monkey fur sleeves that fly every which way and the big monkey fur muff. The jacket fastens up to a turnover collar, and has a bolero that ties surplicewise around the waistline. The skirt has Mainbocher's new back-flared movement, done with full godets at the center back. A simple, low cut satin blouse is placed under the jacket. The small hat of brown velvet has winglike pieces at the sides.

Robert Piguet's black cloky suit shown on figure No. 2 is extremely daring. It has two jackets. One, with short sleeves, is shown here. The other, which is not pictured, is cut the same way, but has long sleeves. Both fasten with diamond buttons. The skirt is draped up to the knees in front over a starched, plaited, lace petticoat, and the low cut blouse is made chiefly of plaited black lace, with straps and girdle of the black silk cloky. The hat is merely a halo, covered with osprey feathers, and closely resembling a pinwheel in motion.

Molyneux Makes Suit for Woman of Dignified Years.

No. 3 shows a Molyneux ensemble, which has a long skirt, and which is conservative and has the grand chic, for a woman of the dignified years. The dress and jacket are made of a deep, brownish red velvet, and both are of the traditional Molyneux simplicity. The frock is shirred at the waistline, and buttons down the back of the blouse. It has long sleeves. Two touches of extravagance are the enormous shaded red to rose chrysanthemum at the neckline and the enormous mink muff. The loose jacket has full length revers and simple sleeves. A velvet toque is banded with mink and has two mink tails hanging from the right side.

No. 4 combines a draped frock and an astrakhan cape and hat, all in dark blue. The dress is made of crêpe de chine, and has sleeves that are draped spirally on a fitted lining. The blouse is simple and the skirt is wrapped around and draped across the front at the hipline. The cape is hiplength and circular. It is worn draped as shown, in the operatic tenor fashion.

Etiquet Bars Public Display of Bad Habits

Ugly Gestures and Matters of Toilette Should Be Confined to Privacy.

By Helen Bartlett.

Miss Bartlett will be glad to answer questions pertaining to etiquet and correct social behavior. For a personal reply, enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your letter.

IT is a source of perpetual amazement how persons, both men and women, of apparent taste and discretion can continue to harbor some of the hideous unlovely gestures that now and then they are seen to display. How frequently in this everyday life of ours we see well dressed, smart looking persons who seem to have enough pride in themselves and their families to want to maintain a fairly high standard, but who break down all the outward signs of good taste by a single exhibition of ugly manners. Their behavior may be perfect in other respects, but all that is forgotten when they make themselves such objects of criticism.

For instance, the other day, on a north side bus, we saw a good looking, well dressed woman seated comfortably next to the window. She was good looking, until she opened her mouth and began exploring her teeth. Quite oblivious of all those around her in the crowded vehicle and to the fact that all eyes literally were glued to her one-man show, she carefully held her little mirror up before her, pulled her mouth all out of shape with her searching maneuvers, and then, with her finger nail, conducted an excavation between each and every tooth. Ugly even to read about.

Manicuring Decidedly Bad Taste Executed in a Public Place.

How there happened to be two on the same bus I don't know, because that's a pretty high percentage. Sitting directly in front of the indelicate person was an equally attractive young woman manicuring her finger nails. First she cleaned them, without missing a crevice. And then she filed them, neatly shaping each to a graceful curve and holding it up for minute inspection.

That reminds us of the girl mentioned by June Provines. The young woman applied liquid polish to her nails on her trip to the loop via the "L." I cannot help but admire the dexterity required to accomplish such a feat on a swaying, bumping elevated train, since most women demand absolute peace and quiet to do this job successfully. But not this girl. It must have required a great deal of concentration and practice, too, and certainly contributed to the entertainment of her fellow passengers.

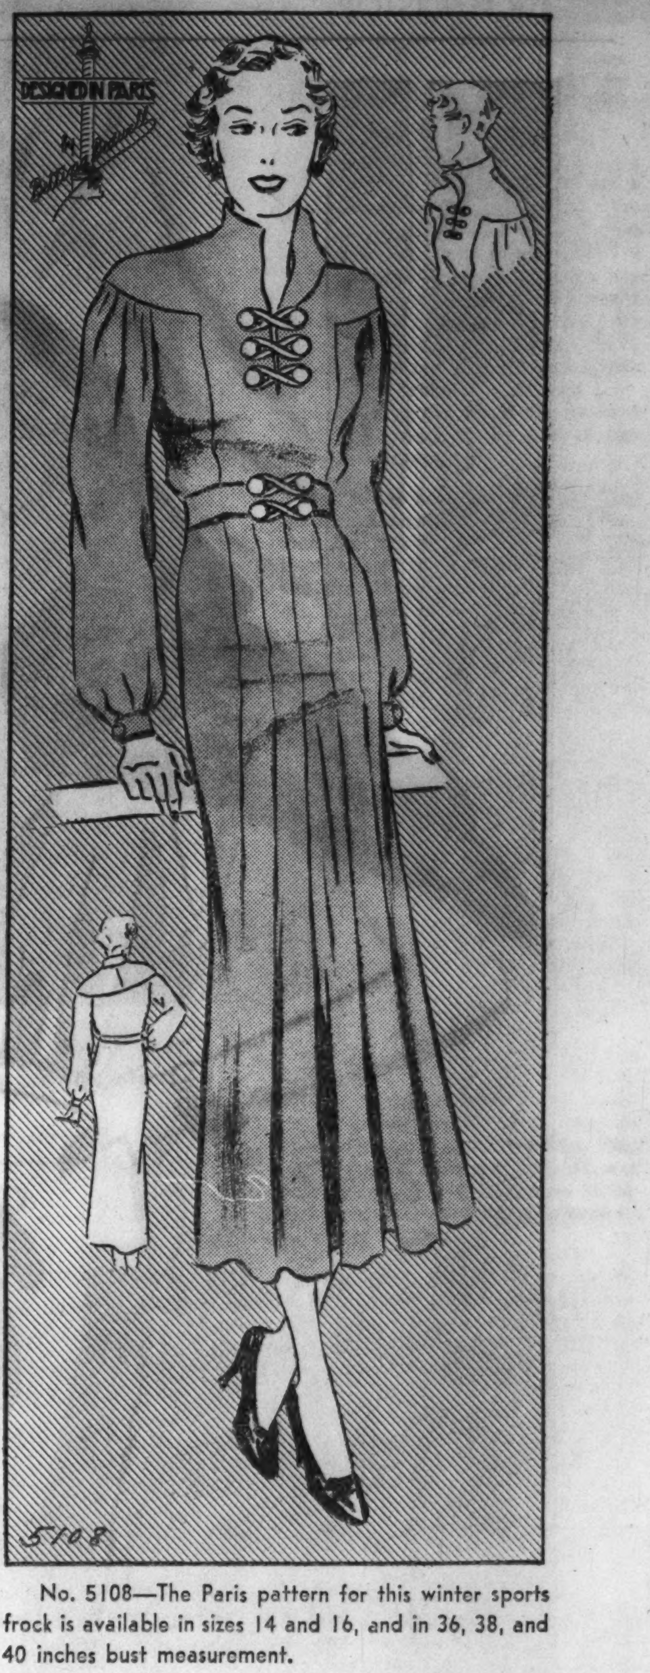
Then another personal observation. It was at the World's Fair in Chicago. That was a long time ago, I know, but it was so spectacular that not a single motion has escaped my memory. The subject was a woman again, seated on a bench along one of the promenades, and weary with walking. So far all right. But while she was resting she was contributing to her self-improvement. In her left hand she held her mirror. And with her right hand she attempted to pluck numerous whiskers from her chin, holding her head up and extending her jaws in order to get the best lighting effects. Two or three quick, snappy jerks and she had it!

It is fortunate that observers of exhibitions such as these have a sense of humor, otherwise there might be a few more names added to the list of homicides.

Paris Pattern Winter Sports Frock Has Fashionable Frogs



No. 5108—The Paris pattern for this winter sports frock is available in sizes 14 and 16, and in 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement.

By Bettina Bedwell.

PARIS.—[Special.]—This frock is made to order to go to the games and out in the coldest winter weather, to wear under your winter coat, jacket, or what have you. It is easy to make, and you should make it of brightly colored wool. Why not vivid red, or one of the new greens such as peacock, or an equally lively blue sapphire? Choose a wool with a firm weave, and naturally not exceptionally heavy in weight, but if you want warmth, choose angora wool. The amusing tailored collar finishes above three frogs, which you can make at home with six cloth covered or bone buttons and some braid, made into double loops. Frogs, as you know, are the most fashionable fastenings this season. You can make your own belt and close it on two of these frogs, and the cuffs of the soft sleeves may be closed in the same way.

The skirt has the popular front fullness, done with plaits that are stitched down to the hips, and released below. The rounded yoke is flattering and also a fashionable detail.

Three American Airwomen Campaign for Route Marks

THREE of America's well known airwomen, Louise Thaden of Little Rock, Ark.; Nancy Harkness of Boston, Mass., and Helen McCloskey of Pittsburgh, Pa., have been retained by the bureau of air commerce to travel about the United States in a campaign to have all towns and cities adequately route marked with their names as an aid to airmen.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, Oct. 28.

Continue to get all bulbs planted, for delay only makes the work difficult in cold weather. Use some of the tulip species in the rock garden. Their brilliant colors, hardiness, and comparatively low habit, make them desirable. Most bulbs prefer a sandy soil, in fact, the sandier the better if plenty of plant food is given. Plant the narcissus or daffodils four inches deep, hyacinths three to five inches deep, darwins and other tulips four to six inches deep, with the early, bedding sorts about three to five inches.

Tuesday, Oct. 29.

Increase the supply of hardy garden roses from rooted cuttings. Take cuttings of the current season's growth ,allowing three eyes or buds to each cutting. Tie each variety in a bundle and bury outdoors until midwinter, after which they should be placed in sand in flats. The lower bud must be in the sand about an inch. Pack the sand tightly about the stem. Roots should appear in about three weeks. Later, the rooted cuttings should be transplanted into flats of good soil.

Wednesday, Oct. 30.

Remove the green scum from old pots before using again. Simply scrub them with warm water and a little sand. Mulch the raspberries, blackberries, gooseberries, and currants. Straw placed between the rows of strawberry plants will protect them. Take cuttings of all bedding plants if they are desired and have not frozen. There is usually a derth of suitable material, and a little extra will do no harm.

Thursday, Oct. 31.

To protect climbing roses, lay the plants on the ground and cover over with five to six inches of soil. An additional mulch may be placed on top of the soil for further protection. In the planting scheme do not neglect to include a few hardy vines for they are among the finest of all plants to use as screens. Among them are the Virginia creeper, clematis paniculata, jackmani—the purple flowered sort—trumpet vine, silver cross vine, and wisteria.

Friday, Nov. 1.

Why not lure the birds by planting a few berried shrubs? These are suggested: Japanese barberry, cornelian cherry, bush honeysuckle, matrimony vine, tartarian honeysuckle, staghorn sumac, mountain ash [small tree], snowberry, Indian currant, wild grapes [vine], weigelia, dogwood, spicebush, and chokeberry.

Saturday, Nov. 2.

Spade up the entire garden, both flower and vegetable sections, rebuild all elements that are intended to be changed, and gain a year. Fall spaded ground will enable the gardener to plant much sooner than if he waits until spring.

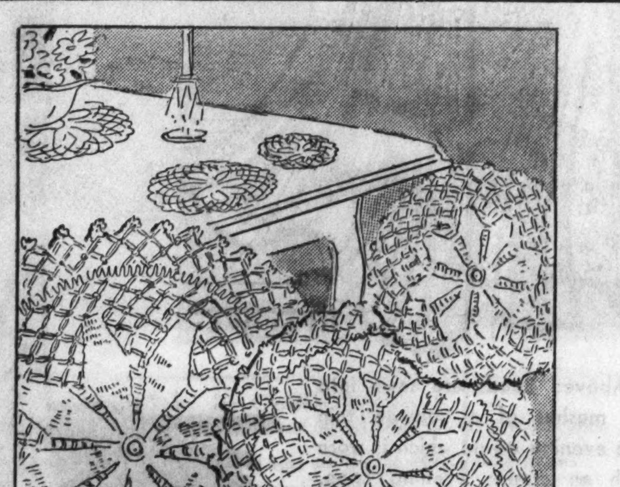
Crochet Doilies Perfect Service for Table of Gleaming Surface



By Ellen Bruce.

NO luncheon or bridge refreshment table is its hostess' pride and joy unless it is decked out with accessories which she deems the smartest she can find. If these accessories are the creations of her own handiwork she may be justifiably proud of their beauty.

Fashion sponsors crochet doilies for use under dishes, since their daintiness allows the beautiful finish of the table to be on display, which is not possible when one employs an entire cloth. These lacy mats are created in three sizes, two for dishes, and the large one for a centerpiece. They are made of mercerized crochet cotton. The original is a pastel yellow, which harmonizes beautifully with walnut or mahogany finishes. Ivory, white, ecru, pastel greens, peach, blue, and rose are equally enchanting. The pattern appears to be intricate, which enhances the loveliness of the pieces, but the design is really most simple.

If you wish instructions for crocheting the round table doilies in the love knot and star pattern illustrated today, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to Ellen Bruce, Chicago Tribune; or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower lobby.

Snapshots from Paris

● Hand bags made of quilted leather that looks like cloky silk, and mounted with heavy carved gold frames, are charming and chic dressy accessories.

● Black and dark blue ensembles worn in Paris are given a flash of color by red gloves and bags—or sometimes green or golden yellow.

● The beach styles along the Mediterranean and at Biarritz reveal the beach dress as more fashionable than either pajamas or shorts, and the banishment entirely of the halter blouse. Look out for this for Palm Beach.

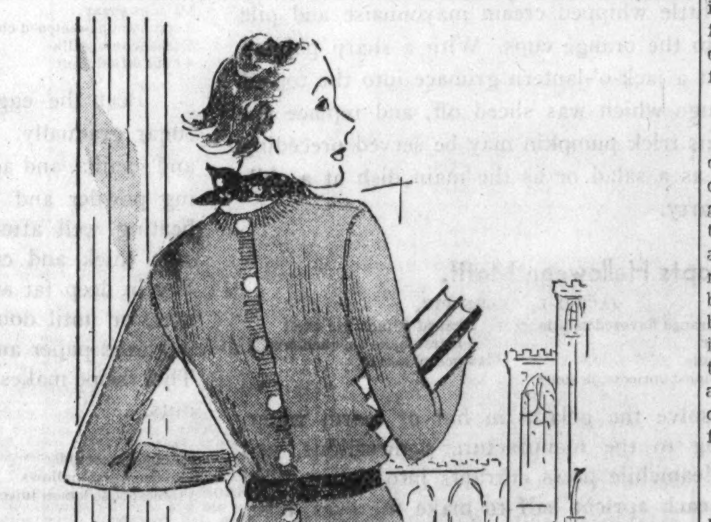
Fashion Orders Buttons for the Hand Knit Blouse This Winter

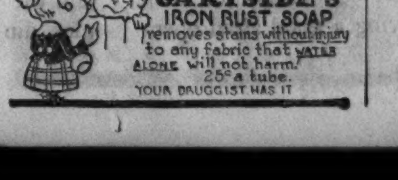


By Jean Macdonald.

WINTER is just around the corner, but it is nothing to become excited about if one has a chic hand knitted blouse accompanying that new winter suit. The model shown today will fit that need perfectly.

Women these days are both knitting and button conscious. Buttons down the back are a part of at least one garment in the feminine hand knitted wardrobe.

Today's blouse is one which is strikingly simple, done in a plain knitting stitch. The only touch of decoration is the buttons for the back fastenings. Colors and yarns may be selected according to personal taste, although heavy wools are not recommended, because if this blouse is not worn with a winter suit it is ideal as the lightweight under member of a twin sweater set. Vicuna, saxony, zephyr, crêpe, or two-ply angora are highly suitable. Many manufacturers offer varieties of fine yarns under their particular trade names which are delightfully soft and easy to work with, yet not expensive.



FULL VALUE FOR THE BUYER

The cheap can never serve the buyer solely by its newness.

The pleasure of owning the new is not enough. The primary value in the articles we buy is how well they serve.

Emphasis on this benefit to the buyer distinguishes the offers in Tribune want ads.

Mother Who Works Is Faced by Vital Decision

Must Codify Her Values, Devote Leisure to Activities That Matter Most.

By Gladys Huntington Bevans.

"DEAR MRS. BEVANS: Just to even things up a bit, perhaps you would like to hear from a mother whose children do not make her nervous and who has never felt they were a 'problem' in any sense of the word. To be frank, I thoroughly enjoy them every minute and I hope [and believe] that they enjoy me. We have grand times together, and I try not to think of the future when they will no longer be with me.

"They are not angelic nor young prigs—anything but. They are both boys—now 18 and 14—and they are disinclined to wash themselves, to comb their hair [the 18 year old is now getting over that] and their table manners leave much to be desired. But they have the most interesting ideas, and say such charming things that I am really inclined to think that life is a bowl of cherries, after all.

"I am a working mother—it is a long time since I have been at home constantly with the children. Off and on, of course, when they were little; but pretty steadily from the time they were 3 and 7, I have been at work. Sometimes when I come home in the evening, the house looks pretty messy—whose house wouldn't? But we all pitch in together and get things done.

"A mother who works has to have a different set of values. It is pretty important for her to make up her mind what is necessary and what is not. Music and reading aloud together and time for stimulating conversations are all necessary. In our house the dishes are never allowed to stand over night, either, but quite frequently the beds are not made until we are ready to retire. I might add that I bake my own bread because we all like it better than the store kind. [They say one will always find time to do the things one likes to do, and I like baking.]"

The working mother has her hands full with her triple job — that of breadwinner and parent and homemaker rolled into one. At one time in the past she was the exception. Today her number is legion. Any one of a number of things—the depression, divorce, death, illness—has forced her to carry a heavy burden. Nothing but devotion and the endurance that the human race has demanded of mothers could give her the ability to swing the triple job.

Now we all know that there's more than one way of carrying your responsibilties. They can be carried as a dead weight—a burden bearing you down. Or they can be carried with an absence of self-pity which makes it possible to stride through life with a sense of "lift" and enjoyment—provided, of course, you are a strong, well woman. It would be ignoring reality not to admit that there are conditions of ill health, or marital unhappiness, or desperate financial straits which make it possible for some women to carry on only with a dogged gritting of teeth.

But most working mothers are not so unhappily placed as that. Many of them have the combination of job and children that the writer of this letter has, but instead of enjoying life they allow themselves to be weighted down by it.

This is not necessary, especially when one's boys and girls are past little childhood. Of course you get terribly tired at times—and weary and cross. You're only human. But with a real interest and delight in your children these times will be only occasional, and you will feel almost always a glow of anticipation when you look forward to the end of each working day—like the mother in the letter quoted.

By Clotilde.

PATTERN No. 2999 offers a practical solution to the all-purpose daytime dress for cold weather. The simple and tailored lines of this dress are admirably styled for thin woolen fabrics.

The original of this model was created in lightweight green woolen, and black velvet ribbon was used for contrast. The sleeves, long and full above the elbows, are stiched in plaits over the shoulders to the neckline.

Thin brown woolen, in combination with ginger brown satin crêpe, is another effective suggestion for this indispensable frock. Should one choose to fashion it in silk instead of in wool, black novelty crêpe may be employed smartly, with red as contrast.

Style No. 2999 is designed for sizes 14, 16, and 18 years, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 3⅛ yards of 39 inch material, with ½ yard of 35 inch contrasting.

Clothes conscious? Of course you are! And the autumn and winter edition of The Chicago Tribune Book of Clotilde Fashions is right on time to guide your seasonal wardrobe to the latest in style. Coats, day and evening frocks, indispensable tips on fabrics and colors, and fashion news for the youngest set, all are presented in this fascinating volume, now on sale for 15 cents, 10 cents when ordered with a pattern. Address Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Station, NEW YORK CITY; or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

THE STAMP COLLECTOR

By Richard McP. Cabeen

Mr. Cabeen will answer questions about stamps, except concerning value. Do not ask where stamps may be sold as the Postage Stamps and Coins advertising section adjoining contains offers to buy and sell. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

IN October, 1908, Postmaster General George von L. Meyer announced a new issue of stamps in which the designs would be simplified and unified with a view to improving the artistic effect.

The series of 1902, it will be remembered, had been designed for an identical reason, but in that case a nearly uniform set of stamps had been abandoned for one in which every stamp was differently ornamented, or overornamented, as the proponents of the new issue claimed. Underlying all of the published reasons was the suggestion of the director of the bureau of engraving and printing that a design for stamps could be made which would increase the life of the plates and thus greatly reduce the cost of production.

Series Consisted of Eleven Values.

The series, as announced, consisted of eleven values, 1 cent to 6 cents, inclusive; 8 cents, 10 cents, 15 cents, 50 cents, and 1 dollar. Due to various changes in rates there was little demand at the moment for $2 and $5 stamps, and they were omitted from the series. One additional value made its appearance in the set when the 13 cent stamp was included to cover the postage on foreign registered letters of minimum weight.

All of the stamps of the series were to bear a profile from the Houdon portrait bust of Washington, except the 1 cent value, which would show a portrait of Franklin, in keeping with the custom of so honoring our first postmaster general. The 2 cent carmine stamp made its appearance on Nov. 16, 1908, and was followed by the 1 cent green on Dec. 3 of the same year.

At once it was noticed that the value on these stamps was expressed in words only, even though the universal postal union conventions required that the values be shown in numerals. The criticism on this point caused a change to be made in the designs for the other values, but the 1 cent and 2 cent stamps continued to appear in the original design until 1912.

Omission of Statesmen the Cause of Criticism.

Considerable criticism was directed at this issue on account of the omission of the various statesmen who had usually been honored, and this had an important bearing on the Lincoln commemorative stamp issued in 1909. All of the values of the series were in use by the end of January, 1909, and continued without change until the printers abandoned the paper watermarked with the double lined U S P S in favor of a paper with a smaller watermark late in 1910.

Succeeding articles will describe the various changes which this issue underwent before it was supplanted by a new design in 1922, which causes it to be a stumbling block for almost every collector.

Big Exhibition Due.

With the coincidence that National Philatelic week and the annual Chicago Hobby show fall on the same dates, Nov. 4 to 10, inclusive, O. C. Lightner has a flying start on other organizations which are planning exhibitions and get-together meetings for the week. A great exhibition is promised at this year's show, with the Chicago Cover club, the Chicago Airmail society, and the Universal Ship Cancelation society [Moffat chapter] participating. The Hobby show is a great place to take the family, for there is something of interest for each member, especially if they will not look at stamps.

Air Stamp Catalog.

A new catalog of airpost stamps has just been published by Nicholas Sanabria of New York City. This takes the place of a similar catalog published annually by the Scott Stamp and Coin company. All stamps issued for airmail purposes are illustrated and described, and the number of stamps is given for many of the rarer varieties. Prices are given for stamps off cover based on current market quotations. This book of over 400 pages contains, in addition to the stamp listings, a description of each country, and historical sketches of the airmail service and principal flights. It is priced at $1.50.

Club Notes.

A local branch of the National Plate Block society is in the process of formation in Chicago. This most recent of the national organizations is growing rapidly and at present has chapters in New York City and in New Kensington and Allentown, Pa. The society offers many new and helpful services to collectors interested in plate and position blocks of United States stamps, and invites those interested to communicate with W. H. Bradfield, 620 York place, Chicago.

The first annual exhibition of the Tri-County Stamp club will be held on Friday, Nov. 1, in the basement hall of the public library of Evansville, Wis. A representative display of United States stamps, including postage, revenue, and many side lines will reward collectors and others who attend. All are welcome.

Newcomers to the Bulletin Board are the Wilson "Y" Stamp clubs—senior and junior—which meet each Friday at 7:45 p. m. at the Wilson Avenue Y. M. C. A., Wilson and Hermitage avenues.

The regular meeting of the Chicago Woman's Stamp club, on Friday, Oct. 25, will take the form of a card and bunko party, Harding hotel, 19 North Clark street, parlors A and B, 8 p. m.

Cachet Notices.

Bescovers, 3021 Pressman street, Baltimore, Md., will sponsor a cachet for closing day of the California Pacific International exposition, San Diego, Cal., on Nov. 11. Send covers ready to go, including 1 cent forwarding fee for each, to reach the sponsor by Nov. 2.

The Association of Commerce will sponsor a cachet to be affixed in connection with the dedication of the new half million dollar postoffice building at Decatur, Ill. This event is scheduled for about the first week of November, and collectors should send their covers at once. Have them stamped and addressed, but unstuffed and unsealed.

A FRIEND IN NEED

If you are in need, perhaps I can help you. If you have household articles or clothing you no longer use, please let me place them with needy families. Address correspondence to Sally Joy Brown, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago.

By Sally Joy Brown.

ALBERT'S letter seems to be a typical example of "When a feller needs a friend." He writes: "Dear Miss Brown: We are a group of boys 11 years old. We have a big field on our street. Our fathers are out of work. We would like a football if your readers have one. We would like to have a team, but we could not play without a football. Yours truly, ALBERT L."

If you have one you'd like to send these youngsters I'll be glad to furnish the address.

Mr. H. has been listed in our files for some time and I'm anxious to provide for him before the really cold weather sets in. A bank failure dealt the first blow, and since that time Mr. H., now 60 years old, has had much sorrow. He was able to obtain temporary work as a shipping clerk, but now is unemployed. He is in need of a suit, size 34, and will be glad to call for it.

From a man with a similar need: "Dear Miss Brown: I am a former business man, 58 years old, and out of work. I am sorely in need of some winter underwear; shirts, 44; drawers, 42, and socks, size 11. I wonder if you can possibly help me in this respect, because I do not know where in the world to turn. Candidly, it is sickening to have to ask your help, but what can a man do? "C. R. C."

Mr. L. has been ill for the last seven years. He now is in an institution and hopes soon to be transferred to another where he may be able to improve more rapidly. His requirements are a suit, size 37, and an overcoat, size 38. Since he is unable to travel, clothing will have to be mailed to him.

"Dear Miss Brown: I am an unemployed mechanic, 51 years old, married. I have been out of work since the first of the year, but feel that my search for employment might be more successful if I had presentable clothing. At present I have only an old sweater coat and a worn pair of trousers full of patches. I don't even own a suit coat. I would be extremely grateful for a suit, size 40; shoes, 7½, and a top coat or overcoat. J. W."

Mr. W. will be glad to call for clothing offered.

Surely some mother can supply some baby clothing for a pair of needy twins. Mrs. N. has a boy and a girl 4 months old and is unable to afford sufficient clothing for them. Her husband earns a very small salary, which provides only necessities for his family.

H. M. writes of his need: "I have been a relief client for about two years and during that time, particularly last winter, I have tried vainly to obtain a soft coal heater. We are living in a basement flat with only a cooking stove to furnish heat. Our four small children play on the floor much of the time when cold weather forces them indoors. Do you think you could help me to obtain a soft coal heater and possibly a rug?"

Don't Be Fat!

"DRINK 4 GLASSES OF WELCH'S DAILY — EAT SENSIBLY —THAT'S ALL!"

says IRENE RICH
Lovely Lady of the Screen

Doctors' tests now show that you can safely, easily lose fat the Welch way—without strict diet or exercise. Simply mix ¾ Welch's with ¼ glass plain water. Drink a glassful before every meal and one before retiring. Then eat sensibly—that's all! Weight goes down; you actually build quick new energy at same time. So you soon look—and feel—better!

The reason is simple. For the grape sugar in delicious Welch's Grape Juice is the same kind the blood uses for energy. It is quickly, easily burned. Not only helps the body burn up fat, but also satisfies craving for rich, sweet foods. Hence, helps you lose weight naturally. Get Welch's from your dealer today. Drink 4 glasses a day—eat sensibly. Keep fatigue and fat away.

Beware of Cheap Substitutes

Get only genuine Welch's. Certified-Pure, Pasteurized; contains no adulterants, no artificial coloring, no added water. Always full strength. Can be diluted and still be delicious. Hence Welch's goes farther, too.

Irene Rich, past 40, still has her slim, lovely figure of 16.

DIRECTIONS FOR TAKING WELCH'S
by DR. FREDERIC DAMRAU, 247 Park Ave., New York

Welch's Grape Juice is a wonderful blood, body builder. Gives buoyant energy. Drink all you want between meals—follow directions below for specific uses.

FOR REDUCING WEIGHT Eat sensibly—drink a glass of Welch's (3 parts to 1 part water) before meals and before retiring. If faint between meals, drink another glass.

FOR GROWING CHILDREN Give them ½ glass of Welch's at end of lunch and dinner—between meals, too, instead of sweets. Give undiluted to help build red blood, strong bones and teeth.

FOR TIRED, DULL FEELING When fatigued, drink Welch's (3 parts to 1 part water). Quickly restores energy and relieves fatigue.

FOR EXPECTANT MOTHERS Drink glass of Welch's (3 parts to 1 part water) after lunch and dinner, or between meals when energy is low. Helps build blood, bones and teeth for the child. Excellent for nursing mothers, too.

QUICK NEW ENERGY FOR MEN, WOMEN, CHILDREN!

Modern Design Gives the Small House Dignity

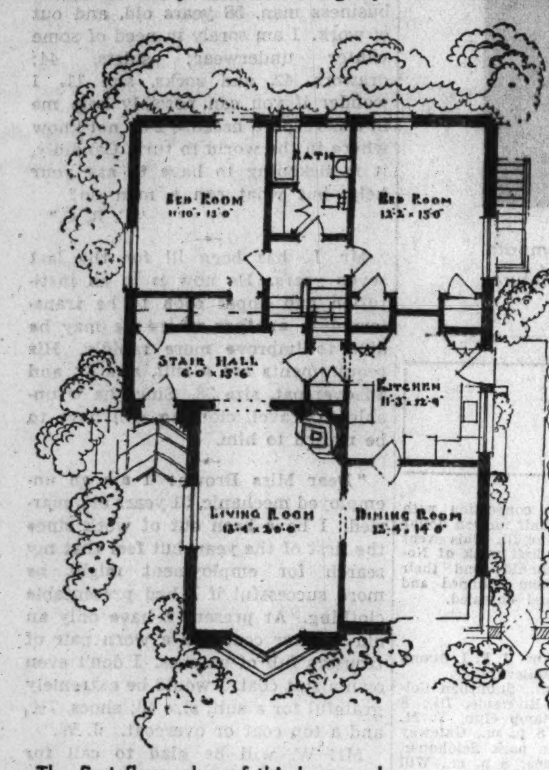
Strong Lines Are Handled with Restraint; Proportions Are Scaled Exactly.

For ways and means of lowering the winter fuel bills, send for a booklet by Louise Bargelt, "Let's Keep Warm—for Less Money." It is 5 cents by mail and 3 cents at Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn and Tribune Tower.

By Louise Bargelt.

WE are at last really entering upon a new era in home building. Our years of inertia, it seems, are to be followed by a period of activity. And with most of this new building one fact is distinctly evident—the determination on the part of the owners to avoid errors in building—to erect, in brief, homes which have not only individuality and good design, but dwellings which possess intrinsic worth.

It is not easy to achieve dignity in a house of moderate size. Informality is a simpler matter. The architect must possess a keen sense of proportion and scale if he is to produce a small house that is formal.



The first floor plan of this home shows living room and dining room at the front of the house. Note the window arrangement in dining room, which admits a generous amount of light, and fireplace corner. Proper orientation has been given to all rooms with respect to sun and winds. The house is heated with forced warm air, gas fueled. Contractor, Henry J. West of Oaklawn, Ill.

Essentials of Architecture Never Change.

In the home shown today, strong lines in the modern manner have been handled with reticence and restraint. The exterior walls have been carried out in fine brickwork, one of our oldest and best beloved of materials, but the home has an ultramodern roof deck which affords infinite opportunity for health and enjoyment on sunlit spaces overhead. The interior is finished with paint, plaster, and wall paper, but there is little trim; the doors are flush and there are plaster returns at the windows.

We have traveled a long road since the earliest forms of architecture, when men lived within walls which had a few openings in them for air and light, and a roof above, perhaps of animal skins, to keep out the weather. The vast changes the centuries have produced have not altered these essentials of architecture. They have only changed man's interpretation of these elements.

Period House Has Basically Modern Construction.

The home shown today, designed by Mr. Zook, is modern minded, but it is not moderne. It has been influenced by the modernist in certain particulars. This influence is seen in many of the new homes which are being built at the present time. While the great majority of new dwellings are designed in some traditional style, English or French, Colonial, Italian, or Spanish, they are more economical of floor space, better and more sturdily constructed, and possessed of greater efficiency as a machine for living, than houses of yore. They are for this reason, these new homes we see which answer conditions of efficiency, good taste, good design, and intrinsic worth, well equipped to retain market value in the field of tomorrow.

It is not the style of the house we build this next year, or the year after, which need concern us so much. We probably know what style we like, and will have. What should concern us is that the house be well designed and well built—and meet the needs of own immediate family.

List of Requirements First Step in Planning House.

There is only one way really to go about planning a house. That is to make out a list of requirements. A list of things which are absolutely necessary to meet the living conditions of the family. There can be a second list, too, of things which we would like to have—if we can afford them. If our budget can be stretched to include them after we have obtained the necessary number of rooms, the proper size rooms, the style of house, and the type of materials on which our minds are set. A good architect can suggest ways to economize as well as ways to spend! He can point out the essentials and the nonessentials.

A list of requirements is helpful if one decides to buy an already built house. There are many fine houses for sale at the present time, houses which have been well built and well designed. There are two classes of people, those who prefer to build, and those who prefer to buy, to invest in something they can see. If in buying an already built house, one has to compromise a bit with that list of "requirements," it often will be equally true that he will find himself the possessor of benefits he did not "list."

New House Can Be Acquired in Three Ways.

Where prospective home owners are uncertain whether to buy or build, it is well to look over the market carefully to see what it offers at the present time. Prospective home owners have three distinct methods of procedure in reaching their goal—home ownership.

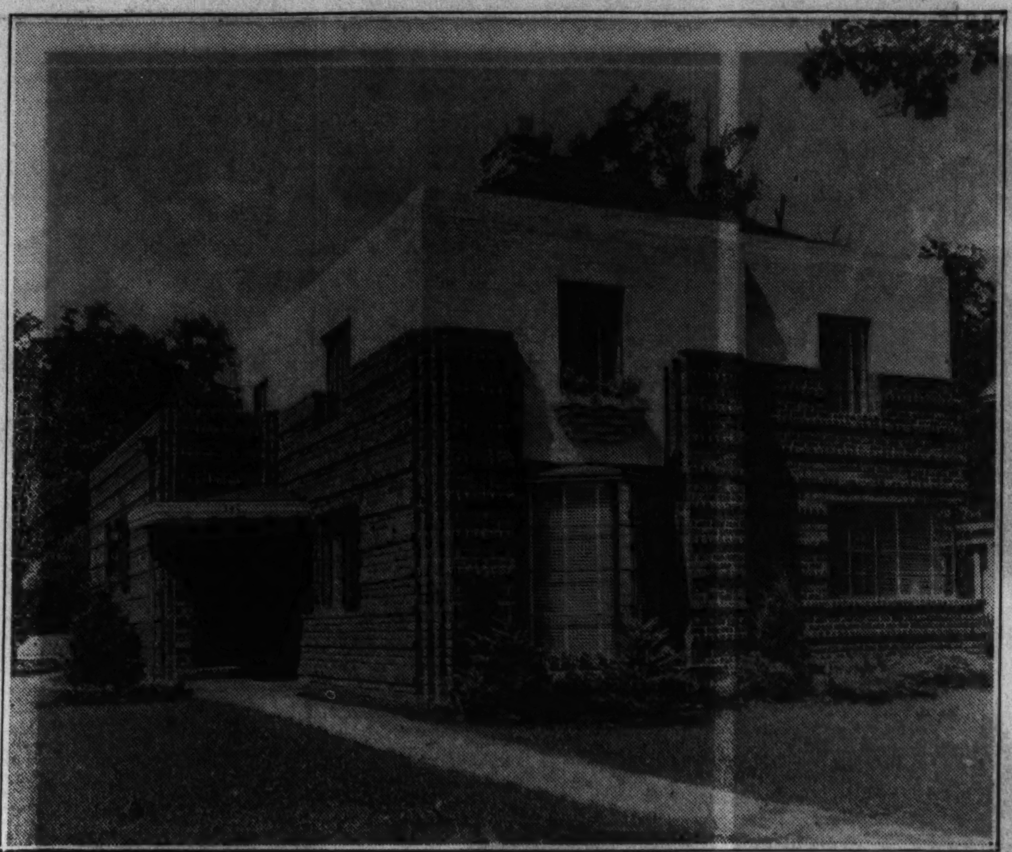
The first is to build. The second is to buy a comparatively new, already built house. The third is to buy a middle aged or a definitly old house, and to remodel. One man I know spent nearly eight months determining which method to follow. Once he nearly bought an almost new house, which appealed to him by its beauty and floor arrangement. However, on calling in an expert to check upon the condition of the house, he discovered that the building had been shoddily built. It had thin walls and faulty bricklaying and plastering. Next he found an old home on a beautiful site, which he considered buying and remodeling. He obtained estimates on the cost of modernizing. He almost decided on that method, but finally changed his mind because of the size of the house. The rooms were vast, old rooms, beautiful in shape and arrangement; but heating costs and upkeep would have been high. Now he is building. He bought his lot first, and has had plans drawn to fit the lot. His home is a charming Colonial house, modern in all of its features.

"I'm really getting everything we want in this house," he said. "We know what we want, now, all right—after having spent the last eight months looking at new houses, old houses, middle aged houses!"

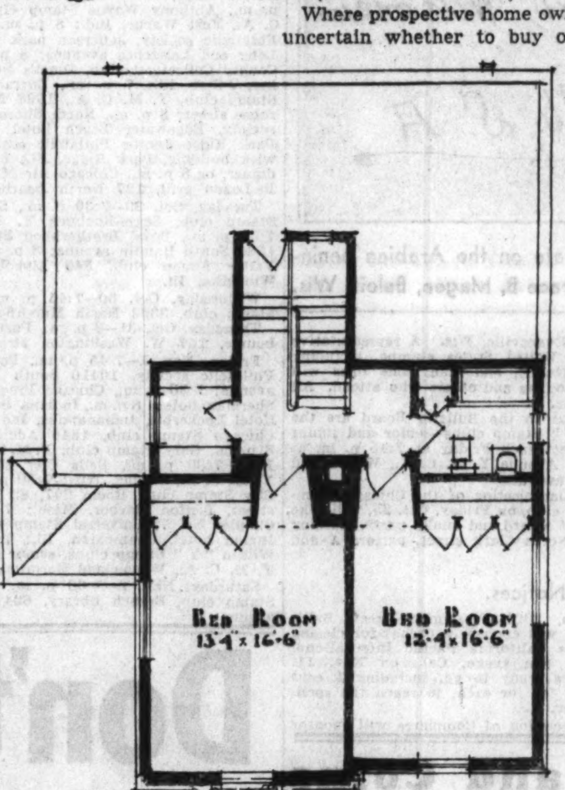
Well, after all is said—knowing what one wants is nine-tenths of the battle!

Mrs. Bargelt will speak over W-G-N next Wednesday at 2:15.

BRICK IN CONTEMPORARY ARCHITECTURE



This new home, recently completed for Mr. and Mrs. Vaun McGrew in Hinsdale, Ill., is a dignified example of conservative modern architecture. We see exterior walls of dark red face brick and ivory washed common brick; firm, strong outlines, providing for the essential requirements of sunlight and air. There is a wide roof deck for recreation—and health! Architect, Harold A. Zook, 140 North Dearborn street, Chicago. Interior has two bathrooms.



On the second floor are two bedrooms and a bath. The walls here are papered; below, their treatment is plaster, painted. In the basement the recreation room has an asphalt tile floor. The house is well insulated with a mineral wool type of insulation, for economical heating in winter and added coolness in summer. Doors throughout are of finely waxed oak.

Alone on Halloween

By Eleanor Jewett.

Quite dark and full of dread
Is my room and is my bed.

Out-of-doors the black trees blow
And shadows flickering by them go.

Out-of-doors are girls and boys
In costume making lots of noise.

Out-of-doors lean witches ride
On broomsticks, with a cat beside.

Quite dark and full of dread
Is my room and is my bed.

Red Is Basis of Color Scheme for Man's Room

Appears in Bedspread, Curtains, and Pictures; Furniture Is Maple.

"Beautiful Bedrooms," a booklet by Edith Weigle, tells of three ways of furnishing a bedroom, suggesting types of furniture, rugs, draperies, etc. It is 3 cents by mail, 2 cents at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower lobby.

By Edith Weigle.

FURNISHING a bedroom for a man or boy is quite a different matter from decorating a woman's or girl's room. It must be simple, sturdy, solid, and masculine in its effect, while one in which a young girl is going to spend part of her time should be just the opposite—light, gay, refreshing, feminine.

Since a surprising number of men show a great liking for red we've worked out a color scheme for a bedroom, bearing this fact in mind, and we've suggested furniture that is sure to be admired by any real he-man. This furniture is shown in the picture today, and is available at an extremely reasonable price at a Chicago store.

Bugles and Rope Provide Decorative Motif.

It is of solid maple, excellently made and finished in a deep, rich brown tone. It's especially interesting because of its decorative motifs, all of which are taken from a tally-ho [stage coach] of colonial days. In the footboards of the beds, for example, you see an openwork section of crossed ropes carved from the maple, while in the solid headboard is burned a little decoration of two bugles. The drawer handles of the chests are carved to represent rope, and in the back of a chair is another motif reminiscent of coaching days.

Each piece of this furniture is made in the painstaking way of the early craftsmen, with full mortise and tenon construction at every place of joining. All the drawers are dovetailed front and back, and fully boxed in. All the mirror frames, even, are doweled together. There is nothing hit or miss about this tally-ho set.

Of course, the ideal floor covering would be a large hooked rug, but if the floor is a handsome thing in itself scatter rugs of the same type may be used. On the beds are candlewick spreads of white with the tufting in red.

If Walls Are Painted, Use Pinky-Tan Tones.

Red appears again in the draw curtains which are of heavy printed linen, lined with ecru sateen. Above the fireplace hangs a framed print of the English coaching days type which again has a good deal of red in it.

In the room pictured the walls are paneled with pine. If this furniture and color scheme are used in a room with plain painted walls, a light pinky-tan would be a good choice. Or if the walls are papered, choose a design from the many planned especially for early American maple rooms, again using a beige ground.

For a man's bedroom in which modern furniture is used the following plan may be carried out:

Walls—Painted a clear, deep yellow.

Furniture—Walnut in modern design.

Bedspread—Lime green, chevron weave, flat mohair.

Accessories—Yellow and white.

DECORATIONS FROM A TALLY-HO

Latest Linoleum Equipped with Adhesive Back to Simplify Laying It; No Longer Needs to "Set"

Furniture May Be Moved Onto It Immediately and Room Put Into Use.

"Furnishing Your Home on a Modest Budget," a new booklet by Claire Winslow, tells how to have attractive rooms without running up large bills. It is full of helpful suggestions. Price, 5 cents by mail, 3 cents at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower lobby.

By Claire Winslow.

ARE you thinking of having linoleum laid in your home soon? There's a brand new type on the market that is sure to interest you. After long experimentation one famous manufacturer is bringing out linoleum with an adhesive backing. Before this new departure this floor covering was laid with a layer of felt beneath it, the latter cemented to the floor and the linoleum to the felt.

But now the adhesive is applied to the back, at the factory, thus making the process of installation in your home easier by several steps. When the linoleum is cut and ready to put down the adhesive backing is activated by scrubbing with a brush dipped in water and then the whole is laid directly on the floor. A feature that appeals to most women is the fact that the room is ready for use as soon as the linoleum is laid. There is no delay while it "sets," but instead the furniture can be moved back into place immediately. The maker assures the home owner that heavy pieces will not dent the surface because the even distribution of the adhesive holds every square inch tightly to the floor.

With linoleum any type of floor is posible. You can design your own decorative motifs, which can be cut out of contrasting colors and inserted in any manner you wish. In one smart entrance hall we saw recently a rope and tassel theme was carried out. A lovely, circular, white mirror above a glass topped table was trimmed by a heavy white silk rope cord and tassels. This clever idea was repeated in the center of the wine red linoleum floor, where white cutouts depicted the same thing.

One extremely smart kitchen had a floor of deep blue jaspe linoleum in the four corners of which were amusing little inserts of teakettles, a knife, fork, and spoon crossed above a saucepan, a sugar and creamer, and two cups and saucers. Of course, there are endless possibilities of this sort in decorating the linoleum floor of a child's room.

But linoleum does not stop at the floor these days. It goes right up the wall. Ideal for bathrooms and kitchens because of its sanitary protection, it also is seen in living rooms, dining rooms, and men's studies, where it imitates knotty pine and appears exactly like paneling of this nice, tawny gold wood.

Again, linoleum is used nowadays for the tops of sinks and work tables and to cover shelves in bathroom cabinets and china closets. On dressing tables, too, a shiny black linoleum is practical as well as smart, for its surface is impervious to spilled lotions and perfumes, and should you drop a precious scent bottle it is not so apt to break, either.

This good looking bedroom has a floor covering of rose jaspe linoleum with border of deeper tone and a white interliner. The window draperies are also rose, while the walls are delphinium blue and white, with white woodwork. Linoleum is a grand material to hide an old or shabby floor.

GARDEN OF LIGHT.

By Nancy Cabot.

AN American missionary returning from Hawaii, several years ago, brought a lovely piece of hand woven material containing the attractive design reproduced today. His sister successfully adapted the pattern in the material to a quilt design, using only four large applique blocks for an entire coverlet. These four squares are finished with a twelve inch band around the quilt.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices: One South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

Woman Operates Only Cat Drug Store in World

THE only cat drug store in the world is owned and operated by a woman, Miss Doris Bryant, ardent cat lover in New York City. In addition to her prescription work, which becomes heaviest in winter because that is the season when more felines, as well as humans, get sick, she invents toys for her favorite animals.

Vases and Bowls of Swedish Glass Are Lovely Items

SOME of the finest glassware in the world is that now being made in Sweden. It is found in museums of the fine arts in this country and in Europe, and several Chicago stores have notable pieces that are priced well within the means of many people.

Among the collections of a large department store are a few exceptionally fine vases of extremely heavy glass decorated with exquisitely etched figures. These are best seen when the vases are held up to the light.

There are, too, handsome low bowls also of heavy crystal, notable for their subtle grayish and champagne tones. These are absolutely simple and of beautiful proportions. Each bears a "made in Sweden" stamp.

Gadgets to Regulate Humidity Vital to Health in Winter

RIGHT now is the time to consider doing something about the humidity in your house! All winter the demand for moisture in your indoor air will continue, and grow more imperative as the cold grows stronger.

The market teems with units which will add much needed moisture to your home, apartment, or hotel room. Some will provide as much moisture as a house or room needs, and provide it automatically as the need arises. Others will only help to contribute some added moisture to the air. But whether we can give our rooms all the moisture they need or only a fraction of it, let's give them some at least. For every little bit will help to rout the extreme winter dryness of our indoor air.

Woman Leaves Housework to Be Apprentice Painter

MISS NEVA E. TITUS of Salem, Ore., has forsaken housekeeping to become an apprentice union painter. Garbed in white trousers, jacket, and painter's cap, she plies her trade of house painting as ground work in her training to be a professional interior decorator, her lifelong ambition.

Claiming she is 110 years old, Mrs. Narcissus Gurly, a Negro woman, living in St. Louis, Mo., and her daughter, Mrs. Florence Dansen, 77 years old, have made application for state old age pensions.

Home Treatment For Keeping Skin Young

MERCOLIZED WAX is the one beauty aid you can afford because this single preparation embodies all the essentials of beauty that your skin needs. It cleanses, softens, bleaches, lubricates and protects. It is so simple to use, too. Just pat it on your skin each night as if it were an ordinary cold cream. That's all. Mercolized Wax seeps into your pores and dissolves grime and dust and all impurities. It absorbs the discolored surface skin in tiny, invisible particles, revealing the beautiful, soft, young skin that lies beneath. It clears away freckles, tan, oiliness, sunburn or any other blemishes. You use such a tiny bit of Mercolized Wax for each application that it proves an inexpensive beauty investment. Beauty cannot be taken for granted. It must be cared for regularly if you want to hold it through the years. Mercolized Wax brings out the hidden beauty of your skin.

POWDERED SAXOLITE dissolved in one-half pint witch hazel quickly reduces wrinkles and other age signs. It is a refreshing, stimulating astringent lotion. Use it daily. At all drug and department stores.

Voice Culture Now Necessity for Chic Woman

Pleasant Tonal Quality Is Influence for Success in Field of Employment.

By Antoinette Donnelly.

NO FOOLING. Voice culture is quickly becoming runnerup to silhouette culture in feminine circles. It's astonishing to one who prides herself on keeping fairly well abreast of the times to realize how widespread is this interest in a better, more cultured speaking voice. By culture is not meant "fawncy awhs," either. Just a good, clear voice of pleasing quality and speech delivery.

There always is a reason behind any concentrated effort, such as the better speech interest of this moment. And you do not have to seek far to discover this one. It's come to be an economic factor. When a woman's chances for getting a job, say, hinge upon improvement of a certain feature, or features, believe me, she adopts means hurriedly of attaining the wanted improvement.

Quality of Voice Assumes Importance in Employment.

Witness the manner in which she got her weight down when necessity enforced saner eating. Witness the way she manages to keep her head sleek and trim. Well, now it is the voice that crowds up as a determining factor in employment circles. There's another side to the better voice and speech interest, of course, the social advantages of a soft, well modulated voice. But for today we are more interested in the economic feature of the thing.

Good jobs are not so easy to land these days, so that every blessed feature that can be developed as a recommendation, must be considered. And, as said, the voice is becoming the scale on which judgment is weighed. As an employment head once said to me: "All women look well today. All dress well. But all do not speak well, so that the girl or woman whose voice expresses health, vitality, character, and culture, naturally gets the preference."

The business person herself is realizing the importance of clear enunciation and good tonal quality. There are groups formed an forming all over the country to help instruct the faulty tongued. Classes for business, professional, and other groups are common. Nurses are enrolling. In hospitals, too, the need of attendants with voices that soothe and calm nerves is obvious.

In other words, it's just being done now. It's the smart and the wise thing to re-style the voice, to take it out of the yanh-yanh class and put it where nature intended it to be. It can be done with no more sustained effort and will power than it took to get the silhouette you proudly boast.

Class Instruction Can Point Out Errors You Miss Yourself.

If you can afford to take instructions, do so. If not private work, then in a class group. You'll get criticisms of mistakes you make that you are not conscious you are making. I know, because I've been taken in hand myself. It was revealed to me that I was doing the identical thing with certain words of which I was critical in others. No kind friend will tell you of your speech faults. You have to pay to be told, and to take the bad news gracefully, I might add. Or, join one of the adult education groups featuring speech improvement, conducted under board of education auspices. I do not know if every city has this advantage.

Miss Lora MacFarlane, teacher of diction and dramatics and speech educator over the air, suggests that we listen sharply to other women's speech. Note the contrasts in speaking voices, the good and the bad voice, the pleasing voice and the one that gets on the nerves. Get a voice consciousness this way, as you got silhouette conscious by comparing the neat, trim silhouette with the figure that ruined a woman's appearance. Train your ear for tone observation, in other words. Then it is easier to attack your own voice critically. Watch for the shrill tone, the high rasping tone, the yanh-yanh of the nasal voiced. The majority of feminine voices is too highly pitched, with the "a's" flatter than the depression's pocketbook. Cackles, instead of laughter, are recommended for sharp observation in others. Then let the lesson be applied to yourselves.

Miss MacFarlane emphasizes the importance of standing well and breathing well for good tone production. A sentence often will be half swallowed or disappear into thin air because the speaker uses the voice on the intake of the breath instead of on its exhalation. Here's an exercise Miss MacFarlane recommends in this connection. "Stand up correctly, inhale a long breath from away down deep, using the muscles of the diaphragm and not just the chest muscles. Then, on the outgoing breath, count ONE. Another deep breath and, on outgoing air, count One, Two. Again and count One, Two, Three. And so on until you can count to 25 on that one expelled breath." This is a grand exercise for lowering the voice tone from that highly pitched shrill.

The same authority advises us, when walking along the street, to draw in that long breath again and see how many steps we can take on the exhaled breath.

The jaw must be mobile, too. Many jaws are so grimly set that speech is tight and tense. And the tip of the tongue must be flexible. This last item is predominantly important. So many people scarcely use the tongue at all. Our authority recommends the repetition of the word "verily," pronounced "ver-er-ly" for practice, so that the tongue tip hits the back of the upper front teeth. For limbering the jaw, she recommends an exercise that, I can assure you, will do grand things at the same time for the chin and jawline. It's that same great, wide chewing motion recommended for chin contour.

Another recommendation, which also serves as a throat beautifying purpose while it provides for a rounder tonal quality, is to hold the head so that there is a beautiful curve from the base of the throat to the chin. Don't let the chin drop or shove forward.

I feel that one does need personal instruction or, as I say, class instruction, since we have dulled our own ears so long to our vocal misdoings. We need some one to tell us.

Physiognomist Divides Face Reading Into Three Classes

Desires, Intellect and Emotions Are Listed and Explained by Expert.

By Hugo Westerberg.

THE method of physiognomy described in these articles divides human traits into three classes: desires, intellectual traits and emotions.

Desires are caused by fundamental needs of a human being and require mental and physical efforts toward their satisfaction. They provide the motive for action. Intelligence is the ability to decide right and wrong action for bringing about the fulfilment of wishes. The third set of traits are the emotions, which are strains and stresses in the mechanism through which desires and intellect operate.

HARRY STOCKWELL

The main desires have been described in previous articles and the various parts of the face which express them have been outlined. This accounts for the most important differences between individuals.

As far as intellectual traits are concerned, it has not so far proved possible to read differences in degree of understanding from features. It is possible, however, to distinguish the type of intelligence possessed by a person from the shape of his forehead. Three different shapes of foreheads can be observed, each denoting a mental type.

These types arise from the fact that people get material for their thinking through their senses, and usually show a preference for one sense or another. Thus they differ in the manner of deciding right or wrong.

Some people base their decision on instinct these are recognized by a forehead that protrudes in the middle. Others base their decision on faith in some authority—shown by a forehead that is straight. The third type decides a choice of action on his own judgment—shown by a backward sloping forehead.

Normal persons, with all their senses regularly developed, will have the ability to use all three methods, but some individuals have a too-pronounced leaning to one of them and employ it constantly. This, of course, leads to difficulties.

A young man with a forehead sloping backward too much would not learn from others but always believed his own judgment infallible. He did not make a good student, but somehow got through a technical school and began to practice his profession. He made good where common sense and practical ingenuity were sufficient to hold a job. When, through friends, he obtained a place where theoretical knowledge was required he fell down. This unwillingness to have faith in authorities is always present in those with very sloping foreheads and is a handicap to success. They are disinclined to follow rules and regulations, although they enjoy making them for others.

HARRY STOCKWELL, the film star, is a good example of a well-balanced forehead, neither too straight nor slanting backward too much. He will be guided by authority whenever he does not himself have all the facts on which to base a judgment of his own. His eyes are fairly open, which means that he is reasonably willing to believe what others tell him. When he gets older, however, they will close down somewhat on the outer sides, indicating a progressive development of his ability to concentrate. He then will place more and more confidence in his own opinions and ideas.

Automatic Stokers Now Designed for Hard or Soft Coal

IF you haven't investigated the automatic coal stokers recently you will be surprised at the rapid strides they have made in the last few years. These stokers are designed to burn hard or soft coal. There are different models for different types of coal, including the expensive grades. They simplify ash removal and are automatic in operation. Different makes of stokers differ in the way they feed coal to the furnace. Some stokers are hopper fed and require attention once a day or so, while others deliver the coal directly from bin to furnace.

Linen Closet Door Can Be Interestingly Treated

IN a remodeled house recently, the upper panel of the wooden door to the linen closet was replaced with a pane of glass. The lower panel was painted in floral pattern. An attractive treatment!

The first annual convention of the National Women's Action party of Chile was held recently at Santiago. Señora Adela Edwards de Salar, president of the organization, has been a campaigner for women's suffrage for 25 years.

Old Linoleum an Excellent Lining for the Coal Bin

WOULD you like to know a new use for your old linoleum? Here's a practical way of employing the old after the new has been laid.

Take the old linoleum and line the coal bin with it, inside and outside. Then see that the door fits tightly, with no crevices underneath. Once this is done the question of a dust menace is largely solved.

THE WORLD DIVIDED—AT THE CRITICAL HOUR

With war raging in Ethiopia, with new international complications in Europe that may bring conflicts, and with the far east unsettled because of Japanese empire expansion, the world at this moment is divided, as the accompanying map reveals.

This patchwork of colors represents the world not as it actually is but as it would be were its globular surface flattened out into the form of a rectangular plane. In other words, this is a Mercator projection map. It is absolutely true in scale only at the equator, regions to the north and to the south being distorted as to size and shape—the farther in each direction, the greater the distortion.

The various colored patches represent nations or territories owned or controled by nations. It will be seen by a reference to the key of colors in the lower left hand corner of the map that a very few nations own or control virtually all of Africa, the continent now under focus of world attention because of the war in Ethiopia. Besides the nations listed in the key, others—Portugal and Belgium—own sizable chunks of Africa.

The map brings out strikingly the scattered expanse of the British empire. Upon it, the Britons proudly boast, "the sun never sets." The commonwealth of Australia, the Dominion of Canada, the Union of South Africa, and the Irish Free State, it will be noted, are classified upon the map not as a part of the empire but rather as British allies, from the fact that to all purposes they are independent countries. Likewise the Philippine Islands are designated as separate from the United States, inasmuch as their full independence now is only a matter of time.

The largest individual blocks of colors are those representing Russia, Greenland, and Canada. These regions are not actually as great proportionately as they appear. It is the nature of the projection map, for instance, that makes Greenland appear larger than the United States. Dotting the sea are numerous islands, all of which, with the exception of a very few, such as Cuba, are owned by the powers of Europe, Asia, or the Americas.

Man in Neutral Corner Favors Compromise and Use of Blue Pencil.

By Charles Collins.

I AM feeling noncontroversial at this week-end as the argument over Mayor Kelly's suppression of "Tobacco Road" rages. I am ready to declare a policy of watchful waiting and to enforce an embargo against the people who are asking me to take sides in a strong, militant way.

One of my multiple personalities, perhaps the puritan, says:

"Plays that go to the extremes of 'Tobacco Road'—and they have become fairly numerous in this era—are deliberately asking for a firm, reformatory sock in the nose from the authorities that are supposed to maintain a semblance of decency in public conduct. One of them has received such a sock. So what? So far, so good."

I may add that this character carries a large share of my self-respect.

Chicago Needs More Plays, Not Less.

Another part of me, the propagandist for a spirited theatrical life in Chicago, says:

"It is regrettable that a play of merit so far as its acting is concerned should be closed by legal compulsion in this city, where the legitimate drama threatens to become extinct, no matter how much it offends many of its patrons. Plays should be encouraged to open in Chicago and remain as long as they are able, not closed by executive order all of a sudden, without an attempt to correct the offenses of misconduct with which they are charged."

The art-for-art's-sake aspect of my character is silent in this argument. I have appealed to it for counsel, hoping that it might say something very precious and idealistic, but it remains mum. I suspect that it died long ago; maybe it committed suicide in the long ago controversies over Shaw's "Mrs. Warren's Profession" and Ibsen's "Ghosts."

I turn to the rugged individualist who hollers loudly for freedom whenever his toes are stepped on in a crowd—once a notable fellow in my gallery of personalities. But I hear from him only a mocking whisper: "There are limits to every freedom in a social organism." . . . I consult the broad-minded man of the world who is one of my favorite disguises, but I get from him only the wisecrack: "To be broad-minded is this generation's excuse for dabbling in dirty water."

Suggestions for Peace Without Victory.

So I abandon the subject. Mr. Mayor, and learned counsel for Messrs. Kirkland, Erskine, Grisman, et al., it's your baby.

I will undertake, however, to outline a formula under which a compromise might be arrived at. Let the authors and stage director of "Tobacco Road" apply a few touches of cleaning fluid to the play and its performance in this manner:

Let there be no physical contact between Ellie May and Lov Bensey in the barnyard wallowings of the first act, and no lines referring to their earthy desires. . . . Let Jeeter Lester and all the others reduce their flow of profanity by at least 50 per cent. . . . Let all reference to Jeeter's incestuous inclinations be eliminated. . . . Let the Peeping Tom conduct of the family in regard to the nuptial consummation of Dude Lester and the evangelist trollop be totally suppressed.

If This Be Censorship, O. K.

These suggestions are, of course, a manifestation of the spirit of censorship which is a bugaboo among the young intellectuals of the land. They will cause Erskine Caldwell to tear his hair in a literary frenzy. Nevertheless, they represent the ideas of taste and artistic restraint that I would have used if I had written or produced the play.

With such changes "Tobacco Road" will still be a fairly horrifying piece of work, and will fulfill all the purposes, sociological or dramatic, toward which its theme is directed. With them, also, the play would probably pass any office of censorship in the land, and would continue its life as a source of profit to its authors and producers and a means of keeping a decidedly worthy cast of actors in employment.

TOTEM POLE GIRL IN "ROSE-MARIE"

Doris Patston is an attractive contributor to the revival of "Rose-Marie," at the Grand Opera house. She appears as Wanda, the Indian girl who leads the totem pole number. She is well known as a singer and dancer.

DON ZELAYA and Arthur Boran lead the new vaudeville program at the State-Lake theater. Zelaya is known as the "philosophical pianist." He is a fine musician and an excellent comedian. He comes from a distinguished South American family. Arthur Boran, radio comedian and mimic, has appeared with Eddie Cantor, Paul Whiteman, and others.

Benny Davis, song writer, who also produces and appears in vaudeville shows, appears at the Palace with twenty of his latest discoveries. He specializes in grooming youngsters with theatrical ambitions. In his cast this trip are the dance trio of Harris, Claire, and Shannon; Bentley Stone, Toya Osabe, and the Evans ballet.

Maj. Bowes' Amateurs, a new troupe consisting of winners of weekly radio broadcasts, are appearing at the Oriental theater. Whistlers, imitators, blues singers, trick musical instrumentalists, all came from prosaic walks of life, are included in the company. The Chicago theater's stage show contains: Bob Burns, monologist; Thelma Leeds, a singer who is to be in the next "Ziegfeld Follies."

Mayfair Room Opens in the Blackstone Hotel; Terrace Room's Debut.

THE Chez Paree will present its second new cabaret production next Wednesday. The Three Radio Rogues will share stellar honors with Leon Belasco, who brings his dance orchestra to Chicago for the first time. Harris, Claire and Shannon, a trio of ballroom dancers; a colored entertainer called Jean Le Gon; Andrew and Louise Carr; Kingsley and Case, and the Hartman dancers are being held over from the current production. The Paul Oscard ballet girls will appear in new costumes.

● The New Mayfair room in the Blackstone opened last night with Chrysis de La Grange, Paris rope dancer, as star of its "Continental Revue," and Nikita Balieff as master of ceremonies. Mlle. de La Grange does a rope balancing act, swinging out over the audience. Kavelin, concert violinist, makes his Chicago debut as an orchestra director. He comes here from the Waldorf-Astoria and the Central Park Casino, New York.

● Reeves and Leu, who style themselves dance satirists, are a featured act in the new floor show in the Walnut room of the Bismarck hotel. Leonard Keller and his orchestra supply the music. There are three additional acts which appear three times during the evening. Louise Lucano gives exotic dances. European and South American songs are offered by Lillian Kenney. King Martov, Russian baritone, sings the lyrics of his native country.

● After four years away from Chicago's night life, Jean and Marian Cutler, sister team formerly of the George White "Scandals," have joined the Continental room floor show at the Stevens hotel in support of Baron and Blair, dancers; Rosini, magician, and Seymour Simons' orchestra. These two girls have had several years' experience in Europe.

● The Villa Moderne, north shore café-restaurant, offers an orchestra headed by Horace Laspar. The strolling entertainers, a regular feature, are Bill Oufs and Dan Devitt, singing guitarists, and Jim Van Order, accordionist.

● The Jaros Sisters, instrumentalists and vocalists, head the entertainment offered in the Brevoort hotel's Crystal Bar and Mural room. Allen Kane and his orchestra furnish the dance music.

● Jack Osterman became master of ceremonies at Vanity Fair last Wednesday night. Star of the revue for the fourteenth successive week is daring Corinne, the dancer. Jack Russell and his orchestra supply the music. The program also contains Orville Stamm and Martha La Rue, and Paulette La Pierre, French singer.

● Guyon's Paradise ballroom has been completely redecorated and the fall dance season is now in full swing. There is dancing every Thursday, Saturday, and Sunday night. Henri Gendron and his orchestra play.

WIFE OF "DODSWORTH" ACTOR

Nan Sunderland, who appears in the role of the patrician and sympathetic Mrs. Cortright, comforter of Dodsworth in the drama named after him, now at the Erlanger theater, is in private life the wife of Walter Huston, star of the "Dodsworth" company.

Philip Barry Defies Traditions of Drama in New Play

Hero of His 'Bright Star' Heartless Cad

Effort to Be Original, Noble, but Results Are Forced, Unconvincing

By Burns Mantle.

NEW YORK.—[Special.]—As has been remarked frequently in the department, it is pretty difficult to write interesting plays about uninteresting people. And harder still to sell them after they are written. Yet, the better dramatists are always trying. The better dramatists are naturally at war with the conventions of the theater. They tire of the common heroics of stage commerce and the push-over victories of saintly heroes and heroines. And, for the good of the drama, it is well that they do. But in choosing substitutes it were decidedly to their advantage if they take serious count of normal audience reactions.

Philip Barry, for example, and he definitly one of the better dramatists, is at the moment trying to interest audiences in a heartless young man who frankly confesses that he is a good deal of a cad and doesn't know what to do about it. What he does is to break the heart of the devoted young woman he marries, and she dies in his arms.

Joan Crawford, Mrs. Roosevelt Attend First Night.

"Bright Star" is the play. Arthur Hopkins presented it this week at the Empire theater. Incidentally, there were two prominent first-nighters in the audience, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Joan Crawford, with her bridegroom, Franchot Tone.

And while the autograph fiends and a curiosity-driven crowd jammed the lobby and the sidewalks looking for and staring at Joan of the movies, the First Lady slipped quietly into her seat and was unmolested the evening through. . . .

Quin Hanna is the unhappy young hero of "Bright Star." After a miserable boyhood in a New England village he goes back to the town as a radical newspaper man, bent on reforming the working conditions of its factories and the civic enterprises of its politicians. The richest girl of the town, a frail, ethereal, sentimental young person falls desperately in love with Quin. He does not love her in return, but accepts the adventure of marriage and takes as his wedding gift the town's newspaper.

Gives Husband His Freedom, Drops Dead.

In three years young Hanna, conscience-ridden because of his attitude toward his wife, weakened in character by his contact with politicians and brandy, wavering in his ideals and miserably unhappy, decides that the only decent thing for him to do is to remove himself from the scene. He prepares to go away and not return. The wife, sensing his desertion, gives him his freedom and drops dead of a heart attack.

The two parts are played by Lee Tracy and Julie Haydon of the movies. Mr. Tracy, a dynamic actor who won his first fame as the dancer in "Broadway," and later was famous as the hysterical reporter in "Front Page," intensifies, rather than lessens, the negative emotional appeal of Hanna. Miss Haydon, recently a fascinating personality in Noel Coward's screen drama, "Scoundrel," is still fascinating, soft voiced, gentle and of limited stage experience. Jean Dixon and Louis Jean Heydt are helpful in support. . . .

The end of a beautiful friendship in the theater found its way into the courts when Maude Adams was sued by John D. Williams for $200,000 which Williams insisted was due as commission for bringing Miss Adams back to the stage the season she played Portia in "The Merchant of Venice." Williams has been awarded $25,000 of the $200,000 for which he sued.

In the old days, when Charles Frohman was Miss Adams' manager and she the country's favorite actress, young Williams was the Frohman press representative and did a superlative job. He stood always between Miss Adams and the public she preferred to avoid. He wrote most of the interviews she was credited with giving out, and all the news of her activities. He acted as public relations counsel, friend, adviser, and public escort.

After Mr. Frohman's death and Miss Adams' retirement the friendship continued for years. On several occasions there was talk of Miss Adams' return, if she could find a suitable play. She still depended greatly upon the Williams advice. He was still the liaison officer, approving professional contacts.

It is a matter of regret that this old friendship had to end just this way.

"Strip Woman" Tragedy of a Burlesque Queen.

Boldly profane and frequently offensive is a new comedy by Henry Rosendahl called "Strip Woman." Despite which it is curiously honest in its effort to relate the story of a sentimental burlesque queen who used the money she earned exposing her person to excited burlesque theater audiences sending a sickly younger brother to school. When the brother dies and she is at loose ends, devoting her life to prostitution and liquor, she decides the one thing that can save her is a new responsibility. Whereupon she adopts a 19 year old paperhanger and spends her brother's college money on him.

This adventure gets the young woman into more trouble. The man with whom she is living accuses her of having adopted another lover in place of a son, and she is forced to fight down the implication. In the end she is successfully married to the patron and successful in saving the boy.

Mayo Methot, once a society debutante of the northwest, plays the strip girl with the honesty of expression in which the part is written. . . .

Hampden's New Play Almost Stirs Critic to Anger.

So wise a dean of play reviewers as Percy Hammond once insisted that the single luxury a professional playgoer should not indulge was that of getting mad. Harkening to this admitted wisdom, I refrain from being furious with Walter Hampden. Yet, of all the silly, incredible, disheartening things this actor and producer has ever done, it seems to me his production of a play by Martin Flavin called "Achilles Had a Heel," in which he himself is cast as the colored keeper of an elephant in a zoo, is the silliest.

There is, I suspect, some allegorical or symbolic significance buried deep in "Achilles." Much deeper than the obvious invulnerability of the colored Achilles to the ravages of war and the conspiracies of peacetime enemies. But it eluded me completely. It eluded all my fellow reviewers as well. . . .

Mr. Hampden's Negro is a war hero with citations and an artificial arm. Keeper of the elephant, he is also a philosopher and friendly with the beast he attends. His chief rival is the white man who was his captain in the war, now become keeper of the monkey house across the way. The monkey man, jealous of the elephant keeper, conspires to do him harm. First by hiring a practitioner of black magic to put a spell upon the elephant. And then by inducing a mulatto prostitute to undermine his morals. The black magic fails but the prostitute wins. The Negro is demoted to the monkey house and the monkey man is sent to take charge of the elephant. Whereupon the elephant kills the monkey man, and the Negro, after tossing the prostitute in with the other monkeys, is called to save the elephant from dying of grief.

Neither casting nor direction has helped the play. Mr. Hampden is quite out of character as a chocolate colored keeper with an Uncle Tom dialect, one of those oldtime "I'se gwine" Negroes that dozens of capable colored players have rightfully driven from the stage.

"HERE'S TO ROMANCE"

Nothing like a touch of ermine, is there, to bring out the light in a lady's eyes? This charming portrait is a study of Anita Louise, who plays opposite Nino Martini, operatic tenor, in 'Here's to Romance.'

MR. DODSWORTH ENJOYS EUROPE

Dodsworth, the big American business man whose memoirs are told in the play named after him, now at the Erlanger theater, prepares for slumber after a long, hard day among the smart and "civilized" Parisians. Note the expression of weariness on the face of Walter Huston, as depicted by The Tribune's aile-seat cartoonist, and the irritation of "Fran," his wife (acted by Juliette Crosby), as she gives him a piece of her mind.

What Is Annual Cost of American Education?

What does the American system of education, public and private, cost a year? This interesting question and several other pertinent ones have been answered in figures compiled by the office of education in Washington.

According to these figures the expenditure for all levels of education, including schools in Alaska and government schools for Indians, is approximately $2,968,019,400 annually. This total is broken down to show that elementary schools cost 1 billion 700 million dollars, high schools 700 million dollars, and colleges 544 million dollars.

Cost of Education Put on Dime Basis.

All publicly supported education could be paid for if each person of voting age contributed about a dime a day, and for two or three cents more the bill for private education also could be paid. In 1932 the annual expenditure per adult for public education was $32.95 and for private education $7.10.

The estimated total income for all education, public and private, according to the last available completed survey, is more than 3 billion dollars. The approximate investment in school plants is 10 billion dollars and endowments amount to 2 billion dollars.

1,063,000 Teachers in All Types of Schools.

There are approximately 1,063,000 teachers in all types of schools in the United States. About 700,000 of these are in elementary schools, 250,000 in secondary schools, and 90,000 in colleges.

Approximately one-fourth of the nation's total population attends school daily during the school year. Considerably more than 30 million pupils are enrolled in full time day schools. Of this number about 24 million children attend elementary schools. Secondary school enrollment is about 6 million, and about a million and a half young men and women are attending colleges.

It is estimated that there are more than 276,555 schools of different types throughout the United States.

By Mae Tinee.

GOOD MORNING!
[It's pictures like "The Last Days of Pompeii" that make you realize what the stage can't do!]

A right rousing melodrama of ancient days has been woven round the title of the Bulwer Lytton classic. For the title—and the scenes filmed from the author's description of the destruction of Pompeii—are all that the movie has in common with the book.

Behold, then, Mr. Preston Foster as an ambitious gladiator!

When the picture opens he's just an humble Pompeiian blacksmith, wanting nothing better than what he has—a simple home, a beloved wife, and a baby son. He loathes the brutal sports of the arena and refuses to take part in them, though, because of his brawn, he has been duly beseeched to do so by the boss of the sports center.

Grief Makes Marcus Greatest Gladiator of Them All.

But, after his wife and child have been run down by the wheels of a Roman chariot—and die because he hadn't money enough to pay a physician to attend them—he changes his mind. He becomes a hard and ruthless man, with but one idea—to amass the wealth that brings power. . . .

And so Marcus becomes the greatest gladiator of them all. . . . A Mars of the arena. . . . Here he kills another gladiator almost as mighty as himself—a man who leaves behind him a little motherless son, Flavius. Marcus adopts Flavius, and the child becomes the core of his life. Flavius at last—O well, let's not tell all of the story here. . . .

Shady dealings in Judea bring Marcus' life into juxtaposition with that of Pontius Pilate and introduce episodes concerned with the life of Jesus Christ. These episodes are beautifully handled. Never do you see the Christ. But the mob scenes, Pilate washing his hands of "the blood of this innocent man," the sad journey to Calvary are vividly presented—more to the imagination than to the eye.

The film version shows Pilate as haunted through the years by the memory of the Man he had not saved from crucifixion—an idea different from that of one writer, who takes the stand that the procurator of Judea was wont to have difficulty even in recalling the incident.

Flavius' Love Affair Adds a Fillip.

The picture has been worked up to its big finale with sweep, suspense, and color. There's a modicum of "heart interest" in a love affair between Flavius—who sees things so differently from his foster father — and a Christian slave girl. . . .

Mr. Foster is magnificent as Marcus. I'm glad they've at last got round to starring him. Basil Rathbone, as Pilate, simply fascinated me. The aristocrat to his finger tips, this Pilate. A slender, stately, moody, sad-eyed, gentle Pilate. A powerful, whimsical Pilate with a disturbing touch of the decadent—and a sense of humor. Yes, I sure liked him.

Little David Holt is adorable as the child, Flavius. John Wood plays the boy grown with perception and appeal. Other rôles are excellently handled.

The photoplay has been produced on a large scale, is pictorially effective, and though somewhat too long has, really, a lot of punch.]

"Carson's Capers"

ON Friday, Nov. 1, and Saturday, Nov. 2, at the Studebaker theater, the Women's Club of Carson Pirie Scott & Co. retail store will present a musical review entitled "Carson's Capers." This review was written by the employés and the cast has been organized from the same groups.

"Carson's Capers" deals with the changes that have come about in the department store. It retells the past, depicts the present, and then forecasts the future. The performance will contain ballet, toe, tap, Spanish, and oriental dances.

THE VOICE OF THE MOVIE FAN

Letters published in this department should be written on one side of the paper. If you wish a personal reply, please inclose a stamped, self addressed envelope.

Fan Happy to See Pet Peeve Shown Up in Two New Films.

Dear Miss Tinée: I was gratified to see my "little pet peeve" [gum chewing] given a thorough airing and justification [so far as the "peeve" is concerned] in two of our current movies: "Alice Adams" and "Manhattan Moon."

This offensive habit is shown up in both of these films in all its offensiveness.

It would be well for any one who makes a claim to good breeding to remember that no well bred person ever chews gum in public.

Sincerely
H. P. DILWORTH.

Fan Wonders What Has Become of Comedienne Winnie Lightner.

Dear Mae Tinée: Can you tell me, through your column, what has become of Winnie Lightner of the movies? DELLA DUKE.

Editor's note: Miss Lightner's last movie was "I'll Fix It"—produced in 1934. Have had no word or her lately.

Harbach Leads Opera Authors with 45 Titles

Got Start Writing Music for A. H. Woods' Productions.

AUTHOR of forty-five musical comedies and plays, Otto Harbach is to the light lyric stage what Owen Davis is to the dramatic stage. Each is reputed to have made a huge fortune, and got his start with A. H. Woods, writing to his order. One of Harbach's greatest successes was the operetta, "Rose-Marie," soon seen at the Grand Opera house.

After writing the lyrics for Three Twins," Harbach turned out three plays, "The Prosecuting Attorney," "Bright Eyes," and "Dr. De Luxe." Succeeding these were three successes, "Madame Sherry," "The Fascinating Widow," in which Julian Eltinge achieved success, and "The Girl of My Dreams."

He wrote "The Wall Street Girl" in 1911. The next year, with Rudolf Friml, Harbach wrote "The Firefly" for Emma Trentini and followed it with "High Jinks," "The Crinoline Girl," "Katinka," "The Silent Witness," "Blood Will Tell," and "A Pair of Queens."

In 1916 he turned out "You're In Love," "Going Up," "Kitty Darlin'," "The Little Whopper," "Up in Mabel's Room" [with Wilson Collison], "No More Blondes," and "Tickle Me."

The list of his successes runs on and on. He wrote "Mary" and "The O'Brien Girl" with Frank Mandel and, more recently, such hits as "The Desert Song," "Sonny," "No, No, Nanette," "Kid Boots," "The Cat and the Fiddle," and "Roberta."

Bits About the Movie Stars . . . .

By Mae Tinee

SHIRLEY TEMPLE and JACK HOLT had a party together the other day. The occasion was a celebration of Shirley's second anniversary as a star and Mr. Holt's twenty-third year in motion pictures. The party was on the Twentieth Century lot, where both were working, and each had a cake to cut. The smaller cake bore Shirley's name and the inscription "Love." Jack Holt's frosting greeting was "Success." . . . MIRIAM HOPKINS expects to appear on the London stage in a new Milne play as soon as she has finished filming "Splendor." . . . PRESTON FOSTER, now appearing in "The Last Days of Pompeii," has been assigned a starring rôle in "The Green Shadow," a mystery film from the novel by James Edward Grant. . . . FRANK BUCK'S a brave man, but they couldn't persuade him to ride a bucking steer at the annual rodeo at Madison Square Garden, where he was guest of honor the other night.

Well, well, we're to have "Little Lord Fauntleroy" with FREDDIE BARTHOLOMEW. He's the child who can play that rôle! . . . PAUL KELLY was given a week off, and it cost him plenty. He went out to look for a two acre ranch and ended by purchasing a little thing of 40 acres. . . . MADGE EVANS recently gave a dog party in honor of Prudence, her new Scottie. Though each of the pups had his own plate of hamburger and his own cake, the party ended in a free for all fight. . . . Studios are knee deep in scenarios dealing with WAR subjects. It is said, however, that none of them will treat directly of the Italo-Ethiopian trouble, because the Italian film market is an important one.

A gigantic motion picture stage is being erected at the Twentieth Century-Fox studios as a memorial to the late WILL ROGERS. . . . Director CECIL B. DEMILLE was asked how it feels to be the director of a great picture, such as "The Crusades," which he recently finished. The famous director answered, "Great, when it's finished, but the sensation while making the picture was exactly like going through the throes of motherhood. "I endure agonies during production. I want my 'child' to be the best and most beautiful—and it takes a lot of suffering to bring that about." . . . MIRIAM HOPKINS and MERLE OBERON will be co-starred in the forthcoming Samuel Goldwyn screen adaptation of Lillian Hellman's "The Children's Hour."

See you tomorrow!

City Opera Opens Season on Nov. 2 with Magnificent Schedule

And Lowest Prices in Its History

One World and at Least One American Premiere Are Promised.

By Hazel Moore.

WITH the opening of the Chicago City Opera company's season on Saturday night, Nov. 2, the operatic center of the city will shift from the Auditorium, where Fortune Gallo and his itinerant dollar opera company has been regaling large crowds with operatic fare, to the Civic Opera house over on the river, where Paul Longone and his associates of the newly organized company plan to present bigger and better opera.

Famous names and high plans have emanated from the executive offices of the company, together with encouraging reports as to the advance subscriptions, and public interest in Chicago's latest operatic venture. News of important revivals, standard répertoire, at least one American première performance, and one world première have whetted the appetites of those who take their opera seriously. A renowned staf of conductors has been engaged, and all would seem to be in readiness for the grand gala opening next Saturday evening.

The management points with pride to the fact that admission prices are lower this season than at any time since Chicago's opera took possession of the new Civic Opera house. Present prices for seats range from a low of 50 cents to a $3 top, for the best main floor seats. Boxes are from $20 to $40, a third to a half below pre-depression prices. Promises are that the artistic level of performances of former years will be maintained, and, it is hoped, even bettered.

According to Mr. Longone, reduced prices have resulted in the necessity of better buying, and all artists signed with the present company have been specifically picked for the rôles they are to sing, and not, as in the old days, engaged for a large number of performances impossible to sing. Guest artists from the Metropolitan opera of New York will appear from time to time, to all intents and purposes resident members of the company.

As in the last two seasons, performances will be given on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Saturday nights and Saturday matinée, omitting Thursday nights in favor of the Symphony concerts, and except for specially announced performances, leaving the theater dark on Friday and Sunday nights. The season will run for five weeks from the opening on Nov. 2.

Gennaro Papi Again Musical Director.

Gennaro Papi will again guide the musical destiny of the company in the capacity of musical director. Associated with him will be Richard Hageman, Henry Weber, Jerzy Bojanowski, and Frank Waller as conductors. Mr. Hageman returns from a number of years' sojourn on the continent, where he devoted his time to conducting and to composition. His opera, "Caponèsachi," was given a world première at Dresden, where it was loudly acclaimed, and it has been presented in various cities of Germany since that time. Mr. Hageman was for thirteen years conductor of the Metropolitan, and with Maestro Papi divided the conducting répertoire of the Ravinia Opera company for seven years. Mr. Weber and Mr. Waller are well known hereabouts as conductors, and Mr. Bojanowski will make himself known as a conductor of opera a little later in the season.

Desire Defrere will return as stage director. He has been borrowed from the Metropolitan for the duration of the Chicago season. His great familiarity with the standard répertoire should make him invaluable. Ruth Page will again head the ballet, and Harry W. Beatty, the titan of stage directors, will again manage affairs back stage.

Important among the revivals of the season are the opening night, "Mefistofele," the Bolto Faust. This opera has not been done here for some ten years. It was first put on in Chicago as a vehicle for the great Chaliapin, and memories of the famous Brocken scene as staged at that time are still bright. An all-star cast is announced to sing the opening performance, with Ezio Pinza, one of the great singing actors of today, in the title rôle. Edith Mason will sing Marguerite, a rôle which she has sung in previous presentations here. Eleanor LaMance will be new to the rôle of the beauteous Helen, and Ada Paggi to Pantalis. Faust will be sung by Franco Forest, American tenor find of Mr. Longone, who will make his Chicago debut on this occasion. Gennaro Papi will hurry back from directing the overlapping St. Louis opera season to conduct the opening night.

"La Fiamma" Has U. S. Premiere, "The Gale," World.

"Don Giovanni," the second of the revivals to be sung, will be given on Monday night, the second performance of the season. The cast, in at least three important instances, is the same as that which was sung at the Salzburg festival last summer when Toscanini conducted, namely, Pinza as Don Giovanni, Edith Mason as Zerlina, and Virgilio Lazzari as the don's man Friday. Others in the cast will be Giuseppi Bentonelli, Anna Leskaya, Julia Peters, and Leon Rothier. Richard Hageman will conduct.

The two première performances will take place later in the season. The first is the American première of "La Fiamma," by Resphigi, which scored a tremendous success in Italy and South America with Claudia Muzio as the protagonist. Rosa Raisa is returning to sing the part here. The first performance anywhere of Ethel Leginska's opera in one act, called "The Gale," is the other novelty.

Other announced revivals are to be "Thaïs," presented for the first time since Mary Garden resigned the rôle. Helen Jepson, blonde beauty of the Metropolitan, will essay the famous courtesan rôle, and, it is whispered, is now here conferring with Miss Garden as to the way to win a monk's heart and save one's own soul.

Symphony Concert Honors Paderewski; Schelling Soloist.

The Thursday and Friday concerts of the Chicago Symphony orchestra this week at Orchestra hall offer a particularly attractive program. The addition of Ernest Schelling, pianist, who will appear as the first of the season's soloists, to the list of guest artists is occasioned by Dr. Stock's desire to pay honor on the seventy-fifth anniversary of his birth to Ignace Jan Paderewski, famed Polish pianist and composer, who was born on Nov. 6, 1860.

Ernest Schelling, who ranks as one of America's outstanding pianists and composers, was for three years Paderewski's only pupil. Today he is one of the interesting musical figures of the country, known as a great pianist and a composer of note. His "Victory Ball" has appeared a number of times on the Symphony programs, and he has also played his own "Morocco" here.

The works to be performed on the program in celebration of the great Polish statesman include Wagner's overture, "Polonia," Beethoven's Symphony No. 5 in C minor, Paderewski's Symphony in B minor, and the Paderewski Polish Fantasie for piano and orchestra, played by Mr. Schelling.

Paderewski Symphony First Played Here in 1909.

The Paderewski symphony was written in 1908 and given its first American performance by the Boston orchestra in February, 1909. Dr. Stock gave the first Chicago performance of the work in March of the same year. The symphony was composed by Paderewski as a patriotic tribute to Poland, in celebration of the Polish revolution against Russia in 1863-'64.

The fantasie was composed in 1893 and first played here by Theodore Thomas in 1896. It has been played a number of times since, twice by Mr. Schelling.

The second of the popular concerts played by the orchestra on Saturday night will include such perennial favorites as Nicolai's overture to "The Merry Wives of Windsor," Dvorak's "New World" Symphony, dances from Massenet's "Le Cid," the Dance of the Nymphs and Satyrs from George Schuman's "Amor and Psyche," and waltzes from Johann Strauss' operetta, "The Bat."

San Carlo Is a "Bracer" for Grand Opera

Auditorium, Abandoned When Civic Arose, Is Again Taxed to Limit.

STATISTICS are usually dull, but a few of those in connection with the triumphant season of the San Carlo Opera company, now entering on its third and final week at the Auditorium, can scarcely be so considered. Fortune Gallo, head of the San Carlo group, insists that he is only living up to his name, and that he has helped to bring prosperity to the music business in Chicago. Certainly the old Auditorium, cast off as Chicago's leading opera house when the new Insull Civic Opera house arose on Wacker drive, has shaken the dust from its galleries and taken on a new lease of life.

During the San Carlo engagement the 3,665 capacity of the Auditorium has been taxed at each performance. The dollar top price has completely filled the orchestra seats and the boxes have sold as easily as the cheaper balcony and gallery seats. This newly achieved box patronage has added materially to the recorded intake at the box office. Thus the revenue from "Rigoletto," sung by Lucille Meusel, Dimitri Onofrei, and Moystan Thomas in the first week of the engagement, was the greatest of any performance in all of Gallo's previous years in Chicago, and the intake, Monday throughout Thursday of the opening week, was almost as great as for any whole week of the company's many Chicago appearances. And yet Mr. Gallo insists that he is playing to a losing engagement as he watches the numbers turned away each night.

"Jewels of the Madonna" to Be Sung for First Time Monday.

The third and final week of the San Carlo engagement offers several repetitions and two operas not previously sung. Tonight's "Carmen" will bring a repetition of Ina Bourskaya's literate Carmen and afford Josepha Chekova the opportunity to repeat the Micaela of her successful debut last week. Lindi, Thomas, and Kravitt complete the cast.

On Monday night Wolf Ferrari's "Jewels of the Madonna," an opera being sung for the first time by the Gallo company in Chicago, will be Given. Bianca Saroya will sing the rôle created by Carolina White in the opera's American première at the Auditorium, and later taken over by Rosa Raisa. Onofrei will be the Gennaro and Valle the Raphaele.

Tuesday night's repeat of "Samson and Delilah," with Cyrena Van Gordon, will be on the series of the Northwestern accredited course on the "History and Enjoyment of Music," with Felix Borowski featured as lecturer and commentator.

Ljungberg Will Be Protagonist of "Tosca."

The second and last new opera of the week will be "Tosca," on Wednesday night, with Goeta Ljungberg as the protagonist, Lindi as Cavarodossi, and Valle as the villainous Scarpia before whom all Rome trembled.

With a few changes of cast the final week-end operas are all repetitions. "Aida," on Thursday night, will be sung by an unchanged cast. "Faust," on Friday night, will present Mary McCormic as Marguerite. The Saturday matinée of "Butterfly" will have an unchanged cast. The third "Carmen" of the engagement on Saturday night will have two changes—Onofrei will sing Don José and the Chicago soprano, Janet Fairbank, will appear for the first time this season as Frasquita.

The popular cast of the first "Trovatore," Saroya, Lindi, Thomas, and Kravitt, will bring the season to a close in a repetition of Verdi's most popular opera and the Gallo company will start on its long trek across the country, a living negation of the current belief that opera is on the wane.

News of Interest to Lovers of Music.

Berta Ochsner will present a program of new dance forms at the Goodman theater Sunday evening, Nov. 3. During the last two seasons Miss Ochsner has been devoting herself to the development of original material, and the study of new themes at the Bennington School of the Dance under the direction of Martha Graham and John Martin. She is featuring two numbers arranged to music of the Chicago composers, Hazel Felman and Robert Wolf.

The Women's Symphony orchestra announces the opening of its tenth anniversary season at the Studebaker theater Sunday afternoon, Nov. 10. On the opening program Miss Ebba Sundstrom, conductor of the orchestra, will appear as violin soloist, resigning her baton for the moment to Miss Gladys Welge, assistant conductor of the Women's Symphony and conductor of the Oak Park Symphony orchestra.

The Columbia Broadcasting system, in coöperation with the Juilliard School of Music, is about to offer a new series of twenty programs entitled "Understanding Opera," featuring noted artists.

HEADS A NEW OPERA CAST

Helen Jepson is the blonde beauty of the Metropolitan Opera company who will head the "All-American" cast of "Thais," in the revival to be staged by the Chicago City opera at the Civic Opera house on Nov. 11. Miss Jepson will sing the role made famous by Mary Garden. John Charles Thomas will be co-starred with her.

Opera on the Wane? Never, Says Gallo

ANNOUNCEMENT by Lawrence Tibbett, almost simultanously with Mary Garden, that grand opera is on the wane, brings a quick and disdainful sniff from Fortune Gallo, deep in the first weeks of the twenty-sixth consecutive annual tour of his San Carlo Opera company. The tour will extend to the Pacific coast, to three provinces in Canada, and is booked into April, 1936, so the impresario cannot see just where grand opera is waning.

"When I started there were three grand opera companies, the Metropolitan, the Chicago, and the San Carlo," he says. "At that time about ten cities heard the two resident companies. There still are the Metropolitan, the Chicago—rechristened ever so often, but still the Chicago—and the San Carlo, and if the two resident companies don't tour quite so much, the San Carlo tours lots more.

"One hundred and fifty cities hear grand opera every season now. Possibly fifty or sixty heard it twenty-five years ago, sometimes not so many as that, even.

"There are more opera companies and more opera audiences now than ever before in the history of this country. Mary McCormic is getting ready to organize one. There are local companies in fifteen cities or more.

"Patronage is getting bigger all the time and management is getting better all the time. I understand that the Metropolitan had a million dollar deficit four or five seasons ago. Last season it was virtually nothing. In the days of the old Chicago management the guarantors had to make up $500,000 to $1,000,000 every year. Last season the deficit was $78,000. And as for the San Carlo, well, since I haven't any guarantors, I just can't have any deficits, can I?

"None of that sounds as though opera is waning, does it?

"These announcements that grand opera is on the wane, or even is dying, come up ever so often. I guess I ought to be used to them by now. Galli-Curci said 'grand opera is dead' five years ago. That was when she was retiring from it.

"But Lawrence Tibbett isn't retiring from it, and Mary Garden doesn't need to. She can still pack the Auditorium any time she wants to.

"Grand opera gave Tibbett the prominence that carried his voice to all the rest of music-loving America. Grand opera gave Miss Garden a name that never will die in music history. And it is more powerful now than it was when it did those things.

"I am afraid that Tibbett is so busy acting in the movies and Miss Garden is so happy teaching her technic of drama and song to her classes of artist students that they just haven't had a good opportunity to find out how much grand opera there really is nowadays."

In view of the overflow audiences to which the San Carlo opera is playing in its current engagement at the Auditorium, it would seem that Mr. Gallo knows whereof he speaks.

Madam, You're Fat!

The Tribune Will Tell You What to Do About It

Scientific Diet Conquers Obesity

By ELEANOR NANGLE

MADAM, you're fat!

It's sneaked up on you, this fat. As the years rolled by your dress size rolled up. Through these years you've been good-natured about it, laughing a little at the inevitable crack that where you'd love to take off a few pounds, one or two of your friends can't seem to gain one. Then you stopped thinking about it, although on certain occasions you prophesied a diet which you never got around to. You'd read about what wonders exercise would do, and you told yourself firmly that from now on you'd be at that open window at 7 a. m. doing physical jerks. Maybe you even did them for a while. You were going to cut down on sweets or bread, or follow one of those marvelous routines a friend of a friend always seems to know about. But in the long run nothing much happened except that the pounds kept piling up.

Then one day you discovered that what you'd been kidding yourself into thinking was plumpness was fat—and plenty of it. Your shadow loomed large before you. The salesgirl gave you a funny look when you asked for a thirty-eight, and you gave yourself even a funnier look when what you finally climbed into was a forty-two, and tight at that.

This awakening to the fact that you're just plain fat comes about in any one of a number of ways—a husband's comment, a snapshot of yourself, or the suit you paid good money for and find you can't wear.

But post-mortems on how all the fat came into being are pointless. The question is, "What are you going to do about it?"

Are you going to follow the tragic example of thousands of fat women and approach every source but the right one for assistance in meeting your problem? Are you going to appeal to the beauty operator who knows nothing of physiology or medicine? Are you going to fall victim to one of the thousands of amateurs who airily prescribe this diet or that? Or are you going to resort to a drug, usually the ghastly one, dinitrophenol?

Don't. Go instead to a physician. Resort to what is now known as diet therapy, under the direction of a physician wise in the ways of women. One who knows that the often-met physician's statement, "You're healthy; don't worry if you're fat," is a bad answer to the woman who wants to get thin.

Since May 10 of this year The Chicago Tribune has conducted the ideal reducing regimen, directed by a physician. It looked for a fat woman and found one, Mrs. Dorothy Cox, a woman of 50; weight, 229 pounds, who for the previous five years had weighed 250 to 275 pounds. The Tribune deliberately chose a woman who was excessively overweight because in such a woman it would meet all difficulties.

Dr. Irving S. Cutter, health editor of The Tribune and dean of the Northwestern medical school, referred the subject for a sound dietary program to a Chicago specialist. Before starting the regimen this physician made a complete physical and laboratory examination of Mrs. Cox, who spent two days at Passavant hospital. All findings of this examination showed that Mrs. Cox was a normal woman with obesity, and the doctor successfully undertook to reduce her by sound dietary treatment.

It is interesting to note that for nine weeks before the physician directed her reducing regimen Mrs. Cox had kept herself on a diet—the sort of diet the average fat woman feels is a sure thing. All her life Mrs. Cox had had the food habits that led her to eat large quantities of starches, breads, sweet desserts, potatoes, and candies. She was active physically, doing all her own housework in addition to a part-time daily position which called for a good deal of physical effort. Her own idea of a diet on which to lose weight made her menus something like this:

BREAKFAST

½ grapefruit Coffee

LUNCHEON

1 egg Portion of head lettuce
½ grapefruit Coffee

DINNER

2 oz. meat Portion of head lettuce
½ grapefruit Coffee

The above amateur attempt to direct her own diet was a dangerously unsound step, but, like all such, its harm would have been cumulative rather than immediate. Mrs. Cox was, of course, always hungry, but her will was fortified by the fact that from March 7 until May 14 she had lost 13 pounds.

The physician who was to direct her reducing regimen immediately called a halt to this diet. The loss of the 13 pounds had been deceiving; her tissues had lost approximately that much water, and, of course, her health had been endangered. Continued reduction by this method would have been highly dangerous.

The underlying principle of the completely scientific reducing routine, or diet therapy, which the physician followed with Mrs. Cox was the maintenance of metabolic equilibrium, with the restriction of calories lower than her needs. The arrangement of the proportions of carbohydrates, proteins, and fat in her diet was planned with scientific exactness.

The physician in charge instructs his patients personally in the fundamentals of good food habits. Wax models of food are used so that the patient may visualize definite portions. By the use of these models Mrs. Cox was taught to put the total amount of the allowed food for one day into three separate meals. In order that her interest might be constantly stimulated, and to insure a proper understanding of the diet, Mrs. Cox reported once a week, sample menus in hand, after her diet instruction was completed. The physician's dietitian, or the physician himself, discussed these menus with her and made corrections or changes.

Mrs. Cox, as has been said, had "food hobbies." She was pleasantly surprised when she learned that her food habits for the most part were not to be radically changed. In no sense of the word was she to starve herself. Never at any time during the reducing course did she know a moment of craving for any particular food.

The physician knew that a diet history of the woman who wants to reduce is important, and it was his wise wish to base Mrs. Cox's diet instruction around those habits rather than change them entirely.

Another consideration is always the woman's food budget. Mrs. Cox wished and was given a diet that could be followed on a definitly moderate budget.

On May 14 Mrs. Cox was instructed as to the first day's amount of food. The wax models were used so she could visualize the three meals she could eat on this day. The day's food allowance was as follows:

3 slices of bread, cut thin.
2 glasses of skim milk or buttermilk.
6 ounces of lean meat.
2 eggs.
2 slices of crisp bacon, if desired.
4 servings of vegetables (not starchy)
3 portions of fresh fruits or fruits cooked without sugar.

Visualizing this amount of food as the day's allowance, Mrs. Cox was able to plan for herself three adequate meals. After the starvation diet she had planned for herself she was inclined to believe that this new diet would never be effective.

Mrs. Dorothy Cox, subject of The Tribune's experiment in scientific reduction of the fat woman. When this picture was taken in May she weighed 229 pounds.

Mrs. Cox in September weighed 180 pounds. Reduction was accomplished easily and safely. Loss of weight is proportionate and she has no wrinkles.

Each day of the week Mrs. Cox planned the food she could have, always visualizing it in portions so that she had a mental picture of each meal. This plan was excellent in many ways. She could, for example, plan her meals around the family menus to a great extent.

It was to her own astonishment, since she was eating adequate meals and never felt hungry, that Mrs. Cox lost 30½ pounds from May 14 to Aug. 13. She continued to lose at the average rate of 2½ pounds a week. While she had been on the self-planned diet, in which grapefruit, lean meat, coffee, and lettuce had been the principal items, she had felt the usual discomfort of the woman who is unknowingly starving herself. Between her sparse meals she had struggled with her own desire for food, principally for sweets. She also had torturing headaches and a general feeling of extreme lassitude. To top this there had been the discouraging revelation that while she was losing weight, as the scales showed, her face had become haggard and the flesh soft.

Under the diet therapy directed by her physician Mrs. Cox never knew hunger or lassitude. Furthermore, because she had been instructed in good food habits, she escaped boredom with her diet. Above all, in her enormous weight loss — the drop from 240 pounds to 175—her flesh did not become flabby. Where twin chins had been, one firm one remains. Her face is unwrinkled. The flesh of her arms is as firm as it was when she was fat, though there isn't nearly so much of it!

A Wrong Method May Endanger Your Health

Mrs. Cox was a good patient, as any intelligent woman who wants to reduce should be. She did not cheat on her diet. She did her utmost to understand the principles of good food habits. Planning her menus became easy for her. Her judgment about her food selections and portions became increasingly sound. It was rarely that the physician or the physician's dietitian overruled her, and usually then only when the doctor felt that her foods should be changed because her dietary needs had changed. This fidelity to her diet, however, was abetted by the fact that she never felt the need of more food or even of different food. She grew to know diet so well that she escaped monotony as she planned her own adequate, sound meals.

The physician felt that Mrs. Cox represented one fat woman who did not need more exercise than she obtained daily. She was obese purely because of wrong food habits, not only overeating but eating the wrong things. She was not put on any course of exercise. In short, Mrs. Cox's reduction was accomplished with very little real change in her regular habits. She escaped all of the difficulties of the woman who approaches reduction incorrectly.

The world is apparently full of self-appointed dietetic theorists. The fallacy of flatly advising food habits for the individual when knowledge of that individual's needs is totally lacking is obvious. The Tribune's aim in conducting the experiment, with a much overweight woman as the subject, is to encourage the fat woman to reduce sanely and to point out to her that sane reduction is simpler, less expensive, safer, and infinitely more satisfactory.

Only a complete physical examination and careful taking of food history will reveal why a woman is fat. The cause, or the mechanism, of obesity is something to be determined by the physician. The course of treatment should be directed by the physician with a keen interest in dietetics. Freak diets are dangerous. Even self-supervised cutting down on the intake of food, harmless enough on the surface, may be latently dangerous. Mrs. Cox was typical of many women when she undertook her own reducing program. To have continued it not only would have marred her appearance but would have imperiled her health.

Not so widely followed, fortunately, as the diets promiscuously recommended is the use of drugs, although it is true that reducing drugs have taken a terrific toll recently. All over the country the drug known as dinitrophenol has lately been introduced in various forms as a reducing agent. It is deadly. It increases metabolism to a frightful pitch. There have been deaths from its continued use, and in one city alone not long ago physicians were appalled to discover some forty cases of cataract in young women and old following its use. Medical efforts are being made to prevent the sale of this drug. In the meantime it is being widely used. The most frequent method of peddling it is from door to door, with a slender, attractive woman as the agent. She carries with her letters of testimony and photographs of herself before and after taking the "cure," which now is being sold under several names.

The interesting fact is that the agent may be peddling it in all honesty. She has lost weight by it; so have the writers of the testimonial letters. It is just about impossible not to lose weight when taking dinitrophenol. But the aftermath, usually revealed some time after reduction is accomplished, almost invariably is disastrous.

The woman who reduces scientifically and sanely, as Mrs. Cox did, is protected. Having established good food habits, she need never again become overweight. Seasonal foods are fitted into her menu, whether it be for maintenance of her present weight or for reduction. Mrs. Cox, as may be seen by the typical menus printed on this page, had meals of variety and of moderate price. In her fourth week of the physician-directed diet therapy she was able to plan her meals unassisted. On days when she did not fancy a glass of skimmed milk she had cottage cheese, which happens to be a food preference of hers. If she had one slice of bread for dinner she had one-half slice for breakfast and for lunch. At no time was she in danger of injuring her digestive system even slightly.

It should be understood that the diet prescribed for Mrs. Cox was chosen for her individually; it is not a diet for anyone else. The course of reduction, intelligent authorities feel, should be directed by the physician, because only the physician is qualified to prescribe for the individual, to see the whole picture. Not even the expert dietitian should be permitted to offer a regimen for the individual who wishes to reduce. The sound reducing diet is prescribed by the physician to meet the carefully determined needs of the individual.

Psychologically, physicians say, women often benefit materially by reduction. This is true in the case of Mrs. Cox. Her pride in being fitted to a 42 dress instead of a size 52 knows no bounds. For the first time in her life she is using lipstick. She feels as though she is regaining her youth as she slides down the weight scale!

This is the first of a series of three articles about The Tribune's experiment in reducing a fat woman. In the belief that drugs and all diets other than those prescribed by a physician with full knowledg of the individual's state of health and dietetic requirements are unsatisfactory, Mrs. Cox's reduction was directed by a physician. Succeeding articles will deal further with the experiment and its spectacular results.

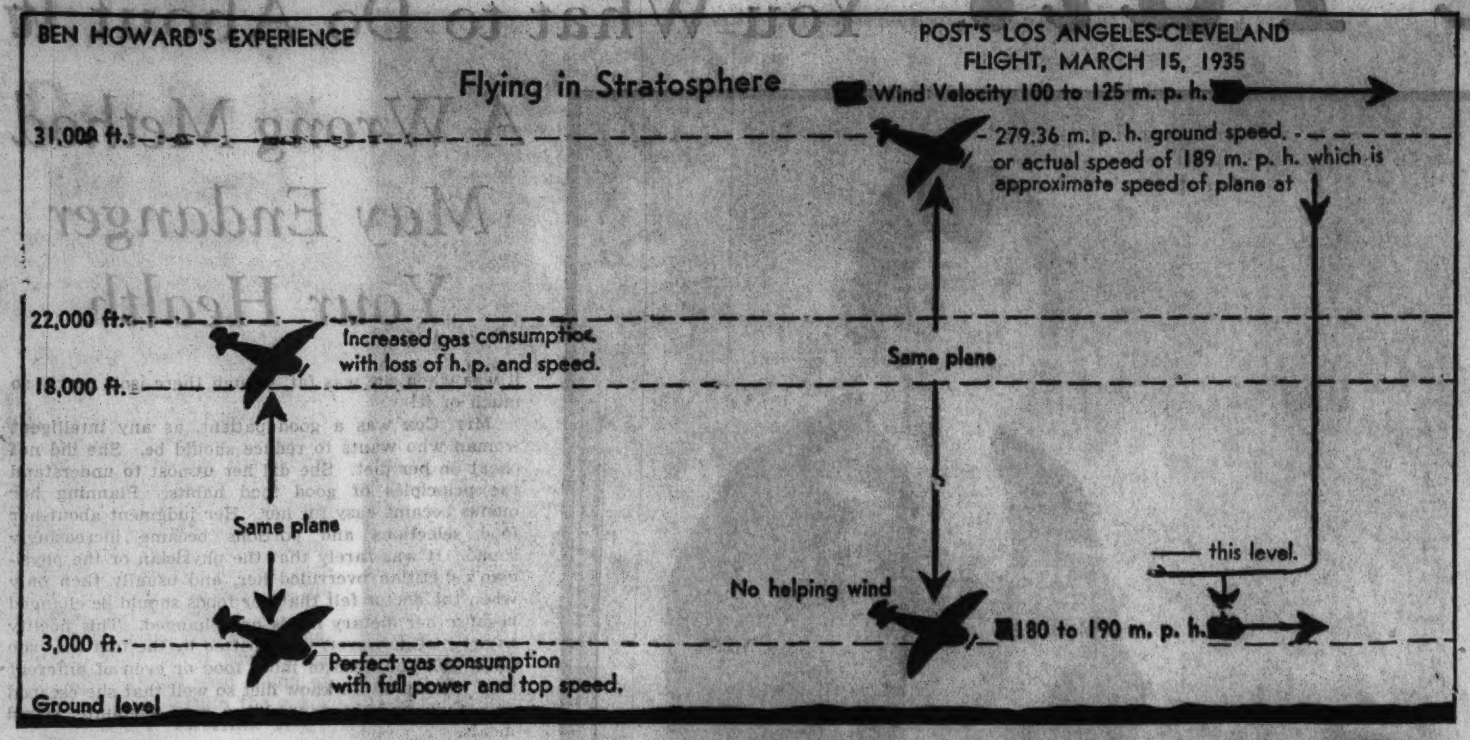
Airplanes and Air Transport



Flights in Stratosphere Prove Disappointing

By WAYNE THOMIS

THE late Wiley Post's dream of superspeeds in modern airplanes without added horsepower through flight in the stratosphere or substratosphere apparently is destined to remain only a dream for some years.

Experiments in high-altitude flight made during the last eighteen months convinced half a dozen different scientists and airmen, including Post himself, that airplanes equipped with the gasoline fuel motors of today do not develop the anticipated high speeds in the thin air at heights from 25,000 to 30,000 feet.

The conclusions of these men, reached independently after exhaustive studies of engine and ship both on the ground and in high-flying tests of their equipment, show that, despite mathematical calculations based on the known laws of physics, there is no appreciable gain in air speed in high-altitude flight.

On the contrary, most of the experimenters discovered that speeds of their ships at extreme heights—from 22,000 to 35,000 feet—were considerably less than at lower levels—those ranging from 14,000 to 17,000 feet. Moreover, gasoline consumption at heights above 20,000 feet rose far beyond limits of previous calculations.

Probably the best authority on the subject was Post. He had spent most of his own money in experiments which covered a full year and had continued his work under the patronage of Frank Phillips, Bartlesville, Okla., oil king, until shortly before his fatal crash with Will Rogers near Point Barrow, Alaska.

In his efforts to set a new world's altitude record and his attempts to fly nonstop from Los Angeles to New York during the spring and summer, Post spent more time at high altitudes than any other person in the world.

Shortly before he left Los Angeles on his last air journey he confided to friends that he was "extremely disappointed" in the results of his "laboratory" work. Astonished at this revelation, the friends pointed out that he held the world's speed duration record by flying 2,045 miles from Los Angeles to Cleveland, where he was forced down at the average speed of 279.36 miles an hour on last March 15.

Post, according to the reports of those close to him, said that he had encountered a wind directly from the west with a velocity of from 100 to 125 miles an hour at approximately 31,000 feet on that day. He said his excessively high average speed was due entirely to its help.

Examination of air line weather maps for March 15 disclosed that there were extremely high-velocity westerly winds all the way across the country at lower levels as well. This tends to bear out Post's explanation for his high speed.

In its abbreviated form—landing gear dropped—the Winnie Mae, Post's famous Lockheed Vega cabin monoplane in which he had twice circled the world in record-breaking flights, was capable of cruising at from 180 to 190 miles an hour at ground level, according to Post.

At altitude, he had hoped, this speed would be increased to from 270 to 330 miles an hour. In actual fact, by deducting 90 miles an hour, a conservative figure which would represent the speed added by the helping wind, the Winnie Mae cruised at 189 miles an hour at top altitude. This is no more than ground level speed, and probably his air speed at altitude was considerably less, but it is impossible at this time to determine just what it actually was.

Other facts that are illuminating, such as gasoline consumption during the high-altitude flights, manifold pressures, and revolutions of the propeller per minute, which would enable engineers to determine what horsepower the motor delivered and what the speed would have been with the same horsepower at ground level, are not available. It is understood that this important information was handed to Transcontinental and Western Air, the commercial transport line which lent Post the aid of its meteorological staf.

During the last six months the company, at the behest of its vice president, Jack Frye, who clearly saw the benefits possible if 250 to 300 mile an hour speeds could be obtained from transport air liners by flying them at 30,000 feet, has made experiments on its own.

Tommy Tomlinson, one of TWA's best pilots, and the original Douglas DC-1 air liner, prototype of the DC-2 transports which are so popular on the major air lines here and abroad, have been detailed to this work alone. The big Douglas, with highly supercharged Cyclone motors, has been flown to its extreme ceiling throughout the summer, and Tomlinson and other engineers and flyers have made careful checks of every aspect of such flying.

Although details of their flights have not been released, it is known that the company encountered the same difficulties that proved troublesome for Post.

Much the same type of experimental flying has been done by United Air Lines pilots, and they also agreed that results were far from gratifying. Both the air line companies, it is understood at this time, have abandoned hope of getting inexpensive speed at high altitude.

The air line operators, surveying the problems involved in supplying oxygen to passengers and pilots of airplanes flying in the thin-air strata and recognizing that at this stage of aviation development they have nothing to gain by flying high, have determined that they will not urge manufacturers to provide supercharged cabins.

Only in cases where air liners flying at 10,000 to 12,000 feet encounter storms which might cause the pilots to climb up to 20,000 or 21,000 feet to escape the blind flying and the "beating" which the ship and passengers would take in turbulent, storm-torn air, is high-altitude flying worth while, the operations officers say. The new, larger, faster transport planes which will be in operation on the air lines within the next year will be equipped with oxygen tanks to cope with emergencies.

Release of the gas will maintain sufficient pressure in the cabin to compensate for the dropping of outside pressure, and the heating system of the plane will compensate for increasing cold as heights are reached. These preparations will suffice for short intervals during which airplanes are at such comparatively moderate substratosphere altitudes.

All the difficulties of the experimenters centered in their motors. A motor, exactly like a human, must have oxygen in order to burn the gasoline fuel which is pumped into its cylinders. And, exactly as a human has difficulty in obtaining oxygen for lungs at altitudes above 14,000-15,000 feet, so has a motor.

Superchargers, which are merely fans built into a motor to pack thin air into the intake manifold until it is as dense as air at sea level, have overcome the choking of motors up to heights of approximately 20,000 feet. The supercharging can be arranged so that the motor has sea level pressure in its manifold at any given altitude up to between four and five miles.

In the stratosphere flying test pilots discovered that even though a motor was rated to develop its sea level horsepower at from 25,000 to 30,000 feet, the engine was unable to do so. Gasoline was imperfectly burned and fuel consumption charts showed that engines drank petrol at rates far beyond those of normal lower-altitude functioning.

Neither Post, TWA, nor United Air Lines has released any findings, but Ben O. Howard, veteran air line pilot and a designer, builder, and ace flyer of racing aircraft, who has conducted some trials of high-altitude flying on his own time, and in his own famous cabin monoplane, Mister Mulligan, in which he won both the Bendix and Thompson trophy races at the 1935 National Air Races, recently explained some of the problems he discovered.

"I found when flying between 18,000 and 22,000 feet," said Howard, "that my gasoline consumption was so far out of line that I couldn't account for it in any way. Of course, I had prepared charts showing the power curve of my Wasp, and I took the temperature reading, the manifold pressure, and my revolutions per minute, and according to calculations made from these I was getting all the horsepower that could be expected.

"Nevertheless, I discovered that my speed was far less than that which I should have been making according to the mathematical calculations which took into account the horsepower and the lessened resistance of thin air at altitude. I checked those calculations a dozen times, and I am convinced that there is nothing wrong with the figures.

"It must be some other factor altogether, something which has been overlooked by the physicists, or some new factor which nobody has known about up to this time.

"I can make only one suggestion. I don't know whether I am right or not, but it is just possible that the composition of air at high altitudes, where it is undisturbed by turbulence, may be slightly different than the air closer to the ground.

"One explanation for the drinking of far more than normal gasoline consumption by motors would be the fact that molecules of air at altitude have less oxygen than air molecules under the 14.7 pounds pressure at sea level. This would also mean that although, according to instrument readings, we still would be getting full power from motors, actually we would be taking considerably less than indicated power."

And so, as explained above, the matter of high altitude flight and superspeeds without cost stands today. The mystery of physics or chemistry which apparently is preventing realization of Wiley Post's dream undoubtedly will be solved in time. Perhaps one solution will be the development of an entirely new type of power plant which will be unaffected by air pressure.

Bridge Brings Out Private Traits

By ELY CULBERTSON

I KNOW a great deal about the private lives of many persons whom I never have met and whom I never expect to see. They have told me all about it themselves. Every day I receive from 300 to 500 letters from bridge players everywhere, asking questions concerning bids, concerning plays, and, above all, concerning arguments which I am asked to settle. People often argue at the bridge table, and if they cannot settle the argument for themselves they write letters to me. Usually the letters are brief, yet unconsciously they disclose an entire lifetime. Bridge is the most human and most revealing game in the world.

Whether their game is played in a mansion or in the rear hall of a boarding house, those who sit around a bridge table cannot help betraying all their latent characteristics, their temperament, their mental capacity, the fineness of their souls, or their petty meannesses. Their letters not only reflect these traits but emphasize them, for whoever takes the trouble to sit down and write a question about bridge and then mail it must be pretty well stirred up about the game. Back of every letter is a human story which may reach high tragedy or low comedy, but which always mirrors the daily lives of those who write and those with whom they play.

My heart goes out to one woman whose letter contained only three lines. What a tragedy of human existence it revealed! In a shrinking, hesitant vein she told of an argument with her husband. It wasn't difficult to read between the lines that this argument was only one of many. On the issue at stake she was so manifestly right that there should never have been any question concerning it. But a violent storm of husbandly wrath had descended upon her.

Those few lines, so cautiously written, revealed her whole unhappy life. An intelligent woman, transformed into a browbeaten wife by a blustering, bullying husband.

I'm afraid my decision in her favor didn't help much. Of course, he simply told her that I was wrong, too. I hope she finds the release she deserves when she plays bridge with someone else, and that he finds lumps in his mashed potatoes—unless she mashes them.

I am happy to say that not many of the letters tell that type of story. Some of them have a rollicking note, telling of folk who look for real fun in the game and find it, even when questions arise. Others show the opposite side of the picture from the one above.

But all the letters are revealing and intriguing, each one a tribute to the game which has captured the fancy of millions.

Nearly all bridge players try their best to observe the ethics and the etiquet of the game. Sometimes they slip up and do something wrong because they do not realize that it is not supposed to be done. Let us analyze a typical case, in which a lesson may be found.

Mr. Dub Brown, whose bridge knowledge does not yet include the intricacies of the double finesse, deals, picks up his hand, sorts it with great deliberation, stares at it for several seconds, his lips making counting movements all the while, then shakes his head sadly — and passes. The next player also passes.

Mr. Expert Jones is Mr. Dub Brown's partner. He is vulnerable and should be cautious, but he has noticed Mr. Brown's hesitant pass, and he knows that Mr. Brown would not have been so doubtful if his hand had been weak. So Mr. Jones bids one spade on the following collection of junk:

♠Q10753 ♥A84 ♦K2 ♣653

Mr. Brown beams with joy when he hears his partner open the bidding, and when it is his turn to bid again he jumps to four spades, remarking as he lays down his hand for the dummy: "I'm glad you could bid, partner. I had almost a bid myself." His hand, which is now dummy, is:

♠AJ82 ♥KQ5 ♦843 ♣A94

Mr. Expert Jones is not nearly so pleased, feeling slightly aggrieved that Mr. Brown, after having already shown a good hand by a ten-second pass, should now have jumped to game. Philosophically Mr. Jones makes the best of it, and, since he finds a lucky division of the opponents' cards, he makes the game.

And now the question is, who should be thrown out of the game on his ear, the man who gave the information by hesitating or the man who took advantage of that hesitation by overbidding his hand?

Mr. Expert Jones should be ruled off the bridge turf for life. Even his kibitzing rights should be revoked. Mr. Jones has cheated, for he has taken advantage of information he knows he should not have received. It is not wrong to draw conclusions from the hesitations of one's opponents, but never must one be guilty of collusion by taking advantage of illegal information given by partner.

Mr. Dub Brown should be gently chided, and no more, for he meant no wrong.

Known to generations of whist and bridge players, the rule of eleven is today as important a part of bridge knowledge as it is possible to find. This mathematical rule may be used only when a player leads the fourth highest card of a suit of four cards or more. Since the proper lead from a long suit is usually the fourth highest, in order to give partner the benefit of using this rule of eleven, the rule is constantly valuable in a bridge game.

Here is how the rule is used: When a card is led which is fourth highest of its suit in the leader's hand you subtract the denomination (number of pips) of the card from the figure 11. The result is the number of cards in that suit, higher than the card led, which are held by the other three players. To illustrate:

	Dummy ♠K 5 2
Leader ♠Q J 8 7		Third Hand ♠A 10 9 3
	Declarer ♠6 4

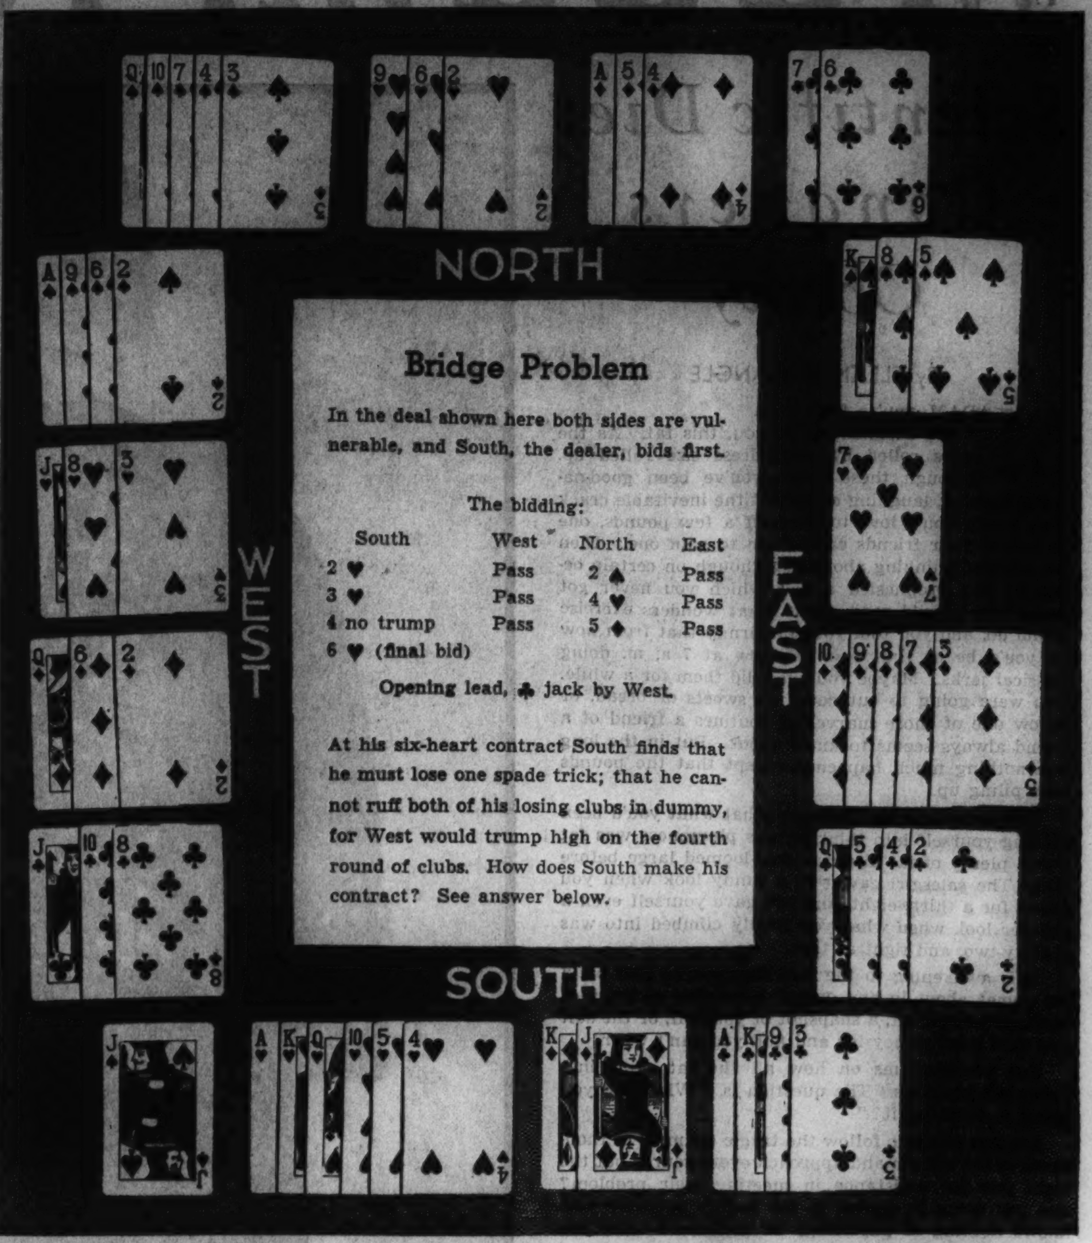
The leader opens the 7 of spades. Dummy plays the deuce. Third hand subtracts 7 from 11. The answer is 4. This means that four spades higher than the spade 7 are held by dummy, declarer, and third hand combined. Third hand can see in dummy one of these cards; in his own hand he has three of them. He knows that declarer has none. Therefore he plays the 3 of spades and the 7 wins the trick. The leader, still in the lead, can play through dummy's king again.

Most players of any experience have learned this rule, but many do not realize the full value to which it can be put, often by declarer, in cases such as the following:

	Dummy ♥8 3
Leader ♥A 9 7 6 2		Third Hand ♥K J 10
	Declarer ♥Q 5 4

The lead is the heart 6; third hand wins with the king and returns the heart jack. Declarer can see only his hand and the dummy, but he applies the rule of eleven. The 6, deducted from 11, leaves 5. Five hearts in the other three hands are higher than the 6. One, the 8, was in dummy; one, the queen, is held by declarer; three, obviously, were held by third hand, who has so far shown only two. Declarer covers the heart jack with his queen. Now the heart 10 must win the next trick and block the suit, for the leader, with two established hearts, will not have the lead and cannot immediately cash them.

Had the rule of eleven not indicated that another high heart was held by third hand, declarer would have played low on the heart jack, hoping that third hand would hold no more and could not lead the suit again.



SOLUTION: South wins the first trick with the club king and leads the spade jack. If West wins with the ace, South later enters dummy with the diamond ace and leads the spade queen; East covers, and South trumps, then re-enters dummy by ruffing a club and discards his last club on the spade 10. If West plays low on the spade jack, East wins with the spade king and returns a diamond. South wins the king, leads his high club and ruffs a club, then leads out all his hearts. West and East are reduced to two cards each. West must hold the spade ace and can hold only one diamond. East must hold the club queen and can hold only one diamond. Dummy saves two diamonds, which win the last two tricks.

TODAY'S QUESTIONS

Question: South, the dealer, bids one heart; West passes. You are North, and hold ♠6 ♥J75 ♦9643 ♣AJ532. What do you bid?

Answer: The best response is two hearts. While the hand does not contain quite enough in hearts to be counted as adequate trump support, which is Q x x or x x x x in partner's suit, the holding of J x x is nearly as good. A response of one no trump would be unfavorable because of singleton spade if partner passed. A response of one no trump would be unfortunate because of the singleton spade, if partner passed. A response of two clubs, which usually shows two honor tricks, might lead partner to rebid two no trump and be set. The raise to two hearts is the least of several evils. This is one of the exceedingly rare cases in which partner's suit may be raised without adequate trump support.

FAVORITE POEMS

ROBERT BROWNING, among whose dramatic romances was the "Incident of the French Camp," was born in Camberwell, London, May 7, 1812. When he was twelve years old he completed a volume of poetry entitled "Incondita," for which a publisher was sought in vain. He was sent to school when he was fourteen, but quit two years later. Much of his knowledge was acquired through the books in his father's extensive library. Among his earlier poems were "Pauline," "Paracelsus," and "Sordello." He wrote plays which were produced in London and a series of pamphlets called "Bells and Pomegranates," the first of which contained the well known "Pippa Passes." In 1868 there appeared, in four volumes, Browning's masterpiece, "The Ring and the Book." The poet died Dec. 12, 1889, and was buried in Westminster abbey.

INCIDENT OF THE FRENCH CAMP

You know, we French stormed Ratisbon:
A mile or so away,
On a little mound, Napoleon
Stood on our storming day;
With neck outthrust, you fancy how,
Legs wide, arms locked behind,
As if to balance the prone brow
Oppressive with its mind.

Just as perhaps he mused, "My plans,
That soar, to earth may fall,
Let once my army leader Lannes
Waver at yonder wall,"—
Out 'twixt the battery smokes there flew
A rider, bound on bound
Full galloping; nor bridle drew
Until he reached the mound.

Then off there flung in smiling joy,
And held himself erect
By just his horse's mane, a boy;
You hardly could suspect—
(So tight he kept his lips compressed, Scarce any blood came through)—
You looked twice ere you saw his breast
Was all but shot in two.

"Well," cried he, "Emperor, by God's grace
We've got you Ratisbon!
The marshal's in the market place,
And you'll be there anon
To see your flag bird flap his vans
Where I, to heart's desire,
Perched him!" The chief's eye flashed; his plans
Soared up again like fire.

The chief's eye flashed; but presently
Softened itself, as sheathes
A film the mother eagle's eye
When her bruised eaglet breathes;
"You're wounded!" "Nay," the soldier's pride
Touched to the quick, he said:
"I'm killed, sire!" and his chief beside,
Smiling, the boy fell dead.

Life at Illinois—As It Is Lived by the Girl Student

What Campus Days Do for the Co-ed

By MARGARET SCULLY

FLAT as the prairie which surrounds it, the campus of Illinois is a rambling place, beautified by tall and stately trees, wide stretches of well kept lawn, and handsome ivy-covered buildings. In the fall the scent of burning leaves tickles the nostrils. The softness of Indian summer mellows the sunlight. The spirit of Illinois comes into its own.

To the freshman girl at Urbana, university life is a bewildering whirl. There is the mad round of sorority rushing. Within the space of five days the sororities select their pledges. The new girls move at once into the sorority houses, scattered on each side of the campus in the two cities of Urbana and Champaign.

When the freshman girl is once settled, whether in a sorority or elsewhere, campus life gets off to a fast start with the clang of spoon against glass at one of the first evening meals; this is the prelude to a string of announcements that turns the hardiest a bit pale. But out of the bewilderment and chaos comes order. In one way or another new students are smoothly swung out into the main stream of college life. It is a case of sink or swim—and most of them swim.

Tall girls, short girls, pretty ones, and plain girls—3,000 of them throng the campus. There are few classic beauties, but, taken in the aggregate, co-eds at Illinois are exceptionally attractive. Taste in dress is marked by simplicity and suitability. For classes, skirts, with cardigan sweaters open at the neck or brightened with bandana handkerchiefs; hand-knit sweaters; trim tweed suits or simple jersey dresses. Their shoes, always low-heeled, are most often oxfords with outside tongues. They wear almost no makeup, and hats and gloves are unknown to them for daytime wear.

They troop down the broadwalk from University hall to the library. They sit and smoke in Hanley's or Kammerers', favorite haunts adjoining the campus for between-class refreshments. They dance at Bradley's on Friday and Saturday nights. They study in the handsome and spacious library, or sit up half the night with their cronies discussing politics, philosophy, the latest book, or each other. From the round of their activities evolves life at Illinois.

It's quite a life. To those who have come solely for intellectual stimulation and guidance, the cultural aspects of an education, the opportunity is there, knocking not once but often.

The relationship between student and professor is sometimes formal, sometimes informal, but favorite teachers are not confined to either group. Prof. William Oldfather, one of the brilliant members of the teaching staf, puts his personality into his lectures on Greek and Roman history, literature, and culture. Prof. Paul Jacob enlivens his French classes with anecdote. Paul Landis, who teaches English, reads aloud to his students in a deep, sonorous voice. Bruce Weirick, also of the English department, is liked because the unexpected can be counted on to happen in his classes. Robert Henderson and Richard Hadley, both teaching speech, are popular. English classes with Leah Trelease are admitted to be hard work, but worth it, for her students find her clever and kindly.

For those who would temper intellectual pursuit with outside interests, campus activities are legion.

Of a few it might be said that the proper aim of their college career is to be a "big shot." Others aim at being a social success, which at Illinois, with the prevailing ratio of four men to one girl, is fairly easy from the feminine point of view.

It is an important life to all of them. To approximately 300 of the feminine students it is important enough to put in long working hours in various occupations that range from clerical work to waiting on table—at 35 cents an hour—for the privilege of being at Illinois. The working girl, the wise professor knows, can be counted on to be a serious student. She may not be brilliant, but she has come for an education—an education in the professor's sense of the word.

About a third of all the women in the university live in sorority houses. Theirs is a gay life. The social whirl is part and parcel of their college career. For a girl student the romance, the glamor emanates from the sorority house. Many of the houses at Illinois, and there are approximately thirty, are palatial. Downstairs quarters are usually luxurious. Decorated for homecoming, beautified for a house dance, they symbolize a college education for many a girl.

The sorority house provides a background and a point of view. Sororities smooth the way for their pledges. The guiding spirits of a sorority house see to it that the incoming members meet suitable escorts and plenty of them. They whisk them off in groups to learn the ropes of Woman's league, the Y. W. C. A., the Woman's Athletic association, Theater guild. They supervise their studies and watch their grades. Close friendships are as a rule confined to the group. They study together, go to classes together, eat together, and play together. With thirty or forty girls in a house from whom to choose, they inevitably find a few companions with whose views and opinions they are in complete accord.

At right: Map of the campus of the University of Illinois, showing the locations of a number of the university buildings of special interest to girl students, some of the better known meeting places, and some of the sorority houses. A key to the map appears below.

The nonsorority girl, who from choice or necessity remains "independent." will tell you that socially her life is not smooth sledding. On the other hand, Maria Leonard, dean of women, believes that the nonsorority girl loses nothing. She points out that the independents are automatically privileged to be members of "groups." One large dormitory may constitute such a group in itself; or, for the girl who is living in a smaller rooming house, her group is determined by geographical location. The groups have the same activities as sororities. On Monday nights, when sororities have their chapter meetings, the groups have their meetings, too. The groups compete in a "sing" comparable to the sorority "Shi-Ai" sing, and their loving cup is every bit as handsome as the "Shi-Ai" cup. If they wish to give a dance, the upper parlors of the Woman's building are at their disposal. The main difference seems to be that sorority membership is based on selection, while membership in a group becomes a matter of geographical location in the two towns.

There is a strong school spirit at Illinois which does much to sweep away these undercurrents. There are things that everybody does, that everybody likes. Football weather—and the fate of the team is important to everyone. Basketball games, swimming meets, attract huge crowds. Athletic association coupons admitting students to these events sell like hot cakes at the beginning of each year. No one who could possibly afford it would go without.

Almost everybody is interested in the Star course programs, which this year include Jascha Heifetz, the Don Cossack chorus, José Iturbi, the Jooss ballet, the St. Louis Symphony, and Helen Jepson.

Theater guild productions, which include all the undergraduate plays and operas, are a matter of pride not only to those who are in them or working behind the scenes but also to those who are out in front in the beautiful little Lincoln Hall theater watching the show. Approximately 600 persons attended the first Theater guild meeting, at which the intricacies of dramatic activity on the campus were explained to the newcomers.

In spite of the universal interest in sports, it has always been the thing among the women to express a distaste for physical education. This seems, however, to be more of a tradition than a heartfelt opinion, now that courses are offered and credit given in such popular pastimes as golf, tennis, ice skating, badminton, and archery. And the days of the bulky "bloomer" are over! Brief shorts and comfort have won out over excessive modesty. Danish gymnastics, rhythmic and vigorous, are high in favor because they help to keep a trim figure, never a liability at Illinois.

How many women are seriously preparing for a career at Illinois? Apparently not as many as one might expect. The man students specialize, hoping this will help them find jobs. The girls are still counting on matrimony, or perhaps a short business course, to solve their problems.

For those who aim at matrimony Illinois is a fertile field. Romance flourishes. A good "date" is one who dances well, talks intelligently, dresses suitably, and takes one to the places where one can see the largest number of people in the shortest possible time.

During her freshman year a girl is expected to have a series of admirers. By the time her sophomore or junior year rolls around she also is expected to have narrowed the running down considerably. When she ultimately decides among them, as it is expected that she will, she signalizes the event by wearing the victor's fraternity pin and confining her social activities to his company.

Those who have had an opportunity to watch changing fashions on the campus report that manners are better. Public display of affection, along with visible inebriation, is disapproved of forcibly. The once familiar lineup of cuddling couples outside the front door at 1 o'clock of a Saturday night has dwindled to a minimum.

The rah-rah element is almost extinct. It has been frowned out of existence. Although students at Illinois as a whole are unsophisticated, the sophisticated point of view is the one to strive for.

Campus conversation sometimes calls for an interpreter. Each year produces its crop of favored expressions, colorful and sometimes apt. When one drops into the local ice cream parlor for a cigaret and refreshment one is "jo-ing." "Sneak dates," arising from sorority rules for pledges, are unauthorized social engagements with the opposite sex. A "spook" or a "crock" is an unattractive person, usually characterized by "never knowing the score." To say that someone is a "you know what" conveys a definite idea only if you have the preceding conversation well in hand. Its meaning is not always uncomplimentary.

She Dresses Well but Simply

One never gets a telephone call; merely a "buzz." A "snake" spends much time in the company of his feminine equivalent, a "date queen." A "panty-waist" is a sissie who is somewhat lacking in the approved masculine graces. "And you know it, sport," spoken in conversational tones, is apt to mean, "At least, that is my opinion of the situation." "Old dumb George" (the name changes with the subject) indicates friend, not foe, and is sometimes followed by the phrase "I love him so good," which should not be mistaken for a romantic confession, as it merely denotes friendly approval. When a college romance develops into a college engagement the boy "hangs his pin" on the girl and thereupon becomes her "pin."

One meets young eligibles in classes, at campus gatherings, through one's church, or by means of the time-honored "blind date," where the arrangements are all made by mutual friends, sight unseen. Opinions vary widely on the subject of blind dates. Some girls, with a touch of gambling blood in their veins, like them, for, along with the horrid possibility of a perfectly dreadful evening, there always is a chance that a paragon of all the manly virtues will turn up this time. For the freshmen, in any event, it is accepted as both suitable and expedient.

For the girl with few outside affiliations the churches with large student congregations provide social life through their student foundations. Members have an opportunity to get acquainted. They give parties and dances. Many of them have their own dramatic groups.

The cost of a university education depends upon how and where one lives. Sorority bills average $50 a month, with additional pledge and initiation fees, assessments for dances and gifts to the house.

Approximately half of the girls who do not live in sororities live in university dormitories, the residence halls, or in so-called "organized houses," many of which have some church affiliation. These vary both in attractiveness and in expense. The residence halls are comfortable, spacious, and handsome. The monthly expenses are approximately the same as those of a sorority.

Then there are boarding houses or clubs, in which the girls both live and take their meals. The cost for this type of arrangement averages $35 a month. Some girls prefer to take a room in one of the approved rooming houses, at a cost of about $11.50 a month, and eat their meals elsewhere. Some patronize a favorite boarding club, where one pays for meals by the week. Some eat around at the restaurants or pick up a sandwich at one of the many campus ice cream parlors. Some few even find facilities for light housekeeping and, with a roommate or two, prepare their own meals. The dean's office furnishes helpful suggestions for doing this on a limited budget. The cost can be kept down to approximately $1.75 apiece for the week.

One wholesome arrangement for the girl to whom finances are important is the coöperative house, of which there are three. There it is possible for a girl to live on as little as $20 a month. The girls do all their own work, and when the house is operating efficiently, as was the one visited, approximately an hour a day is all that is demanded of their time. They do all the cooking—two at a time, and for 22 persons; they wash the dishes, they do all the cleaning; and the atmosphere is a normal, happy one. It is interesting to note that the scholarship in these groups is as a rule excellent—and so is the food!

THE DIARY OF A MAIDEN

Secret Bride of John Paul Jones

IN THE COURT OF

CATHERINE THE GREAT

Translated from the Russian by Ivan Narodny
Adapted by Margarita Orlov and Louise Bargelt

THE STORY TO DATE

Herewith is presented the fifth instalment of the intimate diary of Princess Anna Kourakina, maid of honor at the court of Catherine the Great of Russia and secret bride of the American naval hero, John Paul Jones. Many terrifying experiences has Anna at the licentious and magnificent Russian court, but when the empress finally realizes that Anna will kill herself before she will yield to the prevailing standards of the court and act as courtesan to visiting noblemen, she decides to use her in the department of secret missions and send her to Paris to obtain for her the services of the great Paul Jones in her war against the Turks. In last week's instalment Anna reaches Paris, is presented to Marie Antoinette, and is appalled at the despair of the unhappy queen and the chaos in France. Revolution is near, but Anna can dream of little else but her near meeting with the American naval hero, John Paul. In this chapter she meets her beloved John Paul—and the great romance begins.

INSTALMENT V.

Paris, Dec. 29, 1787.

MY VISIT to the queen is a surprise.

I had rather dreaded its formality, but instead of being presented to her in the great reception hall of the thousand-windowed palace of Versailles, she receives me in her boudoir at the Little Trianon.

It is a doll's palace, and much as the baroness describes it—"a retreat dedicated wholly to the regalement of a queen." Fragile, refined, decorated with the sheerest of draperies, statuettes, paintings, engravings, and rare old prints, its furnishings are typical of the most exquisite in French grace.

There is no concern over etiquet here. Even the servants wear no royal livery. It is really quite an astounding atmosphere, and I find it hard to imagine a queen so free or discarding ceremony so completely.

But the unfortunate part of it all is that the queen no longer takes any pleasure in this captivating spot.

My visit turns out to be a personal affair.

When the baron and I arrive the queen is strolling in the gardens with a Count Axel Fersen. After I am presented, this count, who is tall and very distinguished looking, slips his arm into the baron's and the men walk in the direction of the Greater Trianon, leaving us alone.

This is apparently what the queen wants, for she says to me as we go toward the Little Trianon:

"O, I have so much to tell you, Princess Anna! You cannot understand how glad I am to see you! I want to talk very freely to you, because you are a Russian, and unprejudiced, and will sympathize with me."

Her words startle me, and so does the tragic intensity of her voice. Where is that far-famed gayety of which I have heard so much? Her eyes are frankly unhappy. Where is that beauty of which all Europe has talked? She has dignity and charm of manner, but her features seem worn with worry and suffering.

In her boudoir, which is the real heart of her petit palais, she relaxes and smiles as she takes my face between her hands and studies me earnestly.

"Yes, I can trust you," she breathes, throwing herself in a chair and motioning for me to do the same.

"You do not hate me the way the French do. Were you ever hated? Of course not—you are too sweet and good. It makes one's flesh creep to he hated. Count Fersen, whom you just met, is the only friend I have left. He is also the only true friend I have ever known!"

The devotion of Count Axel Fersen to the unfortunate Marie Antoinette is historic. They were only eighteen, a boy and a girl, when they met. Marie Antoinette, then a dauphiness, had slipped away from Versailles to attend a masked ball in Paris. In the course of the dance a tall, military figure approached her and they began a spirited conversation. They became oblivious of all about them until the man, who was Fersen, was conscious of a crowd gathering. Marie had been recognized by the merrymakers. She removed her mask, and Fersen knew that he was talking to the future queen of France.

From that night Count Fersen's love remained constant. His father, worried over a French romance of such a nature, recalled him to Sweden, later to send him back to secure a rich wife. He had wealth, social position, many accomplishments. What better wife could be chosen than Mademoiselle Necker, later Madame de Staël? She was the daughter of the great Genevese banker.

But Fersen was stubborn. He was openly attentive to Marie, now queen of France. This caused much gossip, and when he realized that he was compromising the woman he loved, and making a hard position even more difficult, he left Paris for military service in America.

He found it too hard, however, to stay away from Paris and his beloved, and returned again and again. In these, the last years of the queen's reign, their love affair was conducted with extreme discretion. He was not seen at any of the functions of Versailles and visited the queen only when other guests were gone.

She sits silent, staring ahead of her. I do not know what to say. I remember those leaflets which were thrown in our carriage. Four hundred and thirty lovers, was it? O, they must be lies, all lies! She seems so pitiful and alone. But the fact that there is a dreadful hate behind them is true!

"They hiss me in the theaters, and there are no greetings for me in the street. You have heard about that diamond necklace affair? I was innocent of the whole thing, but no one believes me. What did your empress think of that story?" she asks eagerly, leaning forward in her chair, avid for sympathy.

"She thought it quite shocking," I answer, truthfully enough. I do not repeat her majesty's words: "If Marie is innocent she is a fool, and if she is guilty she deserves what she is getting."

"I have tried so hard to make things better," the queen continues with a little wail in her voice.

"I have economized here in the palace; I give no more plays in my beautiful theater. The Little Trianon has no more carnivals, and the king's only diversion is hunting."

Her voice drops. "I never permit any jeweled lanterns to flash here among the trees at night. I am afraid they will attract the mobs. My friends are all gone—all but Axel Fersen."

"They were not real friends if they have deserted you."

"What a child you are! Still believing in fairies and friends! O, I should never have come to this terrible French court! I should have remained in Austria, where I understood the people and they understood me."

"Isn't there anything you can do? Can't you try making friends with the people? Can't you talk to them?"

"Talk to a French rabble?" Her voice is scornful. "Small use it would be if I tried. The sight of me infuriates them. I can only keep out of their way."

"But they are hungry. They rush constantly after my carriage, shrieking for food."

Her eyes darken angrily. "That is done for effect. If we gave them bread today they would only want cake tomorrow."

This is not the queen's much-quoted remark when told the people had no bread—"Let them eat cake." But the spirit underlying it is the same. It was one of the great tragedies back of the fate of the fair queen—she did not understand, had little sympathy with her people, therefore with their need and distress.

"Why not come to Russia with me?" I am so sorry for her. I feel as my empress does—if there were only something I could do! "I am returning soon," I tell her. "Her imperial majesty will be delighted to see you. Take your children with you. Our court is joyous. In a little while you will feel different, and your people will recover from their ill temper."

"Are your people satisfied? Do they love the empress? Has she succeeded where I have failed?"

I cannot tell the queen that the empress has governed wisely and that, while she is a stern ruler, she always has the good of her subjects at heart. I only say that the empress has always taken the affairs of state very seriously and worked indefatigably.

"I know," she nods gloomily. "My mother has always scolded me because I would not trouble myself over dull political matters. She has warned me I would destroy myself—just because I have wanted to be happy and go my own way!"

"Don't blame yourself too terribly. Your husband is king. He is responsible."

"Yes, but he is not blamed. The people like Louis. They loathe me."

Her thoughts seem to have made a rut in her brain, and from that rut they cannot be dislodged.

"Isn't there anything in all this beautiful spot which gives you any pleasure?"

"Yes, I find peace in the nursery with my children. I forget everything outside those nursery walls when I am with them. They are always a joy. But even this nursery is being invaded by sorrow. Haven't you heard? The dauphin it developing a painful sickness. Even now he is lame, and the doctors fear that he may become a hopeless cripple."

At this moment the men return, and the queen's face brightens. She gives the count a warm smile. "My best of all friends in this worst of all worlds," she murmurs.

The tall, broad-shouldered man slips an arm around her as if he would protect her against the dangers of this "worst of worlds." Then he turns to me. "Have you met our Chevalier Jones yet? The baron has been hinting that he may go to Russia to fight for her imperial majesty Catherine the Great."

"We hope he can dine with us tomorrow night," the baron answers. "Then he and our princess will meet. I am expecting her to paint Russia in a flattering light, that added pressure may be brought to bear."

"He's a charming man, the Yankee Jones," laughs the queen. "I never think of him as a Scotchman. I should be pleased to see him again. I never thought he would return to our country after his last visit."

"Why not?" questions the baron.

"It was just gossip, of course, but I heard that he was horribly bored. He grew tired of too much red hair." She laughs rather impishly. "I'll confess I don't blame him."

The baron looks a little pained. He is a most estimable man, but he takes life more seriously than his wife. "If you are referring to that affair with Mademoiselle Tellison," he remarks somberly, "I can only say that the attractive young lady has done a great deal for Commodore Jones."

"She has done too much, perhaps," observes Count Fersen, smiling. "Men tire of too many favors. It is highly regrettable that ardor can be so easily cooled."

"I have always thought that for steady diet the red-haired enchantress would prove wearing," murmurs the queen. "She is too intense, too emotional."

"Commodore Jones should be deeply grateful to Mademoiselle Tellison. She has been very helpful to him in his French," insists the baron in the same uncompromising tone.

"Doubtless he is," assures the count, and then adds with an amused twinkle in his deep-set eyes, "Benjamin Franklin used to say that the best master of languages is a pretty mistress." The baron remains serious.

Horribly bored! . . . tired of red hair . . . too intense . . . emotional! I remember the glimpse I caught of the pretty woman in the carriage. And the pang it cost me! But the catch in my heart is gone now. At least my hero of the sea is not in love with her!

Before we leave I present the queen with an embroidered riding costume from Russia, a set of gold enameled vases, and some jeweled pendants, all gifts from my empress.

The queen is delighted. "That is sweet of your empress," she cries. When she is happy and pleased the years vanish from her face and she seems little more than a pretty, exuberant child. "I should love to visit your Salon Russe," she adds. "Will you arrange a private evening some time soon?"

"I'll have a reception," I reply. "I know a few Russian nobles, and my cousin is here. You will like him."

The queen shakes her head. "No, not a reception, please! I attend few public affairs. Just a very small party; and ask my count, will you? I can manage to come in his carriage, incognito. No one will recognize me."

Then she continues after a brief pause: "You are such a comfort, a Russian princess; you appreciate, you understand, you are friendly. The people here view me with hostility and ugly suspicions." Her desperate mood is still with her, and tears come to her lovely eyes.

"There is nothing I do which is not turned against me. I am accused of the most horrible things, and there is no truth in them!"

The count's arm goes around her again and he is kissing her quietly, tenderly, as one would a weeping child, when we leave.

As we drive back to Paris I ask the baron if there isn't anything she can do to stem the rising tide against her. There must be something—our empress would find a way!

The baron is not hopeful. It is too late, he thinks. The pent-up fury of the bourgeoisie and the masses is being hurled against her. She has awakened at last, but even though she is aware now of the danger, there is little she can do. She has been advised to stay out of Paris, but this she refuses to do.

Deeply as I am grieved over the trouble of the queen, I cannot keep it with me long. My heart is too filled with thoughts of my hero.

He is not in chains to any red-haired daughter of Louis XV. And tomorrow I meet him!

Dec. 30, 1787.

Tonight I dine at the baron's. His wife sends me a little note that Commodore Jones has accepted her invitation. The Marquis de Lafayette unfortunately cannot be with us, but I am to meet him later.

The baron adds a few words.

Chevalier Jones has not yet consented to accept a Black sea offer from her imperial majesty, nor to petition for such an offer. He not only values his services highly but for some reason seems to be reluctant to serve the empress.

"Do your prettiest, my Princess Anna," the baron continues, "to win this naval genius to our cause!"

Later.

I have met my fiery-eyed knight of the sea.

Don't think I'm foolish, little diary of mine, but he is my hero from now on, so long as I shall live.

My heart tells me I love him and will never love anyone else.

I am seated across from him at dinner.

He is very much as I have pictured him in my dreams, except that his eyes are gray instead of black. He is shorter than I imagined, but he has that poise and assurance which come, I suppose, from a lifelong habit of command.

I have never looked into such magnetic, compelling eyes. They search one's innermost soul.

The conversation turns at once on the empress and her Black sea aspirations.

My chevalier inquires curiously about her imperial majesty. Is she as dominating a personality as gossip paints her, and is the court as gay and happy a place as rumor describes it?

I tell briefly about the empress' tremendous will, her genius as a ruler, her unfailing concern for the welfare of her people and the development of Russia as a world power.

"You are a loyal princess!"

I feel myself flushing under our guest's direct gaze. His eyes are extraordinarily alive.

"How can I help my loyalty? No sovereign has ever done so much for Russia as the great empress. No emperor since Ivan the Terrible has extended our frontiers by such conquests. Our boundaries are now the Niemen, the Dniester, and the Black sea."

I hesitate, remembering suddenly Prince Naryshkin's words, and add earnestly:

"We only need your valuable services, Commodore Jones, to clear the Black sea of those heathen Turks, make of it a Russian lake! After that you could take Constantinople!"

"You are a flatterer, Princess Kourakina. It is a very fine picture you draw, but I'm no superman. I have heard that your empress craves adulation and laughter. I doubt if I could satisfy her in these matters."

The baroness is in no frivolous mood and observes severely that the empress enjoys praise and amusement too much.

"That is the only reason by which we can account for her toleration of the oily-tongued Prince Nassau-Siegen. His stories are cheap and she does not believe them, but they make her laugh," the baroness adds.

The commodore's face grows serious.

"Isn't Prince Nassau the officer with whom I should perhaps have to divide my command of the Black sea? I have a very slight acquaintance with him, but such a joint command is one of the obstacles to my going to Russia."

I recall the dinner at Taurida palace the week I left Russia, and the prince's odious criticism of the commodore.

"You have met Prince Nassau?" asks the baron in surprise.

"Yes, and I do not like the memory."

"You are not unique there. Everyone who has ever met the Franco-German fledgling feels the same."

The commodore goes on to explain his point.

"Nassau-Siegen wanted to join me on the Indien. I had been promised the ship, which was being built in Holland. When we were notified in Paris that the boat was ready, the prince went to verify the statement and check on the vessel's condition. He was a poor messenger. He sent me word that the boat would not be ready for three months. It was a falsehood from beginning to end. The boat was ready then, in tiptop shape. He merely wanted to keep me from command."

I feel my color mounting. How well I remember Prince Nassau and the punishment I endured for refusing to play courtesan to his lust. The commodore sees my expression and is about to speak when the baroness interrupts.

"That sounds like Nassau-Siegen. He is a cheat and an egotist. The way he boasts is insufferable. The baron didn't happen to be with him when he almost battered down Gibraltar, but is still hoping to see the dents."

"I could stand his stories," remarks the commodore coolly, "but it is always hard to work in double command. I am not used to it." He is looking at me.

"Then you haven't decided yet to accept her imperial majesty's offer?" I ask slowly.

"Not fully." He pauses. "Are you planning to return to the court of Russia shortly? If I should consider the trip, will you promise to show me your splendid city?"

The baron does not wait for my answer. He remarks that Prince Nassau has less power than he anticipated. Her imperial majesty may value him as an entertainer, but not as a fighter.

"There is also Prince Marshal de Potemkin. I have heard that he is quite formidable. And, besides, all the English officers Empress Catherine has on her ships. The English do not yern for my company."

"You're not afraid of the English?" grins the baron.

"No, but I am averse to any divided command. And from all I have heard the command would be scattered in several directions."

The subject drops then, and we do not discuss it again during dinner. The conversation is quite general. The chevalier is a lively talker, a good raconteur, but he is also a good listener.

When he is about to leave we hear a loud uproar in the streets in front of the house.

"Just a passing mob, shouting for liberty," grumbles the baron. "Your American colonies may feel cocky at what they have done, but they began things over here which aren't going to end very happily for a lot of people."

"The worst of it is there are so many women in those mobs—crazed, hungry, terrible women. Something must be terribly wrong," I cannot help saying.

The commodore looks at me attentively.

"You have nothing like that in Russia?"

"No. We have hints of trouble, but the empress knows how to manage the crowds. She is not like this Queen Marie."

Chevalier Jones' face, which is stern at times in repose, softens.

"I feel sorry for the queen of France. She understands nothing, but her intentions are excellent. She was never born to be a queen. Just a beautiful woman, with a life of gallant adventures.

I remember a note which I had from the queen this morning.

"Queen Marie and Count Fersen are coming for coffee tomorrow afternoon. Can't you join us, chevalier?"

His face lights up and there is no mistaking his pleasure. It is evident in his shining eyes. He accepts quickly, and then, with another of his eager glances at me, he turns to the baron.

"I am beginning to change my mind in regard to our Black sea expedition. If you can assure me that it is the desire of her imperial majesty that I should enter her service to fight the Turks, I shall consider her wishes seriously and petition for the offer."

He is losing his hesitancy.

"I only trust," he adds, "that it will be understood that, as Ambassador Jefferson has pointed out to you, I am better employed as chief than under the orders of a superior."

The baron does not even blink, though the baroness shows her delight at the commodore's words. "I deeply appreciate your change of heart," he says, "and am sure that you can arrange all details satisfactorily with our Russian envoy in Copenhagen when you get there. Stipulate to him your unwillingness to accept any joint command. He will realize as well as her imperial majesty that your wishes are of greatest importance and understand how a joint command can be hurtful and even fatal in military operations."

It is as simple as that! He will come to Russia!

After he has gone the baron turns to me. "Well, my princess, we did it; we have the commodore to our credit."

The baroness actually laughs aloud. "What a child you are!" she says to her husband. "Do you honestly think that you had anything at all to do with the commodore's decision to accept her imperial majesty's offer?"

"What do you mean?" asks the baron, surprised at his wife's mirth.

She sighs and gives him an affectionate little pat on the arm.

"Can't you see that these two youngsters are in love? That the commodore just consented to the expedition because he is captivated by Princess Anna's dark eyes and boyarin costume and charming little smile?"

"O, baroness!"

She puts her arms around me and gives me a friendly little squeeze.

"Have a good time, child. Heaven knows, life at Catherine's court hasn't been any too happy for you. Enjoy yourself in Paris while you can. Enjoy your commodore. He's a real man. A decent fellow, too, and I like him. His influence will be good for you, wholesome and healthy. It's a dark, horrid air you breathe at the Russian court. Get plenty of fresh, sweet, pure air here with your chevalier. You'll need to store it up against your return to Petersburg."

On the way home I do not say much to the baron.

I love my chevalier. If he loves me, God will be with us both. Surely no harm can come from love like ours!

This intimate diary of Princess Anna Kourakina, the Russian beauty who became the secret bride of the naval hero John Paul Jones, will be continued in next Sunday's issue of the Graphic Section and in subsequent issues until the diarist's complete story of love and intrigue in the court of Catherine the Great is told.

I am seated across from him at dinner. He is very much as I have pictured him in my dreams, except that his eyes are gray instead of black. He is shorter than I imagined, but he has that poise and assurance which come, I suppose, from a lifelong habit of command.

"3 MINUTES AT NIGHT KEEPS ME RIGHT"

I used to take jolting "all-at-once" cathartics—because I thought I had to. But now I've found the three-minute way. And what a difference it makes. At the first sign of trouble, I chew FEEN-A-MINT, the chewing-gum laxative, for three minutes; and next morning I feel like a different person. And, best of all, with FEEN-A-MINT there are no griping pains—no nausea—no unpleasant after-effects. It's easy, pleasant, and thoroughly satisfactory. Children love its delicious chewing-gum flavor. 15c and 25c a box.

No Cooking! No Work! Real Saving!

You'll never know how quickly a bad winter cough can be relieved, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in more homes than any other cough remedy, because it gives more prompt, positive results. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Syrup is easily made with 2 cups of sugar and one cup of water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. This gives you four times as much cough medicine for your money, and it's a much better remedy. It never spoils and tastes fine.

Instantly you feel its penetrating effect. It loosens the phlegm, helps clear the air passages, and soothes the irritated membranes. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief in distressing coughs.

Two Famous Sea Victories Retold for Navy Day

How Constitution and Wasp Beat Britons

Today is Navy day, the anniversary of the birth of the late Theodore Roosevelt, staunch advocate of an adequate navy. In commemoration The Chicago Sunday Tribune is presenting on page one of its picture section of this issue reproductions in color of two famous American sea victories, that of the Constitution over the British Cyane and Levant, Feb. 20, 1815, and that of the Wasp over the British Frolic, Oct. 18, 1812. The paintings are by E. L. Bloomster, well known marine painter. On this page are stories of the two famous battles.

By JOHN STUART BARROWS

IT IS not often in naval battles that one frigate engages two ships and defeats them both, capturing them, with minor damage and few casualties, and accomplishing the notable feat without being raked by either adversary, but such was the result of the engagement in the War of 1812 between the United States frigate Constitution, Capt. Charles Stewart, and the British ships Cyane and Levant, off the Spanish coast in the evening of Feb. 20, 1815. The masterly way in which Captain Stewart handled his vessel produced one of the most brilliant victories in the annals of the American navy.

From April 23 to Dec. 17, 1814, the Constitution, under Captain Stewart, a commander of experience and a veteran of the war against Tripoli, lay blockaded in Boston harbor. The British vessels had been keeping a close watch over the American ship, which above all others they were anxious to capture. Already two British frigates, Guerriere and Java, had been defeated and destroyed in broadside fights on the ocean by this energetic ship, and much damage to the merchant marine had been done during her cruises.

Why the three blockading ships left the entrance to Boston harbor for even a short time on Dec. 17 never has been explained. But raise the blockade for the time they did, and when they resumed their watch the bird had flown. The Constitution was in a most efficient condition at that time, and Captain Stewart took her to sea as soon as he discovered the absence of the blockaders. He sailed for Burmuda, capturing the British merchant ship Lord Nelson the day before Christmas. Then he headed across the Atlantic by way of Madeira, to cruise in the Bay of Biscay, in the path of British commerce to the Mediterranean and India.

Informed by spies in Boston that the Constitution had run the blockade, the British admiralty sent this information as widely as possible to the cruising ships of the royal navy. "The Constitution is again cruising," was the word. The smaller British frigates were to sail in couples, and sloops of war to avoid her. Only frigates of her class and 74s were to dare to engage her, so formidable had she become as a hunter of British vessels.

While cruising off Lisbon a large ship was sighted, and the Constitution made for her, but slowed down long enough to pick up the British merchant ship Susan, and while doing so lost sight of the original quarry. This was fortunate for the Constitution, for it proved to be the British 74 Elizabeth, making for Lisbon. The Elizabeth, on learning of the presence of the Yankee frigate in those waters, returned to look for her, in company with the frigate Tiber, commanded by Captain Dacres, who had lost the Guerriere to the Constitution Aug. 19, 1812.

On Feb. 19, 1815, the Constitution was sailing southerly, in the direction of Madeira, with nothing in view. The officers of the frigate were deploring their lack of luck in finding British flags when Captain Stewart, who was inclined to believe in presentiments, remarked to them:

"Gentlemen, the luck of the Constitution is not going to fail her this time. I assure you that before the sun rises and sets again you will be engaged in battle with the enemy, and it will not be with a single ship."

During the next morning Captain Stewart, for some reason which he never was able to explain, changed the course of the frigate to the southwest, and about 1 o'clock in the afternoon a sail was reported by the masthead lookout. The Constitution crowded all sail in that direction, and in the course of an hour another sail was reported ahead of the first. The two were seen exchanging signals. It appeared as though Captain Stewart's presentiment had been fulfilled.

Capt. Charles Stewart, commander of the Constitution.

The strange vessels appeared to be a small frigate and a sloop of war, and though their combined force seemed as much and even more than that of the Constitution, Captain Stewart said:

"Be this as it may, you know I promised you a fight before the setting of today's sun, and if we do not take it, now that it is offered, we can scarcely have another chance. We must flog them when we catch them, whether she has one gun deck or two."

Before the Constitution overtook the two vessels the sun was low, but there was a steady wind and a long swell, with smooth sea—an excellent prospect for steady gun-firing. By 5 o'clock the frigate tried a shot at the enemy, but it fell short. The two ships seemed ready to engage, but were steering cautiously, looking for a favorable opening, and evidently willing to take advantage of the approaching darkness. But the full moon then appeared, lighting the situation.

While the identity of the two vessels was unknown then, it was later learned that they were the British 34-gun frigate Cyane, Capt. Gordon Falcon, and the sloop of war Levant, of 21 guns, Capt. George Douglas.

While the Constitution was working into position her main royal mast gave way, and though it did not greatly delay the movement of the frigate, it did take some time to clear the wreck and send up a new mast. But the work was accomplished, and the Constitution resumed the chase.

The half hour thus consumed was employed by the British vessels in drawing closer together, so Captain Stewart saw that instead of meeting each ship separately he would have to fight them together. At that time they were on the starboard tack, about four miles ahead. By 5:30 o'clock the Constitution was cleared for action and the crew called to quarters.

The British ships endeavored to gain the weather gauge, but, failing, took a position in column, the Levant leading. The Constitution approached, and at 6:05 the Yankee frigate was about 300 yards off the starboard beam of the Cyane, on which she opened fire with her port battery. Both British ships returned the fire, but the Constitution concentrated her fire on the Cyane. Then, drawing ahead through the smoke, which was so dense on the water that she ceased firing momentarily, the Constitution, now abeam the Levant, poured into the last-named vessel a double-shotted broadside with staggering effect. Before this ship could recover and return the fire the Constitution found herself in danger of being raked by the Cyane, which was luffing up to cross her stern.

Here Captain Stewart showed his seamanship, for he braced the main and mizzen topsails flat against the mast, shook out all forward, let go the jib sheet, and backed his ship close abeam of the Cyane before it could complete its maneuver.

The Constitution's tactics were superb. Her headway was stopped, and as the yards braced around she came quickly and steadily into a position where the port battery poured in another murderous fire, this time into the Cyane. For ten minutes this fire was maintained, when Captain Stewart discovered that the Levant was luffing to take a position across his bows, intending to rake the Constitution.

Bracing the topsails, he filled away and, plowing through the wake of the Levant, concealed by the clouds of smoke, was in a position to rake her, which was done by the Constitution's starboard battery, which hitherto had not been fired. Before the British ship could recover and come about to resist the Yankee frigate a second broadside from the same battery had raked her again.

Meanwhile the Cyane was wearing, to try and get a raking position for the Constitution, but before she could accomplish her purpose the Constitution wore in the little frigate's wake and raked her instead. The movement being completed, the two ships were side by side.

It was now 6:40, and the Cyane opened fire with her port battery, which was met by the Constitution's starboard guns in a running fire lasting about ten minutes. The British ship then raised a light and fired a gun as a signal that she was surrendering. Lieut. Beekman Verplank Hoffman was sent aboard to take possession, while the Constitution started to find the Levant, which had been working off well to the leeward of the fight, repairing damages, for which she had two hours' opportunity before the Constitution caught up with her. Ignorant of the situation of the Cyane, the ship stood for the Constitution and the two exchanged broadsides.

One such broadside was enough to convince the commander of the Levant that he was in the wrong place, and at once he crowded all sail to get away from his powerful adversary. But Captain Stewart luffed his ship, hauled the tacks aboard, set flying jib and spanker, and pushed after the flying British vessel. The Levant had a fair start, but the Constitution's bow-chaser began to feel after her rigging in an attempt to cripple her. At the same time the frigate was overhauling her. By 10 o'clock she was on the Levant's port quarter, crowding her hard. That a few moments more would see another broadside was evident to the British captain, and he surrendered with commendable discretion.

Lieut. William B. Shubrick was sent aboard to take possession, reporting the vessel to be the sloop of war Levant.

The Constitution now was the victor over two smart vessels carrying a total of 55 guns to the Constitution's 51, throwing 754 pounds of ball to her 644 pounds, but with only 313 men compared with the Constitution's crew of 456. The casualties amounted to 4 killed and 10 wounded on the Constitution, while the two British ships had suffered the combined losses of 35 killed and 42 wounded.

It had been a remarkable engagement. The advantage should have been with the two smaller ships, which should have been able to take advantageous positions around their larger antagonist. But instead the Constitution escaped damage while raking each of the British ships successively, as well as pouring into them heavy broadsides. That greater injury did not result to the enemy craft is remarkable. Both vessels were able to continue under their own sail power and had not suffered dangerous wounds below the water line. It was an engagement where the seamanship displayed by the crew of the Constitution was superior to its gunnery, which was sufficiently effective to cause the large casualties on each British ship.

Cooper in his naval history expressed his opinion thus:

"The manner in which Captain Stewart handled his ship on this occasion excited much admiration among nautical men, it being an unusual thing for a single vessel to engage two enemies and escape being raked. So far from this occurring to the Constitution, she actually raked both her opponents, and the manner in which she backed and filled in the smoke, forcing her opponents down to leeward when they were endeavoring to cross her stern or forefoot, is among the most brilliant maneuvering in naval annals."

An incident on the Constitution which was brought to the attention of the occupants of Captain Stewart's cabin after the battle showed the character and determination of the crew. While Captain Stewart was in conversation with one of the British commanders a midshipman came from the deck to say that the officer of the deck wished to know if the men could have their grog. As the grog was to have been served before the time of the engagement, Captain Stewart asked in surprise:

"The men have had their grog already, haven't they?"

"No sir," replied the midshipman. "It was mixed ready for serving just before the battle began, but the forecastle men and other older sailors of the crew said they didn't want any Dutch courage on board, and capsized the grog tub into the lee scuppers."

That the ship was manned by men such as these, who would rather fight than drink their ration of grog, was a surprise to the British captain.

About the same time the two British captains were discussing the fight and its surprising result, and each was inclined to impute the defeat to the action of the other, arguing that had such and such an evolution been attempted by the one or the other the Constitution would have been forced to surrender. The discussion was becoming acrimonious, and Captain Stewart interrupted it by saying:

"Gentlemen, gentlemen, there is no use in getting warm about it; it would have been all the same whatever you might have done. If you doubt that I will put you all on board again and you can try it over."

This invitation was not accepted.

The victorious Americans went busily to work repairing damages, and by 1 a. m. Feb. 21, or three hours after the Levant had surrendered, the Constitution was in shape to meet any other enemy ship that might show up. The next day the three vessels set sail, and on March 10 anchored in Port Praya, where the earlier prize, the Susan, had arrived before them.

MORE than two years before the memorable engagement between the Constitution and the two Britishers, the Cyane and the Levant, occurred the short and snappy encounter between the little American sloop of war Wasp and the British brig Frolic, fought in a lashing sea off Cape Hatteras. Only forty-three minutes elapsed from the time of the firing of the first broadside until the surrender of the British vessel.

The Wasp, a craft of 450 tons, armed with 18 guns, and carrying a crew of 137 men, on the morning of Oct. 18, 1812, sighted six merchantmen under convoy of a brig off the stormy North Carolina cape. Capt. Jacob Jones of the Wasp closed in with his vessel. The brig was flying the Spanish flag, but upon a hail from Captain Jones it substituted the red cross of St. George, emblem of England. The merchant ships scattered and scurried away as the two war craft swung into parallel courses, tossed by a sea still running high in the tail of a Hatteras gale.

The Frolic engaged with a broadside at 11:32 a. m., which was answered immediately by a broadside from the Wasp. The British gunners, under the urging of Capt. Thomas Whinyates, in command of the Frolic, fired rapidly and excitedly after the opening broadside. The American gun crews were more deliberate, firing only two broadsides to three of the enemy's. Four minutes after the first broadside the Wasp's maintopmast was shot away, going over the side like a falling tree. Ten minutes later the sloop's mizzen topgallant mast went down before a well directed round shot. Twenty minutes after the beginning of the engagement the Wasp's rigging was in shreds and all its braces cut by British projectiles. As the two vessels were swept before the wind the fire of the Wasp spread destruction aboard the Frolic. The Wasp forged ahead in a circling movement to port, and at 12:10 p. m. the bowsprit of the enemy fouled in its mizzen rigging.

Seamen from the Wasp swarmed into the enemy craft by way of the fouled bowsprit. Officers at the taffrail of the Frolic threw down their swords in token of surrender, and at 12:15 a lieutenant from the Wasp lowered the British flag. Of the Frolic's crew of 110 men, fewer than twenty remained unwounded. The Britisher's mainmast was shot away at the deck and its hull was full of holes. On the Wasp five men were killed and five wounded.

The Frolic, which immediately after its surrender was placed under a prize crew, was a vessel of 467 tons, carrying 22 guns in all. It was capable of delivering a ten-gun broadside of 274 pounds of metal, as compared with the Wasp's nine-gun broadside throwing 250 pounds of metal.

The amazing victory of the Wasp over the Frolic was to go down in history, however, as a wasted exploit. Hardly was the battle over before there appeared on the horizon a 74-gun man-of-war, the British Poictiers, commanded by Capt. John Poer Beresford. The new adversary closed in on the little sloop and its prize. Captain Jones, in the face of great odds, surrendered both the Wasp and the Frolic to the towering man-of-war.

Color Photos Possible by 3 Methods

By DR. THOMAS M. BECK

Science has as yet been unable to find a way to dispel fog, one of the greatest perils of aviation.

IT WAS stated in a preceding article on color photography that there had been no successful method of photographing color directly. This is true enough, but there are at least three methods that have been suggested which, although impractical commercially for one reason or another, nevertheless can be made to reproduce directly the colors of the images that are focused upon the camera plate. Inasmuch as they make interesting application of certain of the lesser known scientific facts, they are worth describing.

Oddly enough, one of these processes was known about thirty years before photography itself was discovered. In 1810 one Seebeck found that a film of silver chloride, on being moistened by a solution of tin chloride, took on an interesting property. If it were exposed to light of a certain color it gradually turned to that color. Thus a colored image focused upon a plate of this nature prints its own picture in colors.

The reason for this phenomenon is not certainly known, although it probably is connected with the well known light-sensitivity of silver compounds. Perhaps this specially treated silver chloride consists of particles of different colors (color can vary with particle size in the case of very small particles) capable of changing into each other under the influence of light.

Now, the light that causes physical or chemical changes is that which is absorbed by the affected material. The color of a body is due to the color which it reflects and does not absorb. Hence a light-sensitive substance is not affected by light of its own color as much as by that of other colors.

If we expose these differently colored silver chloride particles to red light all except the red ones are affected. Thus there may be a gradual change of other colors to red, but never the reverse. In this way the film may assume the color of the incident light.

The process, unfortunately, has many technical faults. The colors are not very distinct, and excessively long exposures are needed. Then, too, the film does not retain the picture very well.

Another method is that of Lippmann, discovered about forty years ago. It consists of laying a silver bromide emulsion, dilute to the point of transparency and coated on glass, directly onto the surface of a dish of mercury and then exposing it from above. The surface of the mercury acts as a mirror, so that the emulsion is subjected to both incident and reflected light.

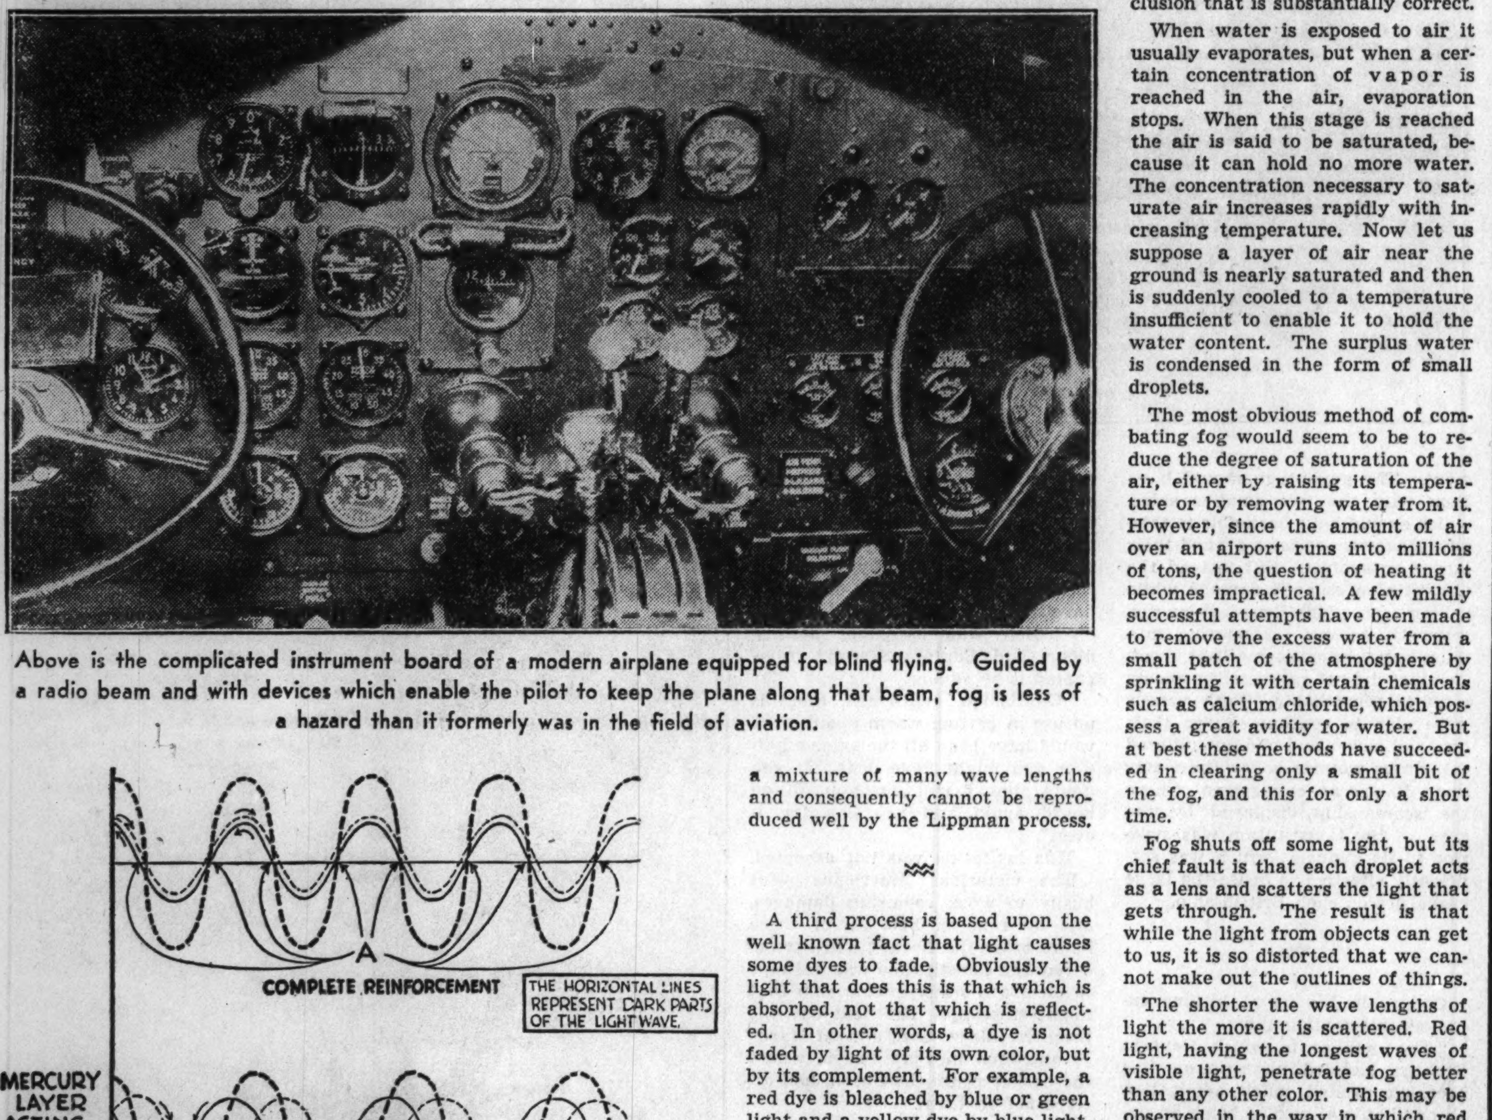
When two light beams of the same color, and therefore the same wave length, unite they form a doubly bright beam only if they are exactly in phase; that is, if corresponding points on the waves occur together. If the crest of one wave corresponds with the trough of another the two of them cancel each other and the result is darkness. In the first case the beams are said to reinforce each other; the second case is known as interference.

Now, if we have a beam reflected back upon itself, as is shown in the diagram, there results a peculiar effect. Since the incident and reflected beams are passing each other in opposite directions, there will alternately be instants when they reinforce and others when they interfere.

A little study of the drawing will show that the points labeled A are in the dark part of the light wave cycle when reinforcement takes place. Since, of course, they also are dark during interference, it follows that these particular layers of the emulsion receive no illumination at all. Consequently, after development the silver is found in a number of layers whose distance apart is equal to one-half the wave length of the light to which it was exposed.

When a plate so developed is exposed to white light, each of the silver layers reflects only a small part of the light. Reinforcement of these reflected rays can occur only when they have a wave length equal to twice the distance between the silver layers. But the distance between the layers is half the wave length of the color to which the plate was exposed. Therefore the color reflected is the same as that which exposed the plate.

This process, unfortunately, is useful in photographing only monochromatic light, or light of but one wave length. For with a number of different wave lengths we get just as many series of layers mixed up with each other, with the result that a single thick layer is formed. Most of the natural color we see is a mixture of many wave lengths and consequently cannot be reproduced well by the Lippman process.



Above is the complicated instrument board of a modern airplane equipped for blind flying. Guided by a radio beam and with devices which enable the pilot to keep the plane along that beam, fog is less of a hazard than it formerly was in the field of aviation.

A third process is based upon the well known fact that light causes some dyes to fade. Obviously the light that does this is that which is absorbed, not that which is reflected. In other words, a dye is not faded by light of its own color, but by its complement. For example, a red dye is bleached by blue or green light and a yellow dye by blue light.

The process consists of coating a paper with three highly light-sensitive dyes whose colors correspond to the three subtractive primary colors—yellow, blue-green, and purple. The combination of all three appears black, since together the three absorb all the color that falls upon them.

Suppose now that a colored image is focused on such a paper. The black parts of the image contain no light to bleach the three dyes, which consequently remain black. White light contains parts that are absorbed by all three, and as a result all the dye is bleached, leaving the white paper showing. Red light is absorbed by and bleaches the blue-green. The yellow and the purple dyes left give a combined effect of red. Yellow light fades the blue-green and the purple dyes, leaving only the yellow.

All of this gives a first impression of being a theoretically perfect process. However, a drawback lies in the fact that if the dyes used are unstable enough to be faded by the light that penetrates a camera, they can hardly be exposed to ordinary daylight afterward, and a picture that must be left in a dark room all the time is not worth much.

Ways have been found of getting around this difficulty to some extent. The paper can be treated with certain chemicals prior to exposure to render it especially light-sensitive, and then treated with other chemicals afterward to desensitize it and make it fairly stable to daylight. But the gap between the almost instantaneous fading desired inside the camera and the perfect light stability desired later is still too great to be bridged by chemical ingenuity. This process usually shows the double fault of requiring an excessively long exposure and also of fading out too soon afterward.

A reader has inquired about the methods of overcoming the hazard and inconvenience caused by fogs. A visit to an airport on a foggy day might lead one to conclude that the problem is far from solved, a conclusion that is substantially correct.

When water is exposed to air it usually evaporates, but when a certain concentration of vapor is reached in the air, evaporation stops. When this stage is reached the air is said to be saturated, because it can hold no more water. The concentration necessary to saturate air increases rapidly with increasing temperature. Now let us suppose a layer of air near the ground is nearly saturated and then is suddenly cooled to a temperature insufficient to enable it to hold the water content. The surplus water is condensed in the form of small droplets.

The most obvious method of combating fog would seem to be to reduce the degree of saturation of the air, either by raising its temperature or by removing water from it. However, since the amount of air over an airport runs into millions of tons, the question of heating it becomes impractical. A few mildly successful attempts have been made to remove the excess water from a small patch of the atmosphere by sprinkling it with certain chemicals such as calcium chloride, which possess a great avidity for water. But at best these methods have succeeded in clearing only a small bit of the fog, and this for only a short time.

Fog shuts off some light, but its chief fault is that each droplet acts as a lens and scatters the light that gets through. The result is that while the light from objects can get to us, it is so distorted that we cannot make out the outlines of things.

The shorter the wave lengths of light the more it is scattered. Red light, having the longest waves of visible light, penetrate fog better than any other color. This may be observed in the way in which red signal lights loom up through a fog. It might be suggested that still longer waves, such as the infrared, might penetrate fog satisfactorily. Unfortunately, while such rays can be photographed, we cannot see them, and there is no way known at the present time of making them directly visible.

The longest of all, the radio waves, have been used with considerable success in this connection. By means of certain instruments it is possible to determine their direction, thus enabling a plane to fly directly to their source. Of course, this does not make things visible to the pilot, but it provides a means of guiding him to an airport.

There is still another means of clearing fogs. It is quite incapable of application to the atmosphere, but is valuable in certain industrial processes where it is necessary to remove useful materials present as fog or smoke in waste gases. It is based upon the fact that the small fog or smoke particles have picked up electrical charges which tend to keep them from settling out. The fog or smoke is passed between two metal plates bearing heavy electrical charges. The charged particles are attracted to one or the other of these plates and quickly removed from the gas.

Mostly About Dogs

By BOB BECKER

Spaniel owners who went to school! This is the training class for dog owners conducted by the Springer Spaniel Field Trial Club of Illinois. Members of this class, the first of its kind in the west, were taught how to train their springer and cocker spaniels.

Sporting Breeds Have Their Day

AUTUMN days are "dog days" for thousands of dogs that have been leading comparatively inactive lives until now. The pointers, English setters, Irish setters, Chesapeake Bay retrievers, Labradors, Irish water spaniels, springer spaniels, and other breeds swing into action these fall days when the frost is on the "punkin," the forests are ablaze with color, and migratory birds are winging their way south. Retrievers move into marshes to help their masters find ducks dropped by the shotguns. Setters and pointers gallop over field trial grounds, and those that will be used solely for hunting upland game are getting tuned up for the sport ahead. Thus autumn brings into action hundreds of thousands of trained sporting dogs, always eager for days afield.

One of the most popular of the sporting dog group that gets into action at this time of the year is the pointer. A beautiful dog with graceful action and trim body lines, the pointer has a large following in this country. Having hunted quail over pointers in many states from Illinois to Florida, we always have had the highest admiration for the breed. On many of our hunting trips there have been both setters and pointers working the cover ahead of us, so that we had the pleasure of seeing two of America's most popular sporting breeds finding coveys and singles for our 20-gauge.

The pointer as brought to England from Spain undoubtedly was a much slower dog than the pointer of today. At least, history tells us about a foxhound cross to give the pointer more speed. Irrespective of what breeding methods were used to develop the pointer, we do know that the English pointer fanciers did a fine job and that the dog we have today reflects their careful development. Pointers are fast, possess excellent noses, and are trim in line. It is not difficult to figure out why they are popular in America.

The disposition of the pointer is another trait worthy of note. It is gentle and affectionate. On every quail hunting trip that we have taken with pointers we have been impressed with the companionable qualities of the breed. The dogs we have hunted over seem to reason that although a fellow may be a stranger when the trip is started, the fact that he carries a gun and is hunting quail makes him acceptable as a friend.

The breed is hardy and not difficult to raise. Moreover, the short coat of the pointer means little work for the dog owner who does not want to spend much time on grooming his pet. A daily brushing will keep this short-coated hunter in excellent condition.

The pointer acquires his name from the fact that after he has located the quarry he stops to "freeze" into a point. Forward goes the head, and the tail is held motionless. One of the most beautiful pictures (to us) is to have a stylish pointer locate a covey of birds with a snappy point and then see one, two, or more pointers back this point. Down south we have whipped out our camera in time to catch four pointers standing like statues near a covey found by one of the dogs. This is the sort of picture that makes life enjoyable for a dog fan, irrespective of how many quail go into the game bag during the course of the day.

The male pointer weighs around 50 or 55 pounds, the females tilting the scales at slightly less. Symmetry is important. The general impression is that of a lean, lithe, muscular dog that moves gracefully and has great powers of endurance. The color pattern of the dog is such that one can follow it easily in the field. We have hunted for most part over pointers that were white with liver patches or white with lemon patches, small flecks of color also being distributed through the white. Some of the very old illustrations of pointers that we have examined show dogs that are very dark in color compared to the color patterns on our modern dogs.

DOG NOTES

The pet show which is staged annually by the junior auxiliary of the Woman's Club of Wilmette will be held at 7:30 p. m. next Friday at the Woman's clubhouse, Tenth street and Greenleaf avenue, Wilmette. This is the third annual show held by this organization, and there will be judging of dogs, cats, birds, and fish.

If Chicagoland dog fanciers want to see a lot of puppies at one time they will have the opportunity Wednesday evening, Oct. 30, at the Hotel La Salle. At 8:30 p. m. in the Red room of the La Salle scores of pups of all breeds will be assembled for another puppy match held by the Midwest Puppy Match association. The public is invited to attend this event. Alex Stewart, Harry Osborne, and Jack Cooper will act as judges. Dogs entered must be not over 12 months of age. Visitors will see at this informal show some of the most promising pups now being raised in Chicagoland.

Two interesting outdoor demonstrations of sporting dogs being tested for their ability are on the calendar for dog enthusiasts in Chicagoland. Today the retriever breeds will take to the field for their "outdoor examination" in obedience, marking, retrieving, water work, and other "subjects," and next week-end springer spaniels will compete in a field trial.

Today at 8:30 a. m. the Chesapeake Bay retrievers, Labradors, golden retrievers, and Irish water spaniels are going into action at Barrington, Ill. The occasion is the first annual trial of the Midwest Field Trial club, a club which this department helped to organize several months ago. The trial is being held on the Thomas Howell estate, west of Barrington, Ill. There is no admission charge to watch the event, and the public is invited. Motorists will find signs at the west end of Main street, Barrington, directing them to the trial grounds.

This is the first licensed American Kennel club field trial ever held in Chicagoland for retriever breeds. The winner of the open all-age stake will be awarded championship points. Two judges, Martin J. Hogan of Barrington and Dr. A. C. Gifford of Oshkosh, Wis., will pick the winners.

Nine handsome silver trophies, in addition to the beautiful Thomas M. Howell challenge cup, will be awarded in the junior, novice, and open all-age stake. Ribbons and two cash prizes for handlers also will be given to the winners. Many Chicago-owned retrievers are being trained for this trial, which is attracting some of the finest retrievers in the east.

Next week-end interest shifts from retrievers to springer spaniels, due to the fact that the Springer Spaniel Field Trial Club of Illinois is holding its trial in the Fox river valley. Next Saturday the puppy and nonwinners' stakes will be run on the grounds of the Aurora Hunting and Fishing club at Montgomery, Ill., just below Aurora on the west side of the Fox river. Sunday morning the open all-age stake will be run on the Crane estate above St. Charles, Ill.

The judging will be done by Martin J. Hogan, E. J. Whelan, and Francis Squires. No admission charge to watch this trial.

Spaniel owners who wish to run their dogs in this trial should write A. P. Moecher, 41 Island avenue, Aurora, Ill. Mr. Moecher informs this department that more than twenty springers will compete in this trial. It is a licensed A. K. C. event carrying championship points. One of the expected highlights of the trial is an exhibition by field trial champions. Several eastern springer fanciers are planning on coming out to the trial to exhibit their field trial champions.

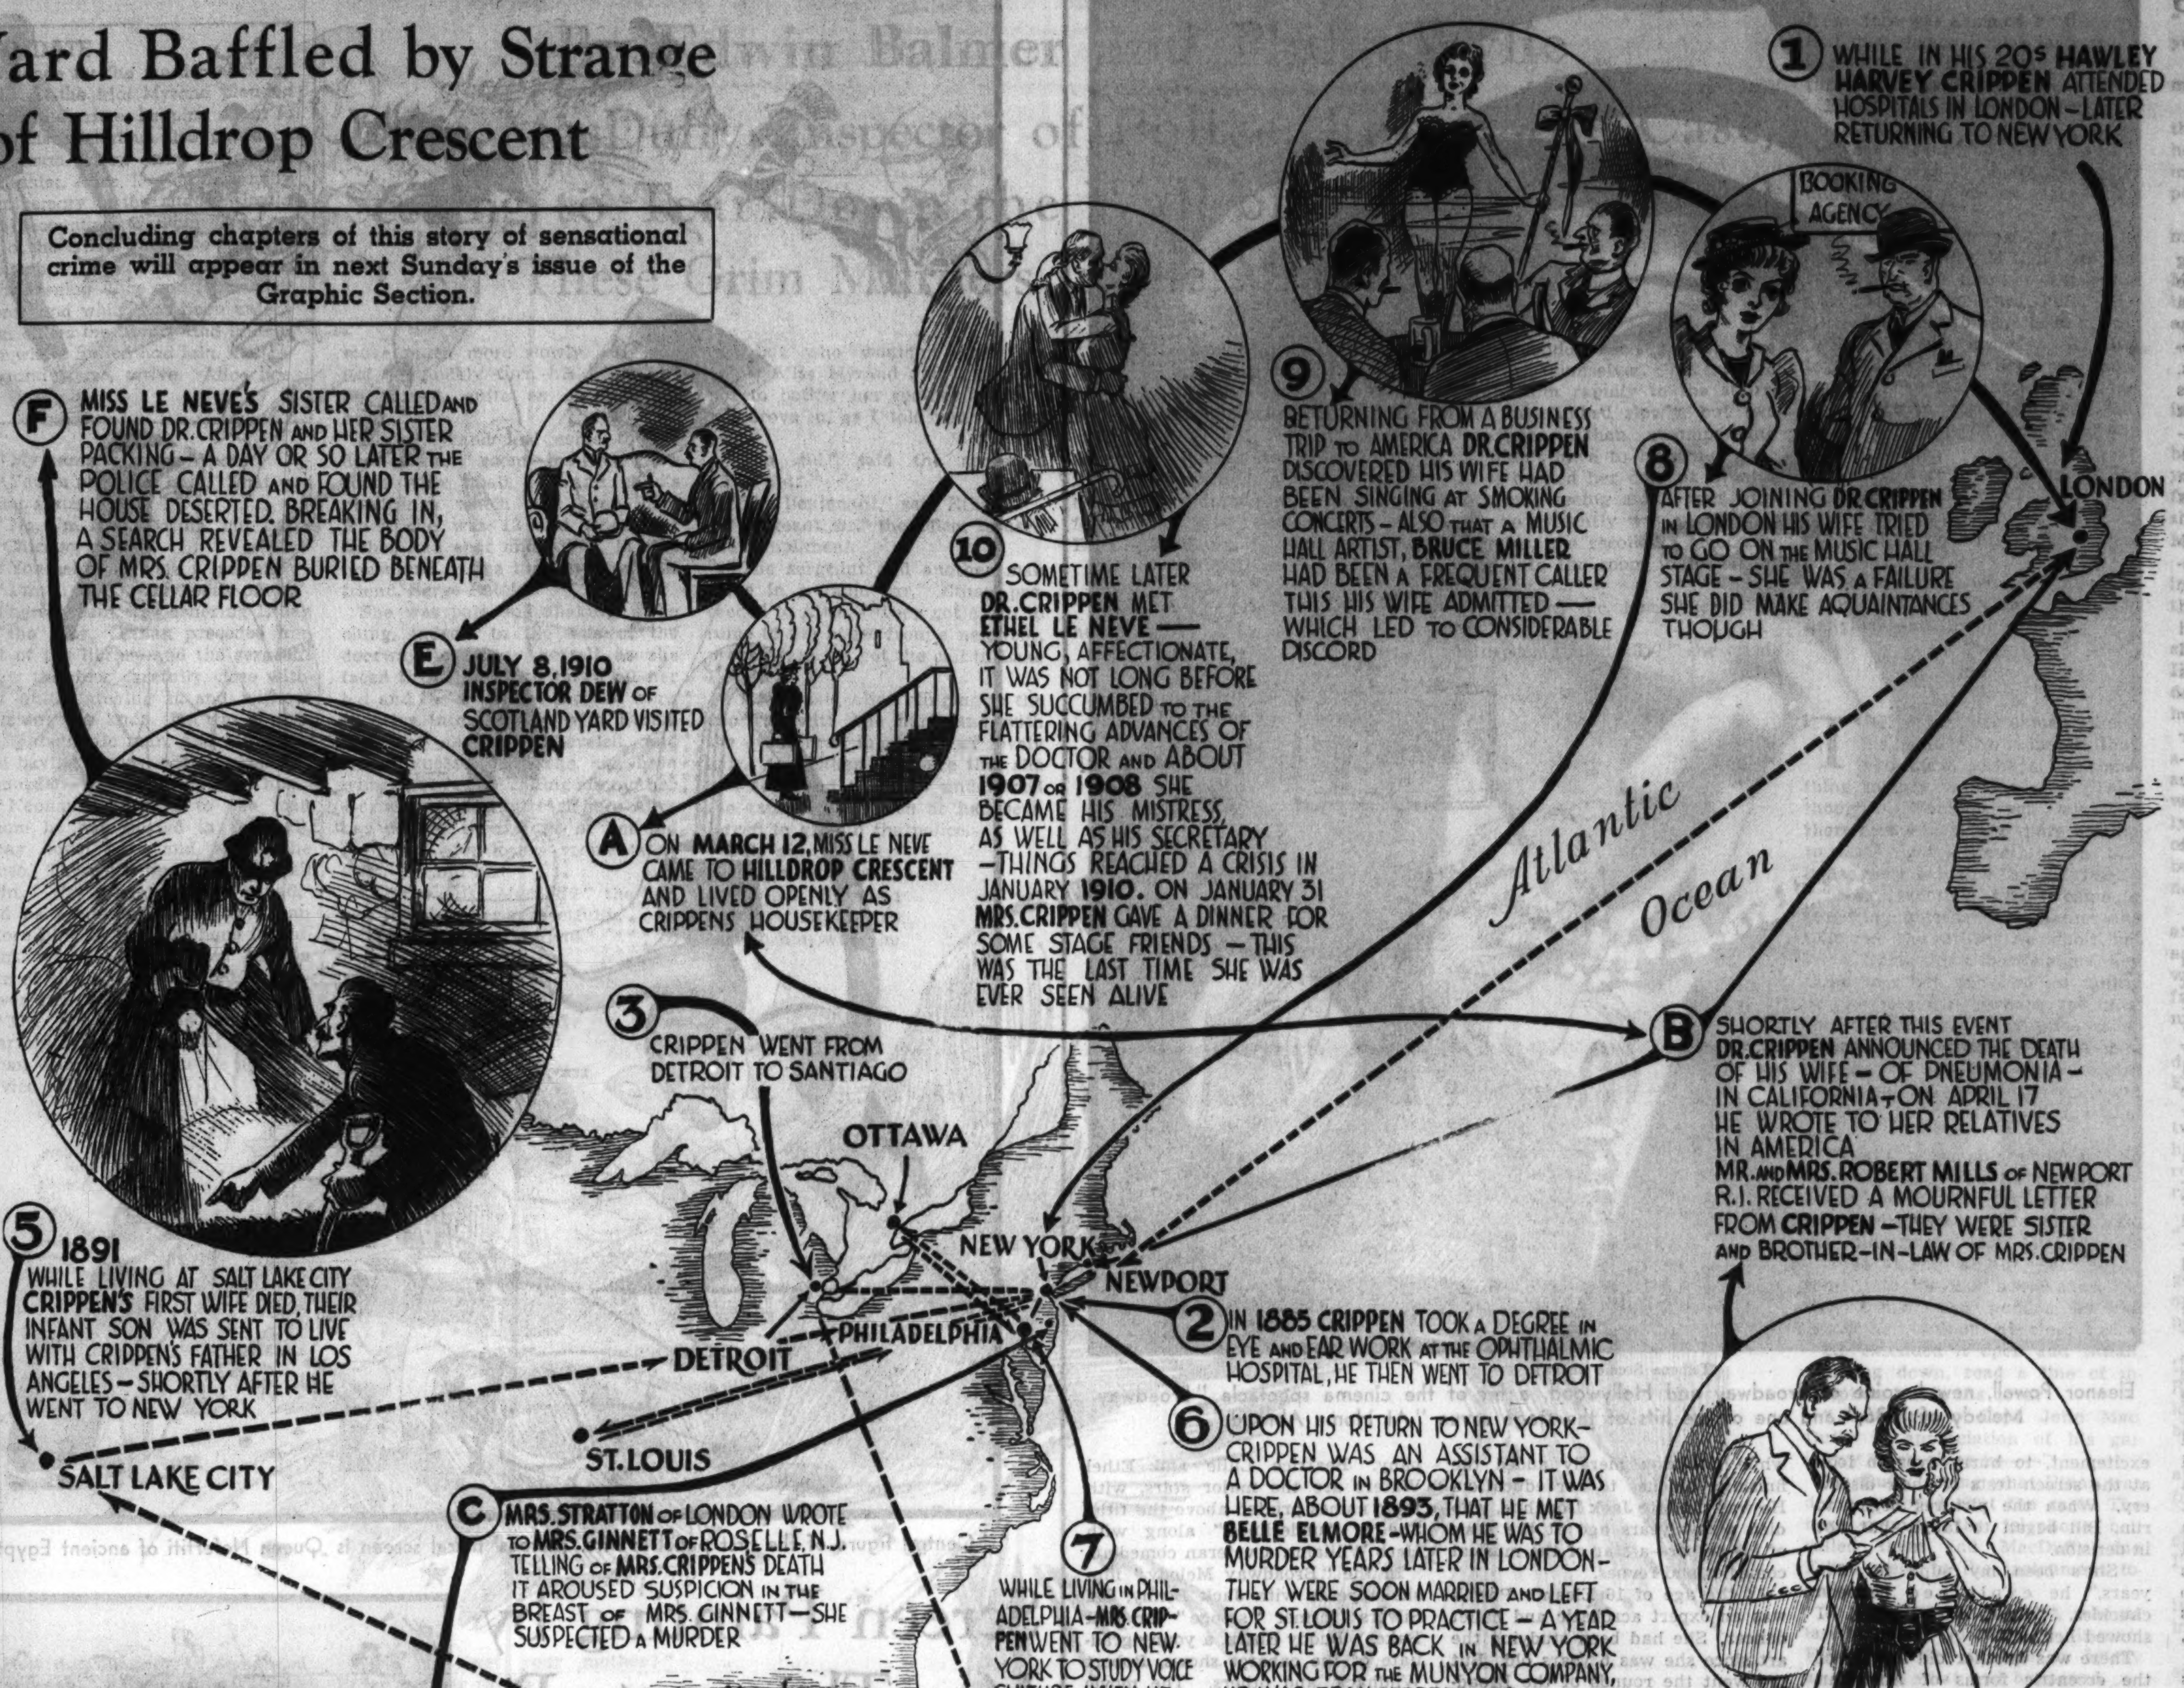
Dr. Crippen's Crime! Mystery Murder of Showgirl Wife

Scotland Yard Baffled by Strange Affair of Hilldrop Crescent

A Triangle Love Case

By GUY MURCHIE JR.

Concluding chapters of this story of sensational crime will appear in next Sunday's issue of the Graphic Section.



CHAPTER I.

Mysterious Disappearance in London

ABOUT the first of February, 1910, a woman disappeared. She was last seen in her home at 39 Hilldrop Crescent, in the north of London. Known by her stage name, Belle Elmore, this flamboyant, brown-eyed young woman was the wife of a Dr. Hawley Harvey Crippen, a dentist and associate of various patent medicine firms.

No one missed Mrs. Crippen at first, and there seemed nothing strange in her absence—certainly nothing to hint of the sickening horror that in a few months would break into the world's headlines. The woman evidently had gone to America to see a relative in California and had suddenly died there of pneumonia. Her husband, continuing to live at 39 Hilldrop Crescent, inserted announcements of his wife's death in the London Era on March 22 and later in the Stage, a London theatrical paper. Although he was known to have had some disagreements with her, Dr. Crippen expressed considerable grief over the loss of his wife, who was some fifteen years his junior, and wrote in mournful vein to his American connections.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mills of Newport, R. I., brother-in-law and sister of the vanished woman, received the following from Dr. Crippen:

39 Hilldrop Crescent N., London, April 11, 1910.

My dear Louise and Robert: I hardly know how to write you my dreadful loss. The shock to me has been so dreadful that I am hardly able to control myself. My poor Cora is gone, and, to make the shock to me more dreadful, I did not even see her at the last.

A few weeks ago we had news that an old relative of mine in California was dying, and to secure important property for ourselves it was necessary for one of us to go and put the matter in a lawyer's hands at once.

As I was very busy, Cora proposed she should go, and as it was necessary for someone to be there at once, she would go straight through from here to California without stopping at all, and then return via Brooklyn, and she would be able to pay all of you a long visit.

Unfortunately, on the way out my poor Cora caught a severe cold, and, not having while traveling a chance to take care of herself, it settled on her lungs, later to develop into pleuro-pneumonia.

She wished not to frighten me, so kept writing not to worry about her, that it was only a slight matter, and next I heard by cable she was dangerously ill. But after I cabled to know should I go to her I had the dreadful news that she had passed away. Imagine, if you can, the dreadful shock to me, nevermore to see my Cora alive nor hear her voice again. She is being sent back to me and I shall soon have what is left of her here.

Of course, I am giving up the house—in fact, it drives me mad to be in it alone. I will sell out everything in a few days. I do not know what I shall do; probably find some business to take me traveling for a few months until I can recover from the shock a little; but as soon as I have a settled address again I will write again to you.

As it is so terrible to me to have to write this dreadful, dreadful news, will you please tell all the others?

With love to all. Will write soon again and give you my address, probably next in France.
From DOCTOR.

CHAPTER II.

Medical Man with a Varied Career

IT WAS ten years before, in 1900, that the middle-aged doctor had gone from America to England with his young wife. A small man, getting bald, but with a bold brush of mustache across his otherwise unassuming face, he had had a varied career in the medical world. He was born in America. In his twenties he had attended hospitals in London. Afterward he returned to New York, where in 1885 he took a degree as a specialist in eye and ear work at the Ophthalmic hospital. He then went to Detroit and to Santiago de Cuba, where he married his first wife in 1888. In 1891 his wife died while they were living at Salt Lake City. Crippen shortly went to New York to be assistant to a doctor in Brooklyn. His infant son was sent to live with Dr. Crippen's father in Los Angeles.

About 1893 Crippen met Belle Elmore, who was then being attended by the Brooklyn doctor for whom he worked. The girl's real name was Kunegunda Matamotski. She was born in Brooklyn, the daughter of a polish laborer and his German wife. At the time Crippen met her she preferred to call herself Cora Turner. Seventeen years old, she was then living all alone, but "under the protection of a stove manufacturer of New York."

The thirty-year-old Crippen became attached to the little girl, who had ambitions to go on the stage. The two were married.

With his new bride the doctor went to practice in St. Louis, returning to New York the following year to take a position with Munyon's company, a medicine concern, as consulting physician. Later he was transferred to Philadelphia, then to Toronto, then back to Philadelphia. While living in Philadelphia the couple had a temporary separation when young Mrs. Crippen went to New York to have her voice trained preparatory to going in for grand opera. Crippen naturally footed the bill for this.

When the doctor was transferred to England as manager for Munyon's in Shaftesbury avenue in 1900 his wife went along, determined on going in for music hall sketches in London. Over her husband's objections the girl tried to go on the music hall circuits, but was a failure. She did, however, make several vaudeville acquaintances and kept up her hopes of some day being a hit.

When Dr. Crippen returned to London after a trip back to America on business he found that his wife had been singing at smoking concerts and that an American music hall artist named Bruce Miller had been a frequent visitor. Belle Elmore, as she called herself now, seemed to have cooled considerably in her feeling for Crippen. She did not hesitate to admit her fondness for Miller. She dressed like a princess when out in the evening, but lived a slattern's life at home, with little apparent appreciation of the money with which her husband provided her.

It was not surprising that Dr. Crippen should grow dissatisfied with his extravagant but slovenly wife. During his years in London it was his job to make the round of the patent medicine firms, and in one of them, the Drouet institute, a 17-year-old girl named Ethel Le Neve was employed as a typist. This slim, affectionate girl was under Crippen's orders when he was doing business with Drouet, and he became so attached to her that he employed her permanently as his clerk and private secretary.

CHAPTER III.

Young Typist the Woman in the Case

BY 1907 OR 1908 the young typist had succumbed to the flattering advances of her doctor friend and became his mistress, while remaining his secretary. Her health was not good, however, and she frequently fell ill and was always very nervous. The constant worry and the strain on the girl's conscience caused much anxiety to the doctor. Matters were rapidly reaching a crisis in January, 1910.

On the 31st of that month some stage friends of Mrs. Crippen's, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Martinetti, came for dinner at Hilldrop Crescent. After an evening of whist Paul and Clara Martinetti left at 1:30—which was the last time anyone but Dr. Crippen is definitly known to have seen his wife, Belle Elmore, alive.

A week or so later Mrs. Martinetti happened to meet Dr. Crippen, and, having just heard the report that Mrs. Crippen had sailed for America, she said to him jovially: "Well, you're a nice one, you are. Belle leaving for America, and you not telling me anything about it!"

Crippen then told Mrs. Martinetti how Belle had left in such a hurry that there was no time to tell anyone—that the night after the whist party a cable had come saying that one of the two must go immediately to California, and that Belle went because he was tied up with his business.

After that Mrs. Martinetti didn't see Crippen until several weeks later, when he called at the Martinetti home. Among other things, Mrs. Martinetti then asked him if he were going to the benevolent fund dinner, saying that her husband could get tickets. Crippen thought it over and said: "All right. I will take two."

At the dinner and ball Crippen appeared in good spirits. His partner was Miss Le Neve, whom the Martinettis and other friends of the Crippens knew as his stenographer and secretary. These friends naturally commented on little Miss Le Neve's presence, especially on the fact that she was seen to be wearing a brooch which they recognized as belonging to Belle Elmore. On other occasions the good-natured little Ethel Le Neve was seen with Dr. Crippen, and wearing his wife's furs or jewelry. On March 12 Miss Le Neve went to Hilldrop Crescent and lived openly in Crippen's house as his housekeeper. The two evidently accepted a measure of whispering among their neighbors as inevitable.

When, shortly after this, Dr. Crippen announced the sudden death in California of his beloved wife and wrote to her relatives, he had good reason to feel that his second venture into matrimony was satisfactorily terminated—and he settled down to a quite pleasant existence in Hilldrop Crescent with his tender-hearted little housekeeper. The outside world seemed to be resigning itself to the changed situation, with only the expected amount of gossip, and but for a freak bounce of the dice of fate the unpretentious Dr. Crippen and his little friend might have lived happily ever after.

CHAPTER IV.

Suspicions of a Woman Start Trouble

AS A MATTER of history, the single fly in the ointment of his happiness was a woman Dr. Crippen scarcely knew, a Mrs. Fred Ginnett of Roselle, N. J., an old stage friend of Belle Elmore's. Mrs. Ginnett was in correspondence with a Mrs. Stratton of London, both being former stage performers and, together with Belle Elmore, members of the Music Hall Artists' guild. The guild, with headquarters in New Oxford street, London, was a "trade association of vaudeville actors" run by a little clique of old-time woman performers. As it happened, Belle Elmore was treasurer of this association at the time of her disappearance. Her closest friend, Mrs. Ginnett, was president. A genuine bond of affection had evidently grown between the active members of this group.

When Mrs. Stratton wrote from London to Mrs. Ginnett in New Jersey a few weeks after Belle Elmore's reported departure for America saying, "How I envy Belle and you because of her visit to you at Roselle," Mrs. Ginnett was surprised. She knew of no such visit and had not heard anything from Belle Elmore for some time.

Then when Mrs. Ginnett received a second letter from Mrs. Stratton a week or two later, inclosing a newspaper clipping with the death announcement of Belle Elmore, she was quite startled. "How could Belle come to America without letting me know?" Mrs. Ginnett asked herself. As she thought it over she became increasingly suspicious. Her intuition was that Belle had been murdered. There was virtually no evidence at her disposal to back this theory, yet so strong was this woman's uncanny conviction that she immediately started a relentless fight to make the London police see with their eyes what she had seen in her imagination.

First of all Mrs. Ginnett wrote to the guild headquarters in London. That was about April 1. She asked the executive committee of the organization to look into the circumstances of Belle Elmore's death. The secretary of the guild replied that Dr. Crippen had failed to give the guild "particular notification of its treasurer's death." This struck Mrs. Ginnett as odd in view of the funds that Mrs. Crippen had been handling for the guild.

Next Mrs. Ginnett wrote to Dr. Crippen's son in Los Angeles, asking him what he knew of his stepmother's death. The boy shortly wrote back that he had not seen his stepmother in California, but that his father had written him that she died near San Francisco. Again it seemed odd to Mrs. Ginnett that Belle Elmore could have been dying so near her husband's relatives and they not have known it.

Mrs. Ginnett now made inquiries of San Francisco. She found no trace of Belle Elmore's having died there or even having been there. So the indefatigable woman got in touch with Belle's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Mills, who had received the already quoted letter from Crippen. They told her how Crippen had written saying that his wife's remains (after her cremation, so they assumed) were to be sent to him in London. Mrs. Ginnett therefore wrote to all the crematories in the San Francisco area, but could find none that had handled Mrs. Crippen's body.

Convinced by this time that she had enough evidence of discrepancy on which at least to base suspicion against Dr. Crippen, Mrs. Ginnett directed the guild executive committee in London to lay the case before the authorities of Scotland Yard. The women of the committee did so, but the police were not very interested in the far-fetched suspicions of the excited females.

A second call was made on the police late in May, with no more result than the first. It looked as though Crippen were well justified in his optimism about the future, in his unworried existence at Hilldrop Crescent with Ethel Le Neve, and in his leisurely vacation with her to Dieppe, France, financed by selling some of his late wife's jewelry.

There remained one thing for Mrs. Ginnett and her now thoroughly converted helpers to do. Since the police would provide them with no detectives, the only thing left was to do their own detective work.

It so happened that one of Mrs. Ginnett's helpers in New Jersey was a woman named Mrs. Nash, who had a husband, John Nash, a vaudeville writer, who was about to embark on a trip to England. Mrs. Ginnett called on Mr. Nash and persuaded him to exert latent talents and turn detective.

CHAPTER V.

Dr. Crippen Receives a Caller

TWO weeks later came a knock on the door of No. 39 Hilldrop Crescent. It was Mr. Nash calling on Dr. Crippen, the husband of his old vaudeville acquaintance, Belle Elmore. Turning the conversation to Belle's music hall days, Nash reminisced casually; then he began to ask the doctor natural questions about his wife's sudden death. Presently he asked to see the urn containing Belle's cremated remains. But Dr. Crippen had no such urn, nor any other container of ashes.

Asked the name of the crematory that had disposed of Belle Elmore's body, Dr. Crippen was unable to recall it. Neither could he remember the name of that small town near San Francisco where she died, except that it had a Spanish-sounding name. On the matter of a death certificate Dr. Crippen said he had never received any death certificate, only the telegraphed notice of death, which message he had not preserved.

Belle Elmore (Mrs. Crippen) arrayed in one of her London music hall costumes.

After this interview John Nash himself reported to Scotland Yard. Here at last were facts that the dullest of detectives must recognize as a bit suspicious. The authorities took formal cognizance of the case on June 22, nearly five months after Belle Elmore had last been seen.

For the next fortnight the police seem to have spent their time as they thought best, with no evident results. At any rate, the first serious assault upon Dr. Crippen's privacy was not delivered until July 8. On that day Inspector Dew, one of Scotland Yard's experts, made his call at 39 Hilldrop Crescent.

Dr. Crippen did not seem disturbed nor even surprised when the inspector asked him why he was unable to name the time and place of his wife's death. He said he was going to be utterly frank with the officer. Then, with all the air of a man making a full confession, he told him that so far as he knew his wife was not dead at all. Then he told in some detail of how he and his wife had quarreled and how she had suddenly left him, saying he would never see her again. He said that he was ashamed to have people know that his wife had run away from him and that for that reason he had fabricated the story of her death.

When he had heard all, the inspector looked with his cool official eyes full into the face of the submissive Dr. Crippen. With ruthless gruffness he spoke as he felt it his duty: "Very well, Dr. Crippen. Your story may well be true, but while the investigation is proceeding you must bear in mind that suspicion rests on you. You must therefore hold yourself at the disposal of the authorities at all times."

"Yes, sir, I will," promised the little man, whereupon Dew asked if the doctor minded showing him through his house.

"I'm pleased to help the investigation in any way I can, sir," replied Crippen meekly, and he led the other through the rooms from attic to cellar. When Dew had seen the whole house and observed nothing suspicious he took his leave, informing the dentist that he probably would call again soon.

As the days went by Crippen's brooding mind became more and more convinced of the danger of his position. He confided little to his young housekeeper, but at length told her that he wanted her to flee with him to America, where they could get married.

As the two were packing up to leave, the doorbell suddenly rang. A shiver went down the stocky doctor's spine. If this should be Inspector Dew, what could he say to explain the half-packed suitcases? He went to open the door. It was a young woman, Miss Le Neve's sister. She asked for Ethel and came in for a little chat, evidently curious about reports she had heard of the doctor's relations with her sister. She soon realized from the luggage and the restlessness of her host and hostess that they were on the verge of a departure. She asked them where they were going.

Even though caught off his guard, Crippen's mind was quick enough to find a plausible answer. "Ethel and I intend to go straight to America," he said. "I want to confront the people there who started all the scandalous reports about my wife's disappearance."

CHAPTER VI.

Police Balked by Flight of Couple

PRESENTLY the girl visitor departed. An hour afterward Dr. Crippen and his frail comrade vanished from the world. When men from Scotland Yard called at 39 Hilldrop Crescent a day or two later to ask a few more routine questions, no one answered the bell. Neighbors said they had not seen any sign of life at the Crippen home for at least two days.

From neighbors close to the trim looking house at 39 Hilldrop Crescent the police learned that a woman had been heard crying and screaming one night about the first of February. The cries seemed to come from the Crippens' house, and one neighbor said he could distinguish the words "O, don't!"

The closest neighbor, however, remembered that a few weeks after this nocturnal occurrence he happened to look out of his window toward the Crippen house. It was a bright morning. He could plainly see a man and a young woman in one of the upper rooms. The woman was pretty, and her companion was helping her try on a lot of theatrical costumes. The two laughed and talked gayly. From the description the police believed the young woman to be Miss Le Neve and the man Dr. Crippen.

After forcibly entering the Crippen house the detectives found the doctor's possessions in a state of tumbled disorder. It was obvious that Crippen and Miss Le Neve must have left in a great hurry. This evidence was a strong enough hint to arouse Inspector Dew and his superiors. Crippen's wife was missing and reported dead.

Orders were immediately sent out from Scotland Yard to arrest the escaping couple on sight. By now—two days after his hasty departure from 39 Hilldrop Crescent—Crippen probably already had left England.

At the same time the arrest orders went out, detectives began a careful search of the Crippen house. They were looking for Belle Elmore's body. From top to bottom they ransacked the house. When they had accounted for every cubic foot of space from the roof to the cellar they considered whether anything might lie under the cellar floor. The floor was made of bricks, but the bricks were not mortared together. When the coal, ashes, and other rubbish had been swept away the detectives removed the bricks.

Under the bricks were clay and quicklime, and Inspector Dew, determined to leave no stone unturned, took a spade and dug into the earth. After a few shovelfuls had opened a hole some eight inches deep the inspector's implement struck an object wrapped in an old pajama coat marked "Jones & Co., Holloway." Feeling reasonably certain that this must be Belle Elmore's body, though he could not be positive, Dew immediately sent for Dr. Marshall, the divisional surgeon of police, and for Sir Melville Macnaghten.

Meet Popular Eleanor Powell!

She Dances Her Way to Fame

By CHARLES COLLINS

THERE is a new girl on the Big Time; a new passenger on the bandwagon of popularity; a new heroine for the Broadway columnists and the Hollywood propagandists to praise to the skies. Everyone who follows the fashions in entertainment has begun to talk about her, and the publicity engineers have gone to work enthusiastically to make the entire nation familiar with her name, which is Eleanor Powell.

She is merely a dancer for the musical shows and the films. Her history has been brief and uneventful; her private life has been simple and demure; her career has contained no exciting eccentricities. One would have said off-hand, a few months ago, that she was only a nice looking girl who danced exceedingly well and that fame would pass her by. But the ways of destiny surpass understanding and the magic that evokes general renown is a dark and subtle mystery. Eleanor is now famous and is becoming more famous every minute; and one cannot laugh off such a vogue.

First, to identify her, in case you haven't heard—really, sir, haven't you heard of Eleanor Powell? Tsk! Tsk! Tsk! She is the hit of the new cinema spectacle called "Broadway Melody of 1936." (It cost $650,000.) She is also the hit—or rather one of the hits—of the new Broadway revue called "At Home Abroad," now in the first flush of a long run at the New York Winter Garden. These are Eleanor's activities of the moment, and in the show world they constitute a success of magnitude—a dual triumph, in person and in shadow.

All this began with a slogan. The dancing masters of America, officially assembled for their annual rites, bestowed upon Miss Powell the title of "The World's Greatest Feminine Tap Dancer." This was the first time that a female champion had been recognized for the national pastime of jiggling around on a floor, making noises with the feet. Previously, world's honors had been concentrated in the veteran, Bill Robinson, a colored man who is the Joe Louis of "taps" and who has reigned supreme ever since this form of dancing became a mania, about ten or fifteen years ago.

The discovery of Miss Powell's gifts, however, did not surprise Old Bill, aged 59 but still as limber as a buggy whip. Hollywood studio executives telephoned him, in high excitement, to hurry over to look at the screen tests of their discovery. When the pictures began to run, Bill began to laugh—but not in derision.

"She's been my pupil for five years," he explained between chuckles. "Sure, she's great. I showed her how."

There was another old master of the eccentric forms of American stage dancing, however, who figured in Miss Powell's career, perhaps more importantly than Bill Robinson. He gave her the fundamentals; while Robinson merely added the finishing touches to her education. He was the late Jack Donahue, who died a few years ago at the peak of his career—a star of the musical comedies and revues.

At the age of 16 Eleanor Powell was an expert acrobatic and ballet dancer. She had been studying the art since she was 6 years old. But she went the rounds of the Broadway managers' offices, seeking employment in vain. The invariable question that met her was: "Are you a tap-dancer?" She invariably answered, "No," and got the cold shoulder. Then she took a course of ten lessons with Jack Donahue and was promptly accepted as a regular Broadway dancing girl.

Her first show was "Follow Through." She hoped that she could make her Broadway debut under the eye of her teacher, and telegraphed to Donahue, who was in Springfield, Mass., inviting him to attend the opening as her guest. She bought a front row seat for him.

But Donahue was doomed never to see his brilliant pupil. He died that very day, a few hours before the curtain rose on the "Follow Through" première. He had had great faith in her future, and his widow did not want to let Eleanor dance before Jack's empty seat on that fatal night. Therefore, to fulfill her husband's promise and to help to sustain the morale of his favorite pupil, she occupied that seat herself.

After "Follow Through" came "Fine and Dandy," a popular musical show which gave her an opportunity to study the quaint behavior of another eminent dancing man—the inventive Joe Cook. This production came to the Erlanger theater, Chicago, on May 11, 1931, and my review of it contained the following remarks upon the heroine of the present article:

"A slender, bob haired hoyden named Eleanor Powell gives the first act one of its applauded moments by going into an ecstasy of modern dancing rhythms."

Then Florenz Ziegfeld, close to the end of his reign as master of the Broadway revels, engaged her for "Hot Cha," a revue whose history was limited to the theatrical zone of the eastern seaboard. The producers of the large scale Broadway spectacles were eager for her services by this time, and George White was next in line with a contract for an engagement in his "Scandals." Then came an extensive tour in "Crazy Quilt," a revue staged by Billy Rose, in which she appeared with Charles King and Anita Page, stars of the first "Broadway Melody" film. When the theater-restaurant phase of entertainment came into fashion, she danced in the Casino Varieties and the Casino de Paree, New York.

The tour of White's "Scandals" took her to the Pacific coast, and the re-arrangement of this production as a cinema spectacle put her into Hollywood competition. That was her first film appearance; the new "Broadway Melody" is her second. She now holds a contract calling for her services for the next seven years with the firm of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, but the Shuberts have a prior lien upon her for the duration of "At Home Abroad," which probably will have a full season's run in New York.

"At Home Abroad" puts Miss Powell into fast Broadway company. Beatrice Lillie and Ethel Waters are the major stars, with their names printed above the title. She is "underlined," along with Herb Williams, a veteran comedian.

In the "Broadway Melody" film she appears with Jack Benny, Sid Silvers (former "stooge" for Phil Baker), Buddy Ebsen, a young graduate of the cabaret shows, Robert Wildhack, and others. The movie fans who have a complex for picking all-star casts are clamoring for Fred Astaire as her next dancing partner.

The charm of a normal, healthy, happy, modern young woman is the dominant note in Miss Powell's personality. She is not an exotic type; she is no Broadway vampire or Hollywood siren; her appeal is natural and romantic. Her face is pretty; her smile is playful and eager; and her figure is close to the ideal for a graceful and athletic young woman. She is taller than the average dancing girl; she measures 5 feet 6 inches and weighs 120 pounds. Her bathing suit pictures are striking, even to eyes that have become blase to swimming pool beauties. She evades the current tendency toward nudism, however, in her professional appearances; fancy costumes or fluffy ballroom frocks form her dancing wardrobe.

When "At Home Abroad" was in rehersal, it was discovered that one of the scenes called for Miss Powell's appearance in step-ins and negligee. She is no prude and was ready to go through the scene when J. J. Shubert came running down the aile to express himself with vigor:

This may seem like strange behavior on the part of a producer of Broadway revues, but it was, in fact, shrewd recognition of the dancer's romantic and wholesome appeal to her audiences. There have been many thousands of girls on exhibition before the footlights, provocatively undressed. Nudity, or the approach to it, has lost its novelty for theater goers. But Eleanor Powell, dressed like sweet sixteen and dancing like a moonbeam on a mountain lake, is giving Broadway a new thrill of gay innocence.

She was born in Springfield, Mass., Nov. 21, 1913, and when she was six years old her mother decided that something would have to be done to correct her bashfulness. Dancing lessons were chosen as the means of giving the child social contacts, and as soon as she began them she found her career in life. She came home in ecstasy, absolutely inspired.

When Eleanor was 13 years old, she was taken on a holiday trip to Atlantic City, and there, frolicking on the beach with a group of playmates she gave an extempore exhibition of adagio dancing tricks—acrobatic stuff in slow motion. Her skill attracted the attention of a man who is famous as a kind of Pied Piper of the theater—Gus Edwards, who has specialized for many years in discovering and developing child entertainers.

Edwards immediately approached Eleanor's mother with a bid for the child's services as a dancer in the grillroom of the Ritz hotel. She gave her consent, with the stipulation that the arrangement should be limited to one performance a night; and thus Eleanor Powell became a professional. Three years later mother and daughter descended upon Broadway.

"Her bathing suit pictures are striking, even to eyes that have become blase to swimming pool beauties."

Ageless Beauty Is Mural Theme

Central figure of the first panel in Mrs. Thomas' mural screen is Queen Nefertiti of ancient Egypt, attended by her handmaidens.

Screen Painting by Mrs. Thomas to Be Exhibited Here

THE mural panels shown in the accompanying reproductions are part of a remarkable painting by Mrs. Clara Fargo Thomas, noted American mural artist. The painting, entitled "A Pageant of Beauty," contains fourteen panels on which are depicted more than a hundred and twenty-five human figures and seventy-five animals. Principal figures in the picture are historical characters, most of them women whose beauty was celebrated.

The painting, which is owned by Elizabeth Arden, is in tempera on hollywood veneer and is brilliantly colored, giving an exceedingly decorative effect. The panels can be set up either in a straight line, or in a curve, or in angular formation. When the painting was first exhibited last June in London the panels, which form a large screen nearly ceiling high in a normal room, were shown in the form of a large crescent.

The artist has chosen Nefertiti, queen of the heretic Pharaoh Akhenaten, as the most beautiful woman in history. Next on her list she put the elegant ladies of second century China, followed by Mumtaz Mahal, Eleanor of Aquitaine, Simonetta Vespucci, and Nelson's Lady Hamilton. To obtain accuracy in depicting these characters the artist engaged in intensive research.

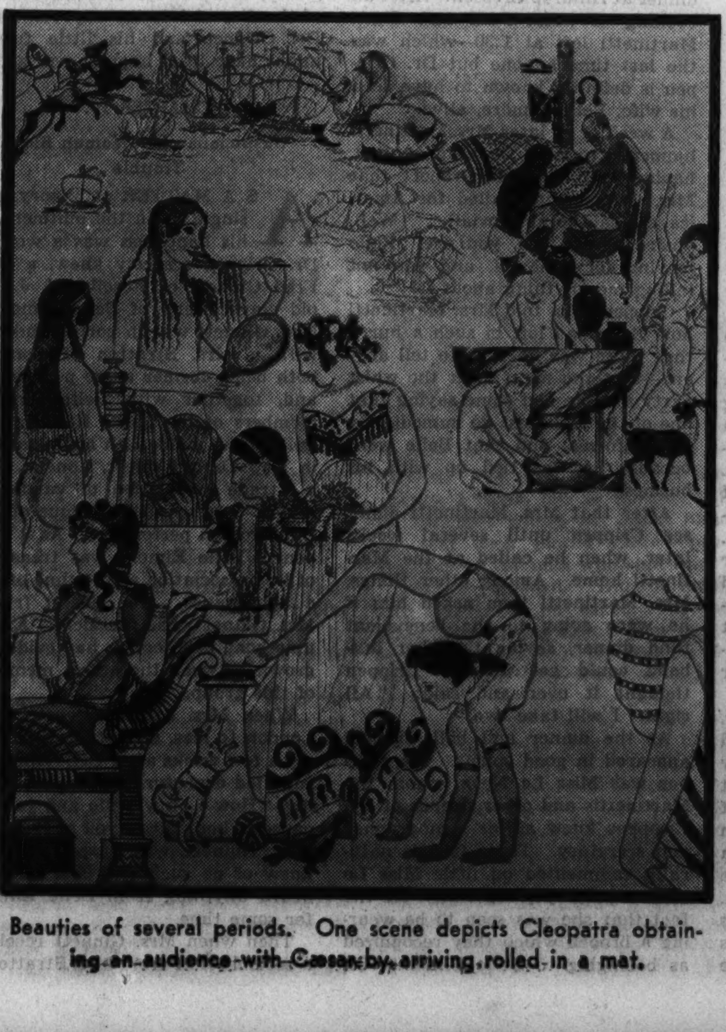
Confirmation for each detail was sought in the museums and picture galleries of Pompeii, Rome, Naples, Paris, Berlin, New York, Boston, and the British museum in London.

The head of Queen Nefertiti, for example, was adapted from the beautiful bust in the Staatliche museum, Berlin. Her pose was taken from a caricature on a papyrus in the Turin museum. The throne chair on which she sits is derived from a painting on the back panel of the Pharaoh Tut-Ank-Amen's throne.

All of the other figures, including vases, receptacles, and furniture pieces, were authenticated in Egyptian, Chinese, Roman, French, British, and other art.

The panels will be exhibited in Chicago at a loop department store.

Panel two of the screen shows elegant ladies of ancient China in the foreground and Grecian beauties in the background.



Beauties of several periods. One scene depicts Cleopatra obtaining an audience with Caesar by arriving rolled in a mat.

The final panel of the screen is devoted to the modern age, depicting the athletic grace of emancipated womanhood. The principal figure suggests a Grecian influence.

THE SHIELD OF SILENCE

By Edwin Balmer and Philip Wylie

John MacDuffy, Inspector of Police, Enters the Case, Seeking to Tear Down the Wall of Mystery Around These Grim Murders in the Myrand House

THE STORY TO DATE

Lucian Myrand is serving a life sentence for the murder of Serge Ralten, who was supposedly his friend. At the trial Myrand pleaded guilty, but gave no reason for committing the crime, keeping silent to shield some secret. Nor would he explain his mysterious disappearance for ten months after escaping from a German prison camp during the war. Myrand's wife, Ursula, and his daughter, Alice, live on the family estate near Chicago. On the sixth anniversary of the murder Ursula visits her husband in prison. Alice is recounting to Ethan West, a young lawyer friend, the circumstances of the crime when she receives word her mother is calling her long distance. Ursula has noticed a strange excitement in her husband. That evening Alice and Ethan visit the town house where the murder occurred and which has been untenanted since except for caretakers. Ethan enters the library and finds a man murdered and sprawled on the floor where Ralten had lain. Police, who receive word of trouble at the Myrand house, arrive. Alice has called her mother to come.

INSTALMENT IV.

"MURDER?" the older officer challenged. He was a sergeant of police. "There's murder here?"

"Yes," said Ethan, "we think so."

"You and who else?"

"Miss Myrand," Ethan replied, "Miss Alice Myrand—the daughter of the owner of this house," he repeated.

"Where's the body?"

"I'll show you," Ethan said, turning about to lead them into the drawing room where the lights had been left ablaze.

"One minute!"

"Yes," said Ethan. "What?"

"Noonan," said the sergeant to his subordinate, "stay here in the hall. Watch the door and anything that goes on in the house. All right," he continued then to Ethan, "now where is it?"

"In the library," Ethan told him.

"On this floor?"

Ethan nodded.

"All right," the officer bade him, "go ahead, but take your time."

In the interval after he spoke he stood listening, and Ethan listened, too, but he heard nothing. Had Alice, upstairs, succeeded in reaching her mother on the phone? Exactly where was Alice, upstairs? And how was she?

Ethan led through the large, lighted drawing room. The man Noonan remained in the hall. The sergeant was following Ethan a step or so behind, glancing about.

"Hold up!" he warned Ethan swiftly as Ethan's hand went to the door knob. "Don't touch that!"

"I have already—twice," Ethan told him.

"Don't do it again!" And the sergeant's big hand went to the knob, but neither his palm nor his fingers touched it. He reached behind the knob to the shank and, there gripping with thumb and forefinger, he unlatched the door and opened it.

THE body lay as Ethan had left it, and the sight of it evoked from the police officer no exclamation. He stood away from it staring down at it. He looked quickly around the room, and then he approached it and bent over it.

"Dead all right," he said and straightened. "Who is he, did you say?"

"I said I didn't know," Ethan replied.

"Do you know now?"

"No. Do you know who he is, officer?"

"How would I?" the officer returned. "Where's the gun?"

"I never saw any gun."

"You mean there wasn't any?"

"One was used, of course," Ethan replied. "But I couldn't find it."

"You looked for it?"

"Yes."

"What did you say your name was?"

"My name is Ethan West."

"You're not from here." That was a flat statement.

"No, I'm from Boston, but I live in Chicago, now."

"You said you were a lawyer."

"I'm in Mr. Corondelet's office."

The sergeant was ushering Ethan to the door. Ethan preceded him out of the library and the sergeant drew the door carefully close without quite latching it and without touching the knob. He was a careful, phlegmatic man, and murder—and having to deal with suspects of a murder—was no novelty to him.

"Noonan," he said to the man whom he had posted in the hall, "stay down here and watch the house. There's a homicide here all right. I'm phoning the squad." And he proceeded, ushering Ethan before him, to the telephone instrument which he discerned in the rear of the hall. He lifted the receiver and found the line dead.

"The phone in the caretaker's quarters should be in service," Ethan volunteered. "In the upstairs service hall."

"How do you know?" demanded the sergeant. "Been using it?"

"I haven't," said Ethan and added, "but Miss Myrand probably has. She stayed upstairs when I came down to phone her mother."

"Where's her mother?"

"At her Lake Forest house."

"Was she — Miss Myrand — phoning anybody else?"

"Not that I know."

"All right. We'll go up."

The upper hall was alight as Ethan had left it, and it was silent also. When they had been below Ethan had not expected to hear Alice's voice even if she had been using the telephone. The distance and the shut doors of the service halls would have made it inaudible, but they ought to hear it now.

They heard nothing as they stood at the top of the stairs. Then, suddenly, there was a movement behind them. Ethan spun about. The sergeant beside him seemed to move much more slowly. He did not so quickly turn his body, but he turned, quite as quickly, his head.

Alice Myrand had come to the door of "her" room—the little girl's room with small bed and child's playthings which had been hers when she was 12 and when her father had shot and killed, in this house and in the library below, his friend, Serge Ralten.

She was pale and shaking. She clung, indeed, to the side of the doorway to steady herself as she faced them. She had taken off her hat and the light coat she had worn to drive into the city with Ethan. She was slightly disheveled, and Ethan guessed that she had been lying down. After calling her mother—or after failing to reach her—Alice had sought the refuge of her old room and, for a few moments at least, her old bed.

"You're Miss Myrand?" the sergeant said to her respectfully.

"Yes, I'm Alice Myrand."

"Did you get your mother?" Ethan quickly said.

"Yes."

"You told her where we are—and what we found?"

"Yes. Yes, Ethan," Alice repeated and she said to the police officer, "My mother is coming here as quickly as she can be driven down."

"That's good, miss," said the sergeant. "That's exactly what I'd ask if she wasn't coming."

"Lieutenant," said Ethan to the officer and deliberately raising his rank, "I ought to tell you that Mrs Myrand had no information of the telephone call which told us that there was trouble here. She was lying down when the call came. She had had a very hard day. This was one of the days she was allowed to visit her husband at Joliet and she had been down there and had just returned from the penitentiary. So when that call came from the woman who said she was a neighbor but who wouldn't give her name, Miss Myrand and I decided not to bother her mother with it. We drove in, as I told you, on our own."

"You did," said the sergeant. "You did?"

"The lieutenant," said Ethan.

"Sergeant, sir," the officer refused the compliment.

"The sergeant and another man came in a radio car," Ethan proceeded to Alice. "They got a call to come to the house from a neighbor, probably, as we got the call in Lake Forest."

"I see," said Alice, clinging to the doorway with one hand and with the other brushing back her lovely hair. And Ethan was sure that she had seen and that she understood the explanation which he had been forced to give to the police.

But did the sergeant also "see"? Had he discerned now that Ethan had said to him what he had just said to warn the girl so she would not be caught in a different explanation of her presence here tonight?

If the sergeant now suspected this he gave no sign.

"Let me get one thing clear first. You've both looked carefully at the corpse below?"

"Yes," said Ethan. "I have," said Alice.

"Neither of you know him or you don't even think you know who he is?"

"No. No."

"But he's in the same room that five years ago this miss' father shot Ralten and he was lying there."

"Yes," said Ethan.

"It was six years ago," Alice corrected. "Six years ago tonight—to the night."

"What?" said the sergeant.

"I said it was six years ago to the night," repeated Alice, and Ethan, watching her, saw that she was speaking not to the police officer nor to him, but aloud before them to herself, "that father shot Serge Ralten in that room—in exactly the same spot, in exactly the same way!"

THE sergeant stared at her. "But your father, if he's in the pen, certainly has a strong alibi on this killing, miss," he said, as if comforting her. "But that don't go for his friends." And with this he strode down the hall to the phone in the servants' quarters.

Alice retreated into her room and Ethan followed.

"I told him downstairs, Alice," said Ethan, whispering, though he had drawn the door shut, "the truth of everything we did—except why we came here. I told him a woman who wouldn't give her name phoned the Lake Forest house that there was trouble here."

"Yes," said Alice. "Yes, I heard you tell him that again—for me. Thank you. Thank you. But what good now will it do?"

"Now?"

"Mother," said Alice, "mother's coming. O, I want her to come. It's her duty—and her right. But—Ethan, this murder—do you suppose possibly we can make out what it means before mother gets here?"

"Dear Alice!" said Ethan. "Dear Alice!"

"O, I'm not mad, Ethan. I'm not out of my mind. I'm not asking that we find out who shot that man downstairs. I'm not asking yet to know who did it. I only want to know—or to get some idea somehow before mother gets here—what that man, lying dead on the floor where father shot Ralten, means."

"Why," said Ethan, "why must you know it before your mother gets here?"

"Because if father wanted that man shot, Ethan," she whispered, "if this is something for him—for father — that this man, too, was killed, I want to know it. You see, if it was, I'd lie, change things, destroy things, if I could, to help father keep his secret. She wouldn't! She wants nothing in life so much as to tear it from him—to know it for herself. I—I—God help me, Ethan—I'd do what I said."

"Hush!" said Ethan.

"No, I mean it!"

"I mean, don't let anybody else hear."

"O, where is he?"

"Dear Alice!" said Ethan. "Dear Alice!"

"He's coming back," Ethan whispered after opening the door. "Made your call, sergeant?" he asked.

The police officer stopped in the doorway. "You'll neither of you try to leave the house."

"We don't want to," Alice said.

"I'll see," the sergeant said to her, "you're troubled as little as can be. You," he said to Ethan, "got any more ideas?"

"I'd like to phone Mr. Corondelet," said Ethan. "If anybody would know Mr. Myrand's friends he would."

"All right. Phone him. I'll go with you. Anybody else you think of who might make an identification?"

Ethan got a response from Peter Corondelet's apartment almost immediately, but Mr. Corondelet was not in. His man thought, however, he could locate him and asked for the number which Mr. Corondelet could call when "located." So Ethan gave the number and waited beside the phone.

It was a long wait, broken by interludes with Alice. The police sergeant had gone downstairs. Several department men arrived both in groups and singly.

They questioned Ethan in the library, where he related again and again exactly what he first had seen and what he later had done. They brought Alice downstairs for one brief interrogation. Later questions they put to her in her own room where for the most part she was permitted to stay.

There was another arrival.

"Inspector MacDuffy," Ethan heard some one say and he supposed that Alice and he were to go through an inquisition again, but this inspector merely shook Ethan's hand, looked him over, and then shut himself up in the library with the group at work in there.

Ethan was in the drawing room when MacDuffy emerged, altered in no manner. He was a tall, clean shaven, gray haired man with a heavy chin and large eyes buried under thick brows.

"When do you expect Mrs. Myrand?" he asked.

Ethan looked at his watch. It was incredible how, after the time at first had flown, now it seemed to stand still.

"In twenty minutes, if she started at once, but she would have had to get dressed."

"I will be glad to see her again."

"You know her?"

"I handled the case here, young man, six years ago. I am not proud of my part. So professionally as well as personally I am glad to be in this house again."

MacDuffy's voice was sonorous and gave the effect of a drawl, but in reality he spoke quickly, almost curtly.

"I am really on the retired list, this remarkably agreeable man volunteered. "Not age, thank God. Bad health. That may be temporary. But the chief remembered me tonight. I've heard what happened and seen it. Shall we go upstairs to Miss Myrand?"

He walked across the front hall with tremendous strides which were slow in themselves, but which brought him rapidly to the stairs, which he climbed slowly, but two at a time. Ethan, accompanying him, didn't have to hurry.

Alice opened her door at Ethan's knock and, seeing a tall man with him who evidently was another investigator, she recoiled. MacDuffy moved into the room in his deliberate way.

"Remember me, Miss Alice?" he said.

"Inspector MacDuffy!" she cried.

"How much more," he demanded, "than the name do you remember, Miss Alice?"

"Much more," said Alice, looking at him, her eyes big with memories his appearance recalled.

"It was a hard time, Miss Alice. The hardest of times for a child like you. May this be better!"

"Inspector MacDuffy was the officer," Alice started to say to Ethan

"I've told him that, but not also this—till you could deny it, if you thought it not true. I was Mr. Lucian Myrand's friend. I was captain then and I'd known him, as so many did. Man, how I admired him. I spent one night, the whole of it, begging him to tell why he shot Ralten. It would win his freedom, I was sure. But he wouldn't. So I went to work for him against himself. 'Twas me they sent to Europe and who turned up the fact that there was a year missing out of Mr. Lucian Myrand's life which he never mentioned nor of which would he say a word when told of it. So," he said, turning back to Alice, "here we are in his house again and with a second man, and not unlike the first, where Ralten was lying. When it was reported the chief remembered me and gave me my chance to come here. Now I've told you how I'm here, so you do the same to me."

"You mean tell you how we came here tonight?" Ethan put in. "A woman who wouldn't give her name phoned——"

MacDuffy lifted a huge hand. "Aren't you hoarse repeating it? No matter," he dismissed his own question casually, "if you feel we're on opposite sides. Hold on — hold on!"

With surprising quickness now he grasped Alice's arm and supported her when she started and tottered at the shock of explosions below.

"'Tis only the photographers with their flashlights, Miss Alice," he said. "They must have pictures of everything below before more is moved or changed about."

"Referring to that," MacDuffy turned to Ethan, "you searched the body and you turned it over a bit, but you did not—they tell me—otherwise move it. You didn't drag it across the floor?"

"No," said Ethan, "I didn't. I noticed that it had been dragged or carried. The man was shot in the library, I think, but he did not fall on the spot where we found him. He had been placed there — presumably by the man who shot him."

MacDuffy nodded. "Did you form any estimate," he asked, "as to when all that was done? How long, in other words, was he dead? Or have you no experience to judge that?"

"None," said Ethan. "But it seemed to me he must have been dead some hours."

"He was dead — and presumably lying there, having been dragged into place—at smallest eighteen and at most twenty hours ago," MacDuffy pronounced. "There are them below with much experience in such matters. So one thing, among many others, suggests itself, my friends. If the neighbor that phoned you from here was alarmed by the original disturbance it was long reaching her ears, or she thought a long time before calling you."

Ethan attempted no direct reply to this thrust.

"That means the man was shot here," he said to MacDuffy, "after midnight last night or early in the morning."

"That's how we make it," the inspector said, and told them further: "Two men—we make it—came into the house. Your caretakers, Miss Alice, seem not to have been here.

"So the two came in, whether together or not we don't yet know. But it looks like they were alone. They were no more than two. That makes the man you found and him that shot him."

"What were they doing in the house, Mr. MacDuffy?" Alice appealed to him.

"What do you think? They were searching."

"Searching for what? We left no valuables here—except rugs and hangings and furniture."

THE huge Scotchman shook his head. "No valuables that you know, perhaps, but something mighty valuable—eh? Take thought. Wouldn't you say that there seems to be—or there was up to last night — something in this house more valuable than life itself?

"Now, whether they came a searching together, or whether one followed the other, we don't yet know. Some think there's signs they came together and had no falling out for a while; perhaps not until they found what they were after. That's when trouble between men comes, you see—not when they're searching, but after they've found it. And one wants it all for himself.

"That's reasonable enough. So then the shot would have been fired —and him that fell been dragged to where, six years ago, Ralten lay. Do you mind smoke, Miss Alice?"

Alice, staring at him, paid no attention to his last irrelevance. It was Ethan who nodded as the Scotchman took out his cigaret case. He extended it open and Ethan, glancing down, read a line of inscription inside the cover:

"Presented to Capt. John MacDuffy in appreciation of his gallantry when alone he——"

MacDuffy, seeing what Ethan was doing, snapped shut the case. The next moment the telephone bell called them and MacDuffy and Ethan went to the instrument together.

It was Peter Corondelet, who at last had been "located" by his man. Ethan reported to him as briefly as possible what had happened.

"He's coming right over, of course," Ethan said to MacDuffy as he hung up.

"He'll be of use," said MacDuffy, "but I doubt—I doubt that he'll know who was killed in this house last night. Did we ever find out who it was, himself, that was killed here before and lay on that floor—him who went by the name of Ralten? We did not," he continued to Ethan, "or didn't you know that?"

"I knew that."

"Go back to her now," said the inspector. "Go back to Miss Alice till her mother comes. I'll be busy again below." And he left Ethan, descending by the rear stairs.

Alice had left her own room. She had wandered without purpose, but restlessly moving, into her father's room again.

"I used to run in here, Ethan, she said as he joined her, "in the morning after I was sure father was awake. I used to wait till I'd heard him. Then I'd knock on the door. He'd call to me and I'd fling the door open and there he was.

"I can't think of him in the morning in a cell! But there he is!" She went to the door, which Ethan had left open, and carefully closed it.

"Do you suppose today — or is it yesterday already?"

"Yes," said Ethan, "now it's after midnight."

"Then yesterday, did father know that man downstairs was shot? For he was lying there, dead, when mother was at Joliet. Do you suppose, did father then know it?"

"Your guess, Alice, is as good as mine; better."

"Did you see how exactly Mr. MacDuffy figured it out as we did—that two men came in and quarreled and one killed the other?"

"Yes."

"I like MacDuffy, don't you?"

"Yes, I do. He seems no ordinary inspector."

"He's not. You'll see. I remember how nice he always was, six years ago, to me." She went to the front window and threw up the shade. "Who's coming now? Mother?"

"Another man," said Ethan, standing beside her. "Mr. Corondelet, I think."

It was Peter Corondelet who stepped from the car at the curb. He was in evening garb, as he had driven direct from a dance where he had been located.

Peter was a bit portly now, if not a bit old, to dance, but he hated to admit it, and, being a bachelor, he was much in demand and extremely popular. He was, in addition, one of the important men of the city, but of his importance Peter made no display.

The police, however, recognized it, and with considerable respect they admitted him to the house with which, as Lucian Myrand's oldest friend, he had been as familiar, almost, as the family.

He was ten minutes, perhaps, downstairs. Then he came up, as Ethan would be sure he would do.

MacDuffy, deliberately climbing two steps at a time, accompanied him. Together they entered the room which had been Lucian Myrand's.

"Alice," said Peter, puffing a bit, "Alice, I don't know him either."

That was like Peter Corondelet to go at once to the point troubling one. "I never saw him before. I've no idea who he is."

Peter was speaking, of course, of the man on the library floor where Ralten had lain. "And he doesn't look to me like a man who'd have been a friend of your father."

"Nor to me," said Alice miserably. "So it probably wasn't the friend of father's who was shot."

"No," said Peter. "No, if a friend of your father was one of the two, I'd say he was the other."

"The one, you would say," finished MacDuffy, "who did the shooting."

He was not in uniform, and he seemed not at all like a police officer. He seemed, as he stood with them, like only a friend of the three. "You'll want to talk now," MacDuffy said. "I'll leave you to yourselves." And he departed, drawing the door behind him.

Alice sank down, sitting on the bed which had been her father's

"How come you two here?" said Peter Corondelet. "Or isn't now the time to tell?"

"It's not, sir," said Ethan, "though probably it has ceased to make much difference. . . . You really didn't know that man, sir?"

"Know him?" repeated Peter. "Of course not. What have you told your mother, Alice?"

"She's coming," replied Alice simply. "She ought to be here any minute."

"Good God!" said Peter. "Then they'll take her in that room, too."

"She's prepared for it, Uncle Peter," said Alice. "I told her. She knows what she's going to see.

"I wasn't thinking of your mother just then, Alice," said Peter Corondelet. "I was thinking of your father."

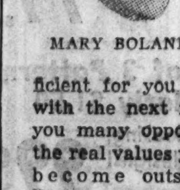
An Open Letter to Mary Boland



MARY BOLAND

Dear Mary: Every once in a while there is talk about this or that person replacing another; "filling So-and-So's shoes," they call it. Such chatter has been wasted about you lately, for the fact is that your own shoes are quite sufficient for you to be filling. And, with the next five years promising you many opportunities to express the real values you have, you should become outstanding. You can. Watch your health against overdoing, though. With best wishes,

WYNN.

KILL KIDNEY ACIDS

Win Back Pep, Clear Your Skin, Look Younger

Women Need Help More Often Than Men

When Acids and poisons accumulate in your blood you lose your vitality and your skin becomes coarse and cloudy—you actually feel and look years older than you are. And what is worse, functional Kidney disorders may cause more serious ailments, such as Getting Up Nights, Nervousness, Leg Pain, Lumbago, Swollen Joints, Rheumatic Pains, Dizziness, Dark Circles Under Eyes, Headaches, Frequent Colds, Burning, Smarting, Itching, and Acidity.

The only way your body can clean out the Acids, poisons, and toxins from your blood is through the function of 9 million tiny, delicate tubes or filters in your Kidneys. When your Kidneys get tired or slow down because of functional disorders, the acids and poisons accumulate and thus cause much trouble. Fortunately, it is now easy to help stimulate the diuretic action of the Kidneys with a Doctor's prescription, Cystex (pronounced Siss-Tex), which is available at all drug stores.

Doctors Praise Cystex

Dr. Geo. B. Knight, of Camden, New Jersey, recently wrote: "When kidneys don't function properly and fail to properly throw off the waste matter strained from the blood, aches develop in the muscles and joints, the appetite suffers, sleep is disturbed, and the patient is generally run-down and suffers with lowered vitality. Cystex is an excellent prescription to help overcome this condition. It starts its beneficial action almost immediately, yet contains no harmful or injurious ingredients. I consider Cystex a prescription which men and women in all walks of life should find beneficial in the treatment of functional Kidney disorders." And Dr. T. J. Rastelli, famous Doctor, Surgeon, and Scientist, of London, says: "Cystex is one of the finest remedies I have ever known in my medical practice. Any doctor will recommend it for its definite benefits in the treatment of many functional Kidney and Bladder disorders. It is safe and harmless."

Dr. G. B. Knight

World-Wide Success

Cystex is not an experiment, but is a proven success in 31 different countries throughout the world. It is prepared with scientific accuracy and in accordance with the strict requirements of the United States Dispensatory and the United States Pharmacopoeia, and because it is intended especially for functional Kidney and Bladder disorders, it is swift, safe, and sure in action.

Guaranteed to Work

Cystex is offered to all sufferers from functional Kidney and Bladder disorders under an unlimited guarantee. Put it to the test. See what it can do in your own particular case. It must bring you a new feeling of energy and vitality in 48 hours—it must make you look and feel years younger and work to your entire satisfaction in 8 days or you merely return the empty package and your money is refunded in full. You are the sole and final judge of your own satisfaction. Cystex costs only 3c a dose at all druggists, and as the guarantee protects you fully, you should not take chances with cheap, inferior, or irritating drugs or with neglect. Ask your druggist for guaranteed Cystex (pronounced Siss-Tex) today.

Minor Actor Steals Show in New Film

By Rosalind Shaffer.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal. — [Special.] —He was gassed in the war. He got chillblains in the Maine logging camps and prickly heat in the Guatemala pineapple plantations. He made a fortune in Los Angeles real estate and then lost it. "So what should I be but an actor?" asks Walter A. Brennan, who focused himself recently in Hollywood's intent notice when he outshone Miriam Hopkins and Edward G. Robinson in "Barbary Coast," which has been intended as their featured film. Brennan is one of the few comedy actors who can dominate a scene in a film while it is in the making and then step out of character and costume on the sidelines and prove still funnier with his own store of native wit and anecdote. What's more, his cracks and capers always keep clean.

Brennan [his grandfather back in Massachusetts changed the original family name from "Bremen" to Brennan because people understood the latter more readily] is one of the occasional actors who plugs along in Hollywood for years doing noticeable work in subordinate parts until he finally gets a rôle that no longer permits his subordination. So it was in "Barbary Coast" where as Old Atrocity, the wrinkled rascal who steers Joel McCrea into the crooked gambling room to be fleeced, Brennan attracted principal attention in the completed picture.

Learned About Voices and Dialects in Logging Camp.

In 1915 Brennan finished Rindge Tech in Cambridge, Mass., where he had played football and sung. After graduation he went into the Maine woods. "I spent six months as logging camp bookkeeper," he says. "It was cold, exacting work. My chief fun was watching the table manners. The cook gave the men forks only when they had meat to cut. Everything else from beans to pie was accomplished with a knife. You never saw such dexterity. I learned a lot about voices and dialects which has come in handy since I've become an actor. French Canadians, Squareheads, Yankees," and here he tilted his chin so as to throw his voice up his nose and gave the high pitched quaver that delighted preview audiences in "Barbary Coast."

"My mother wanted me to quit wandering and stay home and I got a pick and shovel job." That didn't please Brennan's family too much. Next, he says, "I quit the $15 a week with the pick and took an $8 a week job with a Boston bank. The family liked that, but I thought of the $7. Soon afterwards I was a reporter for a financial reports service in Boston." Next he wandered into small time musical comedy and vaudeville.

Loss of Teeth in War His Gain in Films.

"Then the war broke and I enlisted on the first day. I thought at last I had my career. I was in the 101st Field artillery, 26th division."

Brennan served two years in France, nine months on the front line, was gassed near Toul, "and was frightened to death nearly 500 times." His knack of amusing his buddies turned part of his army span into an assignment as entertainer. After the gassing, however, Brennan was not in good health for years. He became thin. He had to have his teeth replaced with dental plate. "Eventually this proved a blessing by enabling me to play wrinkled, toothless old men. Out come my teeth and I pass as your grandpa."

Going where the winters wouldn't worry him, Brennan found himself in Guatemala raising pineapples. In four years, he says, "I did well and retired. I came to Los Angeles about the time of the real estate boom. I was a salesman in a tract in Southgate [a suburb between Los Angeles and Long Beach] and used to sit in a tent and wait for customers. There was that one canvas tent, one chair, and one flimsy table on which I used to play solitaire. For some time I was clearing $1,000 a month. Money came so easy I used to hate to see some one come along who wanted to buy a lot because it interrupted my solitaire. But the boom broke up and my money was gone."

In 1925, needing work, Brennan and another tall, skinny, ambitious, young fellow by the name of Frank Cooper began trudging from studio to studio hunting extra work as actors. Frank you know today as Gary Cooper, with a career familiar to everybody.

Brennan's campaign to impress the films was more tedious. "I never received under $7.50 a day as an extra," he now says proudly. Sometimes he got $25 a day and other times $75. He played comedy relief for Hoot Gibson in the latter's silent cowboy thrillers. He was in "One Hysterical Night" with Reginald Denny, "King of Jazz" with Paul Whitman, and "Shannons of Broadway" with Jim Gleason. More recently he was in "Party Wire" with Jean Arthur, "Lady Tubbs" with Alice Brady, "My Woman" with Helen Twelvetrees and Wally Ford; "Life of Vergie Winters" with Ann Harding, playing the snooper who saw Boles come out of the back door—"only one scene," he says, "but effective." Brennan was in "I'll Tell the World" with Lee Tracy as the annoying old fellow continually fixing the telephone; in "Her Wedding Night" with Anna Sten in which, as the Connecticut depot agent, he finally resumed screen work alongside Gary Cooper. Brennan was one of the drunks in the cellar in W. C. Fields' recent "Man on the Flying Trapeze," and he played as Spencer, the old tearoom man, with Lawrence Tibbett in "Metropolitan," which is as yet unreleased.

Panic-Stricken When Licorice Ran Out.

A roar of laughs followed Brennan from his "first good break" which consisted of doing a phony broadcast as an embarrassed naturalist imitating animal calls. This was in "My Woman" with Helen Twelvetrees and Wally Ford. He continued to draw laughs through his harassment of Lee Tracy and his misadventures in W. C. Fields' cellar.

"I had a bad time in one picture. That was 'Her Wedding Night.' It was the day the prop boy ran out of licorice candy which I was using for chewing tobacco. King Vidor, the director, had me go right ahead with real tobacco and it was as the first I had chewed."

Brennan is married to the former Ruth Wells of Salem, Mass., and they have three children: Wells, better known as Mike, 13; Walter, known as Andy, 12, and Ruth, 11. "As long as I can make people laugh at me, my kids won't get into a studio," he says. "I've seen too many designing mothers coming to the casting offices. It has turned me against children in movies."

Average Age of Brennan's Characters in Sixties.

Brennan is 38 years old. The average age of the characters he plays in films is in the sixties. He does these rôles so well that right now Producer Sam Goldwyn, who has Brennan on contract, has requests from four other studios who want to borrow Walter, his high pitched voice and flexible Adams apple, to feature coming films. The studio world has suddenly become acutely conscious that the fans want any one who can add a bit of the clean, homespun touch that they mourn in the passing of Will Rogers.

Brennan's next rôle will be in the talkie remake of "Seven Keys to Baldpate" at Radio studio.

Movie Star a Farmer in Her Spare Time.

Jean Chatburn, who spent her school days on a Michigan farm, living there until shortly before she became a Wampas "baby" star, explains the reason she hasn't been seen anywhere in Hollywood during the last year except on a movie set. Jean says she has spent her week-ends and time "between pictures" on a fifty acre ranch she bought near Bakersfield, Cal., in the summer of 1934. She's worked on the farm in person and says her luck with cotton and potatoes has made it possible for the farm virtually to carry itself during one year.

WARNER—QUIGLEY—SIMON—WITHERS—ETTING—BARTHOLOMEW

Warner studio made a deal with Amelia Earhart to coach June Travis [Grabiner] in how to sit, dress, look, act, and handle controls of a plane for June's rôle in "Ceiling Zero."

Charles Quigley came west from the New York stage for the double purpose of accepting that higher movie salary and enjoying the sunny climate. After arriving he was kept so busy in "Charlie Chan's Secret" that he never got on close terms with either the sun or the weather. So installed a sun-ray lamp in his dressing room, and now he can at least get a tan.

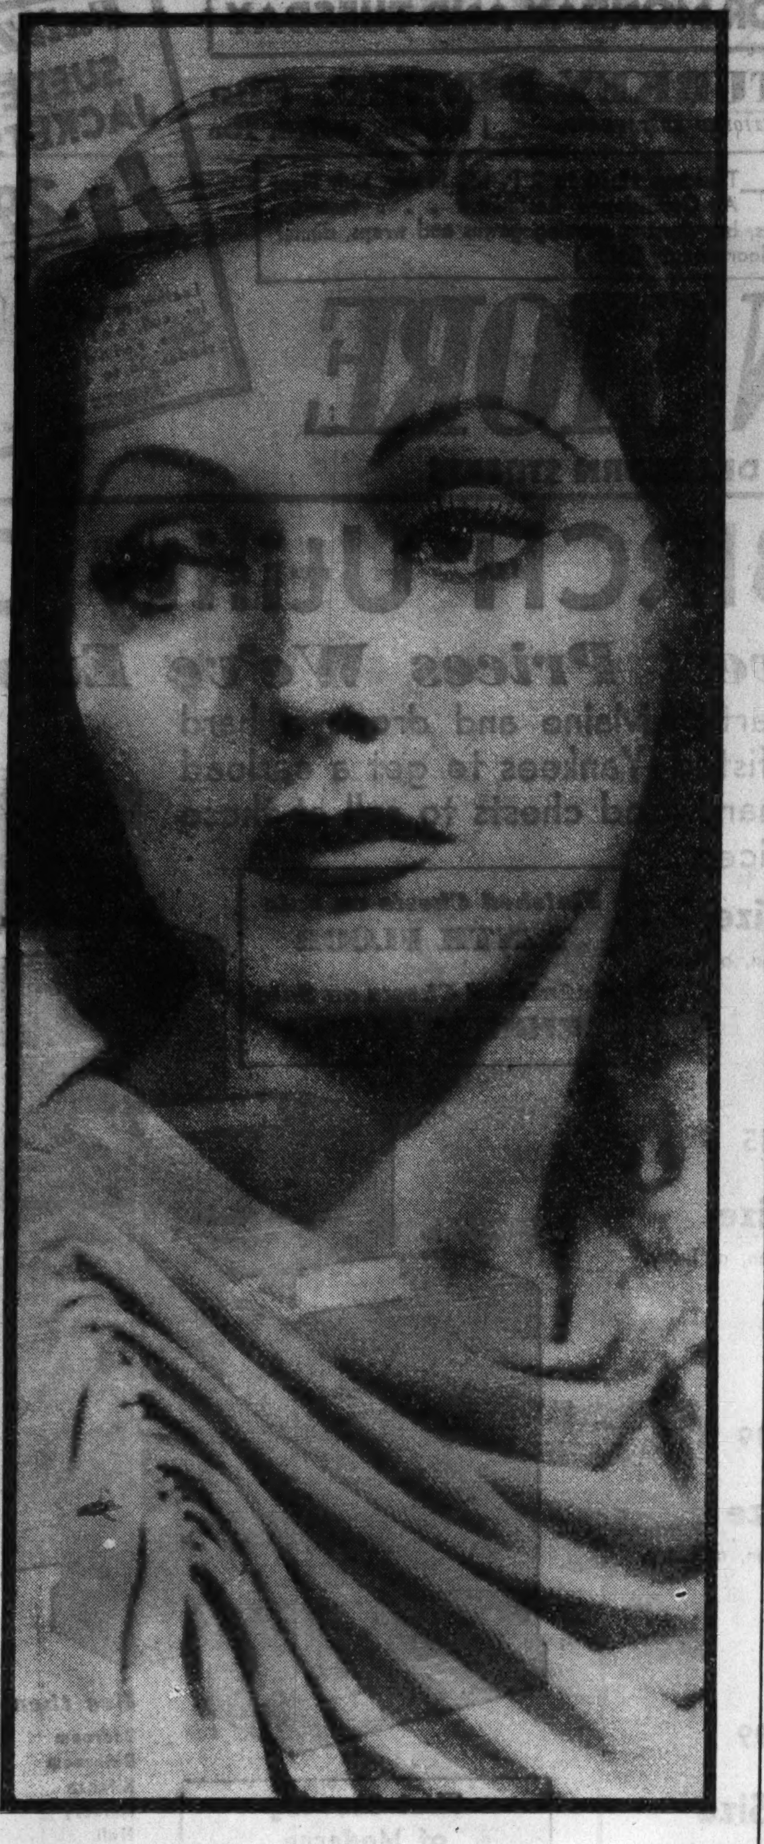
Simone Simon, lively brunette from Paris who is here to play in her first American film, "Message from Garcia," says she lost two European contracts because she was afraid to ride a horse. But she isn't afraid of panthers. She has had two of them for pets, one for three years.

Jane Withers is taking some sixth grade studies and others from the Junior High school curriculum from the Twentieth Century-Fox studio tutor, Catherine Hagan. Jane has grown an inch and gained five pounds since her parents signed a seven year movie contract for her last spring.

Ruth Etting, the radio singer, says she intends to retire to private life after one more film, "Headline Comedy." In this Giggi Parrish, ex-Wampas baby star, and Libby Taylor, Mae West's ex-maid, are appearing.

Freddie Bartholomew enlivened the week-end at Esemenda, Lower California, by winning silver spurs in a horsemanship contest. The other day he was making things interesting for passersby at MGM by tossing a football to a couple of enthusiastic but middle aged catchers.

WITH DOWNCAST EYES



Let's title this one "The Last Word in Sophistication." Milady of the downcast eyes and sullen mouth is Adrienne Ames. You can see her in "Wom-Wanted." Maureen O'Sullivan and Joel McCrea are also there. The film's at the Oriental.

Paris Theater Season Opens Without Eclat

French Hopeful, for They Know This Year Can't Be Worse than Last.

PARIS.—[U. P.]—One of the theaters which have remained black for an exceptionally long summer is lighting up again for rehersal and even for the opening plays of a season which may be better than last because it could hardly be worse.

The Comédie Française, now transplanted to the Théâtre Marigny while its own house is having an extensive job of face lifting performed on it, has distinguished itself by its customary dispute. Paul Raynal, author of a play called "Napoleon Unique," already in rehersal, became annoyed when the Comédie refused to cease productions of Sardou's "Madame Sans-Gêne" because he felt that his "Napoleon" would be harmed if he weren't the unique representative on the boards of the House of Molière, and withdrew that and all his other plays from the Comédie's répertoire. The result is that the Comédie is presenting "Madame Sans-Gêne" almost nightly.

Audience Suffers at Bluebeard Play.

France's second national theater, the Odeon, has put on a new play, "Giles de Rais," by Albert Jean, wherein that bloodthirsty original of Bluebeard is represented as murdering children [a] because he is led astray by a sorceress and [b] because he is seeking a formula to make gold so that he can use it in philanthropy. He sees the error of his ways, and repents at length with a noose around his neck just before making his final exit. The thrill of the play comes when the personable sorceress is put to the torture by Bluebeard, but critics thought unkindly that there seemed to be less pain inflicted on the stage than in the audience.

Last season was distinguished by the fact that most of the best plays in town were revivals, and this season is starting out as though that were going to be true again. "Knock," the dig at the medical profession by Jules Romains, author of "Men of Good Will," is being revived at the Athenee.

"Hope": Add Dramas in Bernstein Formula.

Henry Bernstein's "Hope" is billed as a new play, but the Bernstein formula is now so well fixed that ardent Bernsteinians probably will find the play as unchanged as the regular Bernstein house, the Gymnase.

The Saint-Georges, after a summer's rest, has started in again with the same play it closed on, "Rouge"—subject, politics. So has the Palais-Royal, with "The House Across the Way"—subject, like all Palais-Royal shows, sex, from the laughing angle. At the Sarah-Bernhardt Dumas' "Dame aux Camelias" is valiantly holding its own.

Among the half dozen new plays, two have been getting most attention. One is "Where Are You?" by Marcel Brumaire, nom de plume of Marcel Bourcier, whose normal business is distilling, and who is being sued by the actress who thought she was going to be the play's leading lady and who now contends she was its co-author. The title sounds like Pirandello, the play like watered Ibsen.

Love Gets Badly Tangled in "When Do We Act the Comedy?"

The other notable new event is a new Sacha Guitry play, "When Do We Act the Comedy?" in which two actors performing in the same play fall desperately in love with each other in the first act, and are discovered to be tragically separating in the second, only to reveal at the last possible moment that they are really acting a second play and offstage actually love one another truly. M. Guitry, who usually acts in his own plays, does not appear in this one, and one Paris critic has remarked with double-edged praise that that is just another proof of Guitry's great cleverness.

A strange venture is a theater which is going to produce nothing but detective plays. The first offering is "The Strange Night of Rockland," by Howard I. Young, which may or may not have had that title in the original English version.

Operetta of "Monsieur Beaucaire" Now Playing.

There is also an American contribution to the musical shows—Andre Messager's operetta from Booth Tarkington's "Monsieur Beaucaire." The "White Horse Inn," which has been running at the Mogador ever since "Rose-Marie" quit, is still going as strong as ever, and there are rumors that some of the actors have had to be retired on pension. "The Merry Widow" also is here. Classed oddly under musical shows in the Paris theater guides is "Peer Gynt," Grieg being perhaps more sympathetic to the Parisian taste than Ibsen.

There is the usual quota of nude shows, with the girls back from the beaches in costumes and lack of costumes showing just where the bathing suits left off. The Folies-Bergeres is bowling along on the same old show, but the Casino de Paris, its closest rival, took one night off, added Maurice Chevalier to the cast, changed its name from "Parade of France" to "Parade of the World" and announced a new show. Maybe it is.

Book and Play

ONE of the best scenes among the fourteen in "Dodsworth" was not taken from Sinclair Lewis' novel, but is an original episode by Sidney Howard, the dramatist, at the last moment previous to the arrival of the play on Broadway. This is the scene in the last act, in Sam Dodsworth's home in Zenith, where he impatiently awaits a cable from his wife, who is having her last fling at life all over Europe.

This period in the novel was covered by a series of letters to her husband narrating her adventures and her affairs in the frankest manner, but Sidney Howard cut these missives to a single communication, and so wrote the incident of the motor magnate's return to his home.

Acting Family.

Celia Adler will have the title rôle in "Mother," the play with music with which the Theater Union will start its season on Nov. 19 at the Civic Repertory theater, New York. Most of her acting has been done hitherto on the Yiddish stage. She is the fourth Adler to reach Broadway, and is a half-sister of all of them—Luther, Stella, and Jay.

Author Talks

He said recently: "I am more interested in the theater of enjoyment. But the theater is too big to be shackled to one type of play. I would not like to see the stages filled only with plays of propaganda, nor would I like to see them filled only by plays of entertainment."

He gives this hint to authors: "Never tell any one of the idea of the play you are writing or intend to write. I have had what I believed were swell ideas for plays. But I told them and all the urge to write vanished."

Notes of Music and Musicians

When the lovely La Argentina returns to Chicago next Saturday night for her sixth appearance here in seven years and her first at the Civic Opera house, she will present an almost entirely new program of Spanish dances, including three suites and two lengthy portrayals not previously seen here. Two of the suites employ popular melodies, one those of the Argentine, with three movements: [a] Bailecito, [b] Zamba, and [c] La Firmeza. The second is Andalusian and embodies the carefree joyousness of the Spanish highlands.

The third suite opens with the Polo Gitano, one of the most colorful of Spanish dances. It is followed by the Chula, a parody portrayal of the Madrid of 1890. The last number, La Corrida, presents La Argentina's impressions of a bullfight. The two numbers are Vives' La Fregona and Albeniz's Chacona, both of the time of Velasquez. It is in dances such as these that La Argentina is able to display her marvelous costume sense.

Harry Zelzer, under whose management La Argentina is to appear, also announces two programs of the justly famous Don Cossack Male chorus Sunday afternoon and evening of Oct. 27 at the Civic Opera, in a program of stirring Russian songs, with the vibrant pedal point bass. Each of the thirty-six members of the chorus has been decorated with the czar's Cross of St. George.

Joseph Bentonelli, otherwise Joe Benton of Oklahoma, tenor of the Chicago City Opera company, will appear at Orchestra hall Oct. 28 as guest artist of the Alpha Gamma Delta benefit concert. Proceeds of the concert will go toward the maintenance of two camps for undernourished and underprivileged children.

Mr. Bentonelli lengthened his name in Italy and sang some 512 performances of over fifty-two leading rôles during his eleven years in Europe, then turned to America to join the Chicago Civic opera. This will be his first concert appearance in Chicago.

Bertha Ott sends announcement of what promises to be a unique event in the concert at the Studebaker theater, Nov. 3, presenting Edith Lorand and her Hungarian orchestra. Their European vogue is reported to be great, particularly on the discs, for which they have recorded more than 2,000 phonograph records.

Mlle. Lorand both conducts and plays the violin, and occasionally combines the two. She learned to play the violin from wayfaring gypsies of her native Hungary.

After an absence of three years Paul Robeson, great Negro singing-actor, returns under the Zelzer management for a recital of Negro spirituals at the Civic Opera house Nov. 3. He has just returned from England, where he has been making his second motion picture, soon to be released.

Noble Cain and his Chicago a cappella choir are reaping words of praise from the eastern critics as they proceed on their tour, the most pretentious to be undertaken by any Chicago choral organization. Precision of attack, the good phrasing, and fine balance of the choir were points particularly noticed.

The Chicago Umbrian Glee club, organized thirty-nine years ago, is presenting a program at Lincoln center, 700 East Oakwood boulevard, today at 4 o'clock.

Federal Theater

MAURICE GNESIN, director of the Goodman theater, makes the following announcement in regard to the plans of the federal theater projects in this region:

"All theater workers, directors, actors, stage hands, scene carpenters, etc., must fill out a special questionnaire prior to being assigned to any federal theater project. The purpose of the questionnaire is to classify the various theater workers and prepare thereby complete lists of available people in Chicago.

"The classification is being held in the building of Pulaski park, 1400 north and 1400 west. The committee will sit daily from 10 to 4 as long as necessary.

"On the reclassification committee there will be representatives to interview actors, directors, stage hands, technicians, scene designers, and theater workers of all categories.

"No theater worker can be assigned to any federal theater project who has not appeared for an interview. All theater workers on relief or unemployed are eligible."

Bodyguard Over Six Feet Follows Shirley Temple

AMONG the folks in current history who employ a bodyguard, add 6 year old Shirley Temple. Wherever the little blonde film star goes, she is followed by George Griffiths, 6 feet 2, who packs two ominous looking guns and boasts of being, in the pugilistic idiom, "handy with his dukes."

Griffiths was employed to guard Shirley, highest paid juvenile actress, a year ago, after the little star received anonymous threatening letters. Postal authorities still are investigating these communications.

At night Griffiths sleeps in an ante-room to Shirley's bedroom. In addition, Shirley's sleeping quarters in her parents' new home are so situated that would-be kidnapers would have to pass through the bedrooms of Mr. and Mrs. Temple and of servants before they reached the little girl.

On trips outside her home, Griffiths acts as Shirley's chauffeur. He always is near her when she is acting. The studio has offered him a job as an actor, but he has refused it, at least, he explains, until his contract for shadowing Shirley expires.

Leading Woman

MARY LOANE, new leading woman in "Three Men On a Horse" at the Harris theater, was born in Lake Bluff, Ill., and is a cousin of the late George Loane Tucker, motion picture director. She has had a long career on the stage. At the age of three years she was carried on the stage by her mother, Lillian Tucker, in a stock company production. She played on Broadway in "The Cradle Snatchers" with Mary Boland, and in "Out of the Night" and "Tomorow." Her last appearance here was in Ethel Barrymore's company in "Kingdom of God" and "The Love Duel" at the Harris.

Last season she played the lead in the west coast production of "Her Master's Voice," with Roger Pryor and Billie Burke. Prior to joining "Three Men on a Horse," Miss Loane directed summer plays for the Little theater at St. Petersburg, Fla. She won the little theater tournament in Florida with a production of Martin Flavin's one-act play, "The Death Watch."

Vacation from Films.

Miriam Hopkins will soon take a vacation from the films, go to London and appear there for Gilbert Miller in a new and untitled play by A. A. Milne. It may be Milne's dramatization of "Pride and Prejudice," under the title of "Miss Elizabeth Bennett."

The Deeds of Doris.

Doris Patston, who plays the rôle of the Indian girl in "Rose-Marie," is of English origin. She has appeared in "Louis the 14th," with Leon Errol, "Katja, the Dancer," "Ain't Love Grand," "Present Arms" and "Strike Up the Band."

Society Denies Grand Opera Is on Decline

Chicago Leaders Point to Local Performances as Proof of Its Vigor.

By Cousin Eve.

GRAND opera is not dying, but sitting up in becoming pajamas and taking notice, I should say. One hears much of the death of grand opera, but at several recent performances of the San Carlo company at the Auditorium, it was alive and extremely crowded. On one occasion Mme. Mary McCormic was being a young and playful Marguerite, singing with extraordinary verve over a box of Woolworth jewels, while Mme. Mary Garden sat in box three and watched her pupil's technique. A trying situation, it would seem, for Marguerite.

Near me in the box was Mrs. Ralph James, who remembered an exciting Auditorium event concerning her family and box three, which, in the long ago, belonged to the Pullman family. Mrs. James' aunt, Miss Margaret Enders, who still visits Chicago, was sitting with Mr. and Mrs. Pullman's party at the opera, when a madman scrambled over the footlights to the stage with a revolver in his hand. Then he began shooting at Mr. Pullman, who never moved, nor batted an eyelash. The man, quickly overpowered by robust tenori and bassos, did no damage, unless to music loving nerves.

Mayor Should Have Seen "Tannhauser."

Again, I saw and heard "Tannhäuser" at the Auditorium under the auspices of Northwestern university. A highbrow student occasion, with all Evanston in the boxes. But O! the mayor of Chicago should have seen and heard the Venusberg scene, with Mme. Van Gordon on the chaise longue, singing gloriously, in spite of the nudist colony dancing around her. Mme. Ljungberg, as Elizabeth, had on, however, plenty of clothes; the traditional long blue velvet cape, and, instead of the customary white dress, one of jonquil yellow. Her grand entrée was different, too. Instead of easing in in love mad mood, she races in, tearing about, swirling her draperies like a Nordic Salome, with admirable voice. The younger generation likes all this, having no tradition.

At a Chicago City opera meeting in Mrs. Jacob Baur's drawing room, the hostess put forward an innovation. The day was to be given over to reports on opera boxes for the season opening Nov. 2 at the Civic House of Opera. Mrs. Baur asked each guest in turn, "What do you think is the matter with grand opera?" The answers were interesting. Mrs. Walton thought most operas needed cutting and snappy intermissions. Musical Director Paul Longone contributed the idea that dinner giving seemed to frighten many people from the delights of being box-holders.

Bad Gastein Has Done Well by Dr. Stock.

Much music adorned and beatified life last week. On Friday, an overwarm day with red in the trees and blue in the lake and sky, the Chicago Symphony, happy crowds swarming in. Bad Gastein had done well by Mr. Stock. He was alert and benignant, as seen from the box circle. Here were assembled a number of illustrious visitors, among them Mme. Mary Garden, who led the applause for Dr. Stock, hands high in the air, as one seasoned artist for another.

Miss Garden's short hair is a delicate canary yellow this year, and her frock was a vivid, delirious green, color of grasshopper. Then there was Mrs. Forsythe Sherfesee being mauled by adoring friends; Mrs. Herman Kohlsaat, in her daughter's, Mrs. Potter Palmer's box. Mrs. Kohlsaat has a sightly and luxurious apartment in Rome, where she has lived these many years and to which she will return.

Back from two years in England, Mrs. Charles Bromwell, known as "Tish," once Letitia Scott of Bloomington, of an old landowning Illinois family, American as the corn belt itself. Col. Bromwell, her late husband, was military aid to President Theodore Roosevelt in the White House. Milly, a lovely only daughter, is the wife of British Vice Admiral Sir Sidney Bailey, second in command of the home fleet. He is at present on the Hood, leaving Mediterranean waters.

Food Gives Out on Sir Samuel Hoare's Cruise.

Last July in London the royal jubilee naval review planned a parade of the entire fleet at Spithead. The Baileys had left London and were aboard the Hood, where they entertained for the review 200 of the smartest people in naval circles and London society. It was an all day party, with luncheon, and went off with great éclat. Foreign diplomats and their families and people from the foreign office were aboard another craft, which navigated up and down in fairly rough seas, giving all on board tremendous appetites. The London papers were full next day of what happened afterward—the catering department of the boat broke down completely. There wasn't enough food aboard to satisfy half the raging hungers stimulated by king's weather and the grandeur of the occasion—Britannia rules the waves, and all that sort of thing.

It was Sir Samuel Hoare's party. A diplomatic fellow said it was pitiful to see the French ambassador picking hungrily among empty plates and chicken bones. And even sadder to witness the soviet ambassador's despair when faced by a period of fasting. A Slav loves his roast chicken!

No Heroics Required to Rescue English Boy.

The home office had invited me to sail with the M. P.s, or members of parliament, but I unluckily had other fish to fry that day. This party, however, went off in great style, except that a little boy fell overboard. Wives threw arms around their husbands' necks so they couldn't leap after, and none of the bachelors wanted to jump. So the little boy saved himself, very handily. Somebody thought to throw him a rope. All this was told me with exquisite humor by Robert Bernays, cousin of Consul General Lewis Bernays of Chicago, who was among the younger group at the party.

A politically-minded Londoner said that the royal jubilee naval review was a political gesture and simply had to be. Britishers become restive and in danger of getting a frightful modern malady called "inferiority complex" if they don't see their grand navy trotted out now and then.

For my part I like British naval officers. How about vice admiral, the earl of Cork and Orrery, a dashing bachelor, and Sir Alexander Ramsay, an inscrutable Scot married to the lovely Patricia of Connaught?

Lady Simon Worries About Cannibals.

Sir John Simon, solicitor general of England, and Lady Simon were staying with the Silas Strawns a while ago. Maybe it was years, but it seems only months. And Lady Simon had much to say of cannibalism as done in Abyssinia, cannibalism being her pet bête noire.

Such an unique thing to worry about! I can think of twenty subjects good for worry before taking up that. However, Silas Strawn, having Lady Simon at his right hand at dinner, asked if she had ever heard of the returned missionary who had done so much for the cannibals?

Lady Simon had unwisely not heard. "What had the missionary accomplished in Abyssinia?" she asked.

"Taught the natives to eat with knives and forks," said her bland host.

Mrs. Baur Makes Even Political Dinner Lively.

This was lightening up the political dinner Mrs. Jacob Baur had arranged fo a sister member of the Republican national committee, Mrs. Robert Lincoln Hoyal of Washington. Not that it was a heavy dinner at all, on the contrary, exceedingly lively. Only, Republicans will not talk shop these days—saving their energies to write checks, probably.

Every one spoke of the table decore, which was magnifique. First a Louis XV. brocade cover, cream, scattered with bright flowers and bound in gold. I wondered whether it had adorned the day bed in the boudoir of some court favorite, or a bishop in the chancel of a Spanish cathedral.

Au centre a lake of mirrors fenced by swinging diamond cut crystals. Springing from this, antique Russian candelabra of crystal and turquoise blue enamel, beautiful. The same hostess has turquoise figurines which meander engagingly up and down the cloth on less formal occasions.

La Flagstad and Melchior Lions at Arts Club Tea.

The Arts club of Chicago had a tea of large distinction Saturday afternoon. It was one of those parties from which many of the members stayed away, probably on week-ends and the others, par consequence, had a lovely time. There was space to move about and breathe. And to see enchanting celebrities, of whom there were a number. There was gayety, movement. The president, Mrs. Barney Goodspeed, looking perfectly charming in all black with a unique hat, which was a picture hat yet wasn't, was a vivacious hostess.

The principal guests of honor were Mme. Kirsten Flagstad, the great Norwegian dramatic soprano from the Met, and Lauritz Melchior, a Gargantuan tenor, a tenor from Mars. One looked at his immense clothing—cutaway coat, gray striped trousers, and tremendous waistcoat, and marveled. Mrs. Melchior, so young and pretty under a gay little blue saucer of a hat, was much admired. Mme. Flagstad, like a calm, sublime goddess, moved from group to group, as fresh and smiling as a Nordic dawn. We had most of us yet to hear her at the Sunday concert with Melchior in Orchestra hall.

But even more exciting to me than the two great stars, and I don't know why, was Mme. Nijinska, a dark woman with blazing eyes, wife of Nijinsky, the great Russian dancer. She is the author of a remarkable biography of her husband—and a friend of the Goodspeeds, whom she had called up in passing through Chicago.

Flagstad's Song Like the North Wind.

At the long tea table Mrs. Potter Palmer, looking lovely in black with white, and Mrs. Rudolph Ganz. Yellow chrysanthemums and laurel in huge dark vases. Receiving also, members of the music committee, Mrs. Charles Swift, delightfully tanned and merry, Harold F. McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Meeker, Mrs. James Thorne, Mrs. Roy Keith, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Buck, John Palmer, Mr. and Mrs. Harley McNair, Mrs. Forsythe Sherfesee, Ira N. Morris, Arthur Heun, Mrs. Charles Bromwell, Mrs. Oliver I. Grover.

For the Flagstad-Melchior concert Sunday, a too small audience at Orchestra hall to hear their Wagnerian program. People are still week-ending furiously, it seems, and not yet gaited for Sunday concerts. Mme. Flagstad swept goddess-like in billowy white satin and truly regal simplicity to the fore, followed by the dynamic Melchior. Then an hour or so of "Lohengrin," "Tannhäuser," and "Walküre," as Wagner meant them to be sung, rendered by perfect, unbelievable voices, sheerly incroyable.

Flagstad's song is as pure and sure of itself as the north wind. A few of us met in the foyer and regretted that more were not out to listen, especially Scandinavians, who should be proud of their diva. In the audience, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Swift, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Carpenter, Arthur and Mrs. Cable, Mrs. Frederic Upham, Mrs. Wentworth Field, Mrs. Everts Wrenn, Mrs. William Greenlee, Mrs. Carroll Sudler, Mrs. Arthur Meeker, Arthur Meeker Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Graham, Mrs. Harry Shearson, Mrs. Frederic Haskell, Mrs. Charles Bromwell, Scott Bromwell, Durand Smith, Mrs. Francis T. Junkin, who had boxed a dozen guests in her favorite side loges.

Raftery's Etchings of Old Chicago Houses Delight.

On Friday after the symphony, a plethora of teas and picture shows. Robert Eskridge in Dell Quest's gallery and an interesting collection of etchings by Howard Raftery of Geneva chez Miss Rouillier, likewise in the Fine Arts building. These etchings of old Chicago homesteads of the rich and great of many yesteryears have lots of appeal. Although they were shown under their street numbers and unnamed, among them one recognizes the lovely French roof and design of Mrs. W. W. Kimball's Henri IV. château in Prairie avenue. She, long since gone, leaving her beautiful pearls and household possessions to Mrs. Warren Salisbury, a niece. And, most amiably, $10,000 legacies to all her wealthy Prairie avenue neighbors. One wishes this might become a fixed social custom.

Many smart setters here, some from the young and giddy, who dropped in also to congratulate Mr. Eskridge on his impressions of Hawaii, in water color medium. Divinely framed in glass, Mrs. Robert R. McCormick's pinky purple orchids of Hawaii. Also a stately white flower of the magnolia tree belonging to Mrs. William P. Martin. Sunsets and dawns of the tropics. Beautiful.

Calling to see, Mrs. William S. Monroe, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brewster, Mrs. Arthur Small, Mrs. Byron Harvey, Mrs. Stewart Harvey, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Hinde, Mrs. Ralph James, with Margaret the witching red head, now matron and mother in Wessex, I think it is. Mrs. Charles W. Dempster, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Margaret Fisher, Mrs. Jacob Baur.

Later on to 100 East Walton place, where Miss Stella Webber was having a library tea, in new and chic surroundings. Pouring tea for her, Miss Margaret Conover, Mrs. Harris Whiting, Mrs. Sterling Morton, Mrs. Samuel Rinaker. Sophisticates were asking why more copies of Eric Linklater's entertaining fiction are not kept on library shelves.

DEVOTES HER SPARE TIME TO CHARITY

Mrs. Lincoln Harris, the former Jean Hyman, is busy this fall learning to keep house, but like all the other fashionable young matrons, she finds time to work for several charitable organizations in which she became interested when she was a debutante. Her young husband is attending night school, where he is studying the Swedish language so that he can correspond with a Swedish yacht designer about a sailboat he intends to have built. BERMUDA HONEYMOON

Mrs. Walter Frank Jr. is the former Elaine Kahn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney H. Kahn of 4905 Woodlawn avenue, whose wedding to Mr. Frank took place on Oct. 19 at the Standard club. Mr. Frank is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Frank of 2440 Lakeview avenue. He and his bride are in Bermuda, favorite spot for newlyweds, on their wedding trip. [Du Bois Photo.]

Civic Duties of Mrs. Jasper King Reflect Ability

"TO him that hath shall be given . . ." This quotation from the "Sermon on the Mount" seems peculiarly applicable in writing a biography of Mrs. Jasper S. King. Her responsibility in civic affairs the last two years has been manifold, and now to her former duties has been added a new responsibility that is national in scope and importance.

MRS. JASPER S. KING. [Root Photo.]

Mrs. King is the vice chairman of the personnel campaign committee of the National League of Women Voters, which means that she is spending a good portion of her time working in behalf of the league's campaign to arouse the American public to the need of a more trained personnel in government service. A handbook, tersely and helpfully phrased concerning the movement, has just been issued in her name.

Mrs. King's organizing ability commends her for these responsibilities. She's a good speaker, too, with a certain dramatic appeal that emphasizes her message. This quality has been recognized frequently in the sessions of the Cook County League of Women Voters, of which she is president. Two and a half years ago Mrs. King was elected to this important post and last spring she was reëlected for a second term.

In a charming house on Arbor Vitae road in Winnetka the King family resides. Besides Mr. and Mrs. King there are two lively sons, both under ten. Mrs. King inherited an interest in rare manuscripts from her father, and now shares it with her husband.

In fact, she frequently is referred to as artist, scribe, and illuminator. In her spare time she has worked on the illumination of a number of precious documents, having studied art in her earlier life. After her graduation from the University of Chicago she attended classes in the Art institute. Then she went to the Chicago Musical college, the American conservatory, and later to the Institut Normal in Paris.

At one time she served as a special industrial secretary for the Y. W. C. A. in New York and New Jersey. At another period she was national student secretary for the Christian association in Colorado, Utah, Kansas, and Wyoming.

Miss Lena Halpern Marries in Old English Church

LONDON

Historic and beautiful Chelsea Old church was the scene of a quiet Anglo-American wedding a few days ago when Miss Lena Halpern, daughter of Mr. Gustav Halpern of New York, was married to Mr. David Armstrong Hedley, younger son of Dr. and Mrs. E. W. Hedley of St. Leonard's Terrace, London. There was no reception, but all their friends were invited to the church.

An Anglo-American engagement of interest is that of Miss Virginia Francesca Kramer of New York, daughter of the late Mr. Edgar Kramer and Mrs. Kramer, to Paul Marx, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Marx of Cobham, Surrey. The wedding probably will take place in New York.

So. Africa Bans Child Marriages

PRETORIA.—(AP)—The death knell of child marriages has been sounded in South Africa.

Hereafter, except in special circumstances, there will be no weddings of boys under 18 or of girls under 16.

Where the new law will have its most marked effect is in the prevention of marriages between old men and young girls—by no means unusual in the past.

Official records show that in 1932 a man of 75 married a girl of 18.

Tribune Issues Invitation to Press Meeting

Conference on Nov. 22 Is Planned for Presidents and Chairmen of Clubs.

By Ruth DeYoung.

PRESIDENTS, program and press chairmen of all women's organizations, no matter what their object, are invited this morning by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE to attend a press conference the afternoon of Friday, Nov. 22, in the auditorium of the new W-G-N radio studio in Tribune square.

In a fast moving two hour program beginning at 2 o'clock the conference will interpret the mechanics behind news presentation. It will endeavor to give simple, concrete direction to press chairmen and explain the value of newspaper space.

Members of Tribune Staf Are to Describe Various Phases.

Members of THE TRIBUNE staf will be speakers on these subjects. Following their discussions TRIBUNE writers whose by-lines are household favorites will be presented to the audience. Entertainment features will complete the program.

The conference has been planned in answer to a widespread appeal for information concerning the rules, the whys and the wherefores of newspaper publicity. Officers of women's organizations inquire daily about the procedure for obtaining notice in the Sunday or daily paper. They want to know the time of deadlines, the form in which information should be presented, and the facts that it should include.

Beautiful W-G-N Auditorium Is Enchanting Setting of Meeting.

The auditorium of the new W-G-N building has been chosen as the setting for the conference that the audience may see this handsome structure which James O'Donnell Bennett has described as "a fairyland . . . a fairyland of music, of discourse, and of color." The main auditorium alone is worth a visit to the building. Its seats are Morocco red, the walls powder blue with bands of light, the ceiling and platform abutments in silver leaf.

THE TRIBUNE is extending its invitation to the presidents, program and press chairmen of all women's organizations . . . women's clubs of every type, parent-teacher groups, leagues of women voters, and charity boards. Because the seating capacity of the auditorium is limited tickets will be issued for the conference and awarded in the order of application. Ticket requests should be directed by letter to the conference headquarters, room 1418 Tribune Tower, or by telephone through Superior 0100, local 710.

Mrs. Trevor Stamp Sees Inaugural Ceremony in Kent

LONDON

Mrs. Trevor Stamp, formerly Miss Frances Bosworth of Chicago, now claims a mayor as father-in-law. She was present recently at the ceremony when Beckenham, Kent, became a borough and the lord mayor of London handed to Sir Josiah Stamp the charter of incorporation and created him the charter mayor.

The bishop of Rochester, Sir Edward Campbell, M. P., and the sherifs of the city of London, Beckenham townspeople, and 5,000 school children were present. Processions were organized and the streets were decorated. Sir Josiah Stamp used the new mayor coach for the first time, and wore the gold embossed chain of office. He was accompanied by Lady Stamp, and bells were rung from all the churches.

Mrs. Trevor Stamp is fortunate in her assured position in London life as the daughter-in-law of so distinguished a man as Sir Josiah and as wife of so markedly promising a young scientist as Mr. Trevor Stamp. They are the center of a large social group of Anglo-Americans

WILL MAKE HER DEBUT DEC. 25

English School Boys Practice in Writing Limericks

LONDON

The English small boy of eleven who is getting ready for the "common entrance examination" which admits him to Harrow, Rugby, Winchester, and other famous "public schools" is wrestling these days with a strange business. He is practicing the writing of limericks.

Some years ago the pedagogs who frame the examination questions for these institutions, whose curriculum covers, roughly, part of the American high school and part of the American college, hit upon the impromptu limerick as an excellent test of the boys' mastery of their mother tongue.

And so, for the next few months, they get limerick first lines tossed to them in class: "There was an old lady in Sutton . . ." and for 15 minutes they draw on their resources to complete the jingle. Both rime and scansion have to be correct.

You may have heard of small boys in Latin classes who turn into Latin such modern items as "Who's afraid of the big bad wolf?" but anything like this free and easy humorous pedagogy never has been noted in the girls' schools. English girls get a thorough education, with plenty of drill, but it seems to stick closely to the textbooks, and when the girls come home from school they put it completely aside. Latin "tags," for example, seem almost the monopoly of the English small boy who cannot negotiate a difficult wall or reach the top of the apple tree without shouting: "Veni, vidi, vici," whereas his sister, from the same vantage point, expresses herself in ordinary prose: "See how high I am!"

N. Y. Society Is Immersed in Horse Show

Coming "National" Casts Equestrian Shadow Over Plans of Smart Set.

By Nancy Randolph.

NEW YORK

THE National Horse show, hardy perennial for man and beast, will open its fifty-second session at Madison Square Garden come Nov. 6. And woe unto the luckless aristocrat who can't ride a horse or at least regard one with an expert eye! For more than half a century the National has been society's pet splurge in the way of hoss events. And now that the Metropolitan Opera company has established the economical custom of postponing its opening until mid-December, the N. H. S. is a natural to set in motion the winter social season.

For the first time, the 400's younger generation is taking an active interest in the show. Ordinarily, the children attend to their debutante parties and leave the horse show to their elders. But a special junior entertainment committee has been appointed this year to see that the youngsters have the proper social look-in on the National jubilee.

Janet Weed Directs Junior Activities.

Little Janet Weed, whose dad, J. Spencer Weed, is president of the National Horse show, will be chairman of the junior committee. Janet is probably more at home in the saddle than anywhere else. And for her aids on the committee she has chosen friends equally versed in their equestrian A B C's.

Janet's assistants will be Nancy Noyes, a deb of the season, Janie Averett, Mrs. Whitney Stone, and Katherine Van Sinderen. Nancy's pater is treasurer of the National, Mrs. Stone is the wife of the association's youthful secretary, and Katherine's father is chairman of the executive committee. Most of these young sportswomen will have entries in the junior exhibition Wednesday afternoon.

Ermine coats and top hats will be two for a penny during the seven day duration of the show. And milady's choicest baubles will be on display at the Horse Show ball, which will be the social climax of the week. The Waldorf-Astoria is the setting of the ball.

Society Will Again Exhaust Itself at Hurdy-Gurdy Party.

Chic Marion Tiffany Saportas is another of those ingenious souls who know how to keep Park avenue from being bored. The late fall season will be given a spurt in the right [and riotous!] direction by the hurdy-gurdy party Marion is managing at the Hotel Lombardy Friday night.

Those who crave hilarity with a dash of goofiness at their prandial events will be in attendance 100 per cent at Marion's shindig. Some of the 400 are still recovering from the first riotous hurdy-gurdy party, held two years ago.

This year's blowout is to be a Caribbean cruise. Customers are asked to come in the costumes of "Haiti, Jamaica, Martinique or any of those little islands." In other words, you're asked to "go native," and judging from the previous party, the more native the better!

J. P. Morgan has acquired a lively set of neighbors in the University of Pennsylvania club. The alumni and undergraduate organization has just leased from the Morgan family the beautiful dwelling at 37 East 36th street once occupied by Mr. Morgan's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Satterlee.

The club's new home is just around the corner from Mr. Morgan's Murray hill dwelling at 231 Madison avenue. It is nice to contemplate what fate awaits the first fuddled Merry Andrew who mistakes the Morgan bell for that of his club!

The club's next door neighbor on the west is the Morgan library and on the east, the Lyman Delanos, who are cousins of President Roosevelt. The rear of the staid Union League club, which fronts Park avenue, joins the Pennsylvania club property in the rear.

HELPS CHARITY BALL

Miss Elizabeth Snyder is a member of the committee in charge of the Sunbeam league's annual charity ball to be given next Saturday in the grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel. Miss Martha Murphy of 5458 Everett avenue is in charge of reservations for tables.

Engagement of Duke Leaves Britain Calm

LONDON

Announcement of the engagement of the duke of Gloucester to Lady Alice Scott, daughter of the duke and duchess of Buccleuch [pronounced "buck-loo," with the accent on the "loo"] has not overwhelmed the public. There have been columns about them both, of course, but there is no gainsaying the fact that she is neither royal nor romantic. Just a nice, pretty girl, like the duchess of York. Thus the marriage ceremony, when it comes, should lack the hysterical demonstration which marked so strangely the wedding of the duke of Kent and the Princess Marina.

However, in fairness to the bride, it should be remarked that the duke of Gloucester himself seems to leave the British public cold. He, like all of Queen Mary's children, always has done his duty in that station in life to which he has been called, but he never has displayed the democratic sympathies which have added so enormously to the popularity of the prince of Wales and the duke of York.

Some years ago an English trained nurse, who took care of the duke of Gloucester in a nursing home, told that she decided that it was awkward and unprofessional to back out of the royal presence with articles in her hands, so she abandoned the practice. She says he made no comment, but she received the distinct impression that he didn't care much for the innovation! "Just an overgrown boy," was her by no means unfriendly comment.

Girl Scouts of City to Unite in Celebration

Chicago's 330 Troops Will Join in Country-Wide Festivities This Week.

CHICAGO'S 330 Girl Scout troops are joining in the country-wide celebration of national Girl Scout week, opening today and continuing through next Saturday. Each troop, in the course of the next few days, will hold its individual observance of the week, and of the birthday anniversary on Halloween of Juliette Low, founder of Girl Scouting in this country.

It was Miss Low who met Lord Robert Baden-Powell, founder of the Boy Scout organization in England, and from him gleaned the ideas which led her to organize Girl Scouting in this country in 1912. Through the Scout program in Chicago alone 8,000 girls are developing new interests which yield dividends of health and enjoyment and equip them to lead fuller and more useful lives.

Handicrafts and Hobbies Are Taught with Pleasure in Mind.

Cooking, sewing, nursing, housekeeping, canning, and child care, on one hand, and dancing, woodcraft, and other hobbies on the other, are taught the girls in such a fashion that there is fun in learning. Whether the subject presented is of a practical nature or cultural in its values, the emphasis always is on the pleasure to be gained in its mastery.

Camping is a major Girl Scout activity. Through the day camps, which are held in the city parks, every girl is introduced to the trees, flowers, and birds of the vicinity. A cabin at Palos Park provides week-ends, at small expense for groups, and vacations for older girls are provided at camps at Elkhorn, Wis., and in the Hiawatha National forest, near Lake Superior.

Countess Olga Albani to Sing for Mothers' Aid Benefit.

Countess Olga Albani, the radio singer, will appear before the Mothers' Aid of the Chicago Lying-in Hospital and Dispensary Wednesday afternoon at the Standard club. Mrs. Morris Fishbein is president, and Mrs. Irving L. Stern is chairman of the committee on arrangements.

Mrs. Robert Wyness Millar will lecture on "Saints and Symbols" at 3 o'clock Wednesday in the French room of the Georgian hotel, and again the following Wednesday at International house of the University of Chicago.

Mrs. Millar will illustrate her talk with prints, paintings, tapestries, and other objects of art. Patronesses of the lectures are Mrs. Walter Dill Scott, Mrs. Charles H. Betts, Mrs. Herbert S. Philbrick, Mrs. Charles O. Barnes, Mrs. John Wigmore, Mrs. Walter Buchen, Mrs. J. C. Morrison, and Mrs. Joseph Fleming.

Citywide Business Girls' Conference to Be Held Today.

A city-wide business girls' conference will be held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Lawson Y. M. C. A., 30 West Chicago avenue. Following the conference dinner will be served at 6:15 o'clock, and Miss Genevieve Forsberg of La Grange will speak on "The Responsibility of the Business Girl in the World of Today." Miss Forsberg formerly was president of the Alliance of Business and Professional Women.

Miss Lucille E. Jost, director of women's activities at the Lincoln-Belmont Y. M. C. A., is chairman of the conference, with Miss Helen Hanisch as secretary.

The Lawndale Aid juniors will hold their fourth annual dinner-dance at 6:30 o'clock this evening at the Covenant club, 8 South Dearborn street. Mrs. Sam Levy is chairman. The juniors are affiliated with Lawndale Ladies Aid society, which recently celebrated its twenty-fourth anniversary.

MRS. SAM LEVY.

Friends of Music of Chicago will hold their first musical and tea of the season at 2 o'clock Wednesday at the Bal Tabarin of the Hotel Sherman. Ann Birk Kuper will present a three-act monolog based on the Pulitzer prize play, "The Old Maid," and Miss Clara Wellman, violinist, will play, accompanied by Charles Lurvey. Mrs. Joseph Z. Willner is chairman.

The Rebecca Fox auxiliary of the Daughters of Zion Infant Home and Day Nursery will hold its annual dinner-dance this evening at the College inn. Mrs. Faye Polland is general chairman. Mrs. Morris Fink is chairman of advertisments, assisted by Mrs. Maurice Swartz and Mrs. Henry Goldberg. Mrs. Samuel Goodman is ticket chairman.

Critics Call Late Madge Kendal a Prude

LONDON

"The greatest prude that ever trod the English stage" is the way the English critics affectionately sum up the late Dame Madge Kendal. "But we loved her, not in spite of it but because of it." In short, it was as a consistent and unterrified mid-Victorian, proud of her happy marriage and the champion after-dinner scold of post-war Britain, that she won her O. B. E. and a place in national affections.

Some of the older British actors and actresses insist that her knowledge of the theater was profound, but not much evidence of this is advanced. And believing, as she did, that the English stage had reached its heights in the writings of her brother, Tom Robertson, she had strong prejudices against the modern stage which suggests that there were, after all, limitations to her effective theatrical knowledge. Although a beautiful woman when young, she became massive and homely in old age. She often was dubbed "the Old Warrior," and it was difficult to believe that English audiences had ever wept unashamedly at her portrayal of leading mid-Victorian parts.

Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs to Meet Twice This Week

By Ruth DeYoung.

WELL aware of the value of the forum approach to modern problems, upper state members of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs will devote themselves to conference meetings Tuesday in Sycamore and Thursday in Chicago.

MRS. ROY F. HOADLEY.

The sessions will climax the federation's annual series of regional conferences throughout the state. Mrs. Edward J. Lehman, president of the Illinois federation, will come from Sidney to address the Sycamore gathering on Tuesday and the assembly in the Hotel Sherman on Thursday.

The morning meetings in each case will be open to all of the delegates, while the afternoon sessions will take the form of departmental conferences. Evening sessions will be attended by junior clubwomen.

Mrs. Roy F. Hoadley, federation vice president in charge of the northern region, stresses the afternoon departmental sessions as one of the most important phases of the conferences. In Chicago authorities will be heard at each one of these meetings.

Mrs. Ramsey to Speak Before American Citizenship Group.

Mrs. C. M. Dargan will present Mrs. W. W. Ramsey of the Cook County League of Women Voters as the speaker before the American citizenship department. Mrs. Ramsey will discuss "Permanent Registration and the Election Procedure." The American home department, with Mrs. Frank B. Staely as chairman, will hear V. K. Brown of the Chicago parks system, Prof. Monroe Smith of Columbia university, Richard Shirrman, a German, and Miss Elizabeth Robertson of the Chicago board of education.

Grace Hall Heminway, who started painting when she was 50, will appear before the art seminar, while G. Lyle Belsley, director of the civil service assembly of the United States and Canada, Senator T. V. Smith, and Representative Benjamin Adamowski will appear before the session on civil service.

Long List of Subjects Is to Be Given Discussion.

The other subjects to be covered include conservation, education, gardens, Indian welfare, international relations, junior organization, law observance, legislation, literature and library service, motion pictures, music, press and publicity, public welfare, child hygiene, radio, and the organization of the Park Ridge School for Girls.

The southern conferences the last two weeks have been held in Sparta, Highland, Litchfield, and Paxton.

A real bouquet is due the Chicago Woman's Aid for the excellent work it is doing and has done in behalf of the deaf. The aid has purchased two of the most modern electric group hearing devices invented and installed them in the Parker Practice and the Beidler public schools. By the use of these ten deafened children can hear at the same time and are being taught the use of speech in conjunction with their lip reading classes. Mrs. Philip L. Seman, president of the Chicago Woman's Aid, explained that the entire educational program for this group of handicapped children now can be speeded up 100 per cent at a saving of human happiness and community funds.

The aid is recognized as a pioneer in its work for the hard of hearing. Through the ingenuity of one of its members, Mrs. Louis Pelton, a simple and most inexpensive device of rubber tubing, a small ear piece and a funnel, was put together and distributed to teachers in some of the public schools where lip reading classes were held for the deafened school children. Through this crude device sufficient residual hearing was found among 75 per cent of the children considered totally deaf so that speech could be taught and developed.

Aid Installs Hearing Devices in Various Public Places.

An outgrowth of this pioneer work also has been the installation of hearing devices in churches, assembly halls, and motion picture houses, where head phones are distributed to hard of hearing patrons. For the sale of arts and crafts and other products made by the deaf the aid has established the Victory workshop. This enterprise is serving a double purpose, not only to keep busy otherwise idle hands and minds but preparing the handicapped to take their proper places in society and the commercial world.

In its clubrooms at 185 North Wabash avenue the aid will have two interesting meetings this week. Oscar Chaussow, violin soloist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra and the Chicago Civic orchestra, will be guest artist at the first music luncheon of the arts department on Thursday. On Friday J. Herbert Eichelberger will discuss "New Concepts in International Relations" at a breakfast meeting. Mr. Eichelberger recently returned from a tour of the European countries and attended the league meetings in Geneva.

One of the major charity events on the week's calendar is the annual card party and bazar of the Protestant Woman's Service club Wednesday in the Grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel. It was in 1921 that this group was founded to care for needy children and keep them out of institutions. In 1926 the Protectorate for Dependent Protestant Children was organized under state law to carry on the work that had reached extensive proportions. During the last 13 years more than $100,000 has been spent in the interest of children. Mrs. J. W. S. Bessonette, vice president of the club and chairman of the party, is in the hope that the proceeds will reach the $5,000 mark. Mrs. George W. Wilson is president of the club.

MRS. J. W. S. BESSONETTE. [Mandel Bros. Photo.]

That most appealing charity group, the Auxiliary of the House of the Good Shepherd, will hold its annual fall meeting tomorrow afternoon at the shelter, 1126 Grace street. The Very Rev. Michael J. O'Connell will speak and a musical program will be given by Miss Margaret Sweeney. The Rev. Mother Mary St. Augustine and the sisters will welcome the auxiliary members and their friends and afterward be hostesses at tea. The auxiliary has, as its sole purpose, the financial assistance of the Sisters of the House of the Good Shepherd in their charity, which is the reclamation of unruly girls and wayward women.

Martha Washington Club to Have Autumn Luncheon and Card Party.

Attractive green folders are the invitations for the luncheon and bridge party which the Martha Washington club is to have at 12:30 Friday at the Blackstone hotel. It will be an Indian summer party in its decoration. Mrs. William B. Bowers is the club president, with Mrs. Luella R. Davis program chairman and Mrs. O. F. Scott social hostess.

The Chicago Woman's Ideal club is making plans for a charity card party Nov. 19 in the Palmer house. One of the noteworthy things about the Ideal club is its financial condition. It has a bank balance of $8,000, with $3,000 in good interest bearing bonds. And the membership is limited to 500.

Funds from Party to Carry on the Three Scholarships.

The funds raised through the card party will go to carry on three scholarships that are given to needy girls who merit them. One of these is at the University of Chicago, another at Northwestern university, and a third at the Art institute. The Ideal club also fills suitcases for Juvenile court girls, maintains a six bed ward in the Martha Washington home, and assists a half dozen other necessary charities. The new president is Mrs. Amie Heilmann.

The Southern Educational Alliance will have its annual opera meeting at 2 o'clock Friday in Harris hall on the Northwestern university campus. Mrs. Edgar J. Goodspeed will give an illustrated lecture on "Historic Trails Through Illinois." Mrs. Robert M. Jeffries will preside.

TO WED IN JANUARY

Miss Gertrude Frances Greenberg's engagement to Milton Handelmann is being announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Greenberg of 4844 North Monticello avenue. Mr. Handelmann is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Handelmann of the Chicago Beach hotel. The wedding is planned for next January. [Mandel Photo.]

English Debating Profit Outlook of Land "Holding"

LONDON

Settling people on the land in "small holdings" is all the rage these days, but there has been widespread comment on the difficulty of finding anybody who has been a "small holder" for a long period of years, and whose records thus would show what such an enterprise returned.

Apparently the explanation is that unsuccessful "small holders" disappear, while the successful ones expand into regular farmers.

But a man whose physical incapacity has prevented his expanding his little place has stepped forward in the Times and given his own ideas most concretely.

"The beginner in England who must depend immediately upon cash return," he says, "needs 7 or 8 acres, 2 freshly calved cows, 1 brood sow, and 25 hens. The 2 cows will furnish an immediate cash income if the milk is personally distributed in the nearest village. About 6 acres will be wanted by the cows for grazing and for hay, the remainder for potatoes, market garden crops, and cut flowers, the last named bringing in a cash return from the middle of March to the end of October.

"When the hay has been cut, young turkeys should be turned loose and fed up for the Christmas market. The total outlay at the start should be around 60 pounds [about $300], but the small holder should put all his thought and energies into it and not treat it as a sort of hobby."

Mr. A. G. Street, a successful farmer whose books are having a wide appeal these days, says in his latest work that the minimum capital required nowadays to be a successful farmer in England is about 2,000 pounds [about $10,000] and 3,000 pounds [about $15,000] would be a better figure. Working capital, he says, should be at least $50 an acre. As there are relatively few people who can start a son off with 3,000 pounds, the route to farming would seem to be the "small holding."

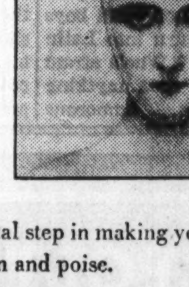
"All you need is an Elizabeth Arden Treatment"



Although he had many problems similar to hers, he did not say frankly and hurtfully, "My dear woman, there are hundreds of women in your predicament!" Instead he said "Let's go over the main points together"...

"You say that you are terribly shy, and that you miss half the fun of life. Now tell me why that is?"

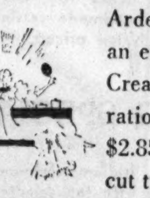
"Because I realize that I am unattractive and that people don't like me. I feel so out of things!"

"But you could be attractive! You don't make the most of your possibilities. With the right kind of effort you could be as charming and lovely as the women you envy!... All you really need is an Elizabeth Arden treatment!"

The lady in question told this story to Elizabeth Arden in gratitude, after she had decided to follow the suggestion given her.

An Elizabeth Arden treatment makes you lovely, clearing and refining your skin so that it becomes soft as silk. It makes you mindful of your loveliness, conscious of your charm, and gives you a confidence in your appearance which is the first and most vital step in making you a person of grace, charm and poise.

Let Elizabeth Arden help you at home! If you live too far away to come to the Salon, write to Miss Arden and tell her about yourself. She will be delighted to map out a simple program for you to carry out at home, teaching you how to correct difficulties and make the best of all your good points. Every step from cleansing to make up is carefully considered—and improvement begins from the very first day.



Cleanse morning and night with Cleansing Cream which melts into the pores, flushing them of all impurities. Freshen and tone with Ardena Skin Tonic, and for acquiring an exquisitely smooth skin use Velva Cream at bedtime. These three preparations in a charming pink box cost $2.85 and you will find them a short cut to natural beauty.

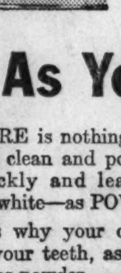
USE POWDER



100% Cleansing Properties
Twice that of tooth paste

Contains No Grit or Pumice
Cannot possibly scratch the softest enamel

Outlasts Tooth Paste 2 to 1

Do As Your Dentist Does—

THERE is nothing known that will clean and polish teeth so quickly and leave them so gleaming white—as POWDER.

That is why your dentist, when cleaning your teeth, as you know—always uses powder.

As it is only the powder part of any dentifrice that cleans, a dentifrice that is ALL POWDER just naturally cleans best.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is ALL POWDER—100% cleansing properties. This is more than twice the cleansing properties of tooth pastes. Dentists everywhere recommend Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder, because—teeth simply cannot remain dull and film coated when it is used.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder cleans off all stains and polishes the teeth in a harmless and practical way that leaves them sparkling—many shades whiter.

Free from all grit or pumice, Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder cannot possibly scratch, or injure the softest enamel.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder keeps your teeth REALLY CLEAN and clean teeth mean—firm, healthy gums and the least possible tooth decay. Powder leaves your teeth feeling so much cleaner, your mouth so refreshed, and your breath so sweet and pure.

Once you use powder you will never go back to tooth paste. People by the thousands are changing daily.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is not only doubly efficient, but it costs only half as much to use. Even a small package lasts twice as long as a tube of tooth paste.

Plan Community Fund Publicity for Year 'Round

Program to Keep City's Needs Before Chicago Considered Imperative.

INTELLIGENTLY enough, there is a movement under way to launch a year round community fund, educational program. The first step in the program which would give the public a more intimate picture of private welfare work in Chicago, will be taken Wednesday, at a meeting in the community fund headquarters, 111 West Washington street.

MRS. CHARLES SCHWARTZ.

Board presidents of the 147 agencies participating in the community fund drive will attend, and the co-chairmen of the women's division of the fund will preside. These chairmen are Mrs. Frank P. Hixon, Mrs. Charles P. Schwartz, and Mrs. David R. Bremner.

The plan would involve a speakers' department through which women's clubs and church and civic organizations would hear about Chicago's philanthropy needs.

Speakers' Department Would Aid in Keeping Need Before the Public.

"If Chicago women are thoroughly acquainted with the fund and with the real results it achieves through its annual aid of our private welfare agencies, we feel that the task of getting the message before the public would be greatly lightened when the drive is on," Mrs. Schwartz has said. "Every year a tremendous effort must be put forth to make clear the relationship between the fund and the agencies, to explain where the money goes and why it is so urgently needed.

"The women can do much to keep the fund alive from one campaign to the next if they do nothing but talk. Our plan will give all the participating agencies a chance to help publicize their work and the vital need for carrying it on."

Sixty-five leading women's organizations throughout the city are giving their support to the fund this year. The coöperation of all of these and many more is being asked for the lecture school project.

Mrs. B. F. Langworthy Will Speak at Home Economics Event.

Mrs. Benjamin F. Langworthy, president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, will be the principal speaker at the annual banquet of the Illinois Home Economics association next Friday evening in the Red room of the Hotel La Salle. Mrs. Langworthy is particularly interested in the development of coöperation between home and school, parent education, and homemaking.

Other speakers to be heard at the two day meeting at the La Salle include Miss Elizabeth Weirick, who recently returned from a textile tour in foreign countries; Dr. M. H. Willing, professor of education at the University of Wisconsin; Dr. Lydia Roberts and Miss Hazel Kyrk of the University of Chicago; Miss Mary Whitlock of the University of Illinois; Mrs. Mary Koll Heiner, director of the School of Domestic Arts and Sciences; and Miss Jana Glenn of the University of Hawaii.

Miss Ruth Straight is president of the Illinois Home Economics association. Miss Laura Avery and Mrs. Clara Gebhard Snyder are the vice presidents, and Mrs. Rosa Biery Andrews, executive secretary and treasurer.

Woman's Finance Forum to Have Its Initial Meeting Thursday.

The woman's finance forum, said to be the first in the United States, is to have its initial meeting at 5:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon in the Hotel Sherman. William L. Ayers, financial editor, will discuss the topic, "How to Read the Financial Page."

The forum has its origin in an urgently expressed desire for more information along the line of finance. The executive director of the forum is Miss Lorraine L. Blair. On the advisory committee are Miss Bertha Mac Gregor, Mrs. Flora Taylor Young, Miss Helen Laycock, Miss S. Katherine Maddux, Miss Anne V. Zinser, Miss Clara M. Kelley, Miss Agnes Olsen, Miss Mary D. Bailey, Miss Esther Warner, Miss Veronica Miller, Mrs. Walter W. Seymour, Mrs. Staely, Miss Dorothy Gonzales, Miss Mary Burris, Mrs. John Van Wakeman, Miss Susa P. Moore, Miss Susan Mendenhall, Miss Hazel V. Braun, Miss Alice M. Kuhn, Miss Eva C. Fletcher, and Miss Frida B. Scheuber.

Chicago Committee of Nursing Service to Have Reception.

The Chicago committee of the frontier nursing service has issued invitations for a reception and program at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning in the ballroom of the Drake hotel, at which the well known Mrs. Mary Breckenridge will be the speaker. Mrs. Breckenridge will speak and show new colored slides of her work. Mrs. Charles Wesley Dempster is chairman of the Chicago committee, which includes a number of the city's most distinguished women.

Next Saturday evening comes the annual charity ball of the Sunbeam league at the Stevens hotel. There have been 23 balls in the past 23 years, but the plans for those have not approached the preparations being made for this party. Chicago's headline entertainers will give a fast moving revue, and there will be a well equipped game room. Boutonnieres will be provided by a bevy of debutantes who will serve as flower girls. Among the sponsors of the party are Mrs. J. Ogden Armour. Mrs. D. Mark Cummings, and Mrs. Charles Worcester.

More than 2,000 guests are expected at the dinner-dance which the Jewish Consumptives' Relief society is sponsoring a week from tonight in the Grand and junior groups are coöperating in giving the party, which has been styled "A Night in Montmartre."

Mrs. Charles Levy is one of the members of the senior organization working strenuously for the success of the event. The society was organized in 1901 by the late Dr. Theodor B. Sachs, and its good work has grown yearly both in scoope and reputation. In addition to maintaining an occupational therapy department at the Winfield sanitarium in Winfield, the group contributes liberally to the relief of consumptive patients. Mrs. Louis L. Marks and Mrs. L. H. Rose are chairmen of the party for the senior group, and Mrs. David Olin is the junior chairman.

BUSY WITH REHERSALS

Miss Eleanor Kirkland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Weymouth Kirkland, missed some of the activities that would have been hers last year when she made her debut because she went to Vassar college, but she is enjoying them this winter, for she is at home. She is busy with rehersals for the Service club revue to be given next Friday and Saturday nights in the Civic theater. She also is an usher for the series of children's entertainments to be given under the sponsorship of the Chicago Hollins college alumnæ. The next one will be given Tuesday, Nov. 19, when Admiral Byrd will give an illustrated lecture in the Auditorium theater.

New Art Show Reveals Rich Talent in U. S.

Painting and Sculpture by Americans at the Art Institute Inspired Work.

By Eleanor Jewett.

AFTER a lapse of two years, the annual exhibition of American Paintings and Sculpture was opened for the forty-sixth time last Thursday at the Art institute. Its absence of two seasons is attributable to the fact that the Century of Progress exhibition of fine art held sway in all of the galleries on the second floor of the institute in the months the exposition ran.

New names are convincingly to the fore in the current show. Painters from Milwaukee, Woodstock, Dallas, and the Pacific coast are represented, together with painters from Chicago and New York. About one hundred of the paintings were invited by Director Robert B. Harshe of the Art institute. These invitations are an annual custom. The division of sculpture is particularly worth while this year.

Prizes Go to Four New, Three Seasoned Painters.

The prize awards are interesting, in as much as four introduce new names to us, and three permit us to congratulate old friends. The Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Logan Art institute medal and $500, as a purchase or an award, went to Doris Lee for "Thanksgiving." The Norman Wait Harris Silver medal and $500 went to Clyde Singer for "Sandy Valley." The Norman Wait Harris bronze medal and $300 were awarded to Frank Mechau Jr. for "Indian Fight."

"Evening Reading" by Philip Evergood won the M. V. Kohnstamm prize of $250 for "the most commendable painting." The prize of the Chicago Artists Annual ball of $200 for a work by a Chicago artist was awarded to Aaron Bohrod, a consistent winner, for "Palos Park Landscape." The Martin B. Cahn prize of $100 for the "best painting by a Chicago artist" was given to Julio de Diego for "Grant Place." The William M. R. French Memorial gold medal, established by the Art institute Alumni association, for a painting or work of sculpture executed by a former student of the Art institute, was awarded to Zsissly [Malvin Marr Albright] for "Victoria."

Eastern Men Comprise Jury on Painting.

The honorable mentions were awarded as follows: Landscape, John F. Stenvall for "Slush at Dusk;" architectural subject, Julio de Diego for "Grant Place" [this also won the Cahn prize]; sculpture, Gladys E. Bates for "Morning", portrait or figure subject, Sylvia Shaw Judson for "Young Woman."

The jury on painting for this exhibit consisted of eastern men: Lloyd Goodrich, art critic and lecturer of New York; Waldo Pierce and Henry Varnum Poor, New York artists. There were two juries on sculpture, one in New York to select the eastern sculpture, thus avoiding shipment to Chicago of pieces unlucky enough to be rejected, and a Chicago jury to select work from the midwest and west. The eastern jury was composed of sculptors, Robert Laurent, Reuben Nakian, and Heiz Warneke. Sculptors, also, were on the Chicago jury: Elisabeth Haseltine, Oscar J. W. Hansen, and Emory P. Seidel.

The exhibition will continue through Sunday, Dec. 8.

News of Interest to Lovers of Art.

The Fourth International Lithograph show will open Nov. 1 in the print rooms of the Art institute. The jury has chosen 325 works for exhibition. Many foreign countries are to be represented, among them France, Hungary, Great Britain, Italy, Germany, Switzerland, Mexico, Holland, Poland, Russia, and Czechoslovakia. The jury of selection was made up of Henry G. Keller of Cleveland, an artist; William Zorach, painter of Maine, and Morton Zabel of Chicago.

The story of the jury action in selecting Ralph Fletcher Seymour's "Paris Wine Shop," a strong piece of realism extremely well executed, for the $500 prize in the Chicago Society of Etchers' competition, has brought this interesting denial from Thomas Tallmadge, a member of the jury. As he explains the affair there was no modern-minded woman juror who insisted upon a rugged print for the award. He writes:

"First of all, the jury looked at the sixty-seven exhibits, one after another, without any comment or vote. The etchings were far enough removed to make it impossible to read the signatures. Next, we went over the entire sixty-seven again, informally voting among ourselves and as a result of this second inspection all but five were eliminated. The five included a very lovely shop front called 'When Greek Meets Greek,' a stunning snow scene with reflections, the interior of a blacksmith's shop, a mezzotint, and the etching by Mr. Seymour. After normal discussion the etchings were narrowed down to two, one the snow scene and the other Mr. Seymour's. On these two the jury seemed about equally divided. Finally the suggestion was made that the jury look for five minutes in silent contemplation of the two prints. At the end of this period all but two voted for 'Paris Wine Shop' and then the remaining two quickly added their votes."

Mr. Tallmadge's personal reflections on the winning etching run: "My personal reaction to the etching was that in it, more than in any other, appeared an artistic urge and not a technical performance. Seymour is the best man in the middle west, and perhaps the best in the country, in depicting with the needle the characteristics of the humble and the outcast. I think that this little plate represents him at his best and is not far short of being a little masterpiece."

The Chicago Society of Etchers exhibition is current in the Roullier galleries, Fine Arts building, and when you stop by to see it, do not fail to go into the inner room and enjoy the lithographs of old Chicago by Howard Raftery. They are much too fine to miss. Those of you who lived in the Chicago of thirty and forty years ago will recognize house after house, street after street. The Auditorium, interior and exterior, will revive many memories. And as you are turning over the leaves of memory, again and again you will be brought abruptly to the present by the quality and kind of craftsmanship of which Mr. Raftery is master. These lithographs are worthy of a permanent place among the permanent resources of the Art institute or the Chicago Historical society. They seem too rich and delightful as a group to have to face the need of separation. At least one set should be preserved entire.

The Quest gallery, Fine Arts building, is showing a delightful group of water colors by Robert Lee Eskridge, who has just come back to Chicago after two years or so in Hawaii. There he executed two enormous murals for the sports pavilion that are said to rank among the best American painting of this generation.

The water colors are from Hawaii, Tahiti, and the Pennsylvania mining country. "Lee's Mine" is a gem, rich, crisp, vigorous, and decorative. Its greens call to you the length of the gallery. Several flower paintings possess great beauty, and "Surf-Riders" is a fascinating pattern of rhythmic motion. It reminds one of Eskridge's Tahitian fishing scenes. The exhibit is not large, but it is delightful.

Ivan Le Lorraine Albright is represented in the Carnegie International this year. His "Woman" was invited. Louis Ritman is the only other Chicago painter to be represented there.

"Portrait of Max Epstein," by John Doctoroff, a cently completed canvas which will be shown in Chicago this winter. Mr. Epstein is a noted collector of fine paintings, many of which have been exhibited in the Art institute. He is a trustee of the Art institute and a member of the committee on paintings and sculpture which was responsible for some of the prize awards in the American exhibition that opened Thursday in the east wing galleries of the museum.

PARIS

There is a French popular, colloquial, almost slangy phrase to describe most any gathering where many well dressed persons of the upper crust are wont to congregate. Il y avait du linge is the phrase in question, although it should not be used by those desirous of impressing listeners by the fastidiousness of their French. Be that as it may, there is much distinguished dress at Longchamps, where, when the day is fine, many of the most carefully turned out women of Paris may be seen, those whose adoption of a mode gives it genuine currency among the connoisseurs. Much fur is worn, not only on the new hats, with their predilection for military styles, but on coats.

Strictly social activities in Paris have been rather conspicuous by their absence in recent days. That is, there is little in the way of functions more or less formal. However, the Ritz is giving gala dinner-dances on Thursday nights that draw quite an attendance, and the luncheons there usually round up celebrities known on both sides of the channel and the Atlantic, and sometimes even in more distant parts.

Return of Strauses Will Give Fillip to Entertaining.

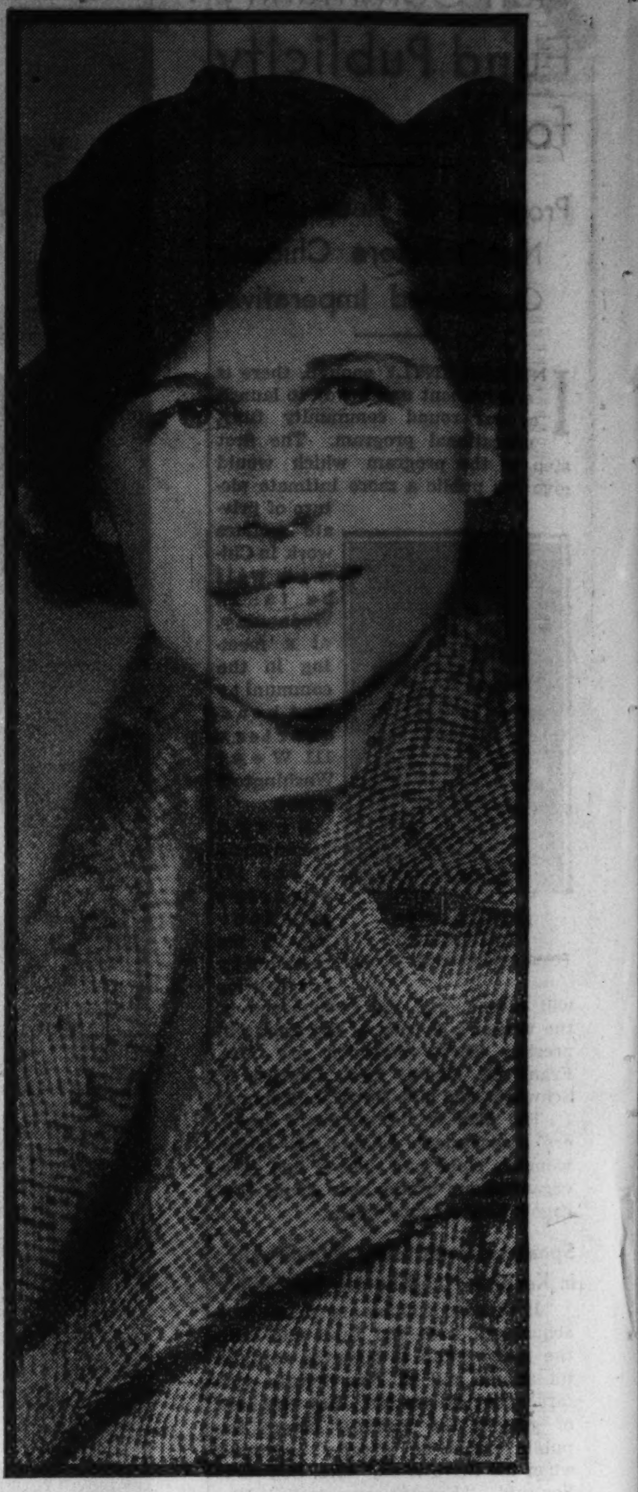
As Ambassador Jesse I. Straus and his wife have returned to Paris from a stay of several months in the homeland, it is to be expected that their presence will give some animation to the sort of entertaining that usually goes with an embassy. For some months before their departure to the United States Mrs. Straus gave a number of informal luncheons at the official residence in the Avenue d'Iéna, which were a distinct success.

Mme. Fernando de Soriano, the former Italia Blair of Chicago, recently gave a bridge and tea at her home in Biarritz to announce the engagement of her daughter Bridget to Christopher Hills, the wedding to take place in England next month. Among those at the party was the dowager Marquise d'Ivanrey. It will be remembered that three years ago Mme. de Soriano saw her daughter Inez married at Biarritz to Gonzalo de la Gandara in the little church there, Mme. de Soriano wearing red velvet, which well set off her dark Spanish type. The only Chicago relative who attended that ceremony was Mrs. Chauncey Blair of Geneva. The dowager Marquise d'Ivanrey, who has long lived in Biarritz, gave a luncheon for the newlyweds at the Villa Ines.

Honore Palmers Will Return to United States.

The Honore Palmers, with their son d'Orsay, who arrived here recently from America for a short stay at their home in the Rue Chanoinesse, are soon sailing again for the homeland.

Mme. Paul Dupuy, the former Ethel Browne of Chicago, is usually active, mundanely speaking, all the year round. Her home in Versailles, near the former royal estate and pond of Clagny, lends itself well to entertainments of all sorts. She has had as her guest recently Hon. Lady Keppel, while her husband, Hon. Sir George Keppel, has been the guest of Sir George Clerk at the British embassy.



IS ENGAGED TO WED

Miss Dorothy Cline's engagement to be married to Robert Schnering is being announced today at a tea by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Allan John Cline, of Evanston. Miss Cline is a junior at Northwestern university and Mr. Schnering, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Schnering of Evanston, is a senior at the University of Chicago.

Play SAFE! Re-color Your Gray Hair with CANUTE WATER

20 years without injury to a single user

If your hair is faded, streaked or gray, you are sure to be delighted with Canute Water. This is a pure, colorless, odorless and crystal-clear liquid of wonderful properties which actually recolors gray hair. By using Canute Water, lustrous, youthful looking hair can be yours once more.

There is as much difference between Canute Water and "old-fashioned" crude hair dyes as there is between an electric light and an old kerosene lamp.

Easy to Use

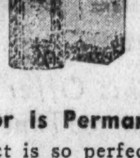
Because of its safety, cleanliness and positive action, you can use Canute Water alone, in the privacy of your own room. No previous experience is necessary. Just wet the hair with it and allow it to dry. Could anything be simpler?

Canute Water re-colors gray hair in from 1 to 3 applications, depending on shade. The whole treatment can be completed in a single day, if desired. After that, a single treatment, once a month, is sufficient to keep it that way.

Canute Water is not sticky or greasy and leaves the hair clean and natural to the touch. It is not only a hair "darkener" but imparts a color similar to nature's own.

Are YOU Old-Fashioned

Only a few years ago the father of a young girl discovered a box of rouge and lipstick on her dressing table. And he raised a howl about it. Today he brings these home as gifts . . . Which only goes to prove that times have changed. That today, it is considered a woman's duty to look as young as she can. If she neglects herself, she is considered unkempt . . . Nothing adds more years to your appearance than gray, streaked or faded hair. And there is nothing like Canute Water to bring them beauty, color and lustre.



Color is Permanent

The effect is so perfectly natural that there is not even the hint of a dyed appearance. Your most intimate friends will be unable to distinguish the re-colored hair from the natural. And it remains permanent against sun, air, salt-water or shampooing.

No matter what has caused your grayness, Canute Water will positively overcome it. There are no exceptions. Even if you have been using some other hair coloring preparation, it need not prevent you from trying Canute Water. It can be applied with equal satisfaction either during the day or at night and in all weather conditions.

Since Canute Water does not alter the texture of your hair, you may curl, wave or set it—or get a permanent—as usual.

Inexpensive

Even a very modest purse can spare the trifling cost of keeping the hair lovely with Canute Water. A bottle will last you for several months. If you wish to share the first one with a friend, you will find that it contains enough for both.

Here's a little secret. We made a survey in a number of Cities recently and found that over 40% of Canute Water users are men. Which only goes to prove that they, too, are recognizing the demands of society and industry for a youthful appearance.

Buy a bottle today and solve your gray hair problem.

When Chicago Was Young

The Elegant Eighties

By Herma Clark

Letters from Martha Freeman Esmond to her friend Julia Boyd of New York.

Chicago, May 8, 1886.

DEAR JULIA: Ours is a troubled city today. The shadow of the Haymarket riot still envelopes us; the sound of the first bomb ever thrown in Chicago still rings in our ears. Who would have believed it possible that policemen could be assassinated in Chicago?

You've read all about the riot in the newspapers, I know, so I won't go over the terrible details. Another policeman died today from his wounds. It seems as if this might be Russia. Will thinks we've been too hospitable in welcoming to our shores foreigners who do nothing but try to disturb our peace. Yet he thinks there are two sides to the question and that when the workman see great wealth amassed by an employer, while he himself is getting but a bare living, it is only natural that he should be resentful. But it is no excuse for murder.

Bishop Samuel Fallows, for forty years a notable figure in Chicago.

One thing that made me shudder today was a newspaper account of banners found in the homes of anarchists on which were inscribed: "We want no God; no religion; no masters." Such words make us more mindful of our own religious duties. Today Will and I attended St. Paul's Reformed Episcopal church and heard Bishop Samuel Fallows speak on the subject of the Haymarket riot. He showed the folly of making this country a paradise for anarchists and communists and he praised the bravery of the police.

"What a gallant courage they displayed!" he cried. "It was even grander than that of regiments marching out to meet the foes of their country on the battlefield. The dynamite bomb has been a double revelation. It showed that the men who have been talking murder mean murder, and that the men to whom the safety of lives and the protection of property are entrusted are equal to the occasion. I confess," he added emphatically, "that I look on a Chicago policeman with a new eye. The star on his breast is a star of hope for the further peace of our city."

Every hearer would have liked to applaud, if he had not been in church.

Then the bishop gave some wise counsel on the duty of capital to cooperate with labor; to give the laborer a share in the profits. He called capital and labor a union like that of husband and wife, ending quite solemnly: "What God therefore hath joined together let not man put asunder."

I think workingman and capitalist alike have a high regard for the good bishop, for he is a great humanitarian and he's not afraid to speak his mind. Have you ever seen Bishop Fallows? He is an impressive figure, with great physical strength, due, perhaps, to a boyhood spent on a Wisconsin farm. His father, an English weaver, came to this country in 1848, hoping to make a better living in a land of plenty. But though a good weaver he failed at farming, and the family had a hard struggle to exist, I have heard the bishop say. But this gifted son gained an education by hook and crook, being graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 1859. On the opening of the civil war he was commissioned a chaplain in a Wisconsin regiment, but after a time his active spirit craved a broader field and he resigned, went back to Wisconsin and raised a regiment of which he was made lieutenant colonel. Later, he was transferred to another regiment as colonel and at the close of the war was brevetted a brigadier general. So he knew what he was talking about when he compared the courage of our police to that of soldiers marching to battle.

Bishop Fallows is a natural leader of men, and his devotion to the cause of public welfare is so well known that every one present was impressed by the views he expressed in his sermon.

But here come Martha and Sandy and the children for Sunday dinner, and I close. I do hope this riot won't make you feel you never want to come to Chicago again. Lovingly,

MARTHA FREEMAN ESMOND.

FOOTNOTES.

Bishop Samuel Fallows [1835-1922] was a prominent figure in Chicago for more than forty years. Originally a Methodist minister he left that church in 1875, and in 1876 became rector of St. Paul's church of Chicago [Reformed Episcopal]. His various interests took him all over America, and he was a friend alike of Presidents and of convicts. His interest ranged from prison reform to simplified spelling. He was widely known in Wisconsin as superintendent of public instruction, but the larger part of his adult life was spent in Chicago.

Ave and vale! Two friends of this column have passed into another world during a week . . . Mrs. Bronson Peck, daughter of a pioneer, and herself a great humanitarian, and Maj. Gen. Milton J. Foreman, who had served his country gallantly. Each of these friends had been mentioned by Martha in her letters.

Our sprightly young friend, Mrs. Sue Lyon Douglas, 102 years old, left last week for Texas, where she will live henceforth. Mrs. Douglas wrote for Michigan newspapers in the '50s, and recalls an interesting correspondence with Louis A Godey, editor of Godey's Lady's Book.

527 Aldine square.

If you ask a conductor on a Cottage Grove avenue car where to get off for Aldine square he will tell you he never heard of it, but he will willingly get out his street guide and look it up. He will put you off at 37th street, telling you to walk west. You find yourself in a Negro neighborhood with many eager to direct you. You walk through little Ellis park noting on the south side of it a tiny white stone church, once belonging to a French congregation, but now the home of a Negro Baptist group. Turning south on Vincennes avenue you soon find yourself at Aldine square. Our objective is 527, once the home of A. W. Rollins, Chicago dry goods merchant, founder of Rollins college, Florida. We find this fourteen room, brown stone house one of the best preserved in the inclosure, the woodwork of the interior in excellent condition. A pointed turret crowns the third story bay window. A. W. Rollins, a native of Maine, amassed a modest fortune in Chicago, and by 1877 was spending his winters in Florida. In 1885 he gave $50,000 to found the college in Winter Park, Fla., which bears his name. Do try to see quaint little Aldine square before it is demolished, as is proposed by the new housing program. And do see Howard Raftery's lithographs of old Chicago houses at Roullier's gallery.

Earl Ledyard writes us he is specially interested in pre-fire Chicago houses. If you have information about any house which survived the fire we shall be glad to pass it on. Address Herma Clark, care CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

ART NOTES

The Chicago galleries, 220 North Michigan avenue, are showing sculpture by Maeble C. Perry. The "African Deer" won a national award of $750; the spirited "Jeff" was purchased by the Chicago Art institute for its permanent collection while Miss Perry was still a student there. It has never lost its intriguing grace and has met constantly with great appreciation among an enormous public. A copy is owned by President Roosevelt and another was exhibited in the Philadelphia Academy of Fine Arts. "Tropical Flavor" was shown in the Art institute's Century of Progress show. The "Panther" is another admirable animal study, full of action and grace. The various studies of horses are sturdy and decorative. They seem fitted for some architectural effort still in the future.

Miss Perry is successful with her portraits. The bas-relief of Violet McKibbon is charming. The "Portrait," a bust, is excellent, and her study of "Mary Anderson" is thoughtful and fine.

The Hoosier Art gallery is showing paintings by Samuel F. Hershey and Gordon B. Mess through October. "The Water Wheel," by Mr. Hershey is the least formal of his compositions. Among the paintings by Mr. Mess, "Laurel," "Reflections in the Water," and "Pigeon River in the Smokies" are possibly the most intriguing.

The Allerton House gallery is showing water colors by Jay Datus. Do not fail to see his bull fight paintings. They are marvelous in movement and color.

William S. Schwartz points out that there is no "Mrs. Schwartz." The announcement of his classes was sent in by his secretary.

Peggy Palmer is showing a dozen or so attractive, laughable, little portraits of crowned heads and literary ladies in the O'Brien galleries, 673 North Michigan avenue. They are guaranteed to bring at least one smile. Miss Palmer has a keen wit and a delicious sense of color. No one is safe from her. Louis XIV., Queen Victoria, Henry VIII., Louisa M. Alcott, and Charlotte Bronte, even Mona Lisa of the storied smile, are revealed to you as freshly as though history had not stiffened them these many years.

The Northwest Art league announces its first annual exhibit to be held Nov. 6 to Nov. 20 at the Little Church at the End of the Road.

River People of Canton Poorest of All Mortals

Tens of Thousands Live and Die on Small Boats Lying Off Shameen Island.

By Mason Warner.

CANTON, China.—If any one wants to study the habits and culture of the "river people" of China, Canton affords the best opportunity to pursue his investigations. Here one can get a closeup—for the sampans on which these families dwell from birth to death huddle in crowded confusion tight against Shameen island, the foreign section of Canton.

The guide books are quite insistent with the admonition, "Tourists should not undertake visits to Canton without a guide or interpreter," but if you are an experienced traveler, accustomed to making your way in places where your language is not understood, you are safe in Canton—and will see much that the professional guide omits from his tour, but which is the most interesting part of your experience in the strange cities of the orient.

A five minute "look-see" is the average guide's apportionment of time to the river people. The average traveler would be willing to devote days—yes, weeks—to viewing the river people of Canton.

First to Trade With Europe.

Canton is a city of 1,500,000, but the foreigners living here number so few that they are not noteworthy in population statistics. In influence and commercial importance, however, they cannot be ignored.

The Portuguese were among the first foreigners to come to Canton, in 1511, but they had been preceded by the Arabs. Canton was the first Chinese city to trade with Europe. It has always been an open minded and progressive city. The Cantonese, more than any other Chinese, are inclined to travel. Nearly all the Chinese in America, Europe, the Netherlands, East Indies, Siam, South America, and Africa are Cantonese.

The money sent back by these expatriates has been an important factor in keeping Canton to the forefront in Chinese progress, for with the remittances came letters describing western customs, manners of life, mechanical innovations, and social and political ideas. It is an old saying in China that "anything new originates in Canton." Anyhow, the revolution that changed China from an empire to a republic had its inception in Canton, from where Dr. Sun Yat-sen, the father of modern China, conducted his campaign for the overthrow of the Manchu dynasty and the establishment of the republic of China.

Three of the attractions for tourists in Canton are the Sun Yat-sen Memorial hall, the Sun Yat-sen Memorial tower, and the "Seventy-two Heroes Memorial," built to commemorate the heroism of 72 revolutionary enthusiroy's yamen in 1910, and losing their asts who attacked the Manchu viceway in its winding passageways, were tricked, captured, and beheaded.

Carries Replica of Liberty Bell.

The motif of the seventy-two heroes' memorial is curious. In it are found an Egyptian obelisk in a stone pavilion seven feet high, on the back of which is a replica of the American Liberty bell. A small building in the style of the Trianon at Versailles, a huge stone Egyptian pyramid, and a copy of Bartholdi's Liberty Enlightening the World are other features.

Sun Yat-set was born in Choy Hang, within an hour's motor drive of Macao. His parents were poor and humble and in his childhood they went to Hawaii. He was educated in the schools of Honolulu, returned to Hongkong, studied medicine, and became interested in the revolutionary movement, at that time at its very beginning. He helped organize the Tung Meng Hui, a revolutionary secret society which engineered the successful revolt against the empress dowager and led to the overthrow of the Manchu dynasty in 1911. Sun Yatsen was China's first president, and is revered as a George Washington and Abraham Lincoln combined in one man, for his whole life was devoted to endeavors to raise China to a position of equality with other nations and better the lot of China's millions. He died in 1925, believing himself a failure, but Sun Yat-sen is today China's most revered patriot.

Down Among the River People.

There is an abundance of other sights in and around Canton to engage the interest of the tourist. Among them are the Flowery pagoda, or Fah-Tap, built in the sixth century, a nine story affair, now a museum; the Temple of the Five Genii and the Calamity bell, which never sounds except to herald calamity to the city; the Smooth pagoda, the Mohammedan mosque, the Temple of Honan, Chan's temple, the flower gardens of Fati, and the old Viceroy's yamen. Indeed, there are so many things to see that one's study of the river people is seldom as thorough as is desired.

You can see and study the river people from Shameen island, the former mud flat in the Pearl river. It has been reclaimed and built up and now is a place of residence for the foreign population of Canton. The island is about two miles long and less than a mile wide—one-third under French domination, two-thirds British. Europeans and Americans live and carry on business in pretentious buildings. The residence quarter resembles a prosperous apartment section in New York or Chicago. The business section has edifices more like London, in that they are solid and substantial, but not very tall.

Climate Is Hot and Unhealthy.

The representatives of American corporations such as Standard Oil company and the Singer Sewing Machine company live comfortably on Shameen. They occupy commodious apartments, with large rooms, fine Chinese furniture, and the extraordinarily large stafs of household servants that are the rule in the orient. The only drawback is the humid, unhealthy tropical climate. I like to travel in south China, but I never will be convinced that it is a place for white men to live.

Moored tight against Shameen island are the sampans that house 100,000 river people, the poorest, happiest, most superstitious mortals on earth. Tens of thousands are born, live and die on these small boats, forming a community complete in itself, containing floating shops and stores, beauty parlors, restaurants, workmen, beggars, priests, and thousands of families whose ancestors were also members of the boating population. On the deck of every sampan are the family tablet and a space reserved for worship of these ancestors.

Not Much of a Place for Swimming.

The water in the river is filthy. Harry Franck in "Roving Through Southern China" writes something like this [I am quoting from memory]: "Some of the children on the boats are tethered on the decks with ropes; others have bamboo sticks or stocks of wood attached to their backs to serve as life preservers. If a child of mine fell into the filthy water of the river I should probably not want to save it, but the Chinese have curious ways." I doubt if any American parent would ever feel the same toward his child after the youngster had been immersed in the Pearl river.

"Flower boats" are numerous around Shameen. The girls are particularly aggressive in soliciting a foreigner if he is accompanied by a woman of his own nationality. They dive from the boats and swim about in scanty covering, displaying their charms, coming up to the embankment to hail passersby in a smiling, seductive way. Even in midafternoon they are on the alert for customers, though the evening hours are their busiest, when lantern lights throw a dim, romantic glow over the crowded river scene and the night is filled with the music of samisens and guitars.

I rode the eighty miles from Canton to Hongkong alongside a member of the crew of an American gunboat stationed at Canton. He told me that not a week passed in which the crew failed to pull the corpse of a drowned person from out the river. The natives pay no heed to a disintegrating body in the river.

New Building Planned at Devil's Lake State Park

Cost of Flying Is Cut by One-Third

ANOTHER reduction in travel costs was made known last week, when the Braniff Airways announced a cut of one-third in the tarif on the "Silver Streak," flying between Chicago and Kansas City. Officials of the line said that under the new schedule travelers could make the trip at the price charged by other modes of transportation, and could do it in one fourth the time. The elapsed time for the aerial journey is two and two thirds hours.

Travel Tide Turns Toward Hawaiian Islands This Year

TRAVEL to Hawaii is reaching phenomenal proportions, J. L. Berschens, Chicago agent for the Matson line, told a group of agents at the Medinah club Tuesday evening. The islands' equable climate, ideal living conditions, hotel facilities, and all year season are drawing an unparalleled number of visitors, he related.

J. E. Ryan, general passenger manager of the line, announced that the Matson ships were sailing for Hawaii with full passenger lists. C. Stanford Cost, assistant manager of the Royal Hawaiian hotel, said it is the only hotel he knows of that has no heating equipment and no fans for cooling. Nature itself, he said, has provided all the air conditioning needed.

The occasion was the annual dinner given by the Matson Navigation company for its friends in Chicago. Entertainment included numerous acts furnished by the Medinah club.

Canada Is Fertile Field for the Big Game Huntsmen

OTTAWA.—Because Canada is often spoken of as a land of extensive wheat fields, mining, ranching, lumbering, and other industries, the sportsman sometimes overlooks the fact that of its 3,700,000 square miles of territory only about 110,000 square miles is improved farm land, while more than 1,000,000 square miles is forest land. In this vast forest zone, stretching across the continent there is an abundance of big game.

The animals which may be hunted in Canada include the moose, three species of deer, three species of caribou, elk, four species of bear, mountain sheep, and mountain goat. Other species, including the buffalo, antelope, and muskox, which were becoming scarce or nearly depleted, are given absolute protection in parks or reserves within their natural range. They are rapidly increasing under protection.

The natural range of the moose in North America lies almost entirely in Canada and it has changed little since the country was discovered. With the exception of Prince Edward Island, the moose may still be found in every province.

The Vriginia red deer although rated as second in importance, probably attracts the greatest number of sportsmen. It is found in large numbers in every province of eastern Canada, and has extended its range across the prairies to British Columbia. Unlike the moose, which seeks the unsettled and wooded areas, the deer seems to thrive along the fringe of settlement and is found wherever sufficient food and cover are available.

Mediterranean Countries Grab Travel Interest

Chicagoans Go Overseas to Get a Look at the International Spectacle.

THE Mediterranean countries, which have played leading rôles in the world drama ever since history began, once more are hogging the limelight. And numerous Chicagoans are going over to see what it's all about.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest F. Smith, who took their car with them when they sailed Wednesday on the Washington, will spend at least a year motoring through Europe and quietly observing conditions. Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Cogdell, Mrs. James Moorhouse, and Miss N. G. Sandall also sailed on the Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry D. Oppenheimer, who left Friday on the Majestic, will spend their fall vacation chiefly in Germany, Switzerland, and Italy, where each day's events make front page news. Mrs. H. A. Nash returned to her home in Southampton, England, on the same ship, after having spent the summer in Chicago with her daughter, Mrs. C. J. McCarthy.

They'll Have Front Seats at the Big Show.

Observing the Mediterranean spectacle from front row seats will be Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Gross, Mrs. A. Zuccaro, and Miss Elizabeth Terzo, all of Chicago, and the Rev. and Mrs. Everette D. Howard and their daughter Elizabeth, of Kansas City, all of whom sailed on the Roma Friday.

The lure of Europe sent several other midwesterners on the Normandie Wednesday. Among them were O. B. Stephenson and Mrs. Clarence R. Claghorn of Chicago, Walter A. Schluep of Danville, Ill.; John Van Zant of Indianapolis, and Miss Agnes Sehring of Joliet.

Judge Edmund K. Jarecki of the County court sailed on the Ile de France last week to visit France, Germany, and his birthplace, Poznan, Poland. Fellow passengers were Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Murphy and their daughter Marice, who will travel through France and England.

Still others who have elected to visit Europe are Mr. and Mrs. John McCready and Alexander Ross, who departed last week from Montreal on the Andania; Miss Marion S. Crichton, T. W. Crawford, and Miss H. E. Crawford, who left Friday on the Scythia; Miss Janette Mansfield, who sailed on the American Farmer, and Alex Front, on board the City of Havre.

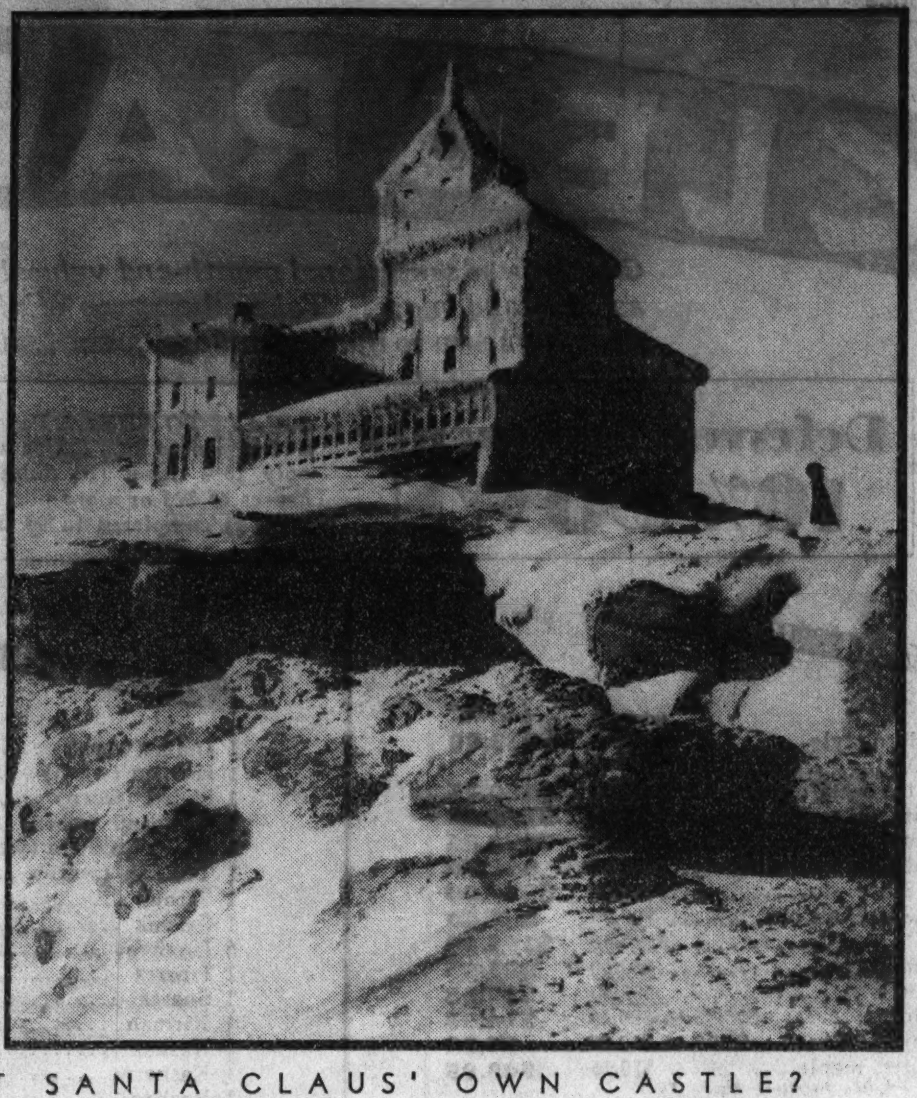
Robert George Miller and Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Tautenhahn were on the Deutschland when it set sail from New York at midnight Wednesday. Eugene E. Morgan, Chicago newspaper man, left on the Bremen at midnight Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Frank Jr. took the Queen of Bermuda Wednesday for a vacation trip to Bermuda. Mrs. W. C. Shephard and Miss Ann Dunlaps left New York yesterday on the California to cruise southward to Havan and on through the Panama canal to San Francisco.

Vacationists Return Home.

Many Chicagoans who have spent the summer traveling through Europe sailed for home Wednesday on either the Berengaria, the Conte di Savoia, or the Manhattan. On the Berengaria are Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Morrison, Kenneth Lowes, and Miss Lydia Ann Schnid. Aboard the Manhattan are Robert T. Mees, James Hodge, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney E. Collins, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert M. Weil, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Hartman, and Miss L. P. Lindeman. Returning from Naples aboard the Conte di Savoia are Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Tuney, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Engel, F. E. Best, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel E. Boys, and the Misses Rose and Elsa Naundorf and Margaret Grimes.

Among those on the Roma when it reached New York Wednesday were John Fardulli, baritone with the Chicago Civic Opera company, and Mrs. J. Hamilton Lewis. Carl Went returned Monday on the Normandie, and Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Bloomster came back on the City of Norfolk.



IS IT SANTA CLAUS' OWN CASTLE?

The Schneegruben Baude, a retreat for winter sports fans in the Riesengebirge (Giants' mountains) in southeastern Germany.

Which Is It: Ethiopia or Abyssinia?

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Ethiopia or Abyssinia, which? Interested in the news of the Italo-Ethiopian situation, the reader is confused. His newspaper prefers to call the northeast African empire Ethiopia, and on his map it is Abyssinia. Or his favorite political news writer prefers Abyssinia and on his map he finds Ethiopia.

Even readers who make a formal research on the empire are confused. One authority avers that the natives of Haile Selassie's empire customarily refer to their country as Abyssinia. Another authority tells him that the natives dislike to be so called because Abyssinia is derived from an Arab term Habeshi, which means "a mixed race." Ethiopia, according to this latter authority, is derived from Itiopiyavan by which the natives have been known since ancient times.

Many Names Misspelled.

Many British publications, among them the Stateman's Yearbook, still call the empire Abyssinia, but the National Geographic society points out that Ethiopia is the proper name because it is used with the official sanction of the Ethiopian government, and the name so appears on the society's recently published map of the African continent.

Just as confusing to readers are the spellings of Ethiopian place names in the daily news reports when compared with the most modern maps. In some articles names have been abbreviated; in some they have been stretched by the addition of a letter or two and otherwise altered.

Other Names Are Twisted.

For instance, Walwal and Wardair, in the trouble zone, near the Italian border, appear as "Ualual" and "Uarder." Aduwa, in the northern part of the empire, near the border of Eritrea, has been amply supplied with aliases, for it has been called "Adua," "Adoa," and "Adowa."

Lake Tana, the source of the Blue Nile, is stretched to "Lake Tsana," while Harar, the center of the Ethiopian coffee industry and one of the empire's chief towns, is given an additional "r" to make it "Harrar." Recently news reports mentioned "Afdub" and "Afdubba" but there are no such places in Ethiopia. The reports really refer to Afdam.

Awash has not been badly treated, for it has been adorned only with an "h," making it "Hawash," but Gerlogubi has been both lengthened and altered to make it "Guerlogobi." Writers have generally left an "m" out of Jimma, written "Aossa" for Aussa and changed Bale's "e" to an "i."

D E T O U R S

By Frederic Babcock.

A PLEA for protection of America's natural scenery against unsightly approaches, inadequate rights of way, billboards, and power lines was given over the radio Tuesday night by Horace M. Albright, former director of the National Park service and now vice president of the American Planning and Civic association.

Mr. Albright has long been known to the traveling public as one of the foremost advocates of such protection. As superintendent of Yellowstone park he fought off private interests seeking to despoil the people's playgrounds. Following the death of Stephen T. Mather, founder of the national park system, he succeeded him in Washington and continued to wage his battle. He resigned several years ago, but he has not lost interest in the ceaseless campaign.

● "Travel today is a 5 billion dollar industry," he told his radio audience. "It is quite apparent, therefore, that our scenic resources are not only extremely valuable because they have a profound influence on our physical and spiritual well being, but because they sustain an industry of huge proportions, affecting the economic well being of millions of persons depending on it for a livelihood.

"No other land possesses scenery comparable with nature's rich endowment of our people. Yet we do not fully appreciate the magnificence of this heritage. Quite characteristically, much of the appreciation we have experienced has followed a gradual realization of the economic value of scenery—the fact that it is a lodestone attracting the traveler with money to spend."

● The speaker maintained that we must exercise public and private foresight in protecting scenery in the interest of all the people.

"Generally speaking," he said, "we cannot entrust outstanding or particularly precious scenic resources to private control, and even public lands have suffered unbelievable atrocities at the hands of government agencies directed by laws at the behest of private interests."

"Public money is expended in building a highway and then private interests despoil its beauty with billboards, poles, wires, and service stations," he continued. "Superb lakes and valleys are ruined by turning them into reservoirs where stored waters lash and break down the shorelines, and often floods kill the trees, leaving them to stand for years, ghastly trunks, reminding us of the stupidity of man. Lakes and swamps are drained and all native plant life ruined while the wild life is driven away, replacing lovely landscapes with a further surplusage of farm acreage."

● Mr. Albright related that too many of us want to paint the lily.

"Colored electric lights must be put on scenery at night," he said, "and ways must be found to get into it, behind it, or on top of it by cableways, tunnels, or escalators. Even music is made to come from the rocks for the entertainment of visitors, as if the natural beauty of the scenery was not best when viewed in natural solitude. If there is an exceptionally fine forest, scenically superb because of its primitiveness, there is always some group or individual who thinks the removal of the mature trees will improve the landscape and make the area economically valuable for its sustained yield of timber as well as for its scenic qualities. Some persons simply cannot understand the esthetic appeal of the virgin woodland.

"The national, state, and local parks are the best means of preserving great scenic features. Highways through outstanding regions should be parkways; that is, wide roadsides should be preserved and all geological and biological features should be safeguarded in their original condition or restored and appropriately landscaped."

Air Service to Bermuda in '36

HAMILTON, Bermuda.—Air service between New York and Bermuda is expected to begin operation next summer, now that arrangements have been completed by Imperial Airways, Ltd., and Pan-American Airways, which will conduct the service jointly. The colonial parliament of Bermuda has authorized an additional grant toward construction of an air base on Darrell's Island.

Arriving air passengers will be subjected to only a nominal customs inspection, and will be whisked in motorboats to their destinations. The base is within a few minutes of many of the leading hotels, most of which are directly on the water.

France Finds U. S. Tourists More Thrifty

New Type of Traveler Prefers the Louvre to Bars and Folies Bergere.

PARIS.—[U.P.]—This year is sending to France a new type of American tourist who drinks beer instead of champagne and prefers the Louvre museum to the Folies Bergere, a survey showed today.

In somber contrast to the flashily dressed, cocktail drinking, dollar flinging prototypes of five years ago, the new American tourist is more intellectual, more conservative, and harder to cheat.

The new American traveler is thrifty and budgetary. He does not hesitate to demand the price of meals and hotel rooms in advance. He is on the alert for the short change artist of the post-war prosperity period. He knows his values and exchange rates and will not be cheated.

Does Without Expensive Trimmings.

He is determined and self-sufficient. He does not go on rubber neck tours or hire guides as in the past. He buys his own maps of Paris and France and goes around by himself, boldly asking questions in French which he has learned for the occasion. He knows what he wants to see and goes out to see it without any expensive trimmings.

All the ballyhoo of Paris nightlife, with its offerings of leg shows, muscle dances, and nude exhibitions fails to attract him as much as the programs of the opera, the Louvre, and the Comedie-Française. While neglecting cabarets and music halls, he hastens about to see the historic monuments of Paris and the provinces.

When he steps into an American bar he does not order several whiskies in a row or a bottle of champagne for newly made acquaintances. He knows his beer and drinks it slowly and quietly. He may even ask questions of the barman which will help him to spend his time with profit.

Doesn't Care to Pay for the Name.

Barmen say that one of the questions most often asked by the new American tourist is this:

"Where can I find a good restaurant that's not too expensive yet serves good French food? I don't want any fancy places where I have to pay for the name."

The new American tourist also has impressed the Parisians with his sartorial transformation. He is more conservative in dress and inclined to wear plainer colors. Many waiters declare it is almost impossible this season to distinguish between Americans and Englishmen by the clothes they wear. Anglo-American styles for men have merged into much the same thing, they say.

The development of this new type of visitor is explained as being due to the crisis through which the United States has passed. It is pointed out that while the new American traveler is less profitable to French business interests, he should make for greater Franco-American understanding because the French no longer refer to "those crazy Americans" as they did when the dollars flowed into France during the post-war orgy of reckless spending.

Students in Italy Find Culture City Antedating Rome

PERUGIA, Italy.—[U. P.]—Going to school in an ancient town that was powerful before Rome was founded is a thrill which many Americans are enjoying. Swinging through an Etruscan arch which dates back to the days before Caesar, 39 Americans of all ages are drinking culture at an original source.

Italy's campaign to bring foreigners to its cultural "spas" has appealed to Americans quite as much as have spas for physical ailments. While Rome, Siena, Vallombrosa, Florence, Ravenna, and Naples offer university degrees to foreigners during the various seasons, Perugia has a special interest: It is the only university which offers an Etruscology course. One American woman is studying the history of this mysterious people who gave Rome its first civilization and then vanished before the conquering Romans.

Of the 39 Americans 19 are women. The majority of students, both men and women, are teachers. Others are university students and nearly all are taking the Italian language course with the hope of teaching in the United States. They supplement with Italian literature and art.

Among the American students is Walter R. Thornhill, A. B. and A. M., Columbia university, postgraduate of the Sorbonne at Paris. He is perfecting his Italian.

Interesting to note is the lack of color prejudice in student life. Thornhill, a Negro, is liked by Italian students more than is any other American.

To Create 47 Alphabets.

MOSCOW.—(AP)—A government commission is working out alphabets for forty-seven languages spoken within the soviet union which still have no writing. There are 110 other languages which already have alphabets. One of the new alphabets is being framed for Ginikhi, spoken by only 120 people who live in Daghestan on the Caspian sea.

$10,000 IN CASH PRIZES

★ ★ ★ How well do you know the famous stars of the screen? When you see their photographs can you tell who they are?

The Chicago Tribune invites you to enter this new $10,000 cash prize contest. It is free to everyone.

Note the two sets of "Misplaced Faces of Movie Stars" printed at the right. When cut apart and put together properly each set makes three complete portraits of well-known movie stars. Can you put them together and name them?

That is all you have to do. There are no essays to write—no subscriptions to solicit—no strings or catches. This contest is offered solely for the entertainment of our readers.

A new set of "Misplaced Faces" will appear each Sunday in the Picture Section of the Sunday Tribune for twelve Sundays. Save them all. Then send them in.

The Chicago Tribune will pay $10,000 in cash prizes to the persons who send in the best answers. There are 428 big cash prizes.

The stars whose photographs will be used in this contest will, at the same time, appear in pictures at Balaban & Katz Theaters.

Read the rules and begin at once with the two sets of pictures printed here. Get the next set of pictures in next Sunday's Chicago Sunday Tribune.

THE RULES:

WHO CAN ENTER: Every man, woman, boy and girl is eligible, regardless of residence, excepting employes of the Chicago Tribune, employes of Balaban & Katz Theaters, and members of their families.

WHAT TO DO: The pictures must be cut apart, assembled and pasted together. Below each picture must be written the name of the star. You may trim off rough edges if you wish to make perfect rectangular pictures. Three pictures will appear each Sunday in the Chicago Sunday Tribune until 36 pictures have appeared. Each set of three pictures, when cut apart and assembled properly, will make complete portraits.

WHERE TO SEND ENTRIES: DO NOT send in pictures one at a time. Hold all pictures until you have the complete set of 36. Then send them to "Misplaced Faces," Chicago Tribune, Post Office Box 1539, Chicago, Illinois. No entry will be returned. All entries must be in by midnight 15 days after Set No. 12 is published. Each entry must be sent by first class mail, postage prepaid. Entries with insufficient postage will be returned by the Post Office Department.

THE PRIZES: The Chicago Tribune will pay 428 cash prizes totaling $10,000 to the persons who send in the nearest correctly solved and neatest complete sets of pictures in accordance with these rules. See prize list below. You do not necessarily have to solve each of the 36 pictures correctly to win. Prizes will be paid to the persons whose entries rank highest. Elaborate entries are not necessary. Just make your entry simple and neat.

JUDGING: Entries will be judged by a committee appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Entrants agree to accept this committee's decision as final. Accuracy in assembling and naming the pictures, and neatness of entry will be the sole determining factors. In case of ties, duplicate awards will be paid.

NOTHING TO BUY: It is not necessary to buy the Chicago Tribune to compete. You may copy or trace the pictures. The Tribune may be examined at any of its offices or at public libraries free of charge.

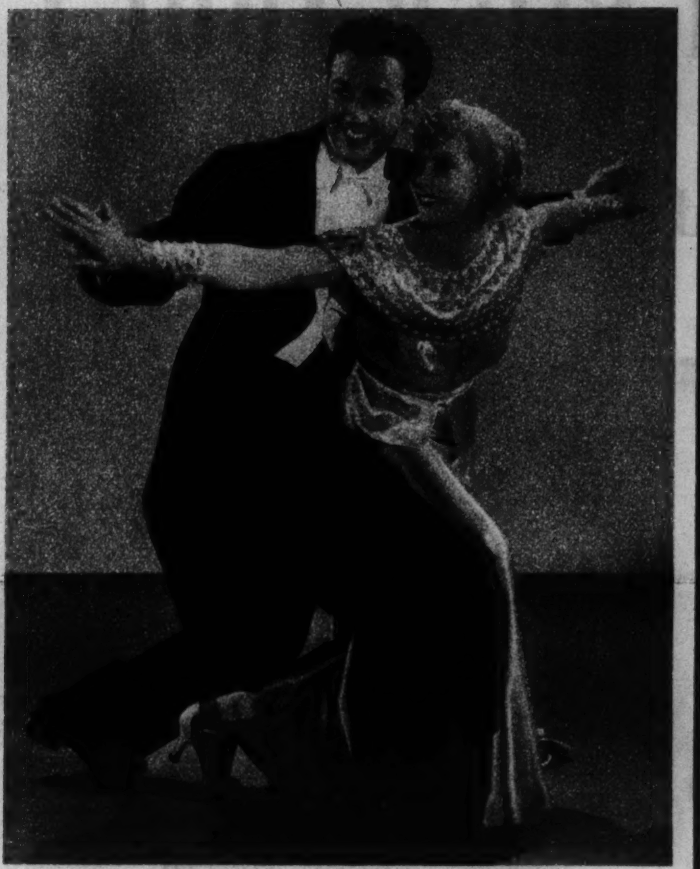
THE FRONT DIP—From a straight dancing position man's left foot is placed to side and then back, while he leans forward from the waist up, his partner following the steps in opposite order.

THE TWIRL—Girl is swung back from a dip. Man steps back on right foot and, taking girl by right arm, twirls her around twice before going back into another dip.

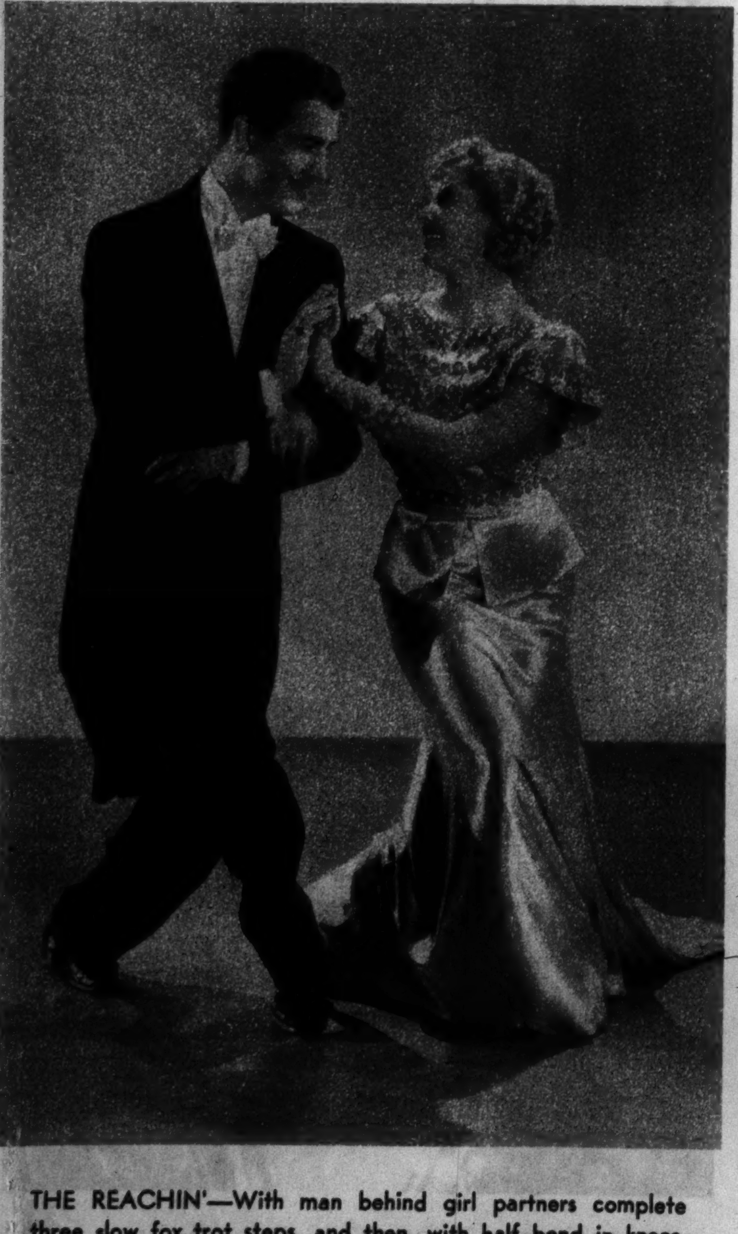
THE CROSS WALK—This step is similar to a glide; partners cross their steps after every straight glide, ending the step with a dip.

THE AIRPLANE GLIDE—After man has whirled girl out of a dip they take three steps and with each step glide closer to the floor, until they reach the position shown. The man swings girl around with his left hand, whirling her into a dip.

THE UPRIGHT GLIDE—Man assumes a position behind girl much in the same manner as in doing a tango step. Instead, he does a slow fox trot.



THE HESITATE—Just before going into a dip the partners hesitate and move slightly to the side before completing the last of the dip.



THE REACHIN'—With man behind girl partners complete three slow fox trot steps, and then, with half bend in knees, reach forward with both hands.

THE HOP—This consists of a short hop, with man behind girl. After the hop the partners go into a pivot and then a dip.

Take Nobody's Advice Except Your Family Doctor's on which Remedies are

MEDICALLY APPROVED

for Children

Buy "bargain" clothes, shoes, playthings for your child if you wish. But before you bring unknown, bargain close-outs in drugs for your child to take—ask your doctor.

Any doctor, any child authority will tell you this. Tell you to know all there is to know about any medicine your child takes internally.

Do this about any drugs you buy for your child. And do it, too, for your sake as well as ours, about the frequently used "milk of magnesia" given children.

Ask Him About "PHILLIPS'"

Ask particularly about Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. He will tell you, we know, that for over 60 years doctors have endorsed it as SAFE for your child. One of the finest that men of science know. The kind of remedy you feel secure in giving to your child.

Now Also In Tablet Form

Phillips' Milk of Magnesia is now made in two forms. Liquid and tablet. Each tablet contains the exact equivalent of a teaspoonful of the liquid, tastes like peppermint, and they are easy to get children to take.

A big box costs only 25¢ at drug stores. But—see that the words "GENUINE PHILLIPS' MILK OF MAGNESIA" are printed on any box or bottle you accept.

Safety for You and Yours You can assist others by refusing to accept a substitute for the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Do this in the interest of yourself and your children—and in the interest of the public in general.
